2. DATA COLLECTION ANALYSIS

2.6 Data Analysis Questions

Analyze the LEA's data and answer the guiding questions to determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of demographic and financial needs. Student subgroups with a count of less than 15 are denoted by "TFS" (too few students).

What perception data did you use? [examples: student perceptions about school climate issues (health survey, violence, prejudice, bullying, etc.); student/parent perceptions about the effectiveness of programs or interventions; student understanding of relationship of school to career or has an academic plan]

The perception data that was utilized included student, parent, and teacher surveys and interviews.

Our parents reported that they feel that the school and/or district provides students with a well-rounded education, including access to an enriched curriculum and educational experience, as well as promotes a positive learning and work environment. Parental involvement increased this year, from previous years. In teacher interviews and surveys, they noted the need for professional learning in helping struggling writers, teaching vocabulary and math strategies to use for intervention. However, as reported in the Comprehensive Needs Assessment, teachers were overall pleased with the current leadership and opportunities to receive additional support services to help increase student achievement.

What does the perception data tell you? (perception data can describe people's knowledge, attitudes, beliefs, perceptions, competencies; perception data can also answer the question "What do people think they know, believe, or can do?")

The perception data confirms the academic data. Students, parents and staff are overall satisfied with the school but there is need for growth and improvement. The Parent Survey confirmed that parents would like the school and/or district to ensure that all students have access to appropriate supports and interventions for challenges that impact student achievement. Parents and students alike would like more enrichment opportunities being offered. Teachers have expressed that there is a need for increased academic achievement. They have further determined that their is a need to improve Tier 1 classroom instruction, which is why we will focus on the area of classroom instruction, understanding the base curriculum and all of its processes. All stakeholders surveyed felt that the school provides a safe environment conducive to learning.

What process data did you use? (examples: student participation in school activities, sports, clubs, arts; student participation in special programs such as peer mediation, counseling, skills conferences; parent/student participation in events such as college information meetings and parent workshops)

We reviewed the following process data: student and parent participation in school activities and special programs, focus walks, TKES evaluations, and district curriculum documents.

What does the process data tell you? (process data describes the way programs are conducted; provides evidence of participant involvement in programs; answers the question "What did you do for whom?")

The process data continues to tell us that we need to improve the implementation of standards-based instruction at the intended level of rigor to improve student achievement. It also tell us that we need to improve in the areas of coherent instruction, community engagement, and development of a supportive learning environment to meet the individual needs of all learners.

All teachers were evaluated using TKES and were on flex plans. One hundred percent of the teachers received satisfactory summative evaluations. Using the eleot observation tool (which measured learning environments), areas in which our teachers scored highest were: equitable learning environment, well managed environment, and supportive learning environment. Teachers largest area of weakness was progress monitoring and feedback environment in 40% of the classrooms, this was not observed.

Learning walks performed noted that 100% of teachers were using the lesson progression curriculum guides. Ninety plus percent of the teachers referenced or annotated the performance based objectives (sited in our base curriculum) during lessons. Additional data led us to the realization that we need continued support and professional learning on the practices of our curriculum, completing tasks in math, learning targets, success criteria for students and teacher clarity.

What achievement data did you use?

At RCMS, we analyzed our summative assessments. They were: Georgia Milestones End of Grade Test - Spring 23, I-Ready benchmark data (Reading and Math), and WriteScore benchmark data.

What does your achievement data tell you?

Randolph County Middle School has showed steady progress and growth in terms of student achievement over the last 4 years. As reflected in the spring 2023 Georgia Milestones End of Grade Assessment, English Language Arts has increase content mastery from 38.35 (in 2022) to 42 (in 2023). Mathematics content mastery increase overall from 36.48 (in 2022) to 44 (in 2023). Science had a sizable growth in content mastery, from 10.82 (in 2022) to 31 (in 2023). However, the most significant growth in all content areas was made in Social Studies, from 21.62 (in 2022) to 48 (in 2023). As you can see, Randolph County Middle School increased content Mastery in all content areas on the spring administration of the Georgia Milestone End of Grade Assessment.

Even though we applaud the hard work and dedication of our teacher and students, we know that there is still work to be done. As a district, we set a goal that per grade level in English Language Arts and Mathematics that at least 60% of our student score at developing level of which 30% score at proficient or better. We met that goal in 8th grade Mathematics. We met part of the goal, meaning at least 60% of the students scored at developing, in 6th and 7th grade Mathematics and 8th grade English Language Arts. We did not meet either district goal in 6th nor 7th grade English Language Arts.

What demographic data did you use?	We used demographic data from PowerSchool that has been submitted to GaDOE through student record (enrollment, ethnicity, attendance, and discipline).

What does the demographic data tell you?	The majority of our students are Black and Economically Disadvantaged, our SWD population is relatively significant for a school our size, attendance and engagement were concerns due to the pandemic. During FY23, RCMS ended the year with an enrollment of 141 students. RCMS had 15 Exceptional Education students, which is approx. 9.8% of our enrollment. We ended the FY 23 school year with an increased attendance rate of 26.62% of our students missing 10% (18 days) or more days enrolled. This is an increase from the previous year - 15.11%.

3. NEEDS IDENTIFICATION AND ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

3.1 Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Read the trends and patterns summaries from each section of the data analysis process. Use the information in these summaries to complete 3.2 and 3.3. Using the summaries in 3.1 and other local data, describe the strengths and challenges or answer the guiding questions for each program. Include strengths and challenges related to: a) general program implementation, and b) students and adults involved in or affected by the program. Focus on strengths and challenges that will assist in the identification of needs during 3.2. Watch the Identifying Need Webinar for additional information and guidance.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Coherent Instructional:Summarize the coherent instructional system trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

Overall, the team regards the school as operational in terms of collaborative planning processes, aligned curriculum documents, a supportive instructional environment, clear learning targets, research based instructional practices, data driven intervention, and technology used to enhance learning. However, much work lies ahead regarding differentiation, feedback, establish student monitoring progress, and grading practices.

Effective Leadership:Summarize the effective leadership trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

RCMS has a school improvement plan in place to drive goals as outlined by the District Strategic Plan. Leaders work collaboratively with teachers to provide support for teachers and students. The school has retained 88% of the staff from the previous year and will replace one support personnel. School leaders participate in GAEL (Georgia Association of Educational Leaders), RCSS PLC, monthly RCSS District Leadership Team meetings and GaDOE Comprehensive Support and Improvement services for part of the school term. RCMS has an effective Leadership Team that focuses on student learning, effective implementation of professional learning practices and collaboration, has improved stakeholder input, and processes and procedures implemented. It is necessary to continue to work to maintain safety and improve coherent instruction of the curriculum.

Professional Capacity:Summarize the professional capacity trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

We have shown tremendous growth in this area based on the previous years and consideration on professional capacity. We are currently fully operational in this area according to our comprehensive needs assessment. We will continue professional learning by implementing 'The Ripple Effect' Instructional Framework, individualizing support for teachers, monitoring implementation process and providing descriptive feedback for teachers, science coaching and support.

NEEDS IDENTIFICATION AND ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Family and Community Engagement:Summarize the family and community engagement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report.
What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

Parent activities are offered but most are poorly attended; there is positive feedback from parents who do attend. The school has a Family and Community Engagement Coordinator and a School Governance Team. The LSGT which provides input at meetings monthly. There are a number of successful avenues for notifying parents and communicating with parents including School Messenger phone system, social media, marquees, newspapers, and flyers. Parents have the opportunity to participate in Title I input, evaluation, and informational activities, school planning and governance. Efforts to offer leadership opportunities have been very successful, particularly with the local school governance teams. Parents are taking great pride in being a part of the decision making at their student(s)' school.

The school needs to continue current efforts and explore more ideas and options to get more parents involved in academic activities, increase outreach to bring parents in to show that school is a welcoming and friendly place, implement a monthly newsletter, have parents help coordinate EOY 8th grade celebration, increase collaboration with community agencies, and change the perception and provide more training opportunities for parents.

Supportive Learning

Environment:Summarize the supportive learning environment trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

The school identified a number of positive elements that support the learning environment. For example, PBIS is being implemented and job embedded professional learning. There is a shared school resource officer and web-based academic interventions and programs, computer labs, iPads, and 21st century classrooms. In addition, a number of extended day/year supports were identified: Summer School, After School Tutorial.

RCMS will continue to implement data walls school wide, provide intervention services in a computer lab setting for ELA (with a certified interventionist/Coach) & Mathematics (with a certified paraprofessional), and continue to build reading stamina utilizing the 'Reading Nooks' in the ELA classes and 'reading across the curriculum' in other subject areas.

Demographic and Financial:Summarize the demographic and financial trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

Characteristics of district families indicate long-term and high rates of poverty, unemployment, and non-traditional family arrangements. While non-traditional family arrangements aren't automatic indicators of low performance, in high instances, it presents a challenge (especially when coupled with high unemployment). The district has built-in identification processes that will help in addressing the unique needs of our students; however, implications are that the district will need to focus on and work particularly hard on the following:

- Strategies for hiring and retaining highly qualified teachers across the district
- continue to grow current teachers and staff by providing professional learning

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

- Sustain School Climate (effective PBIS implementation)
   Implement an effective RTI/MTSS process
  - focus parent and community involvement

Student Achievement:Summarize the student achievement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?

Randolph County Middle School has showed steady progress and growth in terms of student achievement over the last 4 years. As reflected in the spring 2023 Georgia Milestones End of Grade Assessment, English Language Arts has increase content mastery from 38.35 (in 2022) to 42 (in 2023). Mathematics content mastery increase overall from 36.48 (in 2022) to 44 (in 2023). Science had a sizable growth in content mastery, from 10.82 (in 2022) to 31 (in 2023). However, the most significant growth in all content areas was made in Social Studies, from 21.62 (in 2022) to 48 (in 2023). As you can see, Randolph County Middle School increased content Mastery in all content areas on the spring administration of the Georgia Milestone End of Grade Assessment. Even though we applaud the hard work and dedication of our teacher and students, we know that there is still work to be done. We did not meet either district goal in 6th nor 7th grade English Language Arts.

It is evident that a substantial number of students are not proficient across content areas. This data suggests that interventions are needed, as well as, a focus on standards-based, tier one instruction. Students can benefit from improved, high quality instruction, and interventions to support individual learning. Teachers will need to become skilled in implementing response to intervention strategies and differentiation. Leaders must be equipped to support and monitor these processes as well.
