Note: The dates above include only the graded assignments for this course. Throughout the semester, you will also complete practice writing, commonplace journals, class activities, discussions, and other assignments that may not receive a traditional grade. These activities are still an important part of the course. They are designed to help you practice the skills you will need for the graded assignments, develop as a college-level writer, and stay actively engaged in the course. Consistently completing these assignments will have a direct impact on your ability to be successful on the graded work and, ultimately, in ENGL 1101.
