This State Is Publicly Seeking God After Lawmakers Declared 31 Days of Prayer and Fasting

A powerful prayer movement is springing to life in America's heartland. People across Tennessee are engaged in 31 days of prayer and fasting after state officials approved a resolution to "seek God's hand of mercy and healing" throughout the month of July. After state lawmakers passed House Joint Resolution 803, Governor Bill Lee signed the resolution which calls on citizens of the Volunteer State to pray and fast as they are able. State Representative Monty Fritts was the author of the measure.

But he was also the hero of the day. This dad sang a flawless version of The National Anthem on the fly that had the whole crowd cheering!

Highlights from Letters to Power

I feel blessed to have the music from your station. It has lifted me on many occasions while driving in the car or walking through the park. At times, it's as if the songs are written just to me. I appreciate the service you provide to myself and others we may not even know about. Although my donation is small, it will be a monthly donation and hopefully I will be able to increase it in the future. Thanks again for the positive message that your stations provide during some of these dark and dismal days we face.
