ANNOUNCEMENTS

Autism Is a Spectrum:

Autism is called a "spectrum" because it affects people in different ways and to varying degrees. Some autistic individuals might be non-speaking or require daily support, while others are highly verbal and live independently. No two autistic people are the same-some might have challenges with sensory processing or social cues, while others excel in areas like memory, focus, or creativity. Understanding the spectrum means avoiding assumptions and seeing each person as an individual.

PLANS: Seniors, TODAY is your final day to fill out the Google Form telling us your future plans. You can find the form in your email and it's from Ms. Albright.

ID: Attention Prom-Goers: Did you fill out a guest form for prom? If so, please make certain that your guest has a photo id as your guest will need this for admission into prom.

LOST&FOUND: Please check the lost and found in the cafeteria. Many sweatshirts, lunch bags, and water bottles need to be claimed. If you lost a smaller item such as glasses, jewelry, or earbuds, please come to the Main Office.

LIBRARY BOOKS: Hey seniors! Just a reminder-library books are due by May 7. Please return them soon to avoid any lost book fines. If you have any questions, please see Ms. McKee in the Media Center.

POSITIVE THINKING

Be Patient

Maybe you feel stuck right now. It happens sometimes. Answers will come to you, and you will find the right direction. You might experience a few failures before you find that direction, but with patience and time, you will find your way.

SPORTS ACTION

IN SPORTS ACTIVITIES
