High school is an experience to remember. We all started out as freshman, avoiding upper classmen and anyone we didn't already know. Trying just to get through the day without being late to class or having that awkward encounter in the hallway with that cute someone could be a daily challenge. Year by year, we made new friends, achieved new goals and realized that high school really wasn't that bad. Students found that they weren't going to get beat up in the hall ways, and no one would take their lunch money, or try to sell them a pool pass. "They say Sophomore and Junior years are slow, but for me it's blown by. Being a sophomore gives you more respect as a person. You're more mature and harder to be picked on by seniors. The classes may be harder, but life is definitely easier." Kristen VanWinkle(10). Our time at CCHS has really been something astonishing; something that will never be experienced again in life.

Jessica Sexton

Student

High school is a wonderful experience that students never forget. This is where they found out who they really were, and that ranged from country singers to city photographers, carpenters and builders. Countless memories have been made. One such memory will be: "Like when you spend your whole summer working on a 1972 Satellite Custom trying to get it to run right for the football homecoming parade, and you end up breaking down at the red light at the top of Stanley Street. Although we did break down, we still had an absolute blast, and we definitely will never forget that." This was said by Stephanie Kolhepp (12) about the Jet Patrol Car. Tyler Miller (10) said, "I love making things with metal and with my hands. Whenever I get a chance to work with machinery, I take it." A student's life outside of school was just as important as a student's life inside school. That was why they got up, got out, and did some amazing things; things that they will never forget.

Brandon Dery(12) enjoying his funnel cake made special for him with extra powdered sugar.

What was your favorite ride?

Every year people from all over Cumberland County, as well as surrounding counties, visit the Cumberland County Fair. Whether you like to ride rides, look at the animals, hang out with your friends, or enjoy the carnival foods, the fair had something for everyone. This year the Cumberland County fair featured school club booths, horse and mule shows, the truck pull, and the always famous carnival rides. Even though the fair wound down and left town, it was good to know that the yearbook staff captured some of the action and recorded it for future references. Ryan Moore riding the mechanical bull at the fair said, "I enjoyed riding the bull at the fair. It was my favorite thing to do. I can't wait 'til next year!"

1. "Getting painted up and tailgating is what I look forward to every football home game!" Austin Brown (12) 2. Britney McDaniel (12) says "I love to hang out with my FCCLA friends. We all just get along so well and have so much fun!" 3. Kaitlyn Davis (11) says "A parking lot may not be the best place to hang out but, with the right people it's the best."

The Cumberland County High School students come out Friday night to support the players. They always get out and are wild and ready to scream and yell and dress up with all the school spirit they can find. "As the powder took over the student section the Jets took over the field." Jenna Morton (12)

The tailgater crew gets together every Friday night to support our football team. Heath Robbins (12) said, "Tailgating is what I looked forward to every Friday night."

"Plateau Lanes is super fun when you have your best friend bowling with you." said Jasmine Pedde (12).

Cole Parton (11) said, "Hanging out with friends and going fast on skates is just enough fun for me every weekend. The skating rink has always been a spot for kids in Crossville to hang out."

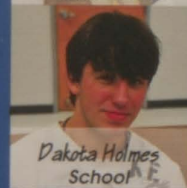

My place to hang out is....

There are a few places in Crossville Cumberland Country High School students could be found. When in high school, everybody wants to hang out with their friends, whether it be at a Friday night football game or at the movies. "When the stands fill up with my friends on a Friday night home game, I feel like I have love and support to get me through the whole game," said Tyler Cantrell (12). Living in a small town like Crossville, students had to make the oddest place the best place to hang out. Although ours is not a big city, CCHS students did know how to have some fun in their free time; and as they all grew up together they became closer. "The time shared has become more valuable than ever. Soon we will have no time for friends or silly kid things," said Ashley Knott (12). From going to Warp tour or staying at home, there are a million things students could do with the right people and the right place.

What is your favorite Dress up day?

Football homecoming is always an exciting time. With Fall comes the crisp, cool mornings and evenings are becoming more common. What's the best part? Football Homecoming! With Crazy Hair Day, Neon Day, and Spirit Day, everyone had the chance to show their Jet pride! This year, Zombie Day and Patriotic Day were added to the list of homecoming dress up days. The festivities began Monday morning and didn't end until late Friday night. After all the festivities ended and the game was over, all that was left were the memories. Everyone had their own special memories and will cherish them for years to come. Mariah Meek said "Thank you to everyone who voted for me for homecoming queen. It was such an honor. let's go Jets!" Take a second to remember your homecoming experience was this year. Just remember.... Once a Jet, always a Jet!"

Who is ready for some Basketball?!

Love and support is what Homecoming was all about. With snow and missed school days, the students of CCHS still rallied around the Jets and Lady Jets basketball teams to show their school spirit. They also came ready for each day of the week, dressed in different outfits, ready for the fun and various activities that were going on as part of the Homecoming Week. There was a great student section that cheered them on in the stands during the pep rally and at the games on Friday night. With a win for the Lady Jets, and the Jets falling just short a win, the crowd was roaring with support throughout the night. Winning the CCHS Basketball Homecoming King and Queen Austin Brown and Victoria Lee, who were also senior basketball representatives. "Coming to school dressed up is fun! It is cool to see what other people come up with. It also gets us ready for Friday night, which is what it's all about." said Michael Knott.

Anne Richard

I didn't expect the nurse on the other end of the telephone line to tell me that I had cancer and needed to see an oncologist right away. I didn't expect to have major surgery 14 days later. And I certainly didn't expect for my oncologist to call and tell me that, instead of one tumor, I had two. "So what's next?" I asked. Chemotherapy and radiation was his response. I must admit that those words terrified me.

And so my journey began. Although it is a difficult journey, it has been made increasingly bearable because of the outpouring of love, prayers, encouragement, and strength from an amazing student body and staff and faculty here at CCHS. Students I have never even taught began stopping by my room just to check on me. My door was covered with well wishes, notes to "Stay strong," and assurances of prayers going up on my behalf. The cheerleaders wore peach ribbons on their shoelaces for "Pink-Out Night" and decided to keep them on the rest of the season to support my battle. The faculty and staff added stars of encouragement to a lovely tinsel tree that made my room festive for Christmas and welcomed me back after my surgery.

Now that I have lost my hair, my students have been incredibly supportive. They love my crazy hats and don't even mind when I get hot and have to take my hat off for a few minutes. My principal and his wonderful assistants have assured me that getting well should be my priority. They didn't just say those words; they prove them to me on a daily basis.

Yes, cancer is a difficult journey that I hope none of you ever have to face. But I can honestly say that if you do have to walk the pathway some day, I pray that you have support from a family just like mine at CCHS!

A Surprise Battle:

I was 53 when I was told that I had breast cancer. I remember going for a routine checkup and knowing something was not right by the concern that was shown by my caregivers. I have always been healthy, no broken bones, no stitches, first and only time in the hospital was when I was having my daughter. There had been no history of breast cancer in my family.

Three years later I am healthy and free of cancer. I attribute this to many things. I had wonderful doctors that took the absolute best care of me. I have a brand new appreciation for the medical field. I am very thankful for my wonderful Doctors and all of the people that got me through the different treatments. I had wonderful friends that were always there to prop me up when things got tough. Chemotherapy is a wonderful, powerful drug and it saved my life but there are some side-effects that are powerful too. When things got rough, I had many that surrounded me and supported me to keep going. I also had my CCHS family that was always there.

I missed many things while going through treatment. Many of these were things that were required because of my job. So many people here took control and never thought about the time that it was taking from their daily lives to cover my duties. I have a wonderful family. My husband and my daughter were there by my side as I went through treatment, always holding my hand and encouraging me to be strong. Finally, my church was a great support to me as I battled this disease. Food, cards, phone calls, encouragement from others that had gone through this also helped. I believe that the Lord never puts more on you than you can handle, so deep inside I knew I could get through this.

Out of this journey, the number one thing that I have realized is that you should never take your health for granted. It is precious and not to be taken lightly. These days I try to eat right, get exercise, and hopefully be a good example to anyone that will have to take the journey.

My Shade of Pink Is.....

October might be breast cancer awareness month, but for the survivors it is an every day battle! The yearbook staff spoke with two amazing ladies that have fought and are currently fighting the battle. This hit close to home for all of us. Three million ladies battle with cancer every day, many being a mother, grandmother, sister, or a friend. Courage, strength, love, hope, faith, and bravery are all the attributes a lady will need when fighting this disease. "I am happy to promote cancer awareness since I am a cancer survivor and many of my friends and family have been touched by this horrible disease. Everyone is needed to take part in this fight," said Mrs. Way. "No matter the type of cancer, we as Jets need to fight until the battle is won!"

Things About Us!

Being in an older school, there are many things about us that people don't know or have forgotten over the years. One thing is how many teachers have worked in this school for over 15 years! These teachers have taught most of us or had our parents when they were in school here. Mr. Patton said, "CCHS staff and students are like a second family to me. I feel privileged to be a part of it for fifteen years." The new teachers that just got here are excited and looking forward to learning things about CCHS over the next fifteen years. Mr. Owen, one of the new math teachers said, "It is important you like who you work for and with. That is one reason I moved to this school." This year, both teachers and students have learned things they didn't know about us.

Your Favorite pet is...

From dogs to a tortise, we had every kind of pet living in the many homes of our students. The options are not limited in the kind of pet students have to love. Things seemed to have gotten a little crazy with the variety around here; from a slithery corn snake to a leash leading dove. Pets helped stack the building blocks of starting a friendship. "These horses have been around me since I was seven. It's like they are my family," said Karysa Mazur (11). They taught us how to show unconditional love, no matter how ugly or old it might have been. They showed us responsibility for another living, breathing thing. Some people's pets are like another family member, just like a brother or a sister. For many people, their pet was their first best friend. One that they could always count on to be there and listen without judgement. Their only response: a slithery hug or a big wet kiss on the side of the cheek!

What's on your mind?

In this day and age, social media has a huge impact on people and the way they live their lives. Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and Snapchat are changing the way we communicate and the way we are perceived, both positively and negatively. Everytime someone posts a photo, or updates their status, they are contributing to their digital footprint and personal brand. We all have personal brands and most of us have already left a digital footprint, whether we like it or not. Proper social media use highlights a person's strengths that may not shine through in an interview or application and gives the world a broader view of who you are. It should be used wisely. Smart Phones and social media expand our universe. We can connect with others or collect information easier and faster than ever. Social media is a big part of high school. Students can find out scores of games that they missed because of work and see pictures of everything that happend during all of the excitement. "Social media is a good thing when used the right way," says Mrs. Randall.

Where do you See Yourself??

The future is unknown and untold, but where students saw themselves in ten years impacted their lives tremendously. Walking into high school, and thinking they had all the time in the world, it was hard to think about where they would want to be, or what they might become in the years ahead. Some may become doctors or lawyers. Some may even become teachers. Senior Grant Parrett said, "I want to become a race car driver because I like to go fast, and I love adrenaline rushes. And, if I become a race car driver, I will be able to do both." The future of CCHS students is waiting to be lived to the fullest. The dreams are waiting to be fulfilled. The knowledge that hard work and dedication would help them reach their goals assured students that they could achieve any dream, and that anything really is possible.

What Do Country Kids Do?

Mudding, fishing, and shooting are a few of the words that come to mind when the words "country kids" are mentioned. But CCHS had a lot of country kids that added a lot more meaning to that term. Many country kids do go hunting, and it puts food on their table. But, they also have taken care of wild animals and put them safely back into their habitats. They loved to get their 4-wheelers and trucks out in the mud, but they also learned how to repair them and helped others work on cars that would never see a dirt road. The greatest thing about being a country kid is they experienced the best of both worlds. It's not often that golf carts and country kids go hand in hand. After rebuilding two carts in class, students got to try them out. Dustin Simons said, "We raced them, and I won. That's what country kids do."

Christy Carter(12) and Shada Adkins(12) doing their English work out by the lockers.

Every student that came through the doors of Cumberland County High School, wanted to do the very best that they could in their studies. Sometimes it worked out, and they did very well. Then other times, it didn't work out as well as they had hoped. But still each student walked away from the experience with more knowledge and insight into the subject. Sometimes students learned as much from their mistakes on tests and lessons as they did from long assignments and class lectures. For teachers and students alike, academics was like a two-lane highway. The teachers did their very best to get their young charges to understand what they were teaching. They spent long nights getting the next day's lessons ready, just as the students spent long nights trying to get ready for their classes. Some classes were a challenge. Matthew Vanlandingham (12) said, "studying for that test over the Epic Beowulf; I didn't even know how to study for it because I hardly knew how to spell the name of the guy monster thing that had to fight the other big monster thing. It was no easy task, but I know the teachers do it because they want us to broaden our minds and learn all that we can while we are here."

Art & Music

I loved singing in the Christmas concert, Jill Hassler(9). I just love to sing, Johnny Miller(10)

In recent years, school curricula has been shifted heavily towards common core subjects such as math, English, reading, and science. Many students, however, still focused their education on the fine arts. These talented students took pride in both their works of art and musical ability.

The famous American poet Henry David Thoreau once said, "This world is but a canvas to our imagination." Such a quote remains true today. Imagination is boundless, and Cumberland County High School has done an amazing job of allowing students to showcase and tap into their own creative side.

Mind Goggling!

There is a great variety of science classes offered at CCHS. These classes range from Agricultural Science to AP Biology 2. For any student looking for a challenge, science was the subject of choice. Science could sometimes be tricky and confusing, but the experiments were always a blast. Whatever students were looking for, there was a science class waiting for them to come balance an equation or two. "Dissecting pigs was by far one of the coolest

AP and Dual

Whether preparing for college, aiming for a certificate in a skilled trade, or looking for excellent instruction, all students understood that AP and dual classes were created to be challenging. While the extra work was often difficult, the reward at the end of the courses was worth everything. That was why students toughed it out and succeeded at the end of the year. AP history, English, and dual math were offered for college credit, and many students took advantage of these to get a head start on their career. At Cumberland County, where students strive for excellence, AP and Dual classes were always recommended by the students' advisers. Bailey Woods(12) said, "I love TP's English class. I always feel like I've learned something in there." There were also TCAT classes offered with free tuition in which students graduated with both a high school diploma and a career certification.

"History had its own way of explaining things. The way historians explain things is by telling a story," said Donald Kagan. The social studies department at CCHS exuded this philosophy every day. Each social studies teacher worked hard to teach their students the events of history and their importance and impact on the world today. These daily looks into our past helped students to look to their futures. They will become the history-makers and will be remembered in books for decades to come. History not only showed us to the past, it has given us the key to our future.

Physical Education

Physical activity is important throughout a student's school career and in life after school. CCHS offered many options to stay physically fit. Our P.E. staff set the example for the students to be healthy and to stay active. Students learned to work hard and be dedicated in order to better themselves, while the teachers pushed them to their limits. Throughout the school year, students did get better, faster, and stronger because there was always an exercise or activity to do. One day the class would play basketball, or volleyball against another gym class. The next day, they might go outside to practice tennis skills. It was always fun finding out what activity they had planned. Austyn Everett (12) said, "I always love playing against other classes, it's a new challenge to play new people." One disappointment for students was the removal of bowling classes on Mondays. This was a fun activity incoming students looked forward to experiencing.

English

English is a very diverse subject. It is where the spoken and written meet and come to life on pages for all to read and appreciate. English deals with social, cultural and regional factors. It was a part of every student's day in every class through their reading, typing, and writing. Teachers of English shouldered the burden of helping students understand the importance of the English language and how they could broaden their world by reading and writing great works of literature. This year, with the emphasis on common core, teachers and students found themselves paying more attention to sentence structure and phrasing ideas. "With all English now on the same hall, we can all work more closely together, and the students are doing some great work." said Mrs. Pickard.

Mathematics

Math is very important for all students in high school. Several courses are required, and other are offered to students who want to go to college or plan to have a career that requires a great deal of mathematical understanding. There is also a fundamental need to know basic math throughout a student's life. Basic math was offered, as well as algebra, honors algebra, geometry, or college/dual classes. The math classes were exciting, and students felt that the teachers enjoyed teaching and loved helping them understand math. "Mrs. Herring is a great teacher. She helps me understand a lot of the difficult work we do. She really explains math well," said Chris Jones(12). "I love for my students to ask questions to get help, because it makes it so much easier for them if they do," said Mr. Moore. Students who excelled in math could join the Math Club where they could tackle even greater challenges than those in the regular classroom.

Put on your work boots!

F-wing: the time of the day to take a break from all of the book work and get in on the action. This is where students learned why they had to know all of the proper spelling and mathematical equations. Classes like Ag mechanics, Carpentry, Engineering and Landscaping got students ready for jobs in the world of agriculture. Graphic design and yearbook were courses that allowed students to enter the fields of computer and technology. The students took great pride in their work that they accomplished while in any of their F-wing classes. The teachers were very involved while teaching hands-on life lessons. "Well, I can't tell you even one reason why I don't like to teach on F-Wing," said automotive teacher Will Margrave. The teachers on F-wing loved their jobs and looked forward to connecting with their students. Most students took more than one F-wing class, and the rooms were often packed with thirty or more students all eager to have a fun class to brighten up their day. For many students, the teachers on F-wing become one of their lifelong friends. "I have bonded with every one of my F-wing teachers. They are people that ten or fifteen years from now I will still remember, and if I happen to bump into one of them in Walmart or Tractor Supply, I will be sure to stop and talk to them. They have become some of my role models." said Dalton Lowe(12).

With Mrs. York's marketing class, Mrs. Gilpin's health science class, Mrs. Kington's culinary class, Mrs. Shoemaker, Mrs. Polson, or Mrs. Harris, there is a little something for everyone. This year, anatomy, nutrition, and a CNA class were new classes being offered. Kassidy Sommers shared her experience while taking Mrs. Giplin's EMS class with Noah Baker: "I loved the EMS class. It really gave me an idea of what I want to do when I'm older." Whether students were wrapping bandages on a friend's arms, enjoying a meal courtesy of FCCLA, or learning to fly an airplane, there was a little of everything on V-wing. Students put on their aprons and grabbed their stethoscope and got involved! Because of the increased interest, V-Wing has become too small for all the CTE classes. Mr. Rickman, Mr. Wright, Mrs. Randall, and Mr. Pingry had to teach Criminal Justice, Personal Finance, and Aviation in other parts of the building.

Coach Davis tells the JV Basketball their next play.

Every sporting event was an important thing to happen, especially in our small town. We all had the great hopes that we would win every single game, and even though we didn't, we still stood behind our teams and cheered them on until the very end. For some it was their last high school game and for others, it was just the beginning. The coaches in every sport worked their hardest to make the players the best that they could be. There were early morning practices, and late night team talks after a hard fought game. Some people may think that the football season was a season of many missed opportunities like Coach Marty Davis has said. The quarterback for three years, Jordan Buckner said it was a hard fought season, "Even though we didn't do what we wanted to do, we overcame personal and team boundaries. We became a better team because we worked together." Whether it was a chilly winter basketball game or a cool crisp spring afternoon baseball tournament, our student body stood behind our players and cheered them on. Win or lose, hurt or playing the whole game; we supported our players and coaches.

Jets in the making JV Football

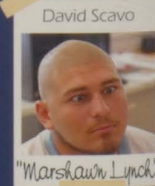

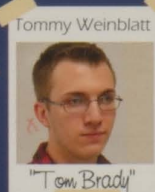

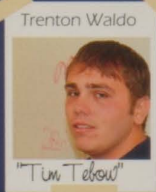

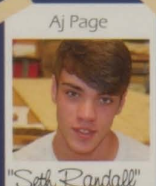

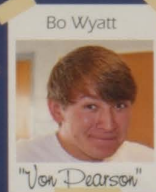

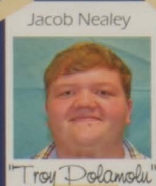

JV football is the foundation upon which the Jets build their football program. They were the ones who went hard in practice against the varsity to make them better for Friday nights. The JV is where young players got the feeling of what its like to wear blue and gold. They represented real Jet Pride by making the varsity better without the glory of a lot of playing time on the field. The JV experience is something special. Caleb Lester (9) said it best, "Its rough at first, but as you progress it gets better. It is a feeling better than anything I've yet to experience."

Football in Cumberland County is a big excitement and it started right here with the Jets. The Jets were a hard working group that strive to be the best. The dream of being the big shot varsity players began with playing on the JV team. They lived for the "Friday Night Lights". All In! Volleyball

This year the Lady Jets Volleyball team have never been better! Practicing from the summer until the season began. They have been working very hard to improve. This year they placed 3rd in the Jackson County Tournament, beat Cookeville in a set which has never been done before, beat SMHS for the first time, and beat SMHS a second time in the District Tournament. They finished strong by using good communication and by being loud! "There was much more progress this year for us. I had so much fun playing with the girls! I think that this was the best year and my favorite year!" said Emalee Breeding.(11)

Let the Good Times Roll

The bowling team achieved its highest record this year, and everyone was very excited about the future of the team. Mr. Rickman said, "They worked hard and played hard. Both teams finished third in the tournament." Mr. Hall also praised the team. "It's awesome," he said. "It's the best our team has ever done." Many students congratulated the team on their victory and sending Ashley Streeter (12) and Savanna Teague (12) to the championships! The team, coach, and supporters saw this year as a great turning point toward high scores. With seasoned bowlers Kevin Dohs and Meghan Dixon, who have been bowling six and seven years respectively, the team will definitely let the good times roll!

Angel Melder

Ryley Phillips (9) showed why he is considered the team's future all star.

Bethany Hale (10) was having loads of fun as she concentrated on getting as many pins as possible.

Kevin Dohs (12) kept the ball rolling to lead the team in the most strikes.

Keeping his form straight and his eyes on the target, Zach Sisco (12) directed his ball to make a dead on hit!

Billy Sherrill (12) who has been bowling for three years enjoyed using his own 12 pound ball.

Cheerleading

We are one

Cheerleading is a sport of skill, determination, and a lot of team-work. We depended on each other to do things right. Every day we literally put our lives into our teammates' hands and trusted each other so we didn't get hurt. Cheerleaders worked hard in practice on new skills and perfected them to perform in front of the crowd at games. "In practice, all we hear is 'One more time', and 'Do it again' so we can get our routines perfect," said Felicia Mantooth(12). "Although cheerleading isn't an appreciated sport, we put our all into what we do because it's our sport," said Haley Plenert(11).

When these boys played soccer, they put their heart and soul into playing the game. They fought hard through the whole season just to get a goal. "I love soccer. When I'm over stressed, I play soccer to make everything better," said Christian Lopez(11). "Every time I step on the field nothing else matters but playing the best game in the world with your family," said Austin Akers(10). The CCHS Boys Soccer team rose to the top with a determination to out hustle, out work, out think, and out play every one on the field.

Track is a sport for the determined. Team members were willing to push themselves to improve to be the best they could be. The CCHS track team practiced every day after school to become better for the meets. They spend their many Saturdays competing against other teams from around the region. Everyone encouraged each other to give them confidence in their races. "We are like one big family," said Christy Carter(12). "Bus rides home are always the most fun." said Daniel Richards(11).

There's no place like home base

Hardwork, determination, and love of the game are a few of many qualities it takes to play the game. All of our Lady Jets softball players have exhibited these qualities this year. With the winter ice storm that created conditions so bad that they did not even get to set foot on the field until the day of their first game, they had to add patience to these qualities. Waiting restlessly for spring to come, they had to find different ways to practice and get into condition for competition. Still, they ended the year with an amazing season. "I love being a part of the team because we all treat each other like family. Softball is like a second nature to me!" said Amber Johnson (12).

One More Win

Last year, the Jets Baseball team was one win away from advancing to the Regional tournament. This year, they worked extra hard on and off the field to achieve one more win in the district semi-final. With this extra work in the weight room and during practice, they were determined to earn that one last win. "We were one win away from going to Regionals last year. That has given us motivation to work extra hard in the off-season," said Ethan Cunningham.

Tennis Masters Of The Court

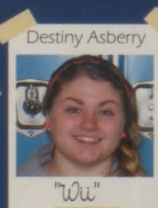

Tennis is a sport full of energy, intensity and reflexes. Being a tennis player at CCHS required both physical and mental abilities, including knowing when, where, and how to hit the ball. Ace the serve, and win the match was every players goal. Our tennis team was full of postive winning attitudes. Playing doubles created a trust between players that encouraged them to work harder in singles play. Camie Threet said, "Hard work and dedication always lead to victory where loves means nothing."

Classes

Practicing with Boring Heritage band mate, Houston Vincent, Seth Hardman(11) made the best of the weekend.

During the four years spent in high school, students meet so many people that make a huge impact on their lives. Each one goes through so much with the people they meet. They form friendships and face problems and hardships together. These become life long friendships where memories were made. Some of these friendships began as a random meeting while passing in the hallway freshman year and will last a lifetime. Some are forged because; after having all four classes together during senior year, they found themselves hanging out everyday after school. With best friends and staff members, students were surrounded with positive energy. Friends will look back in this book and find a picture long forgotten about or find one that they didn't even know about. They will read captions and comments made by others and remember fun times with these friends. The classes section has shown CCHS students as they were at one moment in time. It will be the perfect place for friends to look and remember 2,015 things they loved about high school.

Class of 2015 Valedictorian Shivani Patel

How does it feel to be valedictorian?

I feel very happy and excited to have achieved this title. It has been a lifelong dream of mine to reach this honor. I would like to say thank you to my erudite teachers, with them I was able to expatiate my ken with a firm schedule and a positive mind set.

What is a typical day for you?

I would wake up every morning and head off to school, taking notes all day long then going back home to study and do more homework. Most of all, I used patience and focus with everything I did.

What is something typical that you did in order to recieve such a high honor?

Just staying focused at the task at hand. Always looking for a way to push myself mentally. The main reason for my success is lots of studying and lots of hard work.

Class of 2015 Salutatorian Amber Johnson

How does it feel to be Salutatorian?

When I was awarded the title of salutatorian, I was completely shocked. I never expected to receive this honor, and I felt as if my hard work had finally paid off. I feel extreme gratitude towards all of my teachers who have assisted me through high school.

What is a typical day for you?

Listening and taking thorough notes in all of my classes, go to softball, do homework and study for exams, and try to get eight hours of sleep. Even though a typical day for me may be considered tiring, I would not rather spend my days in any other way.

What is something typical that you did in order to receive such a high honor?

In order to receive this honor, I consistently studied and did homework even when I would rather be doing something else. Putting my schoolwork at the top of my priorities daily has led me to where I am today. Additionally, I check and recheck my work in order to eliminate careless mistakes. Although all of these things are important, the most essential skill of all has been not getting down on myself and persevering through the challenging moments at school.

When I took the role of Editor-in-Chief, I knew I wanted the yearbook to be about the people of CCHS. I wanted to learn as many things as I could about my friends, as well as those I only met in the halls. So, I made it my mission to use my position on the yearbook to find out all I could about you. That's how I developed this year's theme, "2015 Things About Us." This book is all about us - the student, the parent, the teacher, the staff, and administrators. Being Editor-in-Chief this year has been both a blessing and a challenge. I have learned so much from this experience. I have enjoyed working with such lovely people and the best yearbook advisor ever! While looking through this book, I hope you will learn something about me and my great staff. Even more, I hope you learn 2015 things about us.

Jessica Sexton (12), Stephanie Kolhepp (12) and Amanda Ford (12) are exuberant about the ending of school.

Saying goodbye is not always a bad thing. High school is only a fraction of the life that you are going to live. In four short years, you will find teachers and coaches that will push you farther than you thought you could go, discover things you are passionate about and love, and realize people come and go in your life. Things happen for either a lesson or a blessing. Many of the things you will experience now will only be preparing you for the future. 2014-2015 has been an incredible year for CCHS. Even though this year is coming to an end, it will be with you for the rest of your life no matter where you happen to go. There is a quote that says, "What feels like the end is often the beginning." If you continue to look at life this way, you will be able to go farther than you could have ever imagined. Do not think about leaving high school as an ending, but look at it as a new beginning to something even greater. New beginnings that will only add to the 2015 "things about us."

Jessica Sexton & Olivia Nye

2015 things about us

2014-2015 has been amazing! Cumberland County High School has been able to celebrate many wonderful things during this school year. We have shown great academic progress, we had teams perform at very high levels, and we had students receive individual recognition.

We had a dramatic increase in our state testing scores. As a school we were a "5" overall, which is the highest score possible. The entire CCHS family is building on that success so that we can replicate those results this year. Our new schedule has allowed students the opportunity to receive help in their classes whenever they need it and also provided students the opportunity for enrichment.

It has been a very successful year athletically. Our volleyball team advanced through the district tournament further than they ever have. Several members of our cross country and golf teams advanced to the state meet. We have six wrestlers competing in the state tournament. The Lady Jet basketball team has had great success this year, including a top ten ranking in the state.

Individually, we have had a student elected to a state office. Several members of the Jet Pride Marching Band were selected to participate in prestigious events. One of our students has even published a book!

It is obvious that we have had lots to celebrate this year. Those celebrations will continue for years to come as the CCHS family is made up of many talented people. I cannot wait to see what the future holds so that we can add to the list of "Things About Us".

Colophon 2015

The 2015 volume of the Plateau was published by the yearbook publication and digital art and design class of Cumberland County High School. The Plateau was printed by Josten's Publishings in Clarksville, Tennessee. The 192 page full-color book, including candid photos, was submitted digitally for a press run of 400. The book sold initially for $80.00 and then rose to $90.00 when the internet sales stopped. Ads were sold by the staff and ranged from $80.00 to $300.00 for senior ads and $80.00 to $400.00 for business ads. All pages were produced using Adobe Photoshop CS4 and Josten's Yearbook Avenue. The Plateau sales representative was Ben Wade and the account executive was Anissa Coleman. Senior, underclassmen, faculty and group photos were taken by Lifetouch Studios at no charge.

We would like to thank Mr. Hall, and the entire CCHS faculty and staff for the support they gave us. We say thank you to Ed Grief, Walt Riches, Bekki Atkinson, parents, and many others for their photos and expertise.

Book specifications are as follows:

Cover: Lirho, Embossed, and Silk screened. It was designed at the Josten's Summer Workshop.

Endsheets: Designed and created by yearbook staff using Photoshop CS4, and Adobe Illustrator.

Inside Pages: 9x12 100# Enamel with Smyth-sewn binding.

Fonts: AYT Ennis Book and AYT Rachel.

Yearbook Advisor: Art Sanderson. Editor-in-Chief: Jessica Sexton, Section Editors: Dakota Durbin, Chris Jones, Stephanie Kolhepp, Carly Selby, Kevin Ueberlacker. Yearbook Staff: Brookelin Ashburn, Tiffany Barnett, Kaitlin Bresaw, Gentry Brown, Katelyn Davis, Kaitlyn Higdon, Brittany Kilgore, Mary Lee, Skylor Long, Angel Melder, Taonna Miller, Kaya Smith, Kayla Stamper, Matthew Vanlandingham, and Haleigh Yates.

Once again, we used the Replay It App for your Smartphone, enabling anyone to see any picture in the yearbook, plus additional photos and videos. Prom, Graduation and additional Spring sports pictures and videos can also be viewed on the Web as well as the Replay It app.
