CATECHISM Q AND A: DEEPENING OUR KNOWLEDGE

“What Translation of the Bible Should We Use?”

By Steve Ray

No translation is perfect. Translating ancient and foreign languages into English is not as easy as it would seem. There are ambiguities and linguistic hurdles. Picture a sliding scale from left to right. Every translation fits somewhere along that scale. At one end of the scale are literal translations and on the other extreme are dynamic translations. Literal translations relay the actual words used in the original language without being overly concerned with ease of reading or conveying the authors' meaning. The emphasis is on what the original author says word-for-word. Dynamic translations try to relay the authors' meaning without being overly literal—they express what the author means, not what he said. The emphasis is on what the author means without concern for using their actual words.

Here is a good example: A man speaking English says, “I shot myself in the foot.” What did he mean? Those who understand English “figures of speech” will know he was saying he made a fool of himself or did something stupid. For non-English speakers, they will look down at your foot and ask, “Is your foot OK?” If you translated the English into Russian literally, you will render it, “I shot myself in the foot.” But if you do, the Russian gets the completely-wrong message. They think we are talking about a medical condition. But if you want the Russian to understand the meaning of the author's text, you will not use the literal words but translate it to something like, “I did something stupid and made a fool of myself.” With our example, the first is literal and the second is dynamic. The first emphasizes what the author says, the second what the author means. All translations fit somewhere in between.

So what Translations should we use? For Catholics I recommend reading the Revised Standard Bible, Catholic Edition (RSV) for the literal and the New American Bible (NAB) for the dynamic translation. It is best to read several translations side-by-side to get a much broader spectrum of the biblical passage. Want the best? Check out the Didache Bible published by Ignatius Press. I have purchased many of them to give to friends and priests. It is on the literal side of the sliding scale but becomes a dynamic translation as well by providing a plethora of footnotes and Catechism quotes. Many suggested I include the Douay-Rheims translation. I don't use this much myself because it's a translation of a translation and uses old manuscripts and language. It is like translating Russian into Spanish and then Spanish into English—a hundred years ago. I use it sometimes for its strong Catholic emphasis in certain passages. Again, as I said, it is best to read many translations side-by-side. For a strong Catholic emphasis, the Douay-Rheims is a good version to have in your stack. Another might be the English translation of the Greek Septuagint, which was the Bible of the early Church. The chart below shows many translations, most of which are Protestant translations, but it gives you the idea. The RSV is on the left end of the chart, whereas the NAB is under the “thought-for-thought” category. A paraphrase is not really a translation but the far extreme of the dynamic where the translator puts things into his own words—often with biases and personal opinions. If you want the best-of-the-best, check out the Verbum Catholic Bible Software that allows you to compare many translations side-by-side and to instantly access the original languages with English explanations. There's nothing else like it!

From Fr. Stephen Watson, Provincial, Regarding the Status of Fr. Leonel

Dear Parishioners of St. Therese Parish,

The ordination of Fr. Charles Nawodylo last Saturday was such a joyous occasion for all of us. I can't thank you enough for all the support you have given Fr. Charles since he was assigned to St. Therese last year. In the midst of such joy I couldn't help thinking of Fr. Leonel Varela. Naturally, thinking of Fr. Leonel tinged my joy with sadness. Fr. Leonel left the Parish at the beginning of Holy Week. I have met with him a couple of times since then. On the evening before Fr. Charles' ordination, I called Fr. Leonel; I did not get to speak with him, but I did speak with his sister, with whom he is staying. All I can tell you is that Fr. Leonel has his own reasons for withdrawing from his priestly ministry and religious life. Really, I have not been able to find any adequate explanation for his decision to leave us. Unfortunately, this is not an uncommon thing in the newly ordained. Often we find that things are different from what we expected. Was Fr. Leonel disillusioned? We don't know. But he has shared that he does not think he can be a priest or a Carmelite for the rest of his life. I think many people have felt that way about their respective vocations at one time or another. Sometimes we just have to take things one day at a time. Please pray for Fr. Leonel. Pray also for Fr. Charles and all the priests. We will be sure to pray for you.

Fr. Stephen Watson, O.C.D., Provincial of the Western Province of the Discalced Carmelite Order

New Adult Ed Course: "Categetics"

This Summer we are offering a new Adult Education Course here at St. Therese, which we are calling "Categetics," as it will teach both Apologetics and Catechesis. The course is intended for any adult who is interested in learning to defend and/or teach the Catholic Faith. All Religious Education teachers of St. Therese Church are requested to attend.

This course, which began June 22, is directed by Rhonda Storey, DRE, and Ruben Beltran, Confirmation Coordinator. Meet in the Parish Meeting Room from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m., on the following Thursday evenings: June 30; July 7, 14, 21, and 28.

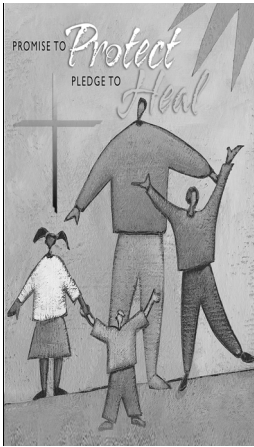

What is the Eucharist? Where is it Spoken of in the Bible?

Many Catholics don't realize that many references to the Eucharist can be seen throughout the Old Testament hundreds, even thousands, of years before the birth of Jesus—going all the way back to the book of Genesis. It is crucial for every Catholic to know that the Eucharist is not merely a symbol for Christ's Body, but that it is truly the Body, Blood, Soul, and Divinity of Our Lord Jesus Christ. To deny this truth is to deny Christ and His Church.

St. Therese Church invites you to join us on this amazing journey through Scripture with Dr. Brant Pitre! He will guide us to a deeper understanding of the Eucharist, in order to see that this great Sacrament has been part of God's plan since the beginning of time. Classes began June 22nd and are led by Ruben Beltran, Confirmation Coordinator, and Rhonda Storey, DRE. Sessions are held from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m., in the Parish Meeting Room on the following dates: June 29; July 6, 13, and 20; August 10, 17, and 24.

SAFEGUARD THE CHILDREN—

The pace of online gaming is only growing. There is a small but real chance that victimization could occur when kids play and interact with others on phones, tablets, laptops, desktops and gaming consoles.

A helpful way to teach children about handling problems is to encourage them to report issues when they arise. Internet service providers and gaming networks have systems set up to field complaints of abuse and then investigate them (in conjunction with law enforcement, when necessary). For more tips on how to help protect young people from vulnerabilities while playing online,
