Dear Parishioners,

Congratulations to our newly confirmed members of our Area Faith Community. I pray that the Holy Spirit will stir in them and help them to live Catholic lives. Thank you to Bishop Zielinski for his episcopal ministry in imparting this great sacrament.

This first weekend of Lent every year, we hear one of the accounts of the Temptation in the Desert of our Lord. St. Matthew and St. Luke record the content of the temptation (though in different order) – to turn stone to bread, to throw himself down from the parapet of the temple, and to bow down in submission to Satan to attain the kingdoms of the world.

It is no coincidence that Satan tempts the Lord in these ways, as it is not just about Jesus but about His ministry to undo the sin of Adam and Eve. Think back to Eve's evaluation of the fruit of the Tree of Knowledge. She saw it was good for food, beautiful to the eye, and good for acquiring wisdom.

These temptations would be summed up by St. John as the threefold concupiscence's – lust of the flesh, lust of the eyes, and pride of life. Jesus rejects turning stone to food, rejects the kingdoms of the world, and will not throw Himself down in making a name for Himself. His obedience is rewarded – He multiplies bread and fish, and later turns bread into His very flesh, He is raised from the dead, and He is made King of the Universe.

His temptation reminds us that in itself, temptation is not a sin as long as we are not feeding our temptation – paying attention to our consumption of media for example and developing a deep prayer life. When we are tempted, we should use the same method as Jesus – He responded to the temptation with Scripture. In reality, he did not speak to the Evil One, just responded with the truth. How important that is for us.

Some people think that freedom lies in doing what we want, giving into every temptation. Freedom is found in resisting temptation and vice. We are most free when we live in the truth. This Lenten season, we are invited to seek the truth in the Scriptures and in the Sacraments. By being with our Lord in His temptation, we will begin Lent well.

In Christ,
Fr. Todd

LITURGY MATTERS #16

The Gospel is followed by the homily, and like the Gospel, the homily is reserved for the ordained. This is not to say that lay people might not be just as insightful about the meaning of the scriptures. What must be understood is that this is not the time for personal insight or for the spinning out of individual theories and stories.

That one of the ordained is preaching is meant to be a guarantee in the assembly that what is heard is the Church's apostolic faith and not merely the private thoughts and experiences of an individual. Once again, we reflect on the direction of the liturgy when we consider the homily.

It is the preacher's responsibility to listen with special care to all that is said in the now of today's liturgy by means of the particular texts that have been proclaimed. Based on this careful listening, he will propose to the assembly ways of ensuring that God's word finds its home in our hearts and that we respond to it as we ought.

Therefore, if in one sense the word is coming into him, in another sense it is coming out of him. Jesus expressed this pattern precisely when he said, "My teaching is not my own but is from the one who sent me" (John 7:16).

After another brief moment of silence when the homily is concluded, we as the church, recite the Profession of Faith. The creed is a summary of the church's way of reading scriptures, and consequently it is a summary of the church's faith. It is not something in addition to scripture; it is the scripture reduced to a single page.

All of our understanding and beliefs concerning the scriptures summed up in the words we speak. The creed has its origins in the liturgy of Baptism, where, before adults were baptized in the name of the Trinity, they had first to profess faith in the Holy Trinity.

Belief in the Holy Trinity is not a belief in an idea about God. It is belief in the persons of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit; that is, belief in the divine life revealed to us in the death and resurrection of Jesus.
