CES Student Spotlight - November, 2023

Emma Brewer

Emma Brewer exudes responsibility. From the time she walks into her home room - she is on task, prepared for class and guiding others to be successful. She is self directed and has been accepted into a Self Manager position for 6th grade, which took an application and explanation of why she would make a great role model and self manager. She is always finishing assignments and projects before the due dates. She carries herself in such an independent, responsible manner with such grace, that even her younger sibling brags about how great of a person she is. From classroom excellence to extracurricular excellence she thrives in all she does. She has earned this student spotlight for exemplifying responsibility and being a model student for our CES community.
