November NEWSLETTER

Hello JDPS Families,

As the days turn crisp and cool, there is a clear feeling of autumn in the air. Our students and teachers are continuing to work hard as we move forward through the second quarter. We recently held a wonderful Red Ribbon Week, celebrating healthy choices for our bodies by committing to stay away from harmful substances. During this time, we also focused on the importance of kindness and treating everyone the way we would like to be treated. Together, our students, teachers, and staff remain dedicated to building a school culture that exemplifies these strong character traits.

We express our sincere appreciation to all the parents who attended Parent/Teacher Conferences, and we hope you will maintain that open line of communication with your student's teacher throughout the year.

With the chilly weather comes an influx of coats and jackets in our lost and found, which is already beginning to grow. Please take a moment to write your student's name inside their outerwear so that when layers are taken off at recess, we can promptly return them to their rightful owners.

As always, we express our deep gratitude to you for your daily efforts in getting students to school on time, helping them complete their homework, and especially reading with them at home. Your help makes a genuine difference in your student's learning progress, and by working together, we can truly make a difference in their education. Thank you!

JDPS Character Trait for November: Gratitude

KINDER: We cannot believe it is already November! This year is truly flying by! With Quarter 1 down, our students are starting to blend their letter sounds to read CVC words! It has been so exciting listening to them read their decodable books and watch their lights turn on in their brains. Reading is such an important part of kindergarten so keep up the great work!

As we continue the school year, we see students learning how to share, play together, and use kind words and actions. These are skills that they will have forever!

At Jack Daley Primary school, we do not only cover academic needs, but social and emotional needs as well. Thank you, parents, for the continued support with helping our students become problem solvers and independent thinkers.
