OCTOBER IS RESPECT LIFE MONTH

EVERY LIFE IS WORTH LIVING

During Pope Francis' visit to Washington, one of the most striking images was how the Holy Father's love radiated whether he was greeting a head of state or a homeless person. His gestures, his words, his actions in every encounter proclaimed the truth that every life is worth living. As a gift from God, every human life from conception to death is sacred. It is this fundamental truth the Pope so convincingly communicates. This month, the Church in the United States celebrates Respect Life Month, with the theme of "Every Life is Worth Living." In a special way, people are invited to reflect on the ways they can give witness to the dignity of every human life.

Are we Required to Tithe?

By Fr. William Saunders

As cited in the Catechism (No. 2043), the Precepts of the Church maintain that each person has the duty to support the material needs of the Church. Of course, a person fulfills this obligation according to his abilities. The Code of Canon Law also states, "The Christian faithful are obliged to assist with the needs of the Church so that the Church has what is necessary for divine worship for apostolic works and works of charity and for the decent sustenance of ministers" (No. 222). However, the Church does not mandate a "tithe" as such of any percentage of income or other resource.

The word tithe comes from the Anglo-Saxon word "teotha" meaning "a tenth." The first mention of a tithe in the Bible occurs in Genesis when Melchizedek, a king and a "priest of God Most High," offered a sacrifice of bread and wine in thanksgiving for Abraham's victory over several enemy kings. As an offering to God, Abraham gave Melchizedek "a tenth of everything" (Genesis 14.) However, this tithe was not seen as initiating some new practice, but rather as fulfilling an established custom. Apparently, one tenth of one's bounty was customarily given to the priests for their service to God.

The Torah laws prescribe the offering of tithes a person offered to God, or "tithed," to be one-tenth of the harvest of grain of the fields or the produce of fruit of the trees, one-tenth of new pressed wine and oil, and every tenth firstborn animal of herd or flock (Leviticus 23 30-33, Deuteronomy 12:17; 14:22-29). Such tithing recognized that God had graciously bestowed these blessings upon man, and man in return offered a thanksgiving sacrifice of one-tenth of the "first fruits."

The Book of Numbers also records how God prescribed that the Levites, the priestly class of the Jewish people were entrusted with these tithes: "To the Levites I hereby assign all tithes in Israel as their heritage in recompense for the service they perform in the meeting tent" (Number 18:21-24). Therefore, these tithes were contributions offered to the Lord and distributed to the Levites for their support. Interestingly, the practice of tithing, whether as a sacrifice in honor of God or as a tax in payment to a ruler, was common among the ancient people of Greece and Rome, Lydia, Arabia, Babylon, and Persia. Some archaeologists suggest that the portion of one-tenth constituted the tithe because the number ten was the basis for the numerical system and thereby signified totality. Since God governed totality, any blessing received from it was a gift of God and as an appropriate act of thanksgiving, one-tenth ought to be returned to God.

In the early history of our Church, the priests depended upon the generous support of congregations for their sustenance. This custom was based on the New Testament instruction: Jesus taught the apostles to depend upon charity when He sent them on missions ("Provide yourselves with neither gold nor silver nor copper in your belts; no traveling bag, no change of shirt, no sandals, no walking staff. The workman, after all, is worth his keep (Mt. 10 10). St. Paul also instructed the early Church community to provide for the needs of their priests" "Do you not realize that those who work in the temple are supported by the temple and those who minister at the altar share the offerings of the altar? Likewise, the Lord Himself ordered that those who preach the Gospel should live by the Gospel" (I Corinthians 9:13). Such support, of course, was spontaneous and within a person's means.

However, as the Church grew, the Church enacted laws to insure such support, based on the precepts of the Old Testament. The Church viewed tithes in accord with divine law since they were instituted by God Himself. The practice of tithing fluctuated throughout Europe. After the Protestant Reformation and the French Revolution, and the growing secularization of civil government, mandatory tithing fell into disuse.

In the United States, churches have relied on the voluntary contributions of the faithful. Prior to Independence, a different situation existed. During the early colonial period in those areas governed by France and Spain, a mandatory "tithing" was sometimes imposed which supported the Catholic Church. In the same way, in the English colonies tax revenue was used to support the Church of England. Although we may not have a rule of tithing, we do have the duty to support the needs of the Church, whether at the international, diocesan, or parish level. Each of us should evaluate what we "give back to God" through our support of the Church and charitable organization. For example, we should ask, "Do I give to God each week at least what I spend on entertainment, such as movies? Do I give to God at least one hour's worth of my 40-hour paycheck?" St. Paul in his Second Letter to the Corinthians (8:1-7) praised the generosity of the faithful in Macedonia: "In the midst of severe trial their overflowing joy and deep poverty have produced an abundant generosity, according to their means. Indeed, I can testify, even beyond their means. Voluntarily, they insistently begged us for the favor of sharing in this service to members of the Church."

Each of us should be more of a "tither" than a "tipper" in returning a portion of our bounty back to God.
