Jonathan Saeger is an assistant professor of music at University of Mount Olive where he directs the Concert choir and Chamber Choir. He also teaches Applied Voice and a variety of Music Education courses. Jonathan earned a B.M. in Music Education at Millikin University, an M. M. in Choral Conducting at Illinois State University, and is pursuing a PhD in Music Education at Kent State University.

Mr. Saeger comes to the University of Mount Olive after serving on the Choral and Music Education faculty at Western Illinois University. While at WIU, he directed the 60 – voice Concert Choir and the WIU Vocal Jazz Ensemble. Mr. Saeger also served on the faculty at Kent State University where he directed the KSU Women’s Chorus and taught music education courses. Jonathan Saeger taught at the middle school and high level in Florida, Illinois, and New Mexico. His choirs have consistently earned superior scores at district and state festivals. He has been an active member of the National Association for Music Education. Jonathan served as the New Mexico Music Education Association District 6 Choral Vice-President. Mr. Saeger has presented at both the Ohio and North Carolina Music Educators Professional Development Conferences. In addition to music education, Mr. Saeger has been an active church musician, serving congregations in Illinois, New Mexico, and Ohio. His choirs have commissioned new choral music and collaborated with other community ensembles to present large masterworks. He has also been a frequent clinician, directing festival choirs in Illinois, and adjudicating choirs, ensembles, and soloists throughout his career. As a soloist, Mr. Saeger has sung with McDonough Choral Society, Quintessence – Choral Artists of the Southwest, and other professional and community ensembles.
