Principal's Weekly Update 8-29-22

Good afternoon parents and students, as we head into September our school is busy, but off to a great start. As we have completed most of the “beginning of the year” events our attention now can become focused more on academics. Our school continues to be a leader in the district for our collaboration and teacher development practices. During our early release Mondays, teachers are given time to collaborate with their colleagues to ensure high quality, relevant lessons for all their classes. I am extremely proud of the work our teachers have done to support one another professionally, and I know that our students have benefitted from these practices as well. Now that COVID plays a smaller role in our school’s daily life, I am excited to see what this year brings in the form of student achievement. Graduation rates, A-G completion rates, English Learner reclassification, and state testing scores are the numbers we are watching closely. All students being academically successful is our mission. It is a challenging goal but one that SMHS is serious about pursuing. Here’s to a great academic year!

Sincerely,

(Steve Campbell, Principal SMHS)

Important Items and Reminders:

After the past two weeks of March of Saints, Welcome Back Rallies, and Back to School Nights, and much more, I am happy to see things beginning to settle down. We have no major events other than sporting events (see below) for “reminders” this week.

Kudos:

You may have seen in last week's Santa Maria Times an article showcasing one of our recent graduates for his 10th place finish in a national essay contest. Juan Daniel Pacheco-Sierra was rewarded for his essay, "Enhancing The Stock Market Experience", during the InvestWrite writing competition. Juan's essay included three things he learned about investing and how it can help his future and others. Juan's success is a testament to Juan's hard in our outstanding FBLA program sponsored by business teacher Cindy Quaid. Congratulation Juan for being an outstanding student while at SMHS.... and best of luck to you at UCLA this fall!
