4th Grade Career Day

What do you want to be when you grow up? For Fourth Grade Career Day, students explored a career that interested them and created a poster highlighting different aspects of their chosen profession. Students shared what the job involves, the skills and education needed, and why it's an exciting career choice. Their goal was to convince others why they should consider joining their chosen field.

Third Grade Spotlight

Third graders have been busy learning, creating, and sharing their ideas! In writing, students recently wrapped up their personal narrative unit, where they worked hard to turn everyday experiences into engaging stories. Our third grade authors practiced using the "show, don't tell" strategy to help readers picture what was happening and feel what the characters were feeling. They strengthened their writing by adding vivid verbs and descriptive adjectives, as well as attention-grabbing hook lines to capture their readers' interest from the beginning. We are so proud of the creativity and detail our writers brought to their personal narratives!

In math, students put their problem-solving skills to work by creating their own fall-themed math word problems! They incorporated the fun of the season into mathematical challenges for their classmates. After writing their problems, students exchanged them with peers, carefully solved one another's problems, and checked each other's work. This activity gave students an opportunity to practice important math skills while also building collaboration, mathematical reasoning, and confidence in explaining their thinking.

We are so proud of our third graders for taking risks, sharing ideas, and learning from one another. What a wonderful way to grow as writers, mathematicians, and classmates!

Dear CRS and LLE Families,

I hope that everyone enjoyed the long weekend. It is now time to take out our calendars and make sure that we mark down everything that is listed below.

While we are marking our calendars, I also ask parents please do what we can to place a label on their child's outerwear and sweatshirts. I know that this topic has been mentioned prior, but the amount of items in our Lost & Found is piling up. Some parents have placed very small round stickers with their child's name on it, others write them in black sharpie on the label or area for the child's name. Whatever you decide is fine but it will assist us in returning the items to their rightful owner.
