

Stories of Kindness

As a family, or individually, write down or type up the words needed to fill in the following blanks to create a story. Try not to read ahead in order to keep the story as unexpected as possible. Then, using your list read the story aloud.

As a group, discuss the moral of the story and why it's important to go from a passive bystander to a kind upstander.

One day while watching _____, I saw a text from _____ in a (favorite show)

(friend's name)

group chat. The text was simply _____ crying face emojis. Normally in the group chat

(number between 5-15)

we talk about fun things like _____ or _____ so I replied

(favorite video game)

(favorite hobby)

by asking if everything was okay. _____ said that they were feeling sad because

(same friend's name)

they got made fun of for getting a _____ on _____ the _____

(number between 0-60)

(school subject)

quiz. I encouraged them to stay positive and offered to be a study partner for the next one.

_____ replied with _____ thumbs up emojis and a smiley face.

(same friend's name)

(number between 3-10)

In my _____ class, we have a class website where we can post comments and ask
(school subject)
the teacher questions about assignments. Last _____, someone posted a comment (day of the week)
saying my friend _____ smelled like a rotten, _____ piece of (friend's name) (negative adjective)
_____. Some people thought it was funny but I decided to speak up. I made a new post (vegetable) complimenting _____ and saying how _____ they were to (same friend's name) (synonym for awesome)
be friends with. I then got other classmates to post something nice. And at the end of the day there were over _____ new comments all saying kind things about _____.
(number over 100) (same friend's name)

