Several changes occurred. One change was the addition of the freshman to the high school student body. Many walked back and forth between Martin Elementary school and the high school. Some teachers were also in the same situation because of the lack of classroom space. Faculty, staff and students worked hard to adjust to the changes. The high school was scheduled to undergo major renovations and the construction of new facilities, which began in November. Mr. Paul Hodge from Alabama, became the new principal. He continued efforts to make the school a better learning facility. The parking area for students was drastically reduced to make room for the expansion to the building. Students obtained a parking pass through an application process. Those students enrolled in early bird classes, involved in sports, and in the band were issued passes first. The remaining passes were sold on a first come first serve basis. A new road was built to help alleviate traffic jams from the paved parking lot to Myrtle Avenue. One question often asked was, what about next year? Some just smiled and said, "It's in the works."

Shouting to the crowd, junior Heather Staggs says, "The parade was a blast! You can show your school spirit and cheer for the team!"

Working on the float, junior Jonathan McShan says, "It was a lot of fun and we had lots of laughs."

Munching away, freshmen Clark Napier says, "The doughnuts were raunchy but I had fun."

In the Midway

FFA was only one of the active groups that participated in the fair. Such projects as livestock and crop competition were two of the areas FFA entered. FFA advisor Alfred Gillam said, "The fair gives opportunities for students to show the fruits of their labor to the community through their crop and livestock projects."

Senior Ashleigh Bean said, "Fairest of the Fair is a great pageant because the community is so involved." Some students thought beauty pageants were a wonderful chance to make new friends. Senior Lisa Tollett was crowned Fairest of the Fair. The TAD center performed a skit during intermission, which showed students playing the role of various drugs and what a bad influence they could become in students lives.

The Scorpion, Crazy Dance and Meg Loop were a few of the rides available for the crowds enjoyment. Competitive games played for fun provided an opportunity to win various prizes. Junior Angie Axford said, "The fair was a lot of fun. I got to be with my friends and just goof off."

A large selection of 'goodies' were available for everyone to enjoy. Junior Chris Montgomery said, "There were so many things to eat that I did not have enough money or time to eat all I wanted."

Sophomore Geneva Owens says, "This ride is crazy because it has nothing to do with dancing."

Riding the sizzler, Freshman Seth Brown says, "It was really cool riding the sizzler and crushing my friend."

Having a blast riding rides with a friend, junior Andrea James says, "These rides crack me up."

Riding the tilt-a-whirl and other rides, Sam Scarlett and his friends enjoy themselves at the fair.

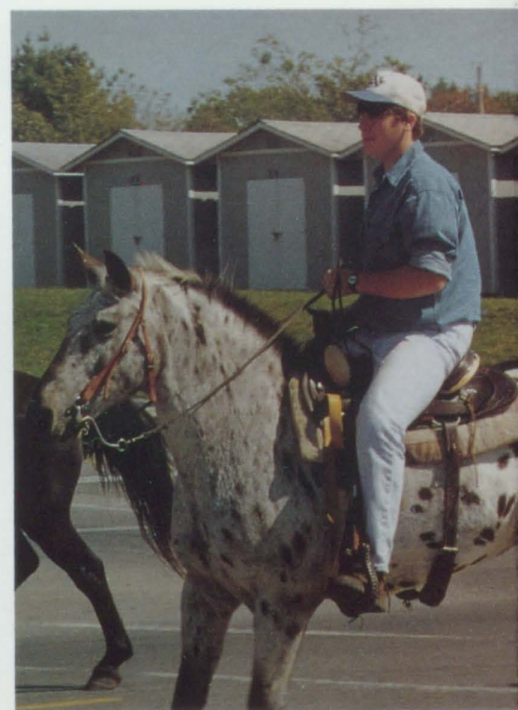

Playing the part of various drugs, Tad members act out a skit. Sophomore, Breanna Phillips who played the part of an addict says, "It was fun."

Holding her Jet banner up high while riding the FHA float, Stacey Clark says, "Homecoming was the best, Go Jets."

Stepping with Jet Pride, senior Dawn Bly says, "I marched well during the parade but, I look awful."

Sitting in comfort, freshmen Josh Miller says, "It was very interesting for me to ride on the FFA float in the parade."

Celebrating homecoming and his birthday, senior Mark Miller says, "It was as fun as when I rode last year."

In the Line-up

Preparation of floats for the parade was a big part of homecoming activities. However students had only three days to work on floats instead of the usual full week. Students were still able to complete the floats on time. There were not as many floats as in previous years and many clubs did not enter a float. The junior class won best of float. Seniors, sophomores and freshman placed second, third and fourth respectively.

Most students were psyched and showed their school pride by riding on floats, shouting cheers, waving school banners and throwing candy to the crowds along the way. Main Street was lined with students, teachers, and fellow Jet fans. Senior Jeff Haynes said, "The parade was delightfully decorated with a plethora of school spirited posters."

Sophomore Chris Kopsie said that, "The parade was cool, although I didn't get to watch, because I was in it." Some students hitched a ride back to school on a float entry instead of walking. Sophomore Carol Crabtree said, "The ride back was cool."

Most enjoyed being out in the warm weather instead of being in the classroom. Some students thought it was very hot outside but the rewards were worth the effort. Junior James Carter said, "The time out of school was cool."

Tossing candy, sophomore Scott Hodge says, "It was pretty neat, but it could've been better."

In the Stands

Almost 1,700 students, which included freshman for the first time since 1977, met together at the stadium to show their Jet pride. The cheerleaders, flag corps and the band helped other students get pepped up for the upcoming games. Contests, games and cheers were some of the activities that students became involved in. Junior, Lisa Barnes said, "It would be better if the people in the top section would participate." The cheerleaders tried their best to involve all students. Some students still did not wish to participate. However many students participated by wearing a shirt in the color chosen to represent their particular grade level.

Some students felt that there was too much time taken up getting ready for the pep-rallies. Senior Joe Kerley said " I think they just need to get down to business quicker." Most students liked it when there was a pep-rally, because, at least they were out of the classroom. However, some students felt differently. Senior Missy Davis said, "I'd rather go fishing." Most students enjoyed and tried to help make the pep rallies successful. Because of overcrowding, which affected everything, the rallies were held at the stadium. Senior Manilla Grimsley said "There is too many people, and if we wanted to have it in the gym we couldn't."

Senior Emily Stubbs says, "Homecoming would've been better if the freshmen were more involved."

Clapping his hands to the rhythm, junior James Davis says, "It was pretty cool since Jamin and Kelly were there."

Munching his way to victory, junior Mark Sweeney says, "I wish Otis was back for homecoming. It wasn't the same without him."

Developing new skills, junior Danny Weyrogh says, "I thought it was going to be easy. I still think the juniors should've won."

Hurrying to beat out the other classes in order to win the game, senior Bill Cannon says, "Activities are fun your senior year."

While protecting the ball from the Clinton team, junior Joey Whiteaker says, "This has been fun!"

Breaking through to the field, senior Chris Whittenburg says, "The homecoming game is a night that I will never forget."

Narrowly escaping from his opponent, senior Stanley Wattenbarger says, "Though I'm sad because we lost, the game is an experience I will never forget."

Coaching from the sidelines, Coach Steve Jones says, "Working with young men and women at the high school level is very rewarding."

In the Huddle

The homecoming football game was played against the Clinton Dragons, October 31. For two years in a row the Jets had been Clinton's homecoming opponent. Most players were anxious for a victory over Clinton, and would like to have gotten even. After the hard work by the Jets, the final score was 26-8, which was an overall win by the Dragons. Head coach Dan Schlafer said, "Our players entered the field with high expectations for success. I am sorry we let you down."

The football players practiced everyday after school during the week of homecoming. Students and coaches worked on the physical condition of the field to get it into the best possible shape for this big event. Sophomore, Eric Henline said, "It would have been nice to win homecoming, but we could not pull it together."

The game began with a stadium full of fans hopeful that the players would be successful in their search for a win. Senior, Stanley Wattenbarger said, "Even though we got defeated it was exciting and an experience I will never forget." Senior, Max Davenport said, "The game was a great experience. Even though we did not win, the week was an overall success." Echoing Wattenbarger's words junior, Mark Cook said, "Even though we lost the game, it was fun, and the week was great."

Protecting the ball, senior Max Davenport says, "I wish we could have won the game."

In the Spotlight

Before the game the senior football players were escorted onto the field for the traditional pinning of the colors ceremony. Many senior players regarded this as a special event in their lives, and something that they will never forget. Senior Josh Tollett said "I thought the pinning of the colors was a great experience and is something I'll always remember." "The pinning of the colors was the highlight of my night," said senior Max Davenport.

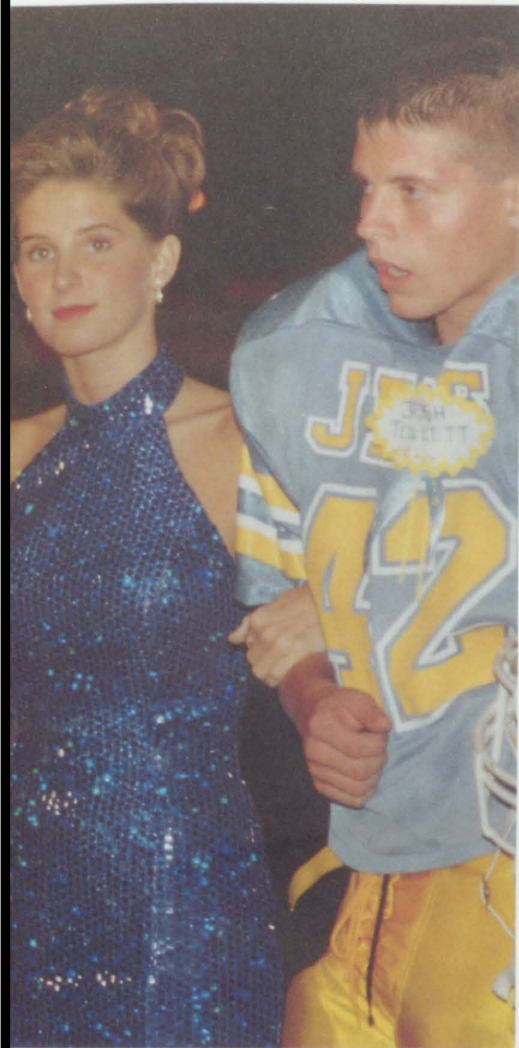

During half-time band members, class representatives, and football representatives were escorted. Senior Jesse Graham was crowned the 1994 homecoming band sweetheart. Senior band member Adam Reagan said, "Having my colors pinned is a great memorable experience of my senior year." The seniors, all decked out in white, walked with their escorts down the aisle lined with fellow band members and flag corp.

Senior Ashleigh Bean was crowned homecoming queen by the 1993 homecoming queen. Bean said, "I was so surprised when I was nominated. I never expected to win." The homecoming football representatives included junior Jackie Wilbanks, sophomore Camille Tollett, freshmen Rachel Miller. The homecoming class representatives were senior Sheila Reed, junior Chuck Kilgore, sophomore Katie Evans, and freshmen Heather Dykes.

Awaiting the pinning of colors, senior Richard Lawrence says, "I'll always remember homecoming."

Junior Scarlett Henry says, "Other than the crowd staring, my heels sticking in the mud, and tripping, it was neat."

Graciously accepting the crown, senior Jesse Graham says, "Being elected band sweetheart really shocked and flattered me."

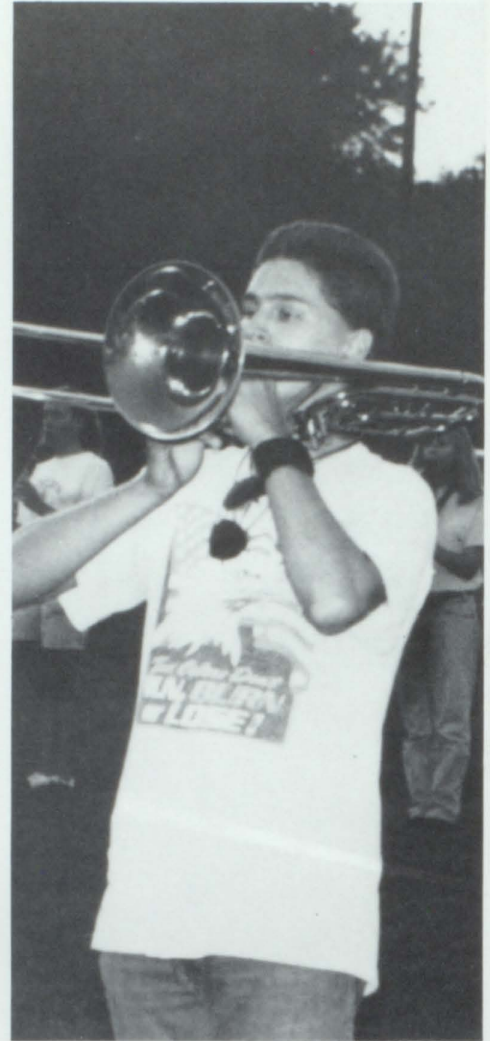

Being crowned homecoming queen, Ashleigh Bean says, "I was honored just to be nominated. I never expected to win."

Anxiously anticipating the pinning of his colors, senior Brian Greisbach says, "It was a night I'll always remember."

Marching in the parade, sophomore Seth Mc-Millan says, "Band is a real challenge that brings out the best in all of us."

Playing with enthusiasm, junior Chris Beasley says, "I enjoy Tuesday and Thursday nights due to band practice."

While carrying the bells, junior Kelly Chewning says, "I like playing in the percussion section because it's always been fun."

Playing the piccolo, sophomore Nicole Legg says, "Being in band is a good way to meet new people."

In the Groove

The band attended three competitions. During October they traveled to Gadsden, Alabama and Knoxville, Tennessee. This was the first time the band had marched in The 30th Annual Mid South Marching Band Festival in Alabama. They received a superior score of one which was the highest score a band could receive. They were the only band representing Tennessee. Junior, Amy Neely said, "Competition can be very exciting but very tiring too!"

They also hosted the Upper Cumberland Marching Festival once again. The Smokey Mountain International was also a first time event for them. Freshman, Grant Ramsey said "I thought the band was really awesome. We had a really good sound and could go all the way if we wanted to."

Senior, drum major Misty Henry said, "The best part of being in band for the past seven years was the great friendships that I developed. We were like a strong and diverse family that was always around for each other." The first lieutenant, senior Adam Reagan said, "Being in band was great. It was always a pleasure to be part of the best. It made my senior year more memorable."

Sophomore Seth McMillan said, "Band was a challenge. It brought out the best in all of us. It was truly a thrill."

Holding the flag, junior Shasta Lawson says, "Being a major-ette is a lot of fun and hard work."

Gliding off the field , senior Cory Carter says, "We're one big happy family ... with a few minor difficulties."

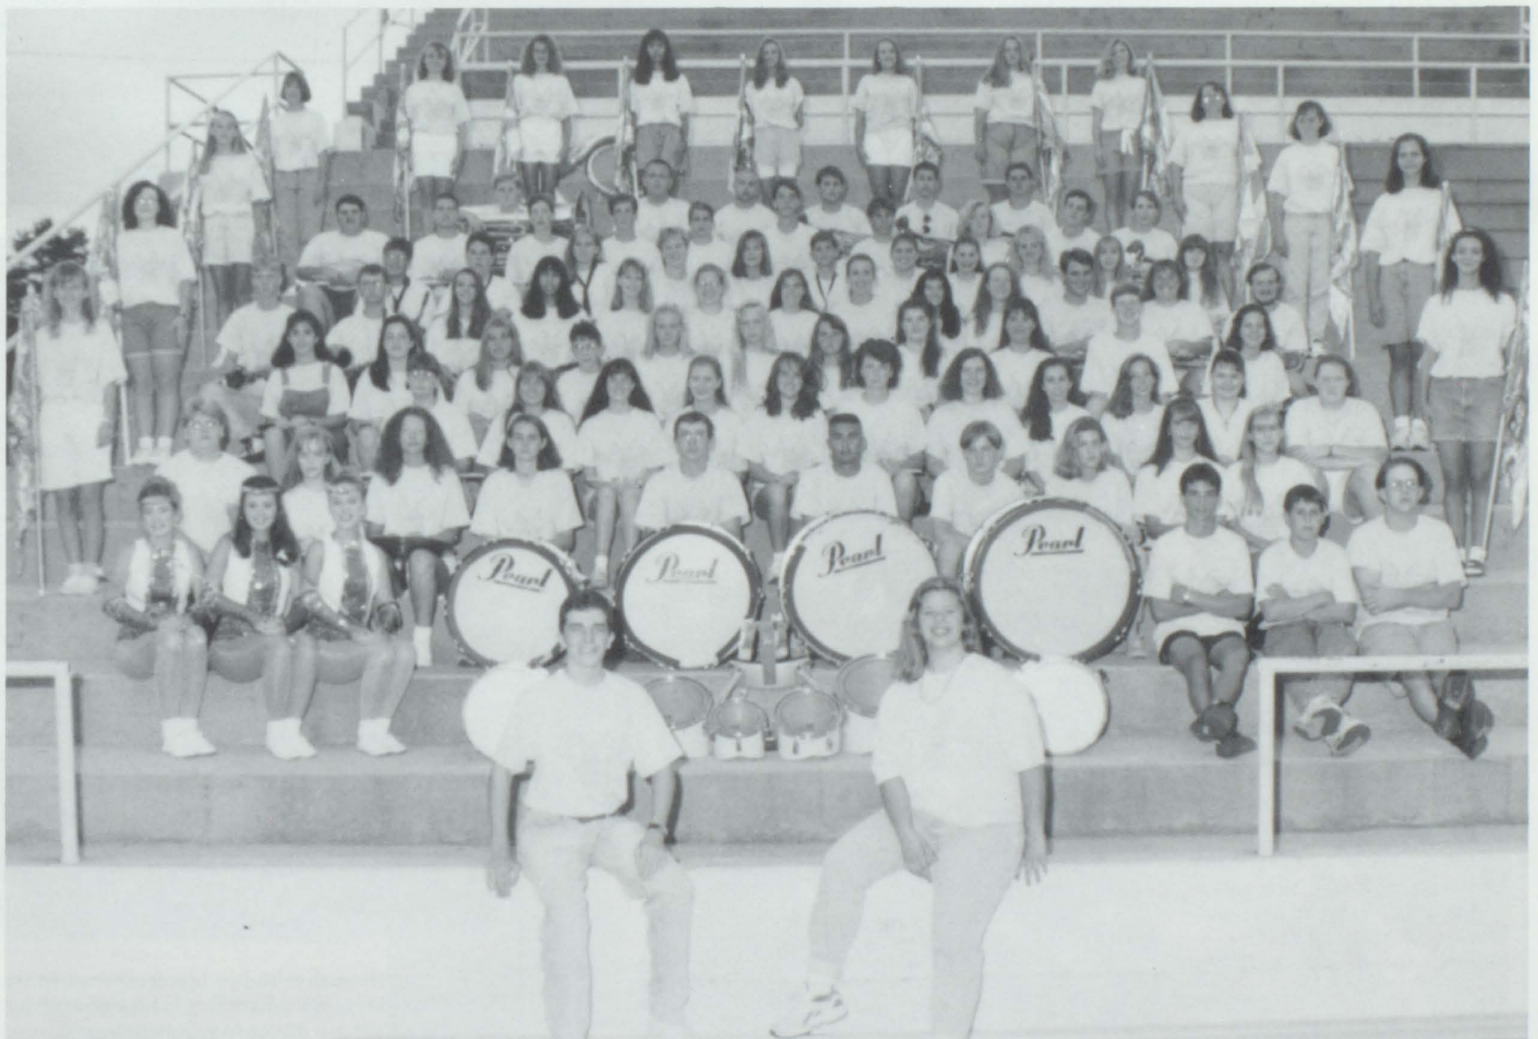

Marching expertly, senior Betsy Rachal says, "Being in band promotes unity and harmony. We have fun working to achieve our goals."

Watching the game, junior David Maddux says, "Being drum major has been a great experience! It's wonderful to march off the field after doing a great job."

Waiting patiently for her cue, sophomore Laura Crowder says, "Me and Melissa Ellis really enjoyed performing 'Rocky Top'."

Guarding the ball with her life, freshman Misty McGhee says, "We had fun losing to the juniors, but we are going to win next year."

In the Reverse

The first powderpuff game was played between the seniors and the sophomores. Some thought the seniors put up a strong fight but a victory did not seem to be in the cards for them. Some said the game was long and hard. The final score was 34 to 14 in favor of the sophomores. Sophomore Breanna Phillips said, "I like football better than cheerleading and I was afraid I was going to get hurt, but I didn't, so it was a lot of fun."

The second game was played between the freshman and the juniors. Freshman, Lorrie Joseph said, "We didn't have enough time to practice and they were a lot bigger than us. We were nervous, but we tried our best and overall it was pretty fun." After a tough game the freshmen lost to the juniors with a score of 0 to 28.

After several delays due to bad weather, the final game was played between the sophomores and the juniors. It was a close game but in the end the sophomores won and came out victorious over each of the other classes. Senior Leslie Smith said, "The seniors tried really hard, because we had something to prove. The one good thing about this game was that even though we lost, we all became closer friends. I still believe that if we could have tackled, those sophomores wouldn't have had a chance."

Stealing the ball, sophomore Mindy Webb says, "It was great because we beat the seniors."

In the Tradition

Homecoming was a memorable time for most students. Friday February 17th, most seniors were excited to have the chance to perform the honorary tradition of pinning of colors. Senior Andrea Triplett said, "I believe the pinning of colors is an honor, that seniors look on as accomplishing something. I'm glad that the time has finally come." Senior Christina Shubert said, "Getting your colors pinned on is something that you can always remember. It's a great honor. It is going to be great." Senior Lori Tollett said, "I feel the pinning of colors is a great way to acknowledge seniors and it is an event I will remember forever." Senior Lesley Holland said, "The tradition of the pinning of colors is a great honor to senior athletes. It's about time!" Senior Renee Thompson said, "Getting your colors pinned on is one honor that you look forward to when you are a senior."

Some games played during class competition were the bat game, amoeba race, and the nose push race played with an orange. Freshman won over all points but the seniors won class competition. Coach Bray spoke briefly to the students encouraging them to come and support their fellow students.

Homecoming King and Queen were senior Mark Coudriet and senior Bobbi Jo Garrison.

Smiling for the camera, the homecoming court surrounds the king and queen.

Supporting the basketball team, junior Adam Strayer says, "It was fun playing at the basketball homecoming."

Having her colors pinned, senior Rachel McDuffee says, "this is one of the highlights of my senior year and I'm glad it finally came."

Coach of the year Mark Bray says, "This was an honor because it came from my district peers. Give credit to those who deserve it — the players."

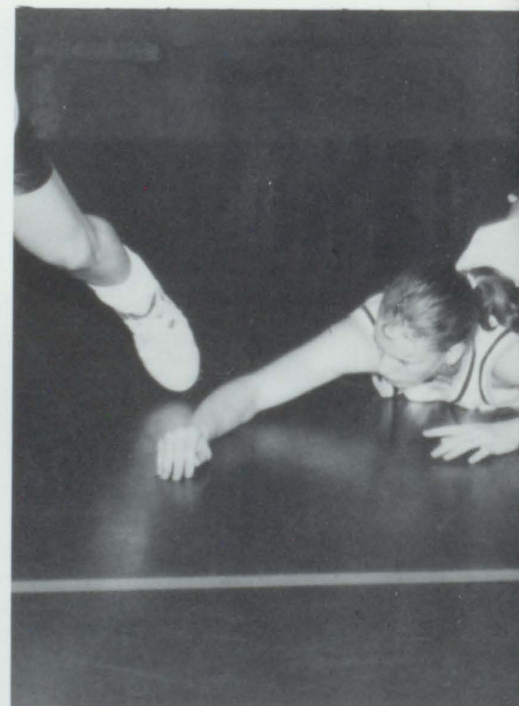

Participating in the amoeba race, freshman Layne Jennings says, "I thought it was great that I got to participate."

Blocking an opponent's shot, junior Joey Elmore and senior Mark Coudriet lead their team to a victory."

Senior Andrea Triplett says, "The game was sad. It's hard to think it's the last game I'll ever play on that floor."

Encouraging the team on the sidelines, freshman Marlo Tollett says, "I cheered for my team to give them support."

Diving for the ball, sophomore Amanda Davis says, "Eating the floor wasn't fun, maybe next time the ball will come my way."

In the Gym

Friday, February 17 the Jets hosted the Cookeville Cavaliers for homecoming night. Both teams, girls and boys varsity, played hard, extensive games. Junior Nathan Morgan said, "Vinnie is our idol. He symbolizes cheap toys, stale bread, and bad one-liners. Now if only he could play basketball." Juniors Brandi Burnett and Caroline Leggett said, "Don't mess with the best, turtles!!" Although the girls were defeated, most thought it was a memorable night. The girls put forth great effort which was helped along by the crowd's encouragement and enthusiasm. Junior Clint Rose said, "I couldn't go because I had to work."

Senior Leann Raper said, "I only went because it was the last home ball game of my senior year. The boys had an awesome victory over the Cavaliers." "I enjoyed going to all of the basketball games, especially the homecoming game. It was the best." said freshman Alice Peebles. It was evident that the boys were pepped up and ready for a win.

Some students felt that the fans were really more supportive during these games. Junior Kristy Honeycutt said, "I love going to the games because I love to cheer for our school." Junior Josh Houston said, "Despite some controversy over our methods of team support, I enjoyed attending the game anyway." It was evident that the teams played with confidence and skill which led to yet another win for the boys.

Junior Channing Smith says, "I was thinking of how hard and quick I would have to step in front of the guy to get the rebound."

In the Council

Student Council underwent several changes. Freshman members were included and the number of activities held for student entertainment such as pep rallies or paid performances was reduced from one each Friday to only one per month.

Freshman Virgil Thompson said, "Student Council is great. I think that it brings the school together and lifts everyone's spirits."

Student Council planned activities such as concert's, class competitions, decorated the school bulletin boards, pep rallies, sponsored the homecoming parade, coordinated other homecoming activities, co-sponsored a reception for the new principal Paul Hodge and trick-or-treated for UNICEF.

They produced the morning announcements, which were recorded during their fourth period class time to be played the following morning. They also sponsored a recycling program in which old newspapers and paper were collected on Thursday's, during fourth period.

Senior Ashleigh Bean said, "I think people don't realize how much work and effort council puts into our school. I'm very proud of our council and I feel like it has been a wonderful way for me to become more involved in school activities." Junior Patrick Duggan agreed stating, "We do a lot of work that goes unnoticed in the school."

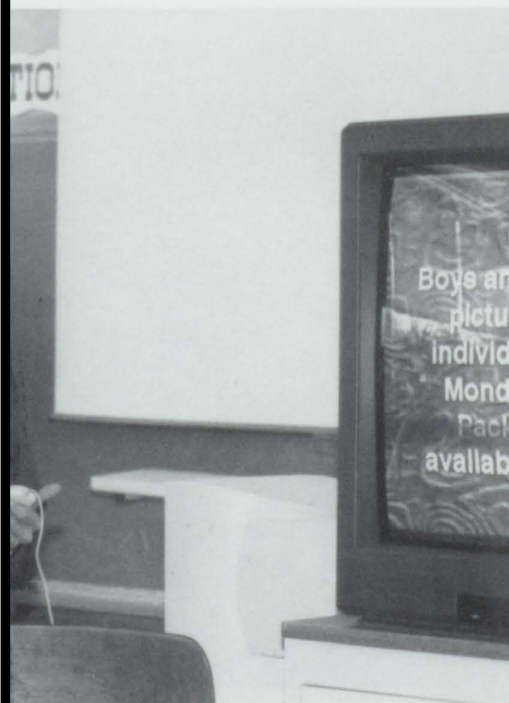

Gathering for instructions, senior Matt Miller says, "Being the president has its ups and downs."

Doing his part for homecoming, junior Patrick Duggan says, "I always have to do the bulletin boards."

During the Crank It UP contest, Junior Matt Daniels and Student Council sponsor Flori Dunigan discuss which car is the best.

Recording the announcements for playback each day, Sophomore Samantha Gibson says, "It was embarrassing, but fun."

Being baptized senior Daniel Black says, " The play was the best time I've had. It took some time, but it payed off."

Concentrating on her part, junior Angela Barlett says, " My character, Sonia, cannot save you, but she can bring you closer to God. "

Rehearsing the play, senior Cory Carter says, "Working on the play is an experience in itself.

Acting out the part, junior Holly Hodge says, "Godspell was a touching experience. I was moved tremendously."

In the Theater

Each year the Drama Club, better known as the Jet Theatrix puts on a play at the Cumberland County Playhouse. Many hours of rigorous practice go into each scene. Senior Daniel Black said, "From the beginning I knew it would be hard work. Everyone was excited and extremely concerned about the title "Godspell". We all decided we would do it and not worry about what it was. Everyone enjoyed performing and most of the seniors were sad seeing as this was our last play. All in all it went great. The work was hard and we deserved it." Junior David Maddux said, "Doing the school play this year was great!"

The actors were not the only ones who put in the hard work. The backstage crew also worked hard to make things run smoothly. This years show was called "Godspell", a contemporary Christian musical that illustrated the life of Jesus through a circus metaphor. Junior Carol Houston said, "Godspell is a controversial musical that illustrates the life of Jesus. This play takes a lot of work and concentration. It really was fun working on it." Junior Jennifer Strong said, "The music has a lot of feeling. Though there have been many ups and downs, it was fun."

Freshman Ryan Dykeman says, "Master when was it we saw you hungry and gave you something to eat or thirsty and gave you something to drink."

Successfully sinking the putt to win the golf match is senior Ernie Brown. Brown picks up the ball and moves on.

Working to keep the ball in the air, junior Jamie Jo Garrison says, "I learned lots of volleyball from my friends."

Running the ball towards the goal, junior Diane Mattox says, "I'm still learning how to play, but it is a good physical sport."

Freshman Tarah Hamby says, "JV cheerleading is a year of practice to get ready for varsity cheerleading."

Putting forth every effort to show their school spirit, junior Jasmin Adams says, "I am dazed and confused. I just wanna dance."

Junior Kathryn Mayberry says, "With the help of "Da Bombs" we keep the crowd cheering. We just want to dance!"

Feeling the rhythm of the music and keeping the beat for the crowd, freshman Jessica Loyd says, "I love it! It's very enjoyable!"

In the Air

To be a member of the cheerleading squad required a lot of practice, concentration, and plenty of determination. The freshman squad became the cheerleaders for the junior varsity team. Freshman Amber Hataway said, "I feel the varsity cheerleaders could give us a little more support. We work hard for what we do, and so do they, but we need to try to be more like one, huge, awesome squad!"

The varsity squad continued to cheer for the varsity team. The two teams functioned as separate groups with different sponsors with the common goal of supporting the sports program. Rebekah Zannini was the varsity sponsor and English teacher, Shannon Atkinson was the junior varsity sponsor. Senior Rachel McDuffee said, "To tell you the truth, junior varsity cheerleaders and varsity cheerleaders, aren't affiliated with each other at all."

Varsity held a yard sale and car wash at a local bank. They also helped with the Flowers Bakery annual picnic, worked with Krogers and the Fairfield Glade Afterburners. The money raised was used to help buy new uniforms. Junior Lyndsey Randall said, "The fund raisers were both fun and successful. We even got our picture taken with the Domino's man at the car wash!"

In the Game

Some students felt that the beginning of the school year also brought the fun and excitement of a new football season. Senior Richard Wyatt said, "This year should be the best year. The seniors have been with coach Dan Schlafer for two years now. We should have a great season." The season started off with a win against White County with a score of 31 to 0. The second game against Farragut was unique because even though the Jets lost score wise they won by a forfeit. They went on to play Dekalb county. The end of the game brought a win for the Jets which placed them with a two and one record.

Senior Joe Gaynor said,

"This year in football I have had a lot of good times. We have had a few disappointing games. It is still a great game." The team suffered a few losses which included games with McMinn County and Central. They lost to Clinton also which was the homecoming game.

The end of the season brought games against Campbell County, Bradley County, Rhea County, and Oak Ridge. Senior David Bowman said, "Football season was one of the greatest times of my life. Since I am a senior, it is all over soon. I think we needed to be in a better frame of mind and I believe if we had been we would have went completely undefeated."

Running onto the field before the game, freshmen Jim Bob Barnes says, "It was my first year playing, and it was a great experience."

Defending the ball from the opposing team, senior Brad Eldridge says, "I learned how to work together with others."

Passing the ball to another team member, junior Joey Whiteaker says, "Our record doesn't show our tremendous improvement."

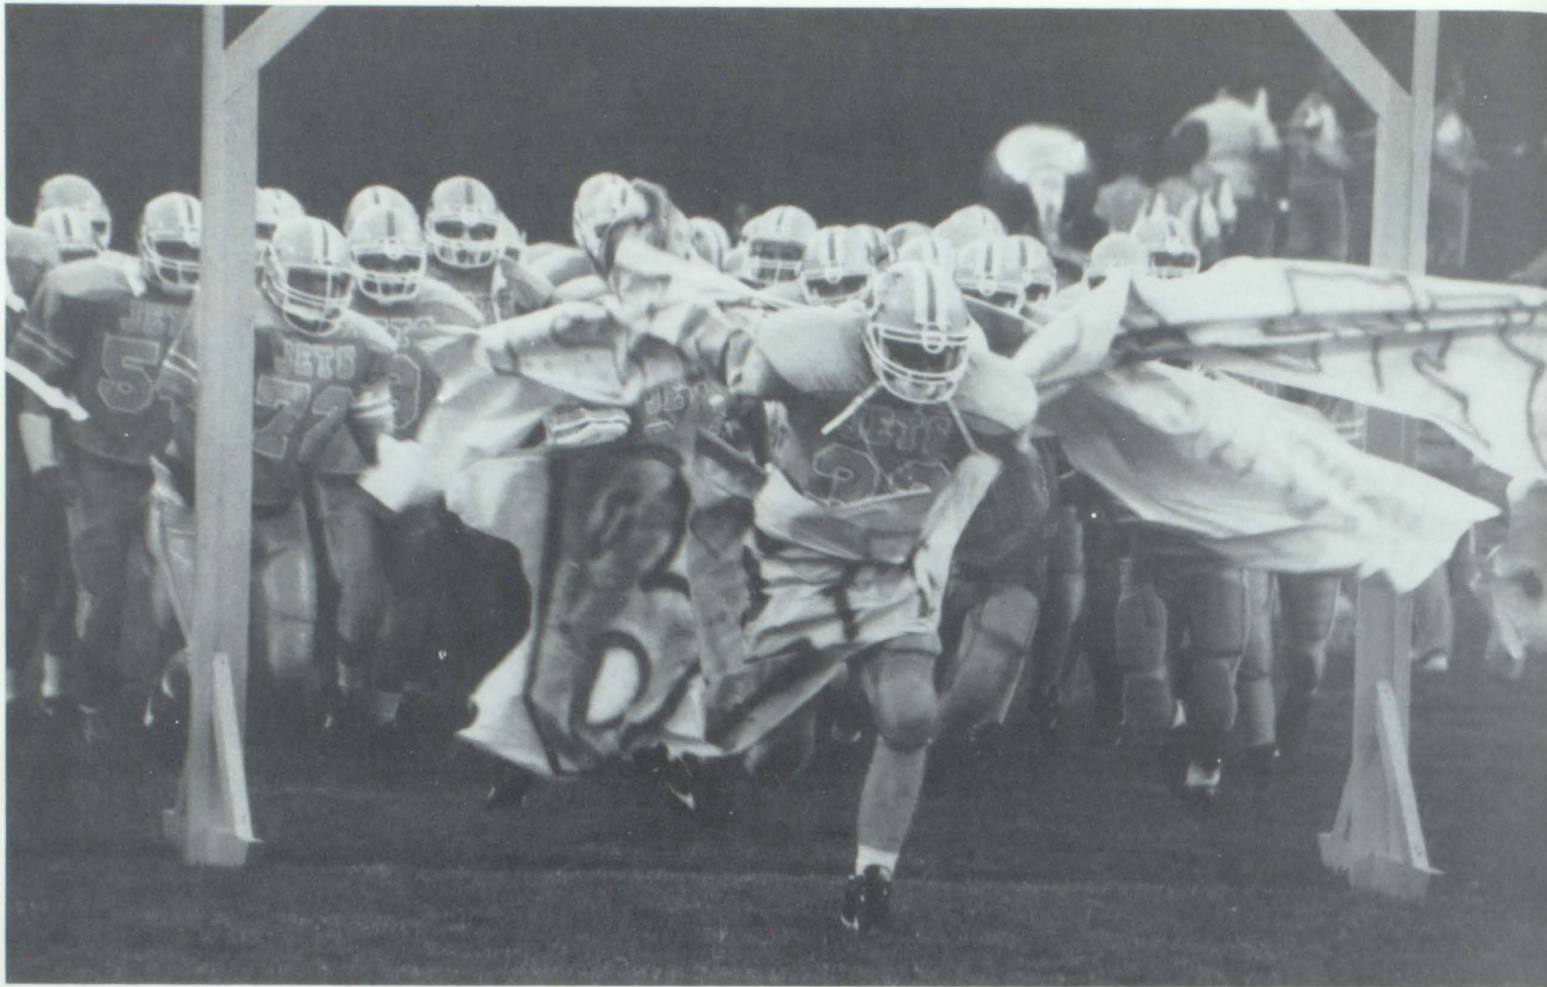

Running furiously to elude the aggressive enemy, sophomore Kyle Eldridge says, "Football is a great experience. I feel the program is coming to life."

Blocking the front line, senior Brandon Adams-Mayfield says, "Cumberland County is back to play. Next year looks promising for the team."

In The Process

By having a junior varsity football team more students were provided an opportunity to be a member of an official team. Junior Nathan Morgan said, "JV gives the coaches and the Jet fans a look at next years squad." This also allowed the younger players to gain valuable field experience. Sophomore Rocky Gora said, "Its very exciting and fun to be with next year's team."

Although the team's record was not as good as last year, the all out effort of the team made the games seem more exciting. Sophomore Jimmy Inman said, "Being out on the field with next year's team makes the future look promising."

Practices were held everyday in concurence with the varsity team. They followed the same training schedule as the varsity team. Sophomore Joey Spriggs said, "Playing for the junior varsity team got me ready for the sidelines on Friday nights."

The first game of the season, which was played against Farragut, proved to be a rocky start for the junior varsity team. The Farragut Admirals started out the game with a seventy yard touchdown pass. Sophomore Brent Bell said, "There after it was all downhill for the Jets, although, we scored in the fourth quarter it was not enough to beat them."

In the Making

Ninth grade football promised to be new and exciting with the return of the freshman back to the high school. They were determined to deliver a killer season which was evident by their hard work and long hours of practice. Making the transition from junior high football to high school football was tough but most players proved they were able to do so. Freshman coach Marty Davis said, "There is such a difference between 8th and 9th grade football, timewise that anyone who makes it through the whole year is a winner!"

Freshman Justin Wyatt said, "Football is a time consuming sport and it takes a lot of dedication."

Freshman Heath Swallows said, "They are progressing and becoming a better team. They are also learning to play as a team."

They chose to use the theme "Sacrifice For Success" as their particular goal for motivation. Freshman Bratcher Wilson, said, "My ninth grade football year was a tough but fun experience. Freshman Tommy Simonton said, "At the first part of the season we didn't look as good as we needed to be, but after the first few games we stepped it up a notch, as we all started working together as a team. We finished one and five and learned that you do not have to have the greatest season to be a champion."

Stepping back, junior Rex Shillings throws the ball to first base to get the other team out.

Catching the ground ball, sophomore Eric Henline says, "I love baseball and I love playing with my good friend and cousin."

Beating an oppnent from Rhea County to first base to get him out, junior Randy McCormick says, "It was fun, but a hard and long season."

Listening attentively to a pep talk from the coach, junior Rex Shillings says, "Basesall is fun to play."

Rounding the final base, senior Jeff Dyer says, "We have been through some hard times, but this year seems to be different because of a new coach."

Preparing to steal third base, senior Adam Daughtery gets ready to make his move.

In the Swing

The newest arrival to coach the baseball team is Dean Darnelle. He was a member of the baseball team at Dyersburg Community College for two years. He then transferred to M.T.S.U. where he played for two more years. He was assistant coach for the M.T.S.U Raiders for one year but this year was his first head coaching job. Darnelle said, "I am very excited about the baseball season, with this being my first position as head coach, I am greatly looking forward to working with the team".

Most players seemed very optimistic about the team. Senior Brandon Adams-Mayfield said, "Baseball is on the move in Cumberland County. There are definitely some great athletes coming up in the sport." Senior Eston Mayberry said, "Eric Henline, along with the great new coaching staff, should lead us to victory this year without a doubt." Junior Scott Calahan said, "This year I hope to achieve many team and personal goals. With the people we have in our program now, we can go as far as our talent will take us. The team traveled throughout the state to compete in the District 5-AAAAA games. Pre-season workouts began in mid-November. Workouts included weightlifting and outside exercises. Regular season play began March 21.

In the Curve

The softball team hoped this season would be the best yet. Last year's season was thought by the coach and most players to be a great season. Coach Jimmy Inman was especially excited to finally be working with the girl's who were involved in the elementary fast pitch program, which will help the team's overall performance. Coach Inman has been coaching the softball team for six years. His leadership was recognized by most players even rookies, such as junior Kristy Honeycutt who said, "Softball is a great sport. Coach Inman is an awesome coach and I am looking forward to playing softball this year."

The team was made up of a diverse group of girls, many student leaders, with a great love for the sport, even if they did not get to play every time. Junior Jackie Wilbanks said, "Softball is awesome. Even if you get to know the pine like I did." To many of the players softball was more than a sport. It was a learning experience. Senior Emily Stubbs said, "Softball has taught me that with a little hard work and some time, anything can be accomplished." An overview of the team's positive attitude was best expressed by senior Pam Webb who said, "This year we're going to work hard to win the tournament and finish higher than any Lady Jet Softball team has before."

Unfortunately, waiting around is part of the sport of softball. This is shown by junior Lisa Barnes, senior Pam Webb, and Coach Jimmy Inman.

Tagging an opponent out on second base, junior Kandi Martin says, "Softball is a lot of fun especially when you've got a great coach like Mr. Jimmy Inman.

Knocking a ball out of the park, junior Crystal Cox says, "We were a young team this year, but next year's team will be more experienced."

Showing off her wonderful expertise in the game of softball by getting an opponent out on second base, senior Micah Sanderson says, "This year was a great year in softball. The whole team worked hard to achieve success, and I believe that next year's team will be better because of the hard work that they have put into the game this year."

Throwing the ball from the outfield, sophomore Amanda Davis says, "Softball is a great sport to play because the players really stick together and we all get along."

Being double-teamed by opponents from McMinn County, junior Joey Elmore says, "Basketball is the love of my life."

Junior Channing Smith says, "Basketball doesn't take someone seven feet tall to play. You can be as good with hard work, determination, and dedication."

In the Paint

Basketball is a sport that always gets a lot of attention. The team, as a whole, made a great deal of improvement. Senior, Brad Eldridge said, "Under the great leadership of Coach Mark Bray, we were able to turn a below average team into a well oiled machine." The progress of this team was noticed by several. When asked his opinion on this years team, Coach Bray said, "We have had many winning seasons here at C.C.H.S., but this 94-95 team may have learned more and come farther than many of the teams we have had with better won — loss records." Junior Trevor Galloway said, "I think the team has improved a lot from the start of the year. With teamwork and practice, next years team should be very promising."

Playing on the high school level was a new experience for many of the freshman and sophomore players. Sophomore, Rusty Lewis said, "Playing basketball at the high school is totally different from playing at any other level. It is a whole new ballgame." Three of the five starting players were underclassmen, which will help to create a good basis for a very promising team in the future. The varsity team had a total of five managers. One team manager, senior Haley Hinch said, "I enjoy being a manager because I can help out with the basketball team."

Rebounding the ball, sophomore Jesse Crabtree has advice for other players, "Play your best."

Protecting the ball from the opposing team, junior Channing Smith maneuvers towards the basket.

In the Lane

The boys Junior Varsity team had a successful season. Junior Varsity gave those players who did not gain much varsity playing time a chance to improve their skills and gain valuable game time experience on the court. Sophomore Eric Goff said, "The only way to play well is to come to every practice."

Most players enjoyed the competition like their coach, Mr. Rick Gilbert. But how did they feel about their competitors? Sophomore Travis Dixon said, "We tear their throats out." But, can they play as well as they talk? Sophomore Jesse Crabtree said, "Just give me the rock!" Attending practice regularly was a requirement. Sophomore Travis Dixon said, "It's pretty tough, but it's worth it."

Most members worked together like a true team. The players strove to do their best for the school and learned that the only way to win in basketball was to practice, be motivated, and have the heart it takes to stick in there even when the times were tough. Sophomore Jason Ashburn said, "I think that we have very good athletes and we will be better next year. We have to get to know one another better as a team."

The JV basketball team proved to be very competitive overall.

In the Court

1st Row:Cain Monday, Brian Brown, John Bristow, Rusty Bowman, J.T. Kerley, Darryl Shubert 2nd row:Ronnie Cox, John Russell, Layne Jennings, Eric Thompson, Jason Davis, Rick Gilbert

Most of the boys freshman basketball players agreed that the season had been fun but difficult. Freshman Darrell Schubert said, "I enjoyed playing on the team. Freshman J.T. Kerley agreed when he said, "It was a lot of hard work, but playing for Mr. Cox was fun." Even the so-called "bench warmers" enjoyed the games. Freshman John Bristow said "It was fun watching the team play. We were pretty good."

Some of the players joined the team in order to make friends. Freshman Brian Brown said, "I joined the team because it was a fun time to get into trouble." Most players joined the team to play basketball and gain valuable experience. Freshman Rusty Bowman said, "Playing basketball on the ninth grade team was a chance to gain experience on the high school level." Freshman John Russell said, "Playing ball this year was a good learning experience. Coach Cox taught me a lot of new things."

Most players were looking toward the years to come, and they know they will have to work hard to continue to be strong competition against the other teams. This season showed that there was the potential and talent present to face the challenges ahead even though they were a very young team.

Slam dunking the ball to score for the team, freshman Jacob Austin successfully completes the move.

Protecting his teammate, freshman Eric Thompson says, "Play your hardest at all times."

Taking a breather from the intense game is senior Andrea Triplett, and freshman Jesse Inman, and Marlo Tollett.

Listening to a halftime pep talk, freshman Heather Dykes says, "I found that all the running has finally paid off."

In the Rebound

What does it take to be a Lady Jet? Sophomore Camille Tollett said, "Hard Work, and lots of time." The girls started their 1994-1995 season against Livingston on November 22, and ended out their regular season on February 17. The team was also in a rebuilding year, according to Coach Randy Herring who said, "The Lady Jets Basketball Team is currently working hard to rebuild its pride and tradition. It is very important that our players realize that success is a journey that takes time and only the strong will survive. It takes a little more to be a Lady Jet." Assistant coach Bobby McWilliams said, "The girls have worked hard to improve and hopefully by tournament time we will be in position to make some noise."

Junior Crystal Bohannon said, "I really think that our team has come a long way. I really enjoyed the team and the leadership. Even though we played great athletes we all still seemed to stick together". Senior Andrea Triplett said, "I have really enjoyed the three years I have played for the high school. It was hard, and took hard work and dedication. I'm going to miss it and my teammates." Senior Christina Schubert said, "This year has been really great. I'm really going to miss it."

Blocking the other team from scoring, sophomore Sarah Stone says, "Varsity basketball is a fast pace tempo. Get in and go."

Recovering the ball, freshman Christy Rogers says, "JV basketball is pretty cool."

In the Basket

As one sees five young women sprint down the court, flying towards the basket against five similar girls, one might be watching the Girls JV basketball team. Freshman Martha Gunter said, "We started out slow, but we have improved. It's all due to the good leaders and teamwork we have. It is also due to the good lookin' coach we have, Coach McWilliams." Teaching physical education and health, new teacher Mr. Robert McWilliams was made assistant coach of the varsity team and head coach of the JV team. Coach McWilliams said, "J.V. Basketball gives the girls the needed experience that will last a life time."

The JV team was made up of a large range of players. Freshman Marlo Tollett said, "J.V. basketball is fun because it gives the players that are on varsity, that never get to play in a lot of varsity games, a chance to play."

The junior varsity team provided the girls the ability to be better prepared for the next few years of basketball. Sophomore Brooke Adams-Mayfield said, "I believe that J.V. basketball better prepared me for the upcoming years. Not only in basketball, but in life. Next year I'll go for the Gold, but I'll always remember Coach's words of wisdom, enthusiasm, and discipline."

A new addition to the basketball program was the 9th grade team. The girls on this team attained an additional year of playing experience at the high school level over the present team members. This will improve players skill level over the years to come. There were many positive things coming out of this team.

The team worked hard to be successful, but they still found time to have fun while they were practicing and playing the game. Freshman Sarah Stone said, "Ninth grade basketball is fun. We "The great eight" are all close and have fun on the court. We all believe that we will stick together through the years and win many games."

Big things were expected from these freshman girls. They gained experience and seemed to have unlimited potential. Freshman basketball coach J.D. Atkinson said, "This 9th grade girls team is a special group with an unlimited future. They could be playing under the "Big Lights" someday."

Most of the girls agreed that playing the game was hard work, but in the end it was worth it. Freshman Sherry Cottrell said, "I think that the freshman team is getting better as the season goes on, and it is good experience for us as a varsity team of the future."

Stealing the ball from the opposite team are freshman Heather Dykes and Christy Rogers.

Blocking the girl, freshman Brenda Woffard says, "I love basketball and the competition."

Sophomore Rocky Gora says,

In the Weekend

Junior varsity and varsity basketball were not the only outlets for those students who displayed any amount of basketball talent. Putting aside the screaming fans, the tumbling cheerleaders, and ever present college scouts, eight teams of brave men and women arose at the crack of dawn on Saturday mornings to draw the blood, shed the tears, and feel the sweat of intramurals. Junior Nathan Keeler said, "Since I am not on the varsity basketball team, intramurals give me a chance to play basketball with my friends."

Sponsored by the Student Council and coordinated by junior Scott Calahan, intramural games began at the beginning of the second semester and ended in March with a championship game between the top two teams. "I like the respect I have on the court," said sophomore Josh Brown. Age and sex were not discriminatory factors, many talented students came to compete. For some, intramurals offered a chance to break the monotony of every day student life. Senior Eston Mayberry said, "With all of the new rules and regulations, intramurals gives me a chance to let off some steam."

Not only were intramurals a workout, they brought out feelings of comradery and competition that possibly cannot be rivaled by any varsity sport. Senior Jerry Whittenburg, a member of last year's winning intramural team said, "I enjoy the chance to play basketball with my friends and I love the competition."

Successfully maneuvering around an opponent while participating in Saturday morning intramurals, sophomore Joey Spriggs says, "We're gonna win, what more is there to say."

Getting the ball from a teammate, junior Rebecca Davis says, "Soccer is a fun sport, it would be better if there were more girls playing."

Trying to get the ball away from an opponent, junior Daniel Hassler says, "Soccer is fun. In my fullback position, you get to knock people down."

During practice, there is much preparation for the upcoming game. Junior Seth Kincannon jumps past his opponent during practice.

Kicking around the ball in soccer practice senior Cory Carter says, "Playing is great! I get a thrill that can seldom be matched."

In the Goal

Soccer began with returning coach, Mrs. Annell Schaffer. This year proved to be an exciting one. The positive attitudes and spirits of the players made this sport enjoyable for most of the players. Junior Eddie Wofford said, "Soccer's fun, I especially like when we have co-ed shirts and skins scrimmages." The soccer players began conditioning early in the year, took a short break, then resumed their training in late winter. Freshman Martin Dyhr said, "All I have to say is I want to play too."

Most soccer players enjoyed a fun season. Sophomore Beth Dawkins said, "I miss Gunter!" The team always exhibited hard work, dedication, and talent on the playing field. Senior

Jerry Warner said, "Soccer is a cool sport, it doesn't get as much recognition as it should."

Many players expressed their concern that eight away games were scheduled as opposed to only four home games. Due to lack of funds more games had to be played away. Junior Nathan Morgan said, "Soccer is small in this area, but is growing. Hopefully the success of the Jets will add to the growth." The team accelerated in achievement and improved their record from the previous years by defeating key district opponents. The determination of these players were felt in the hearts of the lucky few who came to watch the unforgettable games.

In the Hole

The golf team finished with a record of 15 and 4 . They won District 3 for the second year in a row. They finished third at regionals. Coach Richard Fields said, "I am very proud of this team. The players worked hard and made my job a very easy one."

The team members included senior Ernie Brown, juniors Scott Calahan, Troy Wheeler, Chris Hollingworth, sophomores Jason Wyatt, Adam Mahaney. Sophomore Jason Wyatt placed 14th in the State Championship at Henery Horton. Senior Ernie Brown said, "This was my best year and I hope the team can win districts again next year for the third time in a row."

The team received new shirts, sweaters, and new golf bags from the Cumberland County Golf Association.

This was the first year for the ladies golf team. They finished with a 3 and 1 record. They participated in the Rocky Top Classic and finished 8th and then went on to the regionals, where they finished 4th. Junior Scarlett Henry said, "The girls' golf team didn't get much recognition this year but I think next year it will be a different story." The girl's team consisted of senior Jessie Graham, juniors Crystal Cox, Scarlett Henry, and freshman Stephanie Mahaney. Junior Crystal Cox said, "We are hoping next year will be better."

Standing tall after an awesome match, the girls golf team basks in the glory of the camera flash after a victory. Junior Crystal Cox says, "I had to work so I'm not in the picture."

Concentrating on this important putt, junior Jason Wyatt says, "I figure out the break then the speed and give it a good stroke."

Giving it their all, both the boys' and girls' team hit the golf balls with explosive force, shooting for the whole in one.

Taking his time to line up the ball for a putt towards the 9th hole, junior Chris Hollingsworth gives it his best shot for an under par score.

Discussing strategy with friends, senior John Looney says, "CCHS is not known for its tennis program, but we have fun and thats what counts."

Returning the difficult lob shot, senior Renee Thompson says, "I started playing tennis last year and I found it to be a good sport to keep you in shape. I'm excited about this season."

Junior Chad Phillips says, "John Looney and I feel as though being quite, courteous, and polite are the important things in tennis."

Returning the ball with a backhand shot, junior Matt Daniels says, "It's wonderful to breathe carbon monoxide fumes from the new tennis bus. It doesn't get any better."

In the Serve

The tennis team started condition training in the fall. In order to intensify practices, the girls and guys met every other day on separate days of the week to practice against each other. With the addition of freshman players, the size of the team was increased somewhat. Junior Kim Smith said, "Tennis has always been a favorite sport of mine, even though the practices are long and hard."

The season got off to a great start. Everyone practiced hard and this was evident in the matches. Even with the loss of several valuable seniors from last year, the team still held their ground. Senior John Looney said, "I have enjoyed playing tennis these past two years. I hate it that this year was my last."

Coach Sam Holdsambeck had the team perform drills everyday and challenge each other in matches during the extensive practices. His goal was to basically improve the team's playing techniques. Sophomore Beth Smith said, "This was my first year on the tennis team, but it definitely won't be my last".

Most team members were still hoping for new tennis courts. Junior Chad Phillips said, "I wish we would get new tennis courts because the other schools have much nicer facilities. I also wish we could get better transportation, because that brown van just does not cut it."

Up and Away. Junior Jackie Wilbanks says, "Volleyball was great. We all played well together."

In the Set

The return of seasoned players as well as the addition of new ones helped to make this another great season for the Spikers. Junior Kristy Honeycutt said, "Volleyball is a swell sport, especially when you're 5'3 and blessed with a high vertical leap. P.S. Cartwheels are fun!"

The team was coached by Algebra teacher Janet Burnett and English teacher Angela Turner. Sophomore Carrie Reese said, "Je joue bien au volley. T'adore jouer au volley!"

Most team members felt that a lot was accomplished through their hard work and long hours of practice. Senior Emily Yeager said, "This season was a lot better than last year. Our record was not any better than last year's, but the team (coaches and players) was far better this year."

Most are looking forward to next year mainly because they will be more experienced and as their team grows in size, it will grow in accomplishment. Freshman Nicole Isles said, "We've had a great team this year with a great coach that helped make us great."

Junior Jamie Jo Garrison said, "The team became a family this year. I love them all like sisters. It will be sad to see Emily leave. No one will be able to fill her shoes."

In the Running

This was the second year for cross country to be a sanctioned sport. Several new team members were added to the team. Freshman Sam Bohannon said, "It was hard but I ran." Freshman Jared Barnwell said, "Cross country is a sport you do if you want to take yourself to the limits. It's hard at first, but it is very rewarding. We are new at this, but we will be very competitive in the future. Everytime I meet a goal I have set for myself, another takes its place. To run faster."

The team was coached by math teacher Ron Cook. Cook said, "Although they are young and lacking in experience, they are a fast team." The team placed in a better position than they did last year in all of the six meets they participated in.

Sophomore Anna DeVos said, "In cross country, I have found out that you never believe what you can do until you push yourself to the limit." During the Oak Ridge Invitational JV Run, sophomore Amy Sanders placed 24th out of 150 runners.

Scoring was based on the finishing position of the top five runners of each team. The lowest score won. Freshman Jordan Graham says, "Running makes me feel good about myself, but it also makes me understand true pain!"

Valedictorian

"Although most of us won't miss this school, many of us will miss our friends and the times we've had. While our education in the schools is no doubt important, the lessons we have learned through our friendships are the most valuable ones of all. In this way, we have learned so much more in the past few years of our lives than we realize. It is a great relief to finally come to the end of these four years of our formal education. In fact, however, our true education is just beginning." — Senior Marty Woodlee

Salutatorian

"I am honored to be the Salutatorian of the Class of 1995. I know that there are many people who worked hard and deserve this honor, also. I was just lucky to have the best family, teachers, and friends who have helped me and given me encouragement. I must have needed a lot, especially until I stopped spelling my name backwards! I probably could not have even graduated without their support.

"I have learned a lot during the last thirteen years, but the things I've enjoyed most have been the fun times with my friends and the many activities we have shared. They are the reasons for coming to school every day. Although synthetic division may come in handy someday, I will always have the memories of my friends no matter which direction my life takes. Even though grades are important, always leave room to have fun!" — Senior Pam Webb

Students learn various computer skills in Kay Randolph's class, to help them in their chosen career.

Using her hands to gain knowledge, sophomore Lacy Gaynor says, "Physical science is a good class to wake up to."

Senior D.C. Robbins says, "It was very interesting and I learned a lot from it."

In the New

Concentrating on a difficult math problem while also learning new skills on the computer, freshman Daniel McKeown says, "Developmental Lab is alright."

Not only was there a new grade level in the high school, there were also many new classes. Developmental lab was a semester class for students who did not pass the Proficiency Test either in the English or math area. Students did not receive any credit for this class. Freshman Shiloh Elmore said, "This class helps me understand math better." Advanced English was renamed honor's English. Freshman Jenny Kindred said, "I think Honor's English 9 is a very studious class. It supplies a lot of information you will need in life."

Some classes merged together to make one new class. One was lifetime wellness. It was a mixture of health class, physical fitness and physical education. Some activities for lifetime wellness included classwork, skating, and P.E. class. Freshman Crystal Walker said, "The best thing about lifetime wellness is going skating on Fridays. Even though it's only for an hour, it's the best thing, because I get out of class!" Other new classes were rapid writing, career awareness, world geography, and photography.

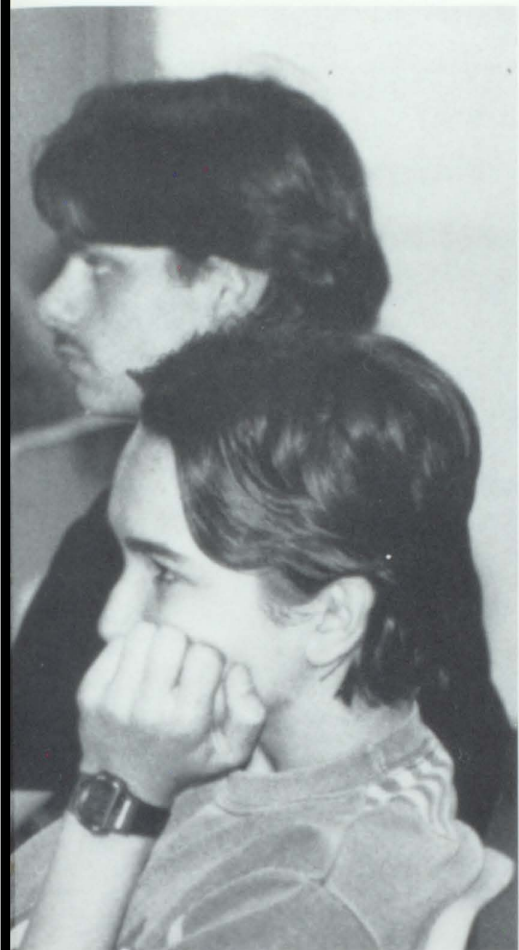

Freshman Heather Russell says, "Developmental lab is really groovy. It would be a whole lot better if we didn't have all those chickens running around pecking at our toes. Other than that and the super glue gags, this class rules."

Studying to stay abreast of current jobs, freshman Allan Paradis says, "My career awareness class is very interesting."

Creating another masterpiece, junior Krista Smith says, "I think being in art class is fun, and Mrs. Jane Armes is a great teacher."

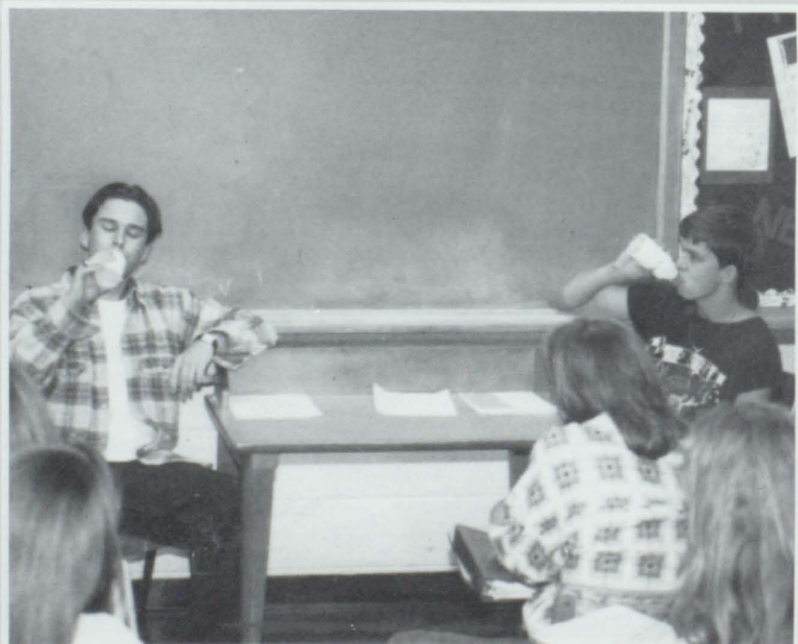

Concentrating on a difficult lead drawing in art class and continuing to expand his creativity, junior Danny Weyrough says, "I enjoyed being in art this year. Mrs. Jane Armes let us create and do anything that we wanted too. We had a real blast this year doing just that".

Boogieing down to the music, sophomore Stephanie Tinnel says, "I feel free as a bird when I'm dancing with the flag corp."

Making a fool of themselves in drama class, seniors Richard Lawrence and George Hedgecoth try to sell their crazy idea of a new beverage to the class.

In the Light

Sight reading a new piece of music, sophomore Marcy Carter says, "I have enjoyed singing in the chorus."

The visual arts classes were exciting and fun courses to take for most students. Senior Richard Lawrence said, "Drama this year is really fun. It gives us a chance to express ourselves in ways we can't do in other classes." Senior Rooker Pleasant, said, "Drama is really cool. It provides new ways to express yourself." Most students ended up enjoying themselves and found some interesting hobbies along the way. Senior Tim Roark said, "Art is the time to have fun and paint Van Gogh and Monet."

Basic art classes like drawing, beginning art, art history, and painting I and II, along with the drama courses, choir and photography were some of the visual art courses to choose from. Most of the students in these classes had fun doing their work, because it didn't seem like work. Many of the students that took these courses found talent they never knew they had. The teachers of the classes guided and directed that talent. Senior Melissa Ellis said "The arts, in my case is used to express my true feelings. I've never been good at speaking my feelings."

Drama teacher, Kathy Dooley-Smith says, "Drama combines fun with practical skills. Everyone needs to be able to speak in front of a group. After we dress up in funny costumes, say weird things, and make fools of ourselves, giving presentations seems like a piece of cake."

Focusing totally on her ink pen art drawing, senior artist Lesley Holland sketches a Thanksgiving holiday picture for her art portfolio.

In the Job

The vocational department offered classes such as family and parenting, adult living, child development, forestry, ag mechanics, building trades, keyboarding and marketing. These classes taught students about adult life and its responsibilities, management of forests, welding, machinery, carpentry skills, typing skills, various business skills such as management, personnel relationships and skills needed to open one's own business. These classes helped students gain the skills necessary for the real world.

The vocational department also offered a photography class. Photography students took pictures of ballgames, parades and other students, student activities and supplied the annual staff with pictures for the yearbook. They also took several field trips to the state park. Senior Dawn Bly said, "Taking pictures was fun, even if they were mostly for the yearbook."

Child development classes carried sand babies around for one week to simulate how life would be with a child. The students had to treat these babies as if they were real ones.

Administering a huge pill to a sickly calf, senior Billy Lewis says, "Taking care of the cows is fun and a real learning experience."

Applied Communications teacher Richard Fields says, "It has really been enjoyable teaching this class for the past two years. I have seen much improvement in the writing style of my students. We have focused on communication skills, both verbal and written."

Working on a broken tractor, senior Brad Neely says, "Mr. Gilliam can teach both simple and complex things that will help me in the future."

Beginning the long ascent to the top, senior Josh Webb climbs the fire tower along with his other forestry classmates.

Using his mechanical skills to help out the football team by making a line painter, sophomore Adam Hargis says, "There wasn't much to it. Just a simple job for an average student."

Smiling beautifully for the camera, freshman Chriissy Smallwood waits patiently until the cameraman leaves.

With the help of Special Education teacher Charlene Starnes, junior Jamie Marsh completes his homework on time.

In the Program

Lending a helping hand to a special person, Special Education teacher Charlene Starnes does some morning exercises with sophomore Scott Bond.

Junior, Kristy Taylor, was selected to be a member of Team USA to represent the United States of America at the International Special Olympics. The games will be held at Yale University in New Haven, Connecticut on July 1 through July 10, 1995. Another student qualified but declined the invitation.

Kristy played on a twelve member girls basketball team. This team competed against teams from other countries. One hundred and thirteen countries were represented in the International Special Olympic Games.

Kristy was chosen for the team through her efforts in competitions at area and state level games during the 1993-94 school year. She practiced at training camps held within the state, and was coached by David Bell.

Team USA played as an exhibition team at the Tennessee Special Olympics in the spring of 1995.

Kristy flew by private jet to New Haven. She marched in the opening parade with the participants from Team USA. There was celebrity entertainment for the opening ceremony.

Special education teachers Sue VanDorn and Suzanne Jones say, "Our purpose is to include all persons in an educational environment, regardless of handicap. Everyone deserves a chance at an good education no matter what, and we help these students learn and to get that education."

Hurrying to finish unwanted homework, junior Glynda Ford seeks the help of her friend, freshman Ruben Scarlett.

In the Speech

Three different language classes were offered which were French, Spanish, and English. English was not only a class that students took during school hours to earn a credit required for graduation, but was also something used everyday no matter what the activity or the location. Senior Jody Raymond, said, "Senior early bird English was cool except for the constant bellowing of cows behind Mr. Alfred Gilliam's room."

Freshman, Josh Hall, said, "True my English is the worstest class too skip." Spanish class was one of the two foreign language classes offered to students. Freshman Allissa Swallows said, "I think it is nerve racking to learn a new language that I know absolutely nothing about, but I am sure it will come in handy one day when I meet a gorgeous guy who only speaks Spanish."

The other foreign language offered was French. French classes were offered for all ninth through twelfth graders. Freshman Stacey Mosely said, "I think taking French class is a good idea because if you ever go to Paris you will be able to speak to people."

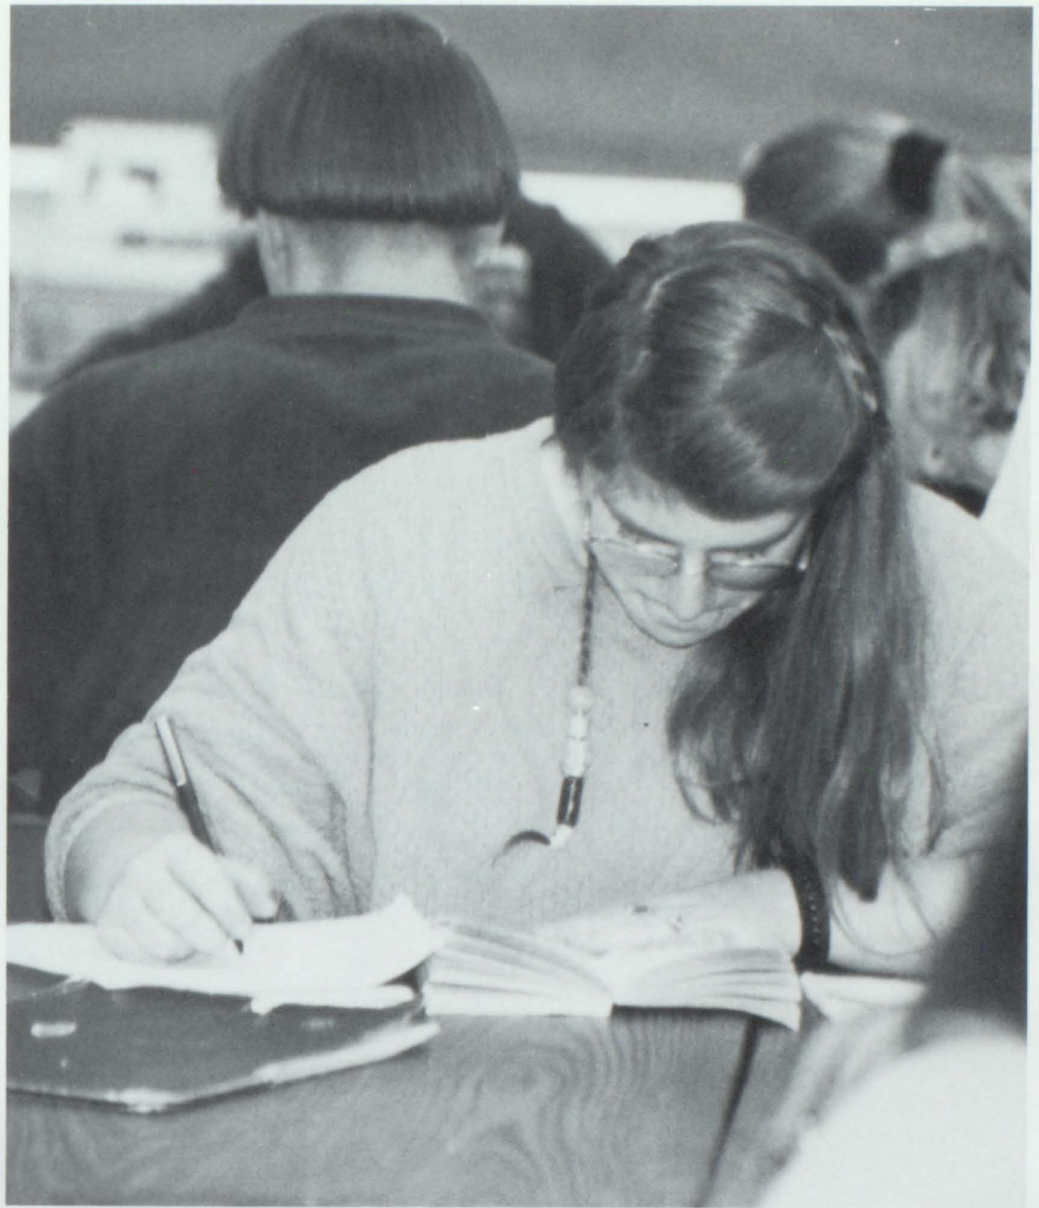

Sophomore David Hargis says, "In English we learn to grasp the responsibilities of proper grammar, open the door into new worlds through books, and build infinite vocabularies that will last a lifetime."

Straining to see the small print in the book, freshman Emily Harris says, "English class is very hard, but enjoyable at the same time."

Using cooperative learning to review the new words, sophomore Jill Allred says, "French class is fun because we learn neat new things."

Homework takes most of the time of teenagers, and even then it is a struggle to get it all done as shown here by Misty Griffith.

Staying up late finishing homework is a daily ritual for many students at CCHS. Trying to stay awake during class, Kyle Pape concentrates on what Ms. Lourdes Dunaway is saying on a particular Spanish assignment about conjugating the verbs tener and estar.

Figuring out the answer to a hard problem, junior Jonathan McShan says, "There has not been a day I haven't laughed in geometry class."

Discussing the square root of 9 and graphing inequalities, sophomores Beth Smith and Sally Martin work out the complicated answer without the aid of their teacher.

In the Graph

Doing an experiment in the principals of technology class, seniors Shane Smith and James Nixon use their hands to capture knowledge.

New chemistry teacher, Steve Glover said, "Teaching chemistry is the most fun when we get to go to the lab. The students like to see things blown up and I like to blow things up." Freshman Jesse Nixon agreed when he said, "Science is cool because you can play with all the lab equipment."

Some comments were negative. Often getting up for early bird wasn't as easy as students had thought. Junior Cassandra McCreary said, "Biology 2 with Ms. Mayfield is so frustrating, that at times, I think that throwing myself off the top of the school building would be a much more favorable alternative than showing up to early bird." Other students held a more positive attitude about school. Junior Noah Baker said, "Mr. Maddox is a great teacher. I've learned a lot from him." Students must have at least two credits of both math and science to graduate with a regular diploma. Honor students must have three years of math and two years of a lab science such as Biology 2, Chemistry, or Physics.

Junior Joleen Wickstrom says, "Geometry with Mrs. Velma Buck is really interesting. You get to learn about all kinds of mathematical material and relative equations to help see the world as being a triangle instead of a sphere. I feel that this class will help me with my future career."

Studying a interesting subject in biology class, sophomore Robin Neely says, "Biology is a fun class. We learn a lot in that class."

In the Past

Listening attentively to history teacher J.C. Davis while he explains about the gear of soliders, junior Clint Zenk says, "History dress-up days are fun and interesting."

Equal rights, the Civil War, 1812, 1492, Gettysburg and Vietnam these are some events, dates, and places that are known as the facts of history. Many students hoped to learn about them in order not to repeat mistakes. Classes taught told of liberties earned such as owning land, proper education, and the right to vote.

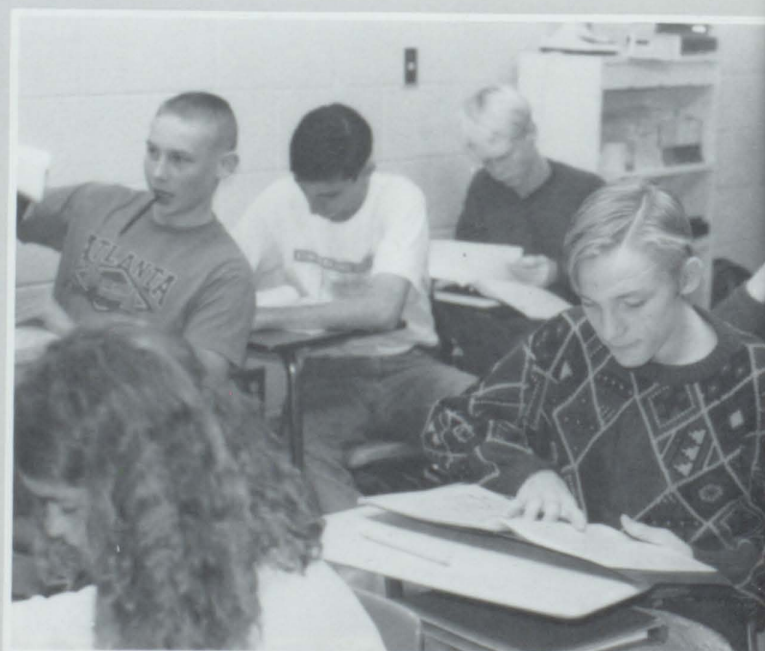

American history and government teacher Jeff Wallace said, "To me there is no greater privilege than the right to vote. Those that do not vote or do not register to vote when they can had better not complain around me unless they want to hear a sermon."

It was possible to take a large variety of history courses in order to gain knowledge of ones own past and present. Classes offered were American history, world geography, modern history, ancient history, economics, and American government. Senior Jason Watts said, "Mr. J.C. Davis is a very interesting American History teacher." Sophomore Emily Robbins said, "Government with Mr. Wallace can be fun, especially when he takes up most of the time telling us his corny jokes."

"To be ignorant of what happened before you were born is to be ever a child." — Cicero

History teacher Evelyn Hargis says, "I do so strongly endorse that thought; unfortunately, we learn from history that we learn nothing from history."

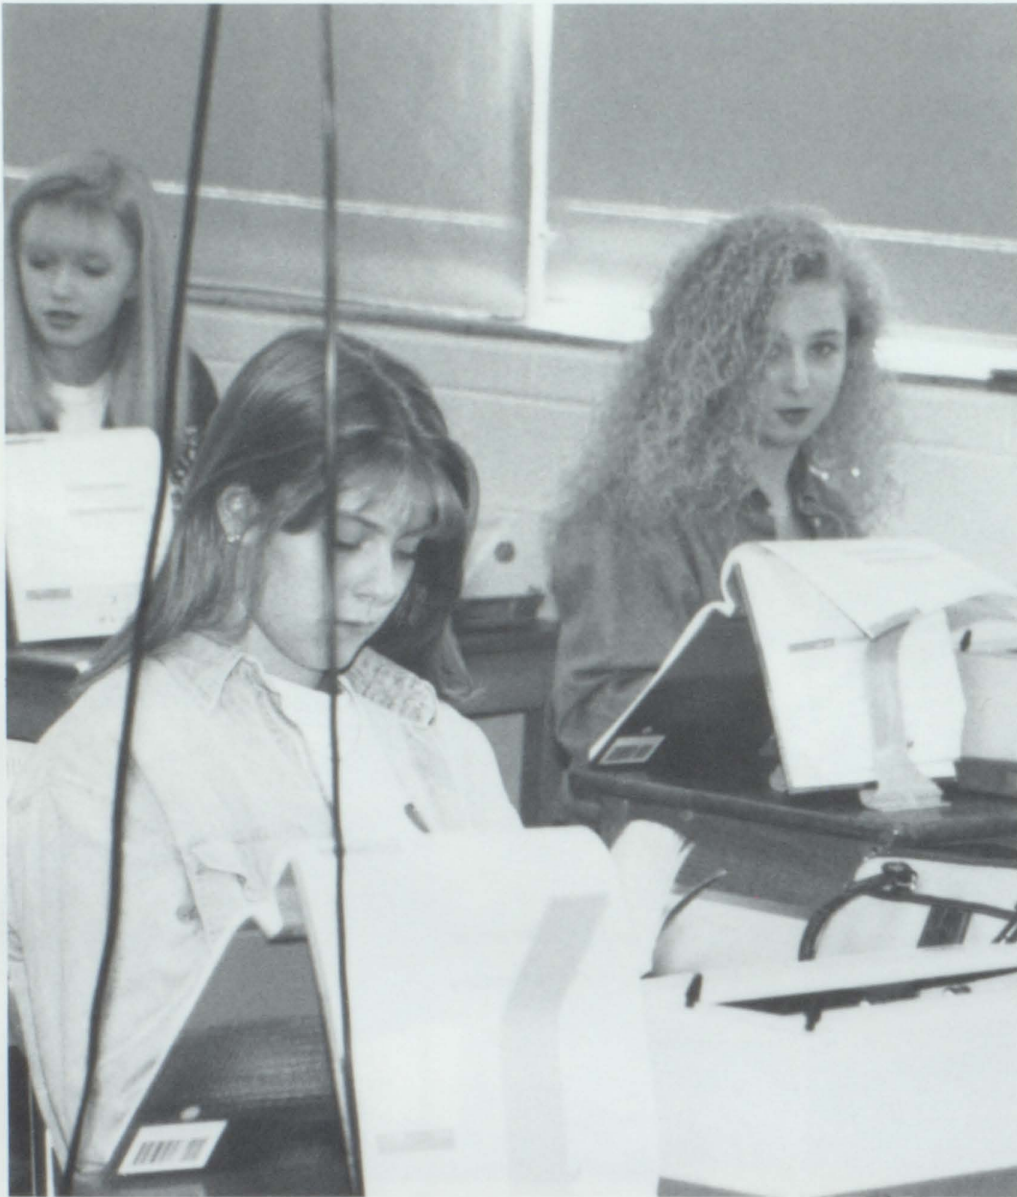

Listening attentively to the dedicated teacher, sophomore James Houser says, "Basic Government is alright."

Reading along with the teacher, sophomore Josh Brown says, "I think history class is cool. I find time to snooze a bit."

Studying with great vigor, seniors Mary Ann Mattox and Jesse Graham ponder over the history assignment given to them by their teacher. Graham says, "History is a class that I learn a lot of neat facts in."

Moving her fingers, junior Kelly Barnwell says, "Learning to type is fun. It is my favorite class because my best friend sits behind me."

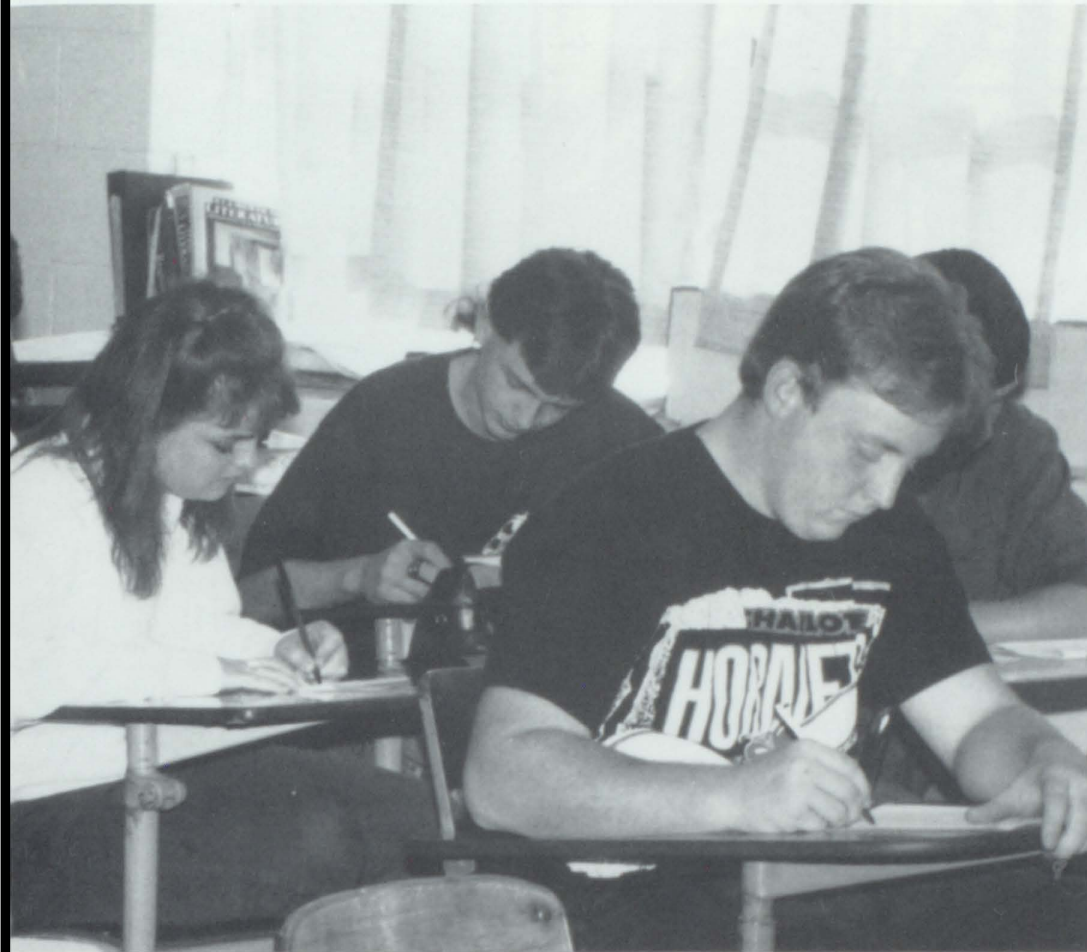

Working studiously with his good friend to finish the difficult science assignment that was due at the end of class, sophomore Tim Causey says, "My required science class is pretty cool."

In the Program

Working on an assignment in applied communications, seniors Jake Bosley, Jesse Matthews, and James Davis fulfill their senior English credit.

To graduate every student must receive credits in electives and required classes. Many elective classes provided students with the opportunity to learn hands on skills that they would not ordinarily learn.

Family and parenting students learned how to successfully raise a child and start a family. Senior Matt Thomason said, "Ms. Nixon is the greatest teacher in the world. She's groovy!" Another elective class students seemed to enjoy was beginning guitar. Senior, Todd Adams said, "Picking and grinning with Mr. Gibson rules!" In beginning guitar, students started off by learning basic chords and then eventually learned to play a complete song from beginning to end.

All students must have earned a credit in freshman, sophomore, junior and senior English classes in order to graduate. They must also have one credit of American history, two credits in mathematics and two credits in science. Senior, Ivan Hawn said, "I'm just glad that I graduate this year so I don't have to worry about new requirements or having to take more classes."

Senior Tonya Pugh says, "I have no opinion on required classes because you must take them to graduate, but I believe we have a good variety of choices for electives. These elective classes are fun and they are different from the same old routine that students go through everyday."

High stepping with Richard Simmon's aerobics, sophomore Carrie Burnett says, "I enjoy my P.E. class."

The theme of the 1995 Plateau, volume 32, is "The Plateau in the Works." The 900 books ordered were printed by Jostens Printing & Publishing Co. in Clarksville, Tennessee. Each book contained 216 pages. The custom designed cover and backbone were craftline embossed, using the base color of black with silkscreen colors of Blue 349 and Yellow Gold 371. A Mission grain with color Gray 513 was also applied. The cover typestyle was in various sizes of 48 Benguiat Bold. The front and back endsheet were custom designed with hand drawn art work in Sterling Silver 420 and Black 395 and senior names were in the design of the number 95.

The type was Style 31 Optima, 33 Platino, 34i Platino Bold, and 47i Benguiat Book. Optional typestyles included Style 17 Garamond, and 45 Times Roman. Captions were set in 9pt., body copy in 11pt., main headlines in 42 pt., sub-headlines in 14 pt., folio tabs in 8 pt., and division page headlines in 42 pt. Special thanks to the CCHS faculty, advertisers, photographers Superior School Services and Art Sanderson, Jostens representatives Harold McGhee, and plant consultant Melissa Dunkel.

Listening attentively to a Superior photographer is junior Carrie Criswell and senior Leslie Smith.

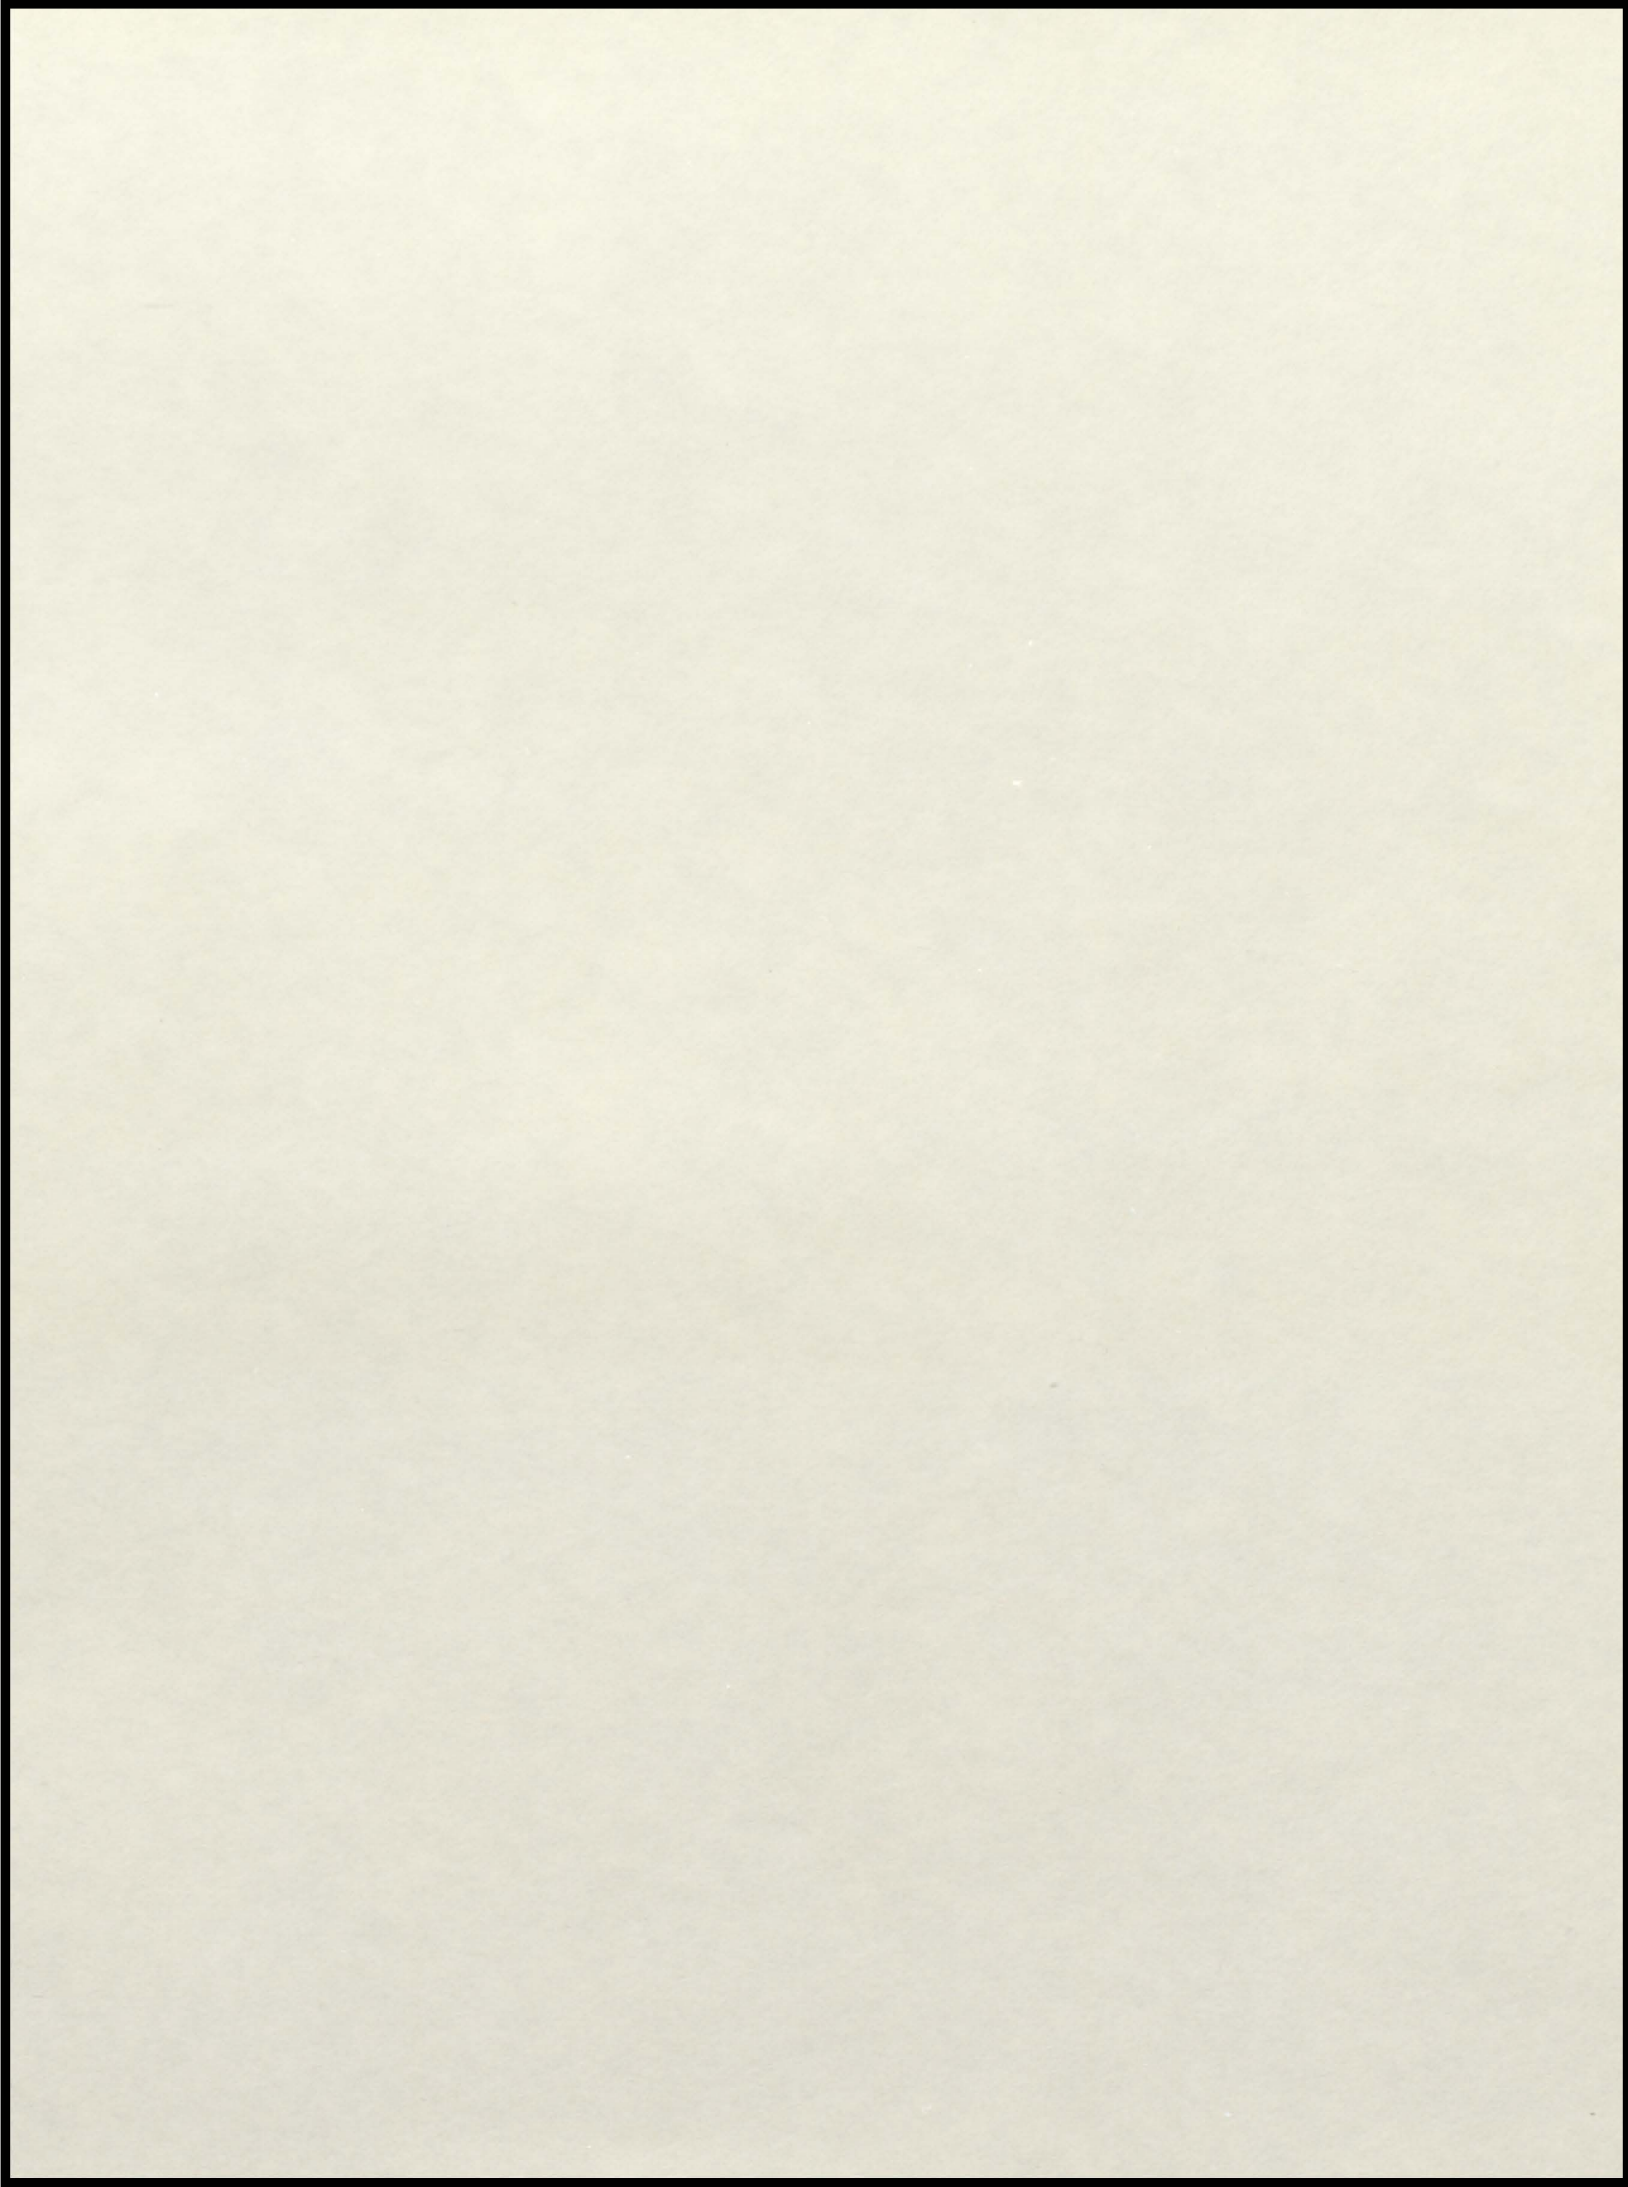

Being forced into 'smiling for the camera' during second period publications, senior editor Jennifer Gilliam says, "The yearbook is a lot of work and dedication. This year I've had plenty of help and it has made my job easier. I appreciate all the hard work that my staff has done. The book is not perfect, so please excuse the mistakes. I have had fun and I feel that all of the work has paid off."

"We begin as four different classes, each cheering for our own year. Each one thinking that they are better than the other. But in the end, we come together as one." — Senior Leslie Smith
