

How are parents involved?

- Parents and teachers sign a compact that spells out the goals and shared responsibilities for schools and parents for the student's success.
- Parents are encouraged to participate in Title I meetings and learning opportunities.
- Parents are provided with information about Title I Services through parent meetings, the district website, and conferences with school staff.

If you have questions, concerns, or suggestions, please contact your child's teacher, the building principal, or the district Federal Programs Director. Contact information is listed on this brochure.

What is Title I?

Title I, Part A

Improving the Academic Achievement of the Disadvantaged

EVERY STUDENT SUCCEEDS ACT (ESSA)

Under the “No Child Left Behind” (NCLB) Act, parents of children in Title I schools have the right to:

- Request, and the district must provide, information regarding the professional qualifications of your child’s classroom teachers.
- Know if paraprofessionals are providing services to their children and what the paraprofessional’s qualifications are.
- Know if their children’s school is in need of improvement, corrective action, or restructuring. The school must notify parents on how they can become involved in school improvement efforts.
- Help create and/or review the school’s Title I plan and program evaluation, and have input into how Title I monies are spent for parental activities.

WHAT CAN PARENTS DO TO HELP?

Look at your child’s performance and be sure you understand where your child stands in reading and mathematics. Talk with your child’s teacher(s) and principal to find out how you and your school can work together to improve your child’s performance.

EVERY STUDENT SUCCEEDS ACT:

ESSA is a federal law. Key requirements of the law are:

- Closing achievement gaps
- Holding schools accountable for all students
