What we are studying this week.

Social Science: Scholastic News

Science: We have a few more research reports to give. These are going well. The students have worked really hard researching, making models, and preparing oral reports. I have been impressed at the confidence they have when presenting their projects.

Language Arts –We are learning about comparative words using er and est. We also are using context clues to determine word meaning of the same words with different meanings. We are studying words ending in er or or. Possessives-showing ownership. The hands of the clock, the den of the tigers, the eyes of the crow, the hat of the man, the purse of the lady, Contractions

Reading – Water and Wind Changes the Earth-Tornadoes, erosion,

Math-Adding within 1000 using three-digit numbers with and without regrouping. We move into Subtraction within 1000 using three-digit numbers with and without regrouping.
