Questions to Ask Yourself Before Starting a Project

- Has this been done before?
- Will I actually enjoy this, how do I know?
- Why does this idea or project matter to me, specifically?
- Am I challenging myself and growing my talents?

Creation

How do artists produce art?

Create your final piece of art.

Reflect - How does this look? What will my audience see? Did I communicate what I intended?

Revise - What needs to be added or changed? What is working?

Take time to critique and refine art!

Having good craftsmanship is part of this process. Analyze your project towards the end and go back over it and clean up any areas that need attention. (erasing stray pencil marks, cleaning up glue marks, etc.)

Presentation and Reflection

What do artists consider when they complete art?

critique, discuss, respond, revise, present,

- Is my project finished with a high level of craftsmanship?
- What should I include in the artist statement or written reflection?
- How has your project grown and developed?
- How should I display and share my art? Do I want to display alone or with a group?

What I sometimes see instead

Doing the minimum

Working on homework for another class

Looking at social media or videos

Getting work out, then talking instead of making any progress

Not taking care of materials

Ignoring instructions

Zoning out
