Seniors Shelly Donaldson, Emily Willett, Brianna Pitts, Erica Donaldson, and Cheyenne Goodspeed act out a scene from Winne the Poo.h.
Brianna Pitts said, "This was the best part of my seignor homecoming and possibly all my homecomings!"

Singing their scales, the members of the Central High School chorus prepare for class. The chorall program planned a busy year for the members, from concerts to workshops with professionals.

Pitching for the lions, Emily Williamson throws a memorable pitch. This was a very intense game for the girls, but they left with a "W".
Performing The Importance of Being Ernest, seniors Daniel Moye and Sophie Conerly, and sophomore Christian Turner, act as professionals. In region competition, Daniel won the region award for Best Actor.

This year's book is like nothing you have experienced before. Our theme, Press, is accompanied by three symbols you might see on your average, ordinary remote, or in your iTunes, Amazon, or Pandora library. Play, Pause, and Record have become the symbols of the yearbook. Pages in the "Play" section represent active moments that occurred during the year. Football games, drama plays, and swim meets can be found in this section of the year's book. The "Pause" section represents spots in the year where you might want to catch a breath, take a break, or take in the moment. Elective classes and academic classes alike can be found here. The "Record" section represents areas in the year that were worth remembering. Homecoming, Sadie Hawkins, Trunk or Treat, and Miss Leonine can be found in this section of the book. Assistant editor Emily Willett said of the 2016 edition of the Leonine, "Our book is definitely different this year, and it was much more complicated than in past years. However, the hard work payed off, and I've never been more satisfied with a book before, and I cannot wait to see how everyone feels about it!" Please "Press" your way through the 2016 edition of the Leonine.

Dancing to "Louie Louie," the cheerleaders make a kickline. This dance was always a crowd favorite, and the cheerleaders never disappointed the fans!

Working hard in Mrs. Smith's English class, sophomores Calli Harris and Liz Mulraney complete their project. Calli said, "Mrs. Smith's class is one I look forward to every day!"

What is your favorite part of a Friday night football game?

"My favorite part of a football game is the fourth quarter because it is the most intense and unexpected part" - Lexie Ray, junior

"My favorite thing is the feeling I get when I'm on the field leading my team to victory" - Jamarcus Strange, sophomore

"My favorite part of the game is at the end of our performance. The crowd response is great!" - Hannah Royals, freshman

PLAY Center Stage

Seniors Will Henderson and Sophie Conerly act out their roles of Jack Worthing and Gwendolynn Fairfax in The Importance of Being Ernest. This play was the One Act competition selection for the year.

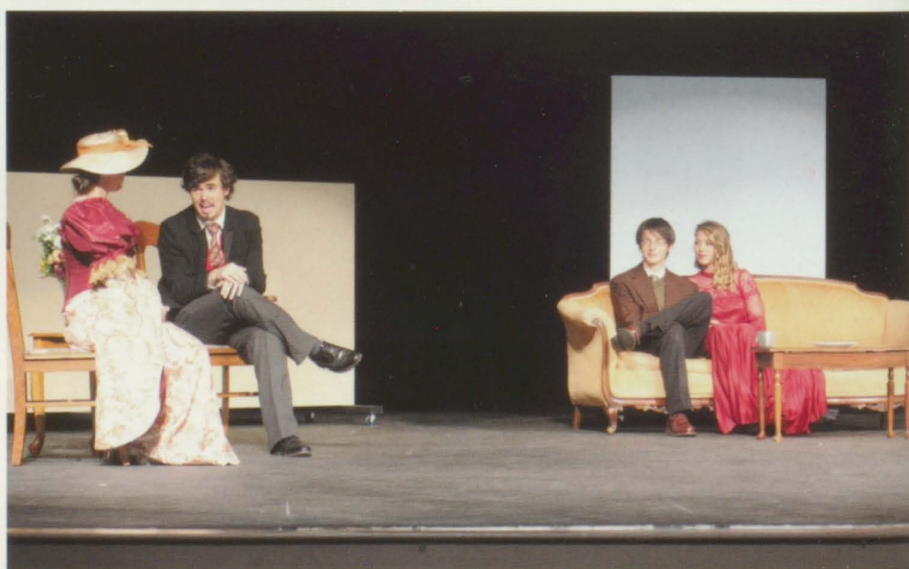

Mr. Biddle, director of the Drama club, helps and answers a question about staging for drama students Ariana Smith.

Madison Nelms and Savannah McWhorter go through their lines in a rehearsal before acting them out in front of an audience.

When on stage, these actors show how much they can get into character. In the words of Daniel Moyer, "You get to do and say absurd things without being judged."

Confident, captivating, committed, and talented are all terms that were used to describe the Central High school drama club. This Drama department was an outlet for any student to show how talented they were in the form of school sponsored promotional videos and plays. Their first play, The Importance of Being Ernest, allowed the students to demonstrate how talented they were. This talent however, could not have been magnified without the guidance of Mr. Biddle and the cooperation of These students. They met every day during 5th period on the 2nd floor, turning the atrium into a makeshift stage, constantly working towards the goal of bettering their acting. However, not everything they did during 5th period was work; the students in drama first had to socialize and bond with one another in the form of improvisational circles and other fun activities before they could feel comfortable enough to perform with one another. in doing this only good memories could follow. Senior Megan Bailey stated, "Drama is so much fun because I am able to connect with a lot of people and in doing so, I built many memories." Megan wasn't the only student who felt this way. every drama student loved it.

For these actors stage lighting can be very blinding as Will Henderson, Madison Nelms, and Wesley Walker show below.

Playing the role of a butler, Brant Entrekin delicately sets up this table knowing that at that moment the attention was on him.

What goes through your mind when you're acting on stage?

"Nothing goes through my mind when I'm on stage. I become a robot that recites lines memorized." - Wesley Walker

"When I'm on stage the main thing going through my mind is 'wow I'm so blessed.' I'm not a Drama veteran so this first year has given me so many opportunities." - Savannah McWhorter

PLAY the right note

Chorus members participate in a district-wide workshop and performance, where several schools came together and learned from one and other how to improve their singing and enunciation.

When not directing the group, Ms. Sewell teaches from her desk. 10th grader Addie Battles said, "We love to gather around and have life lessons with Ms. Sewell."

Preparing for small group performances is hard work and takes a lot of practice, as Alexis Clark, Macailah Truett, and Cedric Howard-Lewis demonstrate.

Throughout the year chorus members learn many songs, one of which is a song named "Silvie." With its choreography and sound, it was a favorite among many.

Press...

For students who were in the chorus, singing was something they loved to do, and this class gave them an outlet to express themselves in a calm atmosphere among like minded people. In fact, being around others who have the same interests as they do was a favorite part of chorus members. Senior Shelly Donaldson said, "My favorite part about being in chorus is the experience of learning new songs and singing with a support group of people." To many musicians and singers, their band or performing group is their family; chorus was by no means any different. Each day and every school day was spent learning and improving songs such as "Sylvie," "Carol of the Bells," "No Need to Knock," and "Omnia Sol" among various other songs that they performed as a medley. The chorus didn't just learn these songs to sing to an audience, they also competed in a few vocal competitions such as the Kiwanis Showcase. Sophomore Elijah Green stated, "The Kiwanis competition is like a mini LGPE (large group performance evaluations), except you can be awarded prizes if you placed. It's a really cool experience that allows you to showcase your talents and receive feedback. I loved it; it was a lot of fun."

Will Godbee, Joshawa Arnell, Caleb Williams, and Elijah Green sing as a barbershop quartet. They won 4th place at the Kiwanis competition.

Madi Thomason, Sandy Wilson, and Kenny Lopez design a poster to advertise the Chorus's car wash fund raiser.

Do you sing any outside of the chorus classroom?

"I am in a southern gospel group called God's Grace as a drummer and singer."
- Sophomore Joshawa Arnell

"I sing outside of school at Mars Hill Baptist church. Singing is a way for me to put my emotions into music and that is a very beautiful experience."
- Junior Madi Thomason

PLAY to the music

The Indoor Percussion team is always the most excited for their competitions, the time when all their hard work pays off and where they can have fun together. Competitions and fun times on the bus forged long lasting friendships.

Addy Gilland, a member of the varsity guard, throws her rifle in the air. She is both excited and sad to be a senior this year.

The Indoor Percussion pushes hard during their first competition. This picture features the cymbal players, both seniors and freshmen.

JV Guard gets a pep talk from Mr. Dailey before they perform. Several freshman and sophomores are on the JV team. They enjoy hanging out with each other during competitions and practices.

The competition for Winter Guard was bigger than it had been in recent years. For the first time ever, Central had two Winter Guard teams - a JV and Varsity. The two teams worked hard on and off the clock. Their teamwork showed when both teams shined bright during their competitive season. The JV team performed their show, "The Hero Within, while the Varsity team preformed, "We are Infinite." The teams pushed to become better, both in practices, during their other extra curricular activities and school. When asked about her favorite part of guard, freshman JV member Amber Gore said, "We are all a big family. I have a lot of friends that I know will be there for me. It's basically my second family." Central's Indoor Drumline performed their routine, "Pictures" for their 2016 program. Some members played instruments such as the xylophone and marimba in the pit; others marched with snare and bass drums along others. The group played songs, "Pictures of You" by The Cure and "Paparazzi" by Lady Gaga. Jimmy Knott, a sophomore member of the Indoor Drumline, said, "I like the Indoor Drumline competitions because we have a lot of fun hanging out together."

The Varsity Guard takes a selfie before their competition. This is a time to relax before they have to work hard during their performance.

Finishing up a wonderful performance, the Varsity Winter Guard bows down to symbolize the emotions they feel towards their production.

What do you usually eat after a competition?

"Cheese fries and a pickle,"
-India Mullins, freshman

"Everything. Like, I will literally eat anything after a competition," -Alicyn Horsley, freshman

"Anything and everything possible! We're usually hungry after throwing out our sweet beats on the floor." -Lindsay Koziel, junior

PLAY loud and Proud

The Concert Band stands up for its amazing performance at the Pre-LGPE concert. Abby Condron, sophomore clarinet player, said, "Our Pre-LGPE performance was wonderful. We did great and I couldn't wait for LGPE."

Mr. Ruby conducts in the 2016 Pre-LGPE performance. Many students agree that he really gets into the music, which also motivates them to play better.

Karen Hannah plays hard during the song "Finale" by Tchaikovsky. She has had to work hard to establish balance with other players.

The baritone section gets in the mood for the concert. Sophomore bari Austin Gray said, "I like playing the baritone because I am able to sound pretty in concert band but also loud when marching season comes around."

The Symphonic and Concert Bands set a goal of and impeccable performance season. For their Large Group Performance Evaluations, concert band performed "Ruckus" by Randall Standridge, "Gallant Marines" by Karl L. King, and "The Exultant Heart" by Jess Langston Turner. The symphonic band performed the "Guadalcanal

March" by Richard Rodgers and Robert Russell Bennett, "Finale" from Peter Tchaikovsky's Symphony Number 4, and "Fanfare and Allegro" by Clifton Williams. Members of both bands prepared by practicing during class, after school, and at home. The symphonic band pushed through fatigue during their Saturday camp to balancing both band and school work was a challenge. Sometimes, students stayed after school for tutoring on Wednesdays. In spite of the workload, students enjoyed the challenge of difficult pieces. Kaitlyn Brown, a freshman in the symphonic band, said, "I like music that allows for a lot of variety such as dynamic contrast, articulation, the difference between high and low notes, and the layering of different instruments. These characteristics add to the overall shape of music."

Freshman Chandler Dexter plays the bassoon. He said, "I like being the only bassoon player because it motivates me to work harder." That is his favorite part of playing bassoon.

Looking at their next piece, Anissa Ly and Hannah Royals make sure to study the measure that they have been missing in practice.

What is your favorite part of band?

"I like being challenged, especially musically. It makes me feel like I'm going to become a better musician, and a better person, because of it." —Olivia Hall, freshman

"I love playing music with all of my friends." —Dakota Dyer, junior

"I have such great friendships with the people in band and we always have fun together." —Kirsten Morris, freshman

PLAY Clockwork!

The band sings out the familiar tune to ESPN after Tyler Anderson kicks a field goal. This was a favorite tune for the band as it was fun and exiting. Freshman Kaityn Brown said, "ESPN is my favorite stands tune because it is a chance to play as loud as I can!".

During their show, the trombones jam out to "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy." This number was a crowd favorite. Sophomore Will Marlow stated, "This part always makes the crowd go crazy!"

Singing a Georgian Chant, the band tries to stay in tune. Chorus teacher Ms. Sydney Sewell even taught the band to sing in Latin.

At the beginning of movement three, the tubas set the beat. While the brass is turned back field, the woodwinds are facing the pressbox. Freshman, Elizabeth Poncel, said, "This part is difficult but really fun."

The Pride was not just a marching band; they were a family. Through the scorching practices at band camp and the freezing weeks for the playoffs, the Pride still managed to put on a great show and encouraged the football team. For this band, however, it was not about the show and it wasn't about the football games. Though important, this was a minor factor in the family. The Pride's main focus was dedication, commitment, and perseverance. This committed group received nothing short of superior and excellent ratings at all of their competitions. Their season was one to remember. Senior Brittany Ledbetter said, "It is truly sad to end my career in the Marching Pride even though I ended my season on a high note, pun intended." Because of their marvelous marching season last year, The Pride enjoyed their Thanksgiving break in Hawaii. This trip was a once in a lifetime experience for the Pride. The cultural aspects of this trip taught the Pride that like a band, different sections of the world can come together as one and make a difference. This adventure also taught The Pride the true meaning of patriotism after their visit and performance at the Pearl Harbor National Monument in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Performing their best, the mellophones and trumpets attempt a difficult part of the show. Sophomore Tamsie Berkeley said, "This part is really intense!"

Guard member Robyn Stewart spins her flag and moves to her next spot in Movement Three. Robyn said, "The music in Movement Three is fun and I love it!"

What has your experience in the Marching Pride taught you?

"My four years in the pride have taught me three things: always give 100%, be a good example no matter who is around, and family doesn't stop off the field" - Alana Lyle, Senior

"Though my experience in the Pride is limited, I have already grasped the true family concept we have" - Taylor Mabry, Freshman

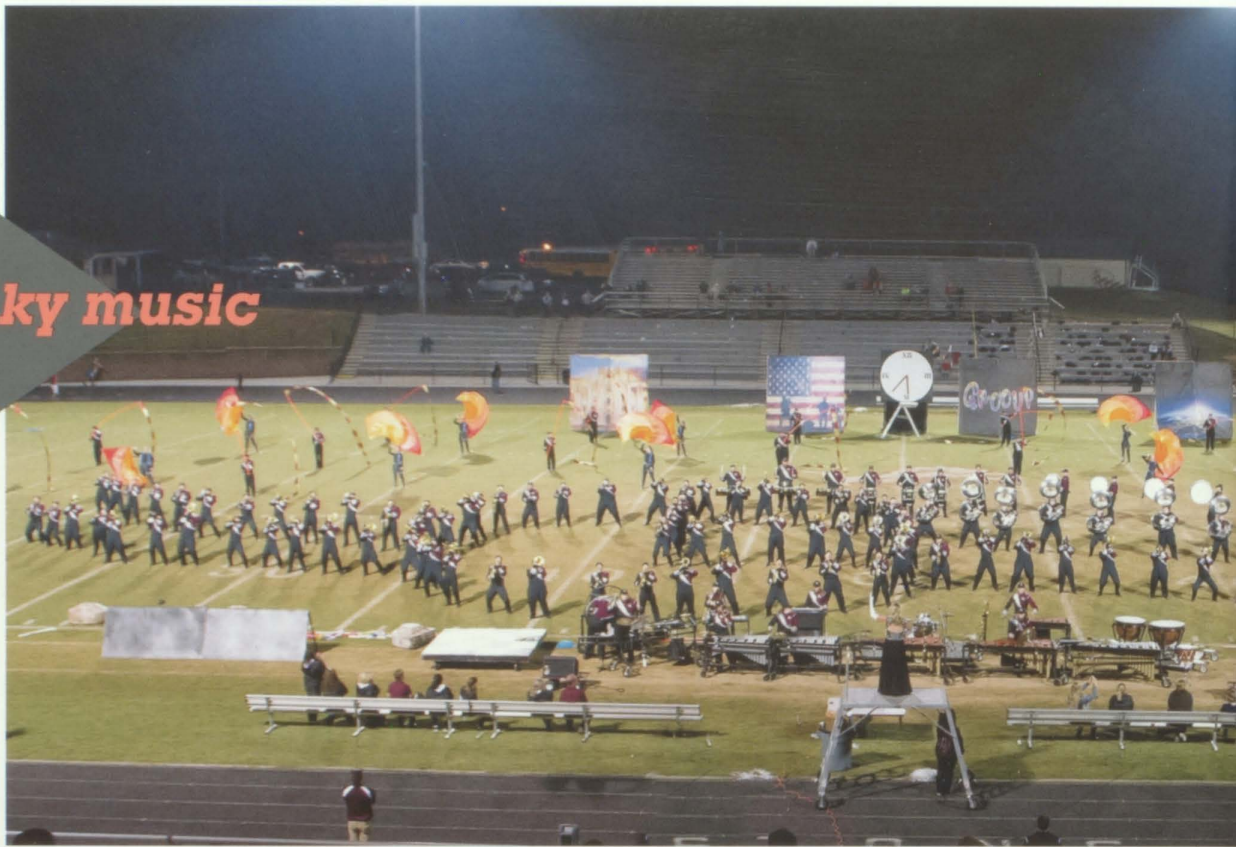

"Every time I step on that field at halftime or a competition, I know that show will change someone's life, especially mine" - Maryn Biddle, Freshman

PLAY that funky music

The band marches during halftime. Freshman Kirsten Morris, when asked about her favorite aspect of this year's show, said, "I really loved the music we played from all different time periods. It had a good feel and made the crowd get involved. Oh, and the Hammertime dance was great, too."

Seniors and band officers perform "Put On" on the track. This pregame ritual was a fan favorite, and underclassmen looked forward to the day when they could perform.

The band marches in the 2015 Homecoming Parade. The Trumpets, Mellophones, Trombones, Baritones, and Tubas are featured in the front of the parade.

Sophomore April Harrison does her flag work during the halftime show in Movement Three. The guard practices hard throughout the season to perfect their work.

The Central-Carroll High School Marching Pride Band traveled to Hawaii for the 74th Wakikiki Holiday Parade. The Pride was the Honorary Band in 2015. The band played "The Navy Hymn" and different Christmas Music throughout the whole parade. Along with the great weather, the beautiful sites, and the educational historic information, the Pride preformed with great spirit and class. The students were excited when their trip was announced at the end of the marching season in 2014. Their excitement was even further elevated when the time of the trip approached. Keeping themselves occupied, the Pride performed in three competitions, traveling to West Forsyth, Valdosta, and to Rome during the marching band season. To prep for Hawaii, band director Mr. Neil Ruby arranged for students to meet a survivor from the 1941 Pearl Harbor attack. Students listened in rapt attention to a hero tell his story. As the trip neared, students could barely contain their excitement. When asked about the most anticipated part of the trip, junior Alex Grimsley stated, "I'm just looking forward to the entire trip! I'm excited about going somewhere warm over Thanksgiving." Hawaii proved to be a memorable trip for all Pride members.

The Marching Band plays during first, second, and fourth quarters. The band played different stands tunes to cheer on the football team.

Percussion members in the pit play the marimba in the 2015 marching show, "Clock:Work" while the rest of the band marches the show.

What is your favorite part of being in the band?

"Having the close relationships and knowing there is always someone there to support me through everything in I do. Being in the band is like being in a giant family." - Jessica Huckeba, junior

"Band is my home away from home. I always have someone who has my back. Band is the place where I can be myself without judgment." - Hannah Puckett, freshman

"The feeling I get when we are done performing and the crowd is screaming and cheering is just true happiness." - Abby Condron, sophomore

PLAY after the bell...

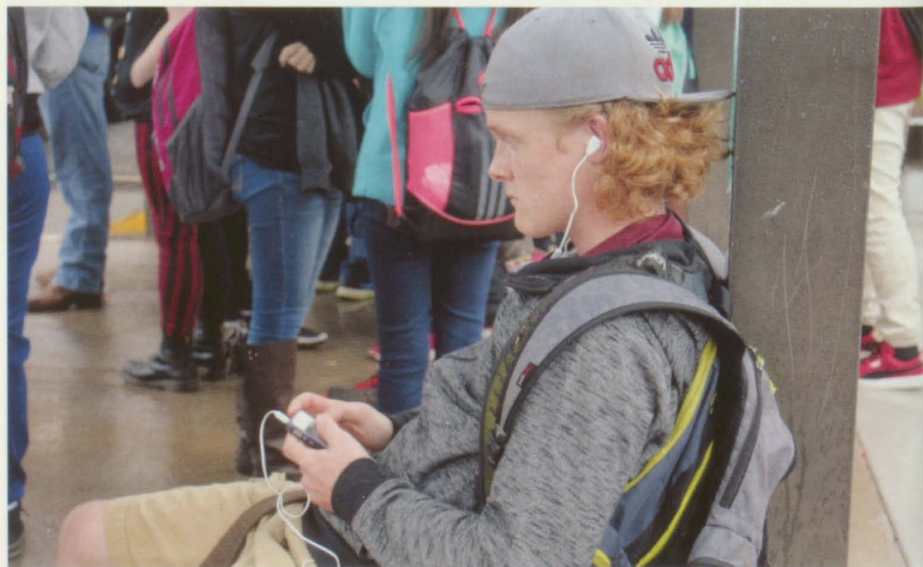

Focusing on their scales, Katie Thompson and Riley Mitchell warm up after school. They started practice early in order to prepare for their next show. Sophomore Katie Thompson said, "Sometimes I'm lazy and don't want to go to practice... Today is not one of those days."

Caught by surprise, Senior Miranda Woods busies herself with her daily job of cleaning empty trays at Chick-fil-A. She stated, "It may not look like much, but I'm happy to have such an awesome job!"

Focusing intently on her book, The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society, freshman Emma Yarborough spends her afternoon at Chick-fil-A. Emma said, "I love catching up on my reading!"

Occupying himself with his phone, Junior Chris Sims eagerly awaits his bus after school. The rain didn't even phase him!

For most students, the end of the school day did not mark the end of their daily activities. After-school life of many CHS students consisted of work, extracurriculars, tutoring, and Chick-Fil-A" In addition to going to work, students also spent long hours after the bell participating in extracurricular activities such as band, volleyball, academic team, chorus, football, and many more! Students also spent time after school at tutoring, receiving extra help from teachers like Mr. Murphy, Dr. Beers, and Ms. Gordon. Students spent a number of hours after school working hard, both academically and athletically, honing in on new skills, techniques, and knowledge. In the midst of all the taking place after 3:30, students had one place in common where they definitely "ate more chicken!" Chick-Fil-A, Carrollton's busiest restaurant, was chock full of CHS students, eating and greeting nearly every afternoon. For many students, after school hours were even more hectic than the school day! Freshman Zion Robinson said, "I love having the best restaurant in town only a minute away from school!" CHS students spent their afternoons working hard and hanging out.

Holding her folder over her head, sophomore Kendall Eidson journeys to Chick-fil-A in the rain. "Through rain or shine I guess..." she says.

Confidently flying high on the shoulders of their teammates, the competition cheerleaders practice long after the bell.

Meeting, Greeting, Studying, and Eating...

"I'm glad I have the opportunity to meet with Dr. Beers when I'm confused or need extra help... AP Environmental Science is hard!" -Sophomore Amelia Farmer

"Even though it's a challenging and rough two hours, it is all worth it on those Friday nights and Saturday mornings." -Junior Kylie Hamilton

To me, Ihop isn't just a job... People might think of it as just a breakfast place, but to me, it's home! Most of us are teenagers so we all get along really well." -Senior Alma Piedra

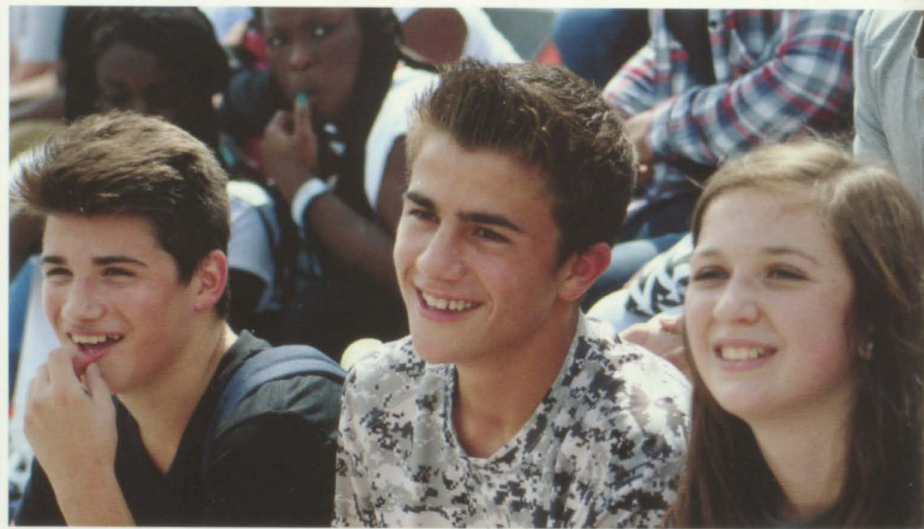

PLAY for the spirit stick

As the fantastic band plays the classic song Louie Louie, the senior football players and all of the cheerleaders do the famous dance that corresponds. At first, the guys didn't know the moves, but by the end they had it down pat.

Freshman Daphne West tries to get her classmates pumped up for the next football game. As her first year here, she happily participated on the junior varsity football cheer squad.

Freshman friends Liam Holbrook, Andrew Allums, and Katlyn Bolden happily enjoy the pep rally that the band and cheerleaders put on.

Playing their hearts out, the amazing and iconic band plays everyone's favorite songs to get their classmates ready for the upcoming homecoming game.

Holding the complicated pose, the amazing varsity competition cheerleaders show the school their intricate routine.

Everyone looked forward to pep rallies: getting out of class, getting pumped for the game and showing school spirit. From the stands, the students cheered on the Lions while the band played their repertoire from "ESPN" to "Mortal Kombot." All of these aspects established together made the perfect atmosphere that got every student (and faculty member) enthusiastic and passionate for the school. In the pep rallies, participants celebrated everyone's talents and skills. Additionally, the school acknowledged grade levels as a whole, especially the ones with the loudest voices. Even though these things might not really show how spirited and peppy everyone truly was, it was an amazing gesture to bring everyone together and celebrate lion pride and student accomplishments, from teams making state playoffs to students setting records. Chris Lewis, a very spirited senior, exclaimed, "Some people believe that pep rallies are to get ready for a game, and in most cases, this is true. But it's about showing pride for our school. At Central, that's exactly what we do! It's not just the jocks, preps, scholars, musicians, and even the friendships or relationships. It's a family. We're a family."

Sophomore Ethan Hembree is pumped and ready to go! After playing with the band, Ethan's prepared to cheer on his class to be the loudest.

What was your favorite memory from Pep Rallies?

"My absolute favorite Pep Rally was last year when Fox 5 came and gave us the Team of the Year award." -Molly Thompson, junior

"I love just being able to see all the students come together as a big family and show off their school spirit!" -Katie Blanton, senior

"Playing stand tunes on my sousaphone and cheering the cheers with pride in the band." -Tyra Babbs, sophomore

PLAY up the fans

The epitome of school spirit, senior Nicolas Dye makes sure his team knows who its biggest fan is! Sporting his "throwback" baseball jersey for the student section theme that night, he cheers on his mighty lions to go as far in the future as they have in the past.

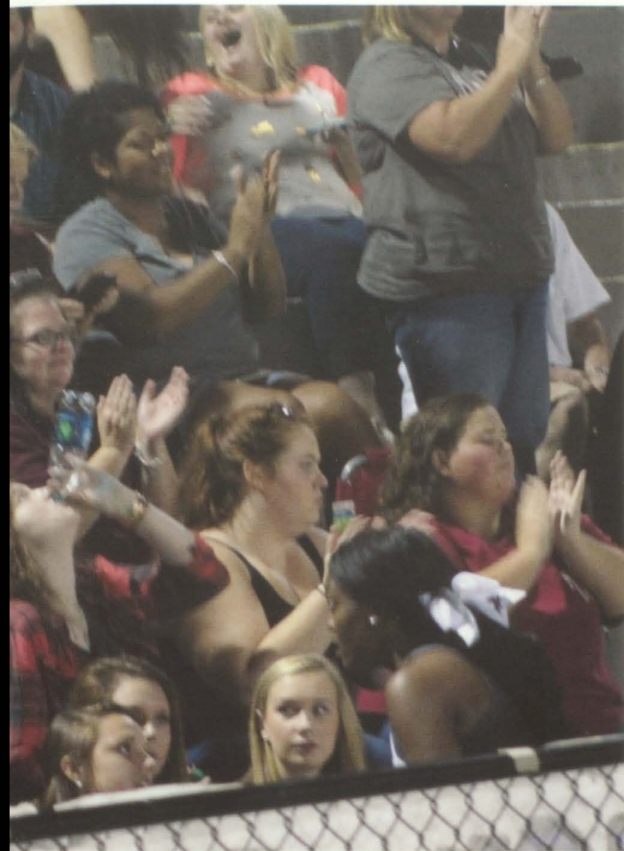

Senior Conner Caldwell prepares to yell when a moment in the region game gets super intense! With this game definitely being a nail biter, this reaction was common and appropriate.

With every lion showing American spirit for this game, the students never slacked on showing their love for the mighty lions.

Lions in the student section never fail to have something going on. There were always different conversations and exciting reasons to cheer on our mighty lions.

Press...

Along with the support of the band, the student section brought a whole new meaning to school spirit on a Friday night at Central High School. They never failed to be as loud and proud as any other fan for the number one team in their hearts! Nicolas Dye said, "Being in the student section was the most fun I have had in all of my high school career, especially that game. It was the highlight of all my high school years," That was a pretty accurate feeling for most of the students that attend a Friday night football game! The crowd constantly yelled and pushed their boys to go to the next level just like a good student section. Hunter Eckert said, "Hearing people continuously cheering for not only me but the whole team to do our best is a really good feeling, knowing they care!" When the students cheered on our team, there was no doubt they were being pushed to not let us down. While the students made memories never to forget, the team did the same! Students brought an entirely new meaning of spirit the stands, bonding with each other as they supported their fellow lions on the field. The power of lion pride was perfectly displayed when these committed young fans came together with undeniable school spirit on Friday nights.

Being heavily involved in watching the game, these mighty lions make their presence known to support their team on every Friday night.

On senior night, students support their senior football players by having blowups of their faces to help cheer them on!

What makes the student section special?

"You get to watch the game and hang out with some of your best friends all at once!"
- Brianna Woodard

"Just being in the atmosphere of a Friday night is a lot of fun."
- Madison Spruell

"It's fun getting to yell at the other team with all of your friends."
- Simon Shoemake

PLAY for bragging rights

With unmatched speed and agility, running-back Eliza Luke carries the ball as she escapes two freshmen defenders. Describing the game's intensity, she explained, "We get after it on the court and don't stop until we get that win. Nothing compares to powder puff at Central."

Spotting a receiver down the court, senior Cassie Griffin drops back in the pocket to begin the play. Contributing to the team's win, Cassie functioned as both quarterback and wide receiver to bring home a championship victory.

Sophomore quarterback Jonni Cook scans the court for an open receiver. As the play developed, her team gained yardage as a pass was completed downfield.

Running on a quarterback sneak, senior Sydney Stone advances the ball to give the team a better chance of hitting the end zone for a touchdown.

Cowart Court was home to the thrill of countless games and competitions through the course of the year, but few compared to the emotion and spirit of the October 22 Powder Puff playoffs. As each grade prepared for relentless match ups, they became one in mind and apparel. Facing an experienced senior class, the ninth grade team fought to the finish, proving to be fierce with undeniable athletic ability. But unable to beat a triumphant senior class, they fell with their heads held high. As the junior class proved their skill and passion, they arose victorious as well, defeating a talented sophomore class in a half court battle. And then there were two. A united and dominant senior class craved victory more than ever, but the juniors were not willing to go down without a fight. The upperclassmen went head to head in a full court contest to fight for the championship title. Bragging rights were now on the line. The seniors made a bold statement early in the game, pushing in for a goal line touchdown to make the score 7-0. Focus then turned to defense as each side fought to cause turnovers and shut-outs. As time winded down, the juniors gave one last shot for the end zone, but to no avail, the seniors emerged victorious - winning coveted bragging rights for the 2016 school year.

In a half court match up with the sophomore class, junior Grace Heath sprints for the end zone as she avoids a two hand touch tackle from Morgan Collins.

Junior Emily Williams and senior Lindsey Pierce battle on the line of scrimmage to prove their strength as the two classes compete in the championship game.

The stories of powder puff past: What makes the game so special?

"Beating the mess out of Kayla Sales and making her mad enough to scream has been the highlight of my powder puff career." - Savannah McWhorter, senior

"Powder puff is so special because its so fun being on the court with your best friends and just having a good time. My favorite memory is me and Savannah going at it and Cassie yelling at Coach Cowart." - Kayla Sales, junior

"As a new student last year, the powder puff game was a great way for me to meet new people! One thing I love about Central is the lion pride we possess!" - Morgan Collins, sophomore

PLAY for the moment

The lions run through the banner and the smoke to take the field. As they tore the run-through sign, the band played the fight song as the crowd welcomed the mighty Lions to the field.

Byron Brown sprints around the corner attempting to break loose and get a first down for the lions. Byron helped lead the lions to a region runner-up title his senior season.

Senior quarterback Jaleel Terry catches the snap from Austin Roddy and looks for holes in the line to run through.

Cornerback Xavier Fields intercepts a Hardaway pass and makes a move around the reciever to get into open space. He ran the ball back over 30 yards to give the Lions good field position.

Coming off an undefeated regular season and a region champions title, the football team entered the 2015 campaign with high expectations. After losing over 20 seniors who each played a large role in the season's success to graduation last year, the lions had to replace many key players on all sides of the ball. However, this season when the lions took the field, Lion fans could not tell a difference. The team worked hard all spring and summer lifting weights and attending early morning workouts before school. The results sure did pay off as they finished the regular season 9-1 (4-1 in Region) with exciting wins over Landmark and Pepperell while claiming the region runner-up title. Referring to the successful season, senior running back Damarious "Smooove"

Owensby stated: "This season was my most enjoyable one because it was my last chance to play under the Friday night lights. I worked hard all year long and was pleased with the results. Senior noseguard Max Whitlock stated, "I looked forward to this season since the recreational football days, dreaming to play on Friday nights as a senior. I was pleased with how all of our hard work payed off with the success of our season."

Damarious Owensby sprints down the sideline in a game against BEST academy. Damarious was a big part of the run game this season.

Linebackers Hunter Eckert and Rick Dyer, alongside defensive end Lamar Daniel, listen to the snap count and prepare to jump the snap.

What is your favorite high school football memory??

"Most definitely when I scored back to back touchdowns on a long pass then I blocked punt and I returned it for a Touchdown."
- Lamar Daniel

"My junior year when I returned the blocked field goal for a touchdown to beat Callaway and win the region championship." - Dajour Riddle

"My senior season against Pepperell when I forced the punt returner to fumble and then picked it up and ran it in for a touchdown." - Trace Musick

PLAY and bring the fight

Freshman Ray Cheeks crosses the goal line for a touchdown against Callaway. Ray said, "It took a lot of pressure off of me because now I know that I can do it again."

Ray has played football since he was 4 years old.

Senior Tyler Terry searches for a hole in the defense against BEST Academy.

Football had a victorious season. They became runner up region champions. The lions worked hard by conditioning every day during the summer and 6:30 a.m. practices on Thursday mornings. The lion football team is not just some team; they became close like family. Many of the players spent much of their time together off the field after school. Enjoying Mama

June's fried chicken for pre-game meals, getting rowdy for pep rallies, and becoming emotional on senior night are what made the lions stronger and closer as a better family. Senior Trace Musick said, "For me there are some memories and experiences I've shared with my teammates and games that I will never forget, but one of my favorite parts on being on the football team is seeing the growth that we all had, then when you look back on your four years of high school, the growth and change around you is mind blowing. For the majority of the seniors it has a big impact on shaping who we are. I think that one of football's purposes is to shape young players into men." The cold and windy nights in October and November did not keep players, band members, cheerleaders and fans from the Friday night lights; they are what Central lives for in the fall.

Senior Damarious Owensby runs with the ball for a touchdown against Best Academy. The lions had a great game and won.

The JV Lions' offense awaits the signal to step into action and accompany the receiver down the field.

Has the team been hampered by the weather?

What will you remember most?

"Region championship last year. It was such a great feeling and a great experience. We played Callaway. It was a tough game but it was worth the fight, even on the bus ride back."
-Chris Holiday, senior

"After the game and after a win everyone is pumped and in a good mood and we all go out and have fun."
-Donovan McEwen, freshman

"Highlight Film would always get us pumped up before the game because it would show highlights after the last game, especially if you see yourself doing good."
-Malik Brown, junior

PLAY Lion strong

Infielder Kayla Sales prepares to catch a ball thrown by catcher Maddie Dodson. They attempted to pick off the runner stealing second base. It was Kayla's first year playing infield, but she transitioned well and made it look easy!

Senior Cassie Griffin runs to the fence and catches a hard hit ball. She was a leader on the team by working hard at practice, being dedicated to the game, and motivating her fellow teammates. Cassie played every game with the same intensity no matter the level of competition. She was an important aspect to the 2015 Central softball team.

Junior Logan North swings for a ball that is straight down the middle. Logan said, "Batting is my favorite part of the game and, to me, it is the most important."

Junior Emily Williams winds up for a pitch. It was her first year as the starting pitcher and she did an outstanding job. Emily worked very hard in the off-season and during the season to improve her game.

The Lady Lions left nothing on the field during the 2015 softball season. With a final record of 26 wins and 11 loses, this outstanding group of young ladies finished an impressive fourth place in the AAA state playoffs. It was the team's fourth consecutive year of making it to the Elite Eight in Columbus. The loss of six seniors from the previous year, did not deter the Lady Lions from having a successful season. Many underclassmen stepped up to the plate and filled important roles. Even though the team was young, they had outstanding leadership from the seniors which made the team stronger as a whole. From the beginning of the season, the players practiced, lifted weights, and conditioned, and they practiced and played games throughout the fall. Senior Cassie Griffin said, "I believe that my senior season was the best yet! We overcame adversity and proved a lot of people wrong, including ourselves. We had to work hard this year to get to where we got, and the hard work paid off for sure." The 2015 Central softball team no doubt was full of dedicated athletes. They played through injury, illness, and adversity and still managed to have an exceptional season!

Senior Mattie Hutchenson fields a bunt at first base. It was her first year starting at that position, but she worked hard and played great!

Junior Maddie Dodson sets up and gives Emily Williams the signs. Maddie worked very well with Emily which made them a strong duo.

What was your favorite memory from the 2015 softball season?

"My favorite memory was when we would always sing on the way back from away games and we would have rap battles with Coach McCarty." -Abbey Cook, Sophomore

"My favorite memory was when we went to Columbus for the Elite Eight. It was pretty cool being able to go to the state tournament as a freshman!" -Faith Bennett, Freshman

"My favorite memory was talking to Logan in the outfield (half triangle), and teasing Cassie on how to make an easy play look like a million dollar moment!" -Eliza Luke, Senior

At the end of the season it was bittersweet because we are getting to know how to play together and get used to each other but at the same time it was ending." Varsity had eight seniors, who loved this sport more than anything. They had their ups and downs, but through it all they came out a strong and closer team than ever. Senior Alma Piedra said, "The season made me realize that teamwork is everything. We worked so hard, from the six AM practices to the late nights after school. No, the season didn't turn out how we wanted, but just like life you don't get everything you want. I wouldn't trade what I learn this season for anything." The seniors knew it was their last year. They focused and pushed each other harder and harder each and every practice and game. Though they may not have met their goal of going to state, through their practice and play, they reached another goal: teamwork and lion pride.

Blocking the swing, Hanna Dryden defends the court. She said, "The feeling after getting a good block is extremely thrilling, because it gives me the biggest smile and tons of chills bump especially after hearing the fans cheer!"

Ready to start the play, sophomore Carolina Butler steps to serve. Carolina was a big help in the back row this year. Carolina said, "Even with the pressure of the audience, I just focus on what is in front of me. It's just me and the ball."

What's your volleyball style?

"My favorite practice wear was by far my Nike pink spandex and our white practice shirt. It was so comfortable and easy to practice in." - Sophomore Abbie McWhorter

"Each bow on my bag tells a unique and special story of its own. Some are from different tournaments, and some are from different seasons." - Freshman Madison Hall

"I wear the orange lace because it came as a good-luck charm to me. After several black shoe laces shredding, my orange one always stayed with me." - Senior Hanna Dryden

Avery Savage, a junior, leads the pack of front runners at a regional meet. Central was well represented at this meet and throughout the season by strong competitors like Avery.

Crossing the finish line, sophomore J.T. Wilkins completes a tough course. As an athlete competing for the final time in his high school career, Jacob pushed himself to be a leader to the underclassmen.

Freshman Roman Vandiver pushes over an incline nearing the finish line. Because it was the last region meet, he wanted to finish with a strong performance.

With a smile on her face, freshman Summer Ligon glides down a hill. Ahead of her competitors, Summer felt confident in her strides.

The athletes involved in the demanding yet rewarding sport of cross country worked hard at practice and on race days. During the season, runners dedicated themselves to training throughout the school year in order to better their endurance and speed. It took a lot of time and effort for these athletes to go out on the course at every meet and compete their hardest. Although cross country was an exhausting sport for these athletes, they were able to persevere to the finish of every competition during the season. Along with many hours of practice after school with the team, runners also spent time individually training for meets. "Whenever I have free time, I run two miles around where I live, and no matter how hard I want to, I never stop," stated junior Kaitlynn Bradshaw. The work that these athletes put in to the sport was not in vain; win or lose, runners experienced a feeling of pride after crossing the finish line at each race. Junior Anna Farmer said, "When I complete a race, I feel accomplished, so I reward myself by eating whatever I want." Having all dedicated their Saturdays and Saturdays to the sport, Central's cross country team was persevered and worked hard throughout the season.

With his teammate close behind him, junior Jermaine Brewer paces his run. Through hard work at practice, he represented the team well.

Senior Kaitlynn Bradshaw and junior Anna Farmer talk strategy before a race. They were preparing for the region championship meet to begin.

What's your favorite aspect of running cross country?

"My favorite part of running cross country is knowing that the real purpose of the sport is not to win; it's to test the limits of the human heart" - Nick Potts, freshman

"The best thing about competing in cross country is realizing that each step takes me closer to my goal." - Sydney Powell, junior

The Lady Lion cheerleaders led the crowd to cheer on the boys on the field for many years. Every Friday night, these ladies stood on the track cheering on their boys till the final buzzer. Not only did they cheer on the football team, but they also led the crowd by being loud and interactive with the game. They put in countless hours each week perfecting their cheers, stunts, and routines. But besides practicing, they made each and every run-through that the players tore through to make their game entrance. Cheer coach Kaci Eady coordinated with band director Neil Ruby to choreograph moves to band tunes; the most well-known dance and song they did was "Louie Louie". This song connected to all aspects when it came to Friday night. When the band first started to play, the cheerleaders lined up and got the crowd going. Once they got in line and the dance was underway, the fans, from the student section all the way to the hill, all cheered, which pumped up the whole team on side line. The cheerleaders were a major plus to every football game, both home and away. The girls loved their time on the track. JV cheerleader Carolyn Lawson stated, "I love being at the games! It's fun to cheer on the team."

Seniors Emily Heath, Mariah Alvarado, and Becky Nelson, flyers for varsity, have great trust in their bases because they stunt during every game.

The Lady Lions really enjoy one another's company throughout the course of the game on Friday night.

Lexie Ray leads the crowd in cheering on the team. Lexie enjoyed leading the student section.

What's your favorite cheer and why?

"My favorite cheer is "This is Lion Stomping Ground", because this is our ground and there is nothing better than being a lion!" - Kimberly Johnson, junior

"I love our new cheer that we learned at the West Georgia camp, "Lion Would". It is a good cheer with unique motions and gets the crowd energized." - Kennedy Sims, senior

"My favorite cheer is "Do It Do It Do It" because I like the whooo at the end!" - Karis Askin, freshman

The competition routine all consists of a dance, team tumbling, team tumbling, and stunts. This year the Lady Lion competition team performed their dance to a song "Its Tricky" mixed with some custom music.

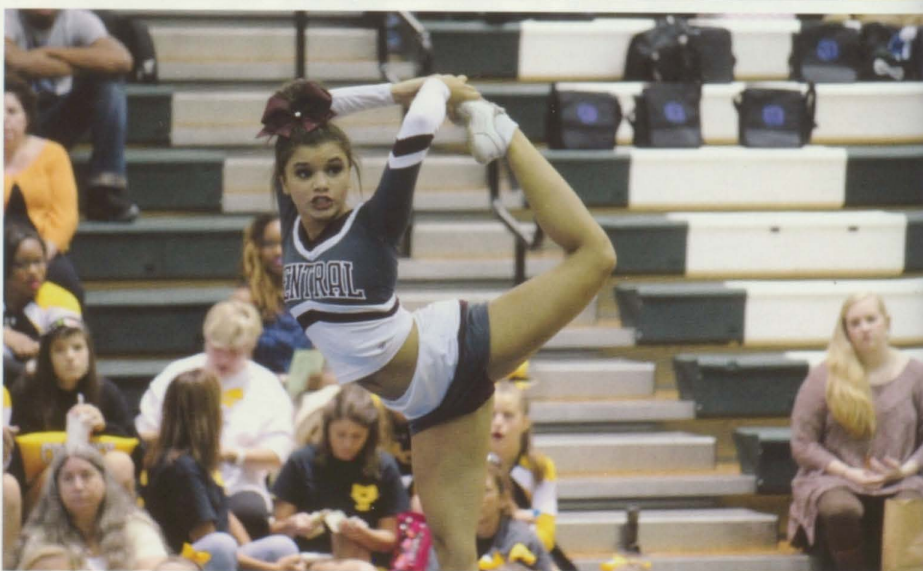

Senior Alyssa Paul throws her tuck in the routine this year, this year the tuck was part of the team tumbling.

After competing at the region competition and receiving second place the seniors all get one more picture together as part of the central team.

Junior competition cheerleader Hannah Rosser has been a flyer for the varsity squad for three years now. In this picture she performs the bow and arrow stunt.

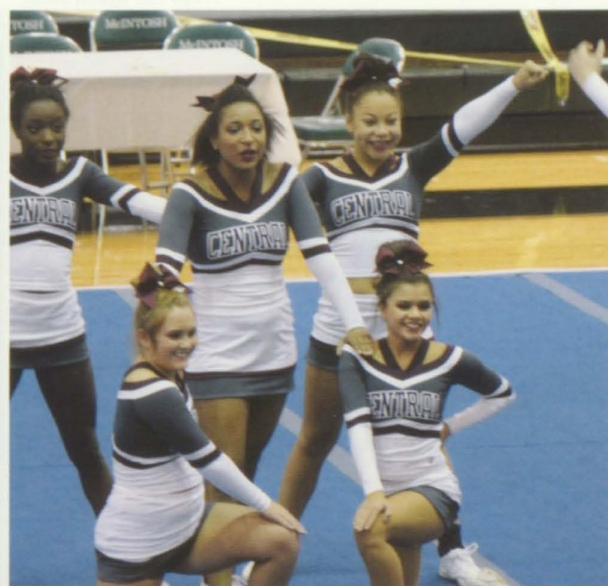

After losing multiple seniors in the 2014-2015 season the lion competition cheer team rebuilt and put in all kinds of hard work to get and achieve their goals. The cheer team put countless hours into tumbling practice and the routine to make sure that when they performed it was flawless. However, the competition cheer team worried not only about only about the the well being of their team, but also about the little kids too. During the summer the ladies hosted the Little Lion Cheer Camp, where they taught the younger lions the cheers and how to do some simple tumbling so one day they they too can be a Lion cheerleader. Sophomore Claire Dufour said, "I love that week out of the summer because my little cousin gets to come and it is a bonding experience for me and her and the team as whole." This past season they competed in six regular season competitions, one region competition, and to end the season, the state competition. The ladies competed in the semi finals and placed second, so they got to move to the finals where they competed and received fourth in state. The squad pulled another fourth place in state due to dedication and hard work.

Senior Emily Heath is one of the varsity flyers and has been for all four years of her high school career. She does a spin in this year's routine.

After performing the flawless routine at the McIntosh Classic, the Lady Lions freeze for the crowd as the music stops.

What was your favorite aspect of the state competition?

"The fact that it was my last time competing and we hit a flawless routine." -Senior Emily Heath

The boys' basketball team executed and accomplished their goals this season. With hard work, dedication, and commitment, the late nights in the gym led by Coach Smiley paid off. Their work effort and passion for the game showed in their performance. As soon as the stands were full, the cheerleaders began yelling, "Jump ball! Get it! Get it!," the whistle was blown, and Emmanuel Bullock was up in the air for the tip off. A "can't miss" type of game had begun. The boys had a chemistry on the court, and off the court they were more than teammates but brothers. The team worked hard as one but also had a little bit of everything to offer. With four outstanding seniors to lead the team alongside juniors and underclassmen with just as much potential within them, wins were expected, and losses weren't ever taken lightly without preparation for redemption. By the next practice, improvements were to be made, and by the next game day, they were shown. Because of the team's desire to always give 110%, the boys brought an end to the season after competing to their best of their abilities in some hyped, adrenaline-filled playoff games. The heart of a lion was revealed in these young men and their love for basketball.

Sophomore Jarrod Jackson goes up for the shot in a game vs. Northgate. Jarrod scored 10 points, and the Lions won 56-51.

Sophomore Cameron Brewer pats down Junior Tay Slaughter after the starting lineup is called. Each player had his own unique way of entrancing the court.

What was your most memorable game, and why?

"It was the game we beat Haralson County on my birthday when I assisted my boy, Zay, for a dunk." -Junior Hason Smith

"We were playing Callaway at home, and I scored 20 points in the game." -Senior Byron Brown

"I made three three-pointers in the first quarter in our game against Rockmart." -Freshman Dallas Clayton Sophomore Haley Luke squares up as she shoots a three-pointer against the Villa Rica Wildcats. She said, "When I catch the ball, I get in my triple threat position so I can be ready to shoot, dribble, or pass."

Head coach Mia Washington prepares the game plan with assistant coaches Ashley Westbrook and Carl Kearney.

Boxing-out her opponent to head for the board is freshman Haley Fehring, who played many minutes as a newcomer to the team.

This season the Lady Lions Basketball team worked harder than ever! This past season was spent building a new identity for the team, and with the help of the girls, Coach Washington, Coach Westbrook, and Coach Kearney, the new identity was made, and the team executed. The Lady Lions welcomed new faces on the court. Every single player brought her own spark to the team, and as they all came together the flame was bigger than anyone could have expected! With late night practices led by head coach Mia Washington, the girls were pushed from baseline to baseline every night. Senior CiCi Hammett said, "Coach Washington never gives us a task that she doesn't think we can't accomplish. She just wants the best for us and the team." After planting a new seed into the Lady Lions

Basketball program, the restored team put in work on the court. The three coaches pushed and motivated the girls to strive to give their absolute best on and off the court. Freshman Haley Fehring said, "I was immediately welcomed on the team as soon as I stepped on the court. We are more than teammates to me. We are a big family who will always have each other's backs." Haley's sentiment was echoed by all ladies on the team.

Senior CiCi Hammett shoots a free throw during the third quarter of a game. She said, "Free throws can make or break a game so it is always a lot of pressure on whoever is shooting them."

Dribbling to beat the full court press is Senior Eliza Luke. She said, "Having guards that can bring the ball down the court is a key to beating any press."

What was the most memorable part of this year's season?

"I will always remember the bus rides home from away games. We sing, dance, and bond as a team. I love it." —Christina Lay, junior.

"When we played Callaway, I made a shot at the buzzer, and it advanced us into overtime. I was so excited, but I knew that there was still much work to do." —Alexis Farley, junior.

Jaycie Benefield, Dalton Dyer, Cassie Griffin, and Bryce Mathis take their marks to start a practice race. Coach David Bush timed them to track their progress this season.

Sophomore Jaycie Benefield flies through the air during an impressive dive. She worked hard this season to perfect her dive by keeping her toes pointed.

The newest addition to Central's athletic department, the swim team was glad to have had more students participate this year. Seniors Simon Shoemake and Michael Paea, along with freshman Bryce Mathis, were welcome additions to the team, joining Dalten Dyer to create the first mens' swimming relay team since the early 90s.

Middle school teacher and athletic director David Bush began coaching the newly formed swim team last year and was able to use his experience he gained while swimming during his high school career. Although the team was new, not all of the members were new to the sport, as many of them swam year round for the Carrollton Bluefins since they were little. Even these year round swimmers said that swimming for high school was very different than anything else. "I love the energy at high school meets. Swimming is a lot more fun when I get to represent my school while doing it," said freshman Bryce Mathis after his first meet representing Central High school with his skills he works so hard to master. Coach David Bush said, "We are sad to lose our seniors, but I look forward to the upcoming freshmen all the others that try out next year."

This year for the wrestling team was definitely a year to be remembered. For the first time in Central history, the whole team went to the state tournament together as a unit. The team traveled with high hopes to Macon, Georgia, where the team state event took place. They worked extremely hard this season to achieve their goals and finish the year out strong. Exceptional wrestler and senior

Sambau Ly explained, "Wrestling is the fire that steel is forged. Every sore muscle, every bruise, every hunger pain, is a strike of the hammer forging us from athletes in a school to warriors in the world." The wrestlers aimed for excellence and fulfillment throughout the season. The team continued to improve and worked harder every day on and off the mat. Additionally, boys went to state individually to compete after working together as a team. In this event, seven wrestlers from the lion family competed for individual honors in their own weight classes. Representing their team with strength and respect, these wrestlers placed as high as 6th place, as in the case of junior Dawson Hunt. With a record season in the books, this year proved to meet the highest of expectations.

Senior Colton Kelly is congratulated after he wins his varsity match. The opponents shake hands and the winner's arm is raised.

Playing "America's Favorite Pastime" since some of them were as young as 4, members of the 2016 baseball team stepped up to the plate and accepted the challenge of playing their best. The seniors showed premier leadership on and off of the field. They met every Thursday morning at seven thirty with the team Chaplin to help better their leadership skills. Players put in tremendous amounts of work and time in the off season through summer workouts, travel ball, and camps. Baseball players were set with the task of not only refining individual skills, but also team work skills. When asked about the most difficult aspect of baseball, junior pitcher Zack Gaines said, "Knowing when you go to hit the ball that you're going to fail 7 out of 10 times is hard. But then you just keep working to get better." The coaches put in just as much work to make the team great. Head coach Wes Shiver said, "We as a coaching staff visit with other coaches and talk about different hitting and pitching techniques; we also attend different clinics. My favorite one I attended this year was the ABCA Clinic in Nashville, Tennessee. Then, I also read different leadership books to help build a good foundation for the team."

Sophomore Dylan "DMACK" McKinley plays second base this year for the lions. He also stole many bases.

Senior Jake Duncan consults with Coach McCarty after getting a single. Jake said, "It is very important to talk to coach after a hit so you know the plan."

How do you prepare for the school ball in the off season?

"I prepare for school ball by extra fielding, conditioning, batting practice, and travel ball." - Austin Helton, freshman

Senior Nolan Williams cuts outward, moving around the defender as he looks up field for someone to pass it to.

Senior Eddie Balmaceda chases the ball down field as he positions himself for a one-on-one with the opposing goalie.

The boys soccer team trained over the off season by playing club and kicking around on their own as they prepared for the challenging season ahead. The team added Coach Laidlaw, who came with 10 years of professional soccer experience in Jamaica, while the team held on to Coach Ray from last year, running the 4-4-2 formation and working on diamond passing.

Unfortunately, the weather affected the season as many of their games had to be rescheduled due to wet field conditions. The team also had to relocate their last few home games because of the turf field that was to be put in. The soccer team endured the nasty spring weather as the practice field was soaked and covered with puddles throughout the season. Despite practicing in the nasty conditions, it prepared the team for many games where the field muddy and torn up. Referring to his last season playing soccer at high school, senior Justin Nichol stated, "High school soccer has been a great experience for me, it has had its ups and downs with crazy wins and close loses. I have enjoyed every minute of it as the memories will remain with me for life." Justin, along with 5 other seniors, enjoyed working hard and contributing to their successful season.

Senior Ellie Ligon does what is called "playing the way you face" by passing the ball back to teammate, junior Sarah Davis. Being one exception for kicking the ball back to the defensive side of the field, Sarah was a quick option for Ellie when opposing players were on the attack.

Junior Camille Heath takes off down the field in a game vs. Haralson County. She scored three goals which is known as a hat trick. Camille played the forward position and was a top scorer.

Junior Merideth Johnson waits for the ball to roll to her. Merideth played goalie and made sure to keep shots from going into the goal.

Junior Grace Heath sprints to cross the ball in front of the goal. Playing on the far right side of the field, her main job was to set up goals for her teammates. Grace was a key play maker and led in assists.

This season, the Lady Lions soccer team worked together to carry out their success from last year. After going undefeated in region and claiming the region championship last season, Coach Brittany Maddox had her standards set high for the girls. After only losing three seniors, few spots were left to fill. However, a variety of new faces and talent was added to the team, and the newbies were able to adjust with time and preparation. Through practice, the team worked on bettering all the aspects of game situations. Junior Merideth Johnson practiced saving flying balls and punting them as the team's goalie. Center midfield players and sisters, Summer and Ellie Ligon, worked on trapping the balls. Meredith punted to begin a play towards the opposite goal. Junior Grace Heath practiced her corner kicks, crossing the ball into the "18", the box around the goal. Left forward, Camille Heath practiced her finishes into the goal being a key player to score points. All players had key jobs on the field, and they knew the crucial times to contribute. Coach Maddox said, "this was a season where everyone had a place, and I had confidence in them no matter who was playing the position."

Staying lined up with the opposing team's defense, junior Shilah Alvarado waits for freshman Summer Ligon to pass the ball up to her.

Junior Anna Farmer steps to kick the ball out and away. Playing as the last defender, Anna was depended on to protect the goalie and goal.

What's your favorite thing about the position you play in?

"I get to be involved in the game. Move being aggressive and going towards the ball."
- Freshman Madeline Potts

"I get to take shots, score points, and I don't have to run as much."
- Sophomore Samantha Pelaez

"I get to be aggressive and dive everywhere to save shots." - Junior Meredith Johnson

Conner Eldred warms up his serving game before the first match of the season. Coach Wadlington referred to the first serve as "the serve is the most important shot in the game."

Griffin Thomas crushes a forehand against Bowdon. Griffin said, "It is my favorite shot, because it is the one that I am best at."

Bailey Lewis hits a volley at the net. Net play is very important in doubles as it affords the best opportunity to score.

When January rolled around, a new tennis season rolled around with it. January was finally the time which had been highly anticipated by the players, coaches, and fans throughout the months prior. After-school practices, team bonding, and intense matches were just a few of the things players missed in the off season. To kick off the season, the team held their annual team breakfast, allowing the players time to reunite and discuss the season to come. After the breakfast, they held a "Parents vs. Players" tournament. These events were a way for the team to initiate one of their most valued aspects family. The team strove to maintain a family atmosphere in order to better themselves as a team. Senior Conner Caldwell explained, "All around, tennis is just fun. Whether you're playing singles or doubles, winning or losing; as far as I'm concerned, it's all about my love for the game and my team." From there, the team kicked it into high gear and began training. Their values concerning building a brotherhood among the team definitely showed throughout the year. Because of the team's stellar bond, they were able to progress as a team, bettering themselves throughout every practice and match.

Aaron Startup practices serves after school. With serving, consistency is key, which is why Aaron drilled serves on a regular basis.

Jake Toney comes in for a wicked slice during a match. Jake said, "A slice is a very important shot to have because it brings them to the net."

What's in your tennis bag?

"I always have extra racket grips, a towel, and water to stay prepared at all times."
- Bailey Lewis, junior

"I only have my racket, because that is all I need to beat my opponent."
- Landon Schulenburg, freshman

"I keep two rackets in case one breaks then water to keep hydrated so I can play my best."
- Jake Toney, senior

PLAY between the lines

Proving that footwork is key, sophomore Katie Schmittou positions herself to keep the ball in play. Hustling for every shot, Katie and her partner Madison won the match in a decisive set tiebreaker to gain a well deserved victory over Villa Rica 6-2, 7-6.

Quick to react at the net, sophomore Madison Spruell gets low for an oncoming volley. As an outstanding doubles player, Madison effectively communicated with her doubles partner during long rallies and worked to secure many team victories. She won this first home match of the season in consecutive sets.

Brushing up on her forehand, senior Sydney Stone strikes the ball down the line in her match against Chapel Hill. She finished this opening match of the year with a victory.

Leaping for a volley at the net, sophomore Emily Justice hustles to win the point, wrapping up a phenomenal victory against the wildcats in February. She won the match in straight sets, setting the tone for a successful year.

From the crisp late practices in January to the sweltering afternoon matches in April, the Lady Lions' tennis team worked toward success with a relentless mindset, projecting an "all-in" attitude around the clock. The first match of the season set the tone for a memorable year to come. With the varsity beginning at Chapel Hill and the junior varsity taking on a fierce

Mount Zion, the girls team proved their finesse and unmatched spirit, winning their opening matches and setting the trend for great victory. The team enjoyed their last year with seniors Lindsey Pierce and Sydney Stone, while treasuring the experienced junior players and welcoming the talent in many underclassmen competitors. Sophomore Madison Spruell commented on the team's unity despite such age differences: "The bus rides have really helped us bond as a team, and it brings out the best in each of us!" Under the direction of Coach Wadlington, they formed unbreakable bonds with one another; consequently, the season was filled with encouraging practices, heartfelt matches, and unforgettable bus rides that combined to make the season valuable and successful in more ways than one. On and off the court, these ladies learned what victory meant.

Unleashing the power of her backhand stroke, senior Lindsey Pierce strikes the ball with confidence to win her match against Villa Rica early in the season.

Preparing for a backhand, freshman Dalila Sanchez positions herself to hit a beautiful shot cross-court. She showed her determination and footwork in both this Villa Rica match and throughout the season.

What's your best advice for handling pre-game nerves?

"Just take it one point at a time and do your best from the start. Not much more you can do than that!"
-Anya Dunn, junior

"You can't let your nerves affect you. You just have to go out onto the court and play your game."
-Erin Lewis, junior

"I like to drink my favorite blue Powerade or eat a favorite snack and then I tell myself to breathe in and out!"
-Emma Varbrough, freshman

PLAY your pace

Sophomore Xavier Jordan concentrates as he prepares to out run the opponents while his teammate Cameron Brown supports him by securing his starting block.

AAA pole vault state champion Mitt Conerly defies gravity as he competes at a Pepperell meet with hopes of bringing home a first place win in pole vault.

The distance runners take their marks as they prepare to run 2 miles (8 laps) around the track.

Sophomore Darius Holland gets ready to show off his power throwing technique that he has been working on at long practices during the pre-season.

Senior Jaleel Terry stretches his legs in preparation for the 4x100 relay which is fan favorite in the track and field community.

The clock ticked, pulses raced, feet pounded, and screams roared as this season's track team sprinted to cross the finish lines. The track team dedicated hours of practice and pain in order to be the best runners that they could be. Each driven mentality was strengthened as a result of the boy's collective effort to work hard and show their passion for the sport not only on the track, but in the weight room as well. This year's team was coached by returning Mia Washington first time, CHS track coach Charrod Taylor. Despite the fact that Coach Taylor was a new addition to the team, his new drills, leadership, and weight room skills made a huge impact to the team. The team was composed of many different types of team members: sprinters, long distance runners, throwers, jumpers, and pole vaulters. Runners not only anticipated the gun that signaled them to start, but they also anticipated the watches with hopes of beating their best time. Beating your "PR" (personal record) was a deal huge in the track society. No stranger to beating PRs. Tyler Terry said, "Beating a personal record is a big accomplishment during the track season. I always work very hard in hopes to see my all off my efforts and hard work pay off."

Launching the shot-put as far as she can is sophomore Tyra Babbs, whose unique technique always amazes.

What do you enjoy most about being a part of the track team?

"It's a sport where you can see the fastest people from your school compete. Also, it takes a lot of hard work to be good at it."
- Damarcus Owensby, senior

"I enjoy it because it is more of an individual sport, but at the same time, you compete against other teams as a team. In my events, I don't have to depend on anyone but myself, so no one gets the blame but me if I lose."
- Jaleel Terry, senior

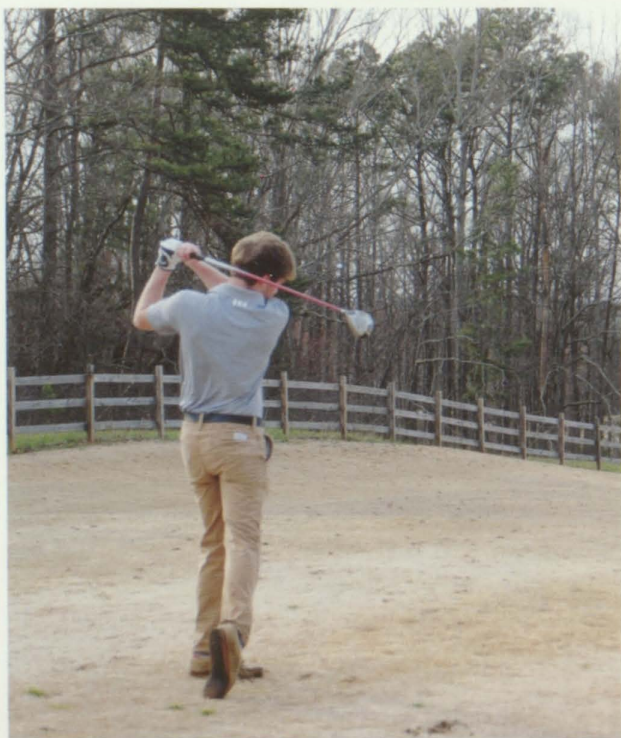

"The entire process of seeing the team getting better after a season of hard work and practice is my favorite part."
- Mitt Conerly, senior

Sophomore Morgan Collins and freshman Ainsley Cowart concentrate on sinking the next putt. After much deliberation, Ainsley was able to sink the putt for par. Ainsley stated, "It is really great to have a fellow teammate to follow behind and help me to make the right decision."

Sophomore Nolan Lee makes a terrific tee shot on hole three. The shot had great curve and went straight down the fairway.

Sophomore Andrew Carroll takes practice swings just before hitting a near perfect shot. Andrew stated, "I knew that I had to hit a great shot because Jacob's shot was pretty great just before mine."

Sophomores Jenna McCray, Shi Phillips, and Makenzie Armstrong discuss their next putt. The three girls had endured two long hours in the cold and could end the match with one perfect shot.

Most everyone has had the thrilling moment of hitting a neon golf ball on an amazing mini golf course while on vacation, but full sized golf is much more complex than the colorful one acre courses. Rather than the one putter used in miniature golf, on a course a fraction of the size of a golf course, the golfers carried as many as 13 clubs in their bags... and they did not get the luxuries often seen in the movies. Rather than having a caddy and a golf cart, team members had to carry their own bags. Additionally, navigating the course posed a challenge even without the added weight of a golf bag. Sophomore Morgan Collins said, "The golf course is not flat; we have to walk up to a couple miles up and down hills. Playing golf required not only physical but mental endurance as well. It really takes a lot to keep quiet for that long too!" Golfers made sure to stay silent while on the golf course. There were no encouraging cheers to be heard on the sidelines from parents and dedicated fans. Instead, golfers had to keep morale up on their own and with the help of their teammates. The golfers substituted the loud cheers of the dedicated fans with low volume conversations with one another. However, golfers enjoyed their time on the course.

Senior Hunter Walker tees off on the hole one of his last first match. Hunter said, "I greatly enjoyed spending four years getting better at golf and spending time with my friends."

Senior Jacob Wilbanks deeply contemplates his first shot of the round as he addresses the ball. His contemplation payed off with a straight shot down the fairway.

What's your favorite brand of golf apparel and equipment?

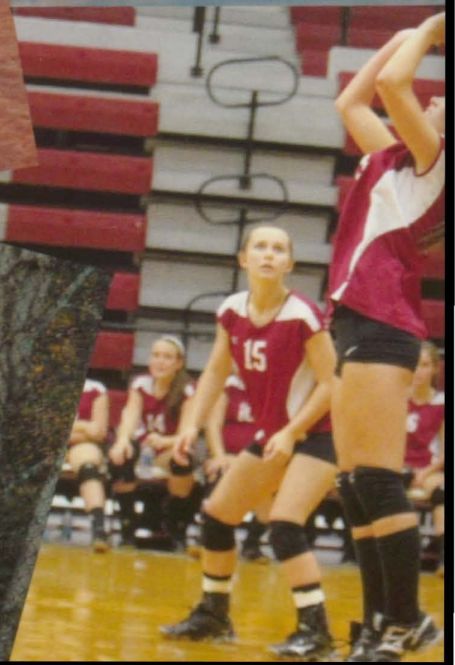

"I like to wear Nike's golf clothes because I think they look the best. My favorite clubs are the Callaway Razi X black clubs because they have such a smooth feel when I swing."
-Hunter Walker, senior

"I would have to say that my favorite golf brand for clothes would be Nike and Puma, but really I just like anything with a nice look to it. For equipment, I like Taylormade and Cobra."
-Ainsley Cowart, freshman

"I prefer to wear Adidas golf clothes, so it was great when Coach Riggins got us Adidas uniforms. I like to use Callaway equipment because of how durable it is."
-Andrew Carroll, sophomore

JaMaria Price hands over the ball to coach Lewis in a fun game of catch. She enjoyed playing catch during physical education.

Jeremiah Perry goes up for the three pointer. Jeremiah played basketball for the winter state games.

Jason Holloway prepares to roll the beach ball to one of his class mates, one of his favorite things to do.

Brandon Harris catches the ball thrown at him by Coach Lewis. They were making a triangle when they threw it to each other.

In the home living center the students get to explore new opportunities. The teachers have created recipe day on Tuesdays and Thursdays. They go through the whole recipe with all the students. They cook a new recipe each day and the students get to help with making the dishes and/or deserts and also learn valuable lesson on where everything is found in the kitchen setting. They help clean and vacuum, wash dishes, and sweep the floors. They also will have story time and social time. The students can talk and spend time with each other while learning making friendships. Mrs. Kim McCain said, "In the home living Center, we do daily living skills that teach this fetus how to read recipes and then, prepare the recipe. We also teach them how to use household appliances! We also teach safety in the kitchen! There's many activities that we do setting a table and activities such as how to bow, wash, and dry clothes! It is also our fellowship room one we all want to come together and unite as one. Another amazing opportunities for them was during third period every day, the students went to physical education class in the Walker gymnasium. They got to play all different type of sports and games. Coach Lewis even lets them sing karaoke and dance along to music with the big speakers. Basketball and dancing are the students favorites.

Jason Holloway enjoys basketball the most in physical education. Each day he picked basketball as his first sport.

Destiny Radcliff and Derek Dural have been the best of friends for many years now. They enjoyed having PE together.

What's your favorite sport to play?

"I like playing volleyball because it is fun. I also like cheerleading because I love my coaches." - Megan Graham

"I enjoy basketball and cheer because they are my favorite sports." - Jasmine Hudgins

"I like basketball, soccer, and football because I like kicking and throwing the ball and my brothers play." - Carroll Kidd

PAUSE & recalculate

Juniors in Mrs. Lyons's honors chemistry class work together to find answers in their textbooks. The students studied the physical and chemical properties of substances. Everything learned in this class was crucial information, so these students paid close attention to detail in their work.

Freshman John Sammons works on an assignment. Students in this class learned how to calculate the x and y intercepts of a parabola. As a freshman in a primarily sophomore class, John was challenged to adjust himself to a new environment. Although an underclassman, he was able to exceed in this difficult math course.

Diligently working in his chemistry class, junior Dillon Finley studies his notes for an upcoming test. Knowing that assessments greatly impacted his grade, he always studied for his math and science tests. Dillon said, "Studying for tests in these subjects is crucial for me and other students because the math and science curriculum in high school is so complex."

Sophomore Abby Condron and freshman Micah Harris listen to Mr. Murphy's lesson on intervals of graphs. "Listening to Mr. Murphy teach allows me to absorb information that will be on each test," stated Abby.

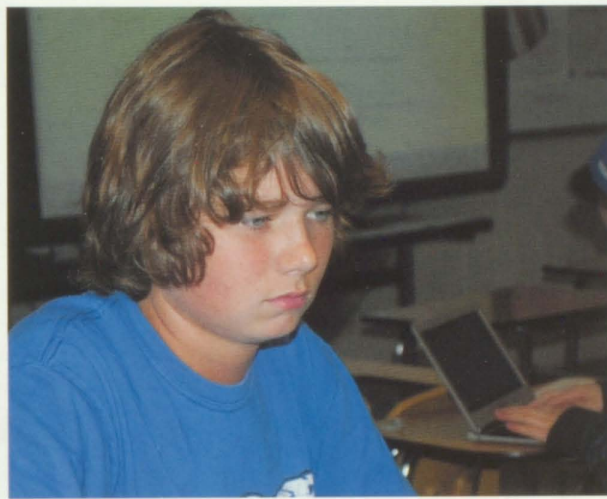

Students in Dr. Beers's physics class conduct an experiment with paper roller coasters. The students were testing how quickly a marble could complete a 3 roller coaster course.

The science and math classes offered at Central High School were both challenging and interesting to students. From physical science and algebra for freshmen, to AP Calculus and AP Environmental Science for seniors, these subjects were important to student learning. Sophomore Abbie McWhorter stated, "I believe that math and science are crucial to furthering my critical thinking skills. By taking these courses, I have a better understanding of how the world works." With lots of complicated formulas and theories to study, pupils taking these classes devoted a lot of time to their educations. To some students, studying for their academics wasn't just tedious work. Junior Lindsey Koziel explained, "Science isn't a subject that applies to me during school. If you love science, you're devoting time inside and outside of the classroom." Although science and math courses required lots of effort in order to excel, they were not all work and no play. Students conducted many enjoyable experiments. Whether testing the reactivity of substances to calculating the vertex of a ball's bounce, math and science teachers made learning the curriculum exciting. Both rigorous and interesting, science and math were classes enjoyed by students.

Sophomore Jesse Dorsey works on a project in Mrs. Gordon's honors biology class. Students conducted research about evolution and natural selection. Because he had not studied these topics since middle school, Jesse was grateful he had access to technology in order to complete this project.

Senior Kierra Middleton feeds her beta fish in Dr. Beers's AP Environmental Science class. She and her fellow classmates constructed an eco-column out of two-liter bottles. The column was made up of four chambers: the bottom was an aquatic chamber, which was the home of the fish for the four week experiment. The second chamber contained decomposition matter to provide nutrients for the closed ecosystem below. The third housed soil and grass seeds to filter the water poured into the top chamber, the precipitation chamber.

What makes math & science courses interesting to you?

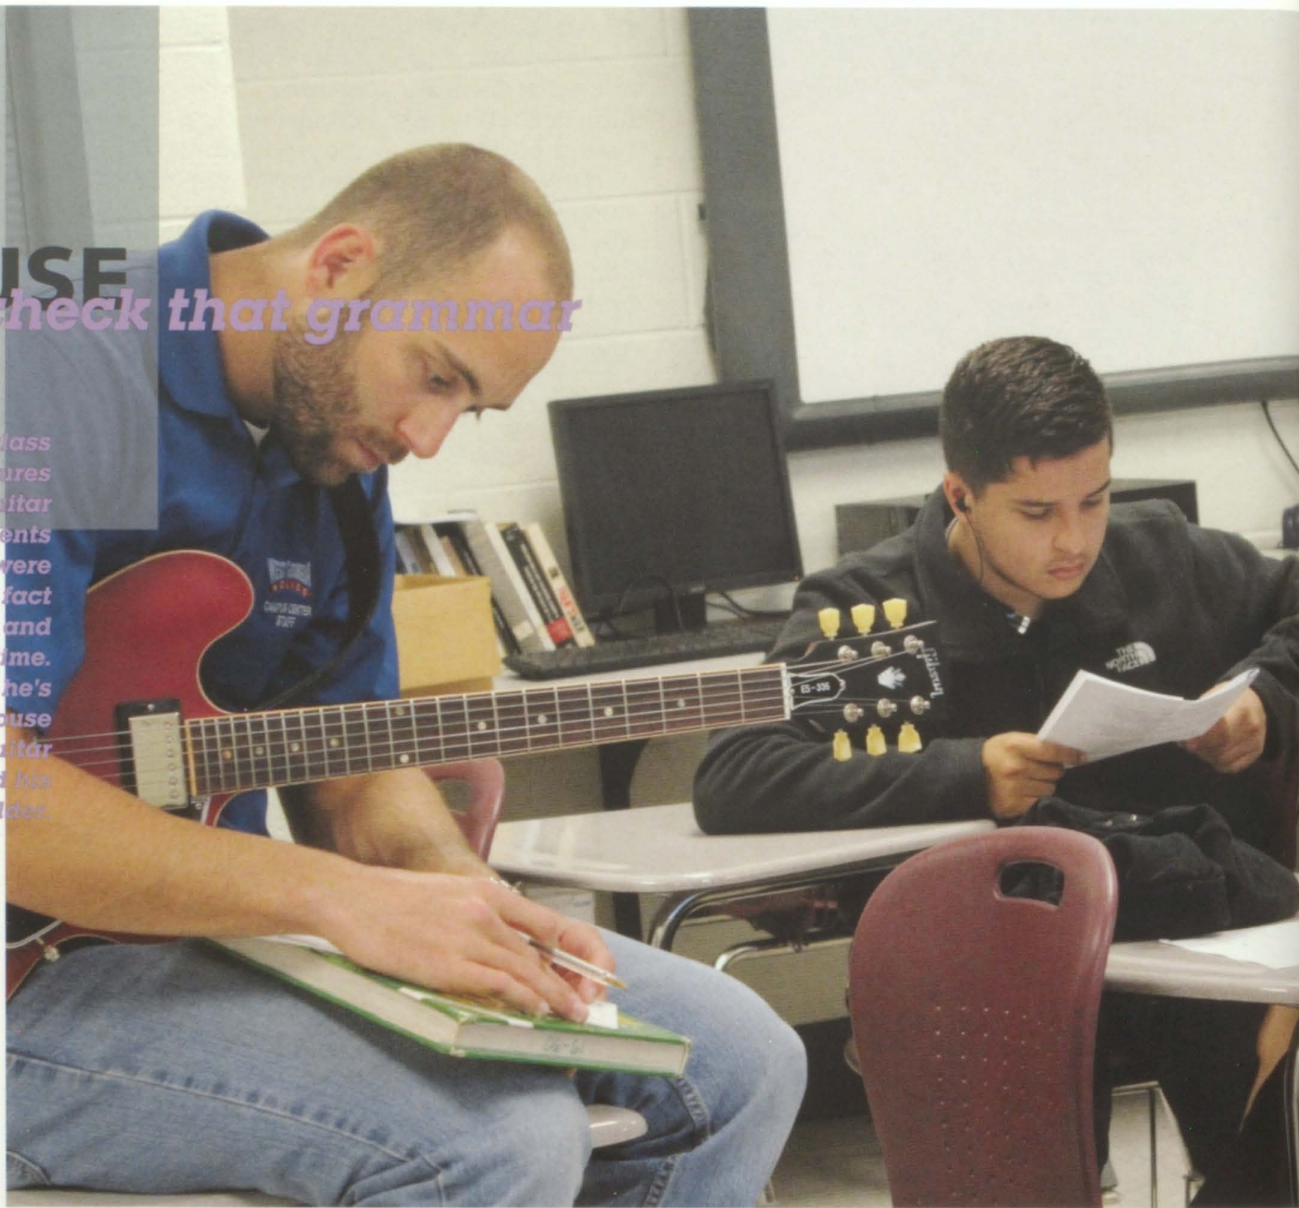

"These subjects have my interest because I have learned from my parents that science and math skills will be useful later in life." - Anna Handley, sophomore

"People think that I'm weird for liking math, but there's just something about it that's really fun to me." - Chris Lewis, senior

PAUSE and check that grammar

Coach McCarty's class studies other cultures as he strums his guitar strings. His students this past year were mesmerized by the fact he could play and teach at the same time. Some wondered if he's ever left his house without his guitar wrapped around his shoulder.

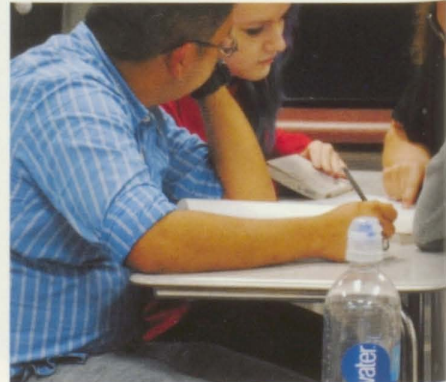

Students in Mr. Biddle's 10th grade literature class discuss gender roles in the novel Things Fall Apart. They used textual evidence to justify their opinion of the topic. Sophomore Dylan High stated, "It's fun discussing and debating these topics openly in the classroom. It could change your viewpoint after hearing some evidence."

Freshman Faith Bennett discusses with one of her classmates the Socratic Seminar coming up the next day. "It's really an interesting way of seeing others' perspectives of things without seeming rude, but still questioning. A lot of people though just see it as a chance to argue and yell across the classroom," she stated.

Freshman Levi Grizzard speaks of the upcoming Socratic Seminar. He as well as other freshman said they were excited to express their opinions in a classroom environment.

Juniors in AP Language read Narrative of the Life of Fredrick Douglass in Mrs. Megan Wooten's class. Many people in the class had the opinion that Douglass led a courageous life and should be considered a trailblazer.

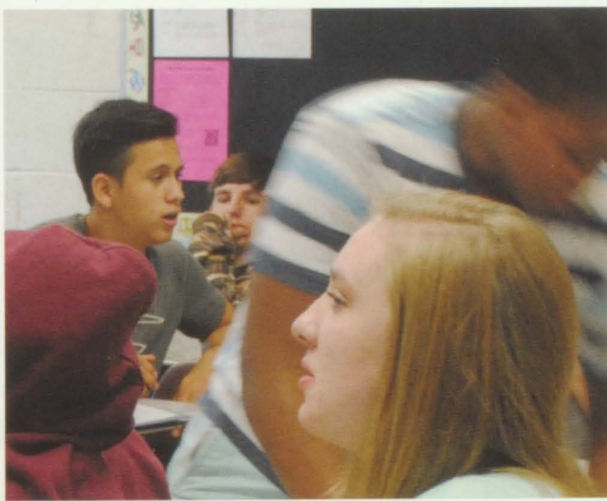

The English department featured a large variety of texts from all different cultures. They ranged from early 1940's Nigeria to 17th Century Salem. When it came to Social studies, the teachers and students both loved learning about the world and the historical and cultural aspects behind it. Many students enjoyed the fact that at some point they could link the two subjects together and hear different and diverse viewpoints of one topic. English teacher Mrs. Monica Smith claimed, "I love seeing students have that 'light bulb' moment, when they realize what they learned in history connects to the literature they study." Students were fortunate to have teachers who were passionate about English and social studies. The humanities courses allowed students to make connections from one culture to another, from one time period to another. Additionally, students learned that history was a multifaceted subject. Social studies teacher Mr. David Rooks said, "The thing about history is that there's always more than one side to a story, and what is so interesting about that is there are all these different interpretations of what we in the United States consider the truth."

Freshmen in 7th period
English wait for class to begin. Erin Tarpley said, "In Mrs.Fountain's 7th period, we have a very relaxed, but hands on classroom setting. When you walk into that room you know that it will brighten up your whole day. Whether you're learning about English or other people it just makes the school day better."

Coach Smith's fourth period class learns about macro and micro economics. Junior Zander Blair stated, "It is an entertaining way to learn how the United States' economy works. There are so many things to learn about how to be successful in the economy."

What's your favorite thing about Social Studies or English?

"I love English because I love to learn about how text can teach me life morals, and I enjoy hearing stories I can relate to." - Lucy Grace Mckenzie, sophomore "In social studies, I love learning more about the things that shaped our history. It's very interesting to me." - Sydney Stone, senior

"My favorite thing about English is reading about other people's experiences and seeing things from another perspective." - Karis Askin, freshman

PAUSE to Learn More

To finish their most recent project, the juniors and seniors in Art III and Art IV work to improve their skills as artists. They knew art was a class where they had to always be ahead of the game.

Helping students in her seventh period Spanish class, Mrs. Erin Smith explains to junior C.J. Brock the activity of the day. Spanish was hard for everyone, but the students tried to go above and beyond with their performance.

Singing their hearts out, chorus members practice to accomplish their goals. They were trying to hit just the right notes in the song. Chorus members began their class by warm ups that included singing the scales. Sometimes, they sang together as a chorus, and other times they split into parts to perfect their pitch.

Playing different games in their team sports class, this group of students decide to play a game of volleyball. Coach McKenna's team sports class was an exciting one for all the students. They loved to pick different games to play each day.

Thinking hard in Mrs. Beverly's Spanish I class, the students work diligently to do their work. Learning a new language was hard, but they overcame the toughness and exceeded in the class.

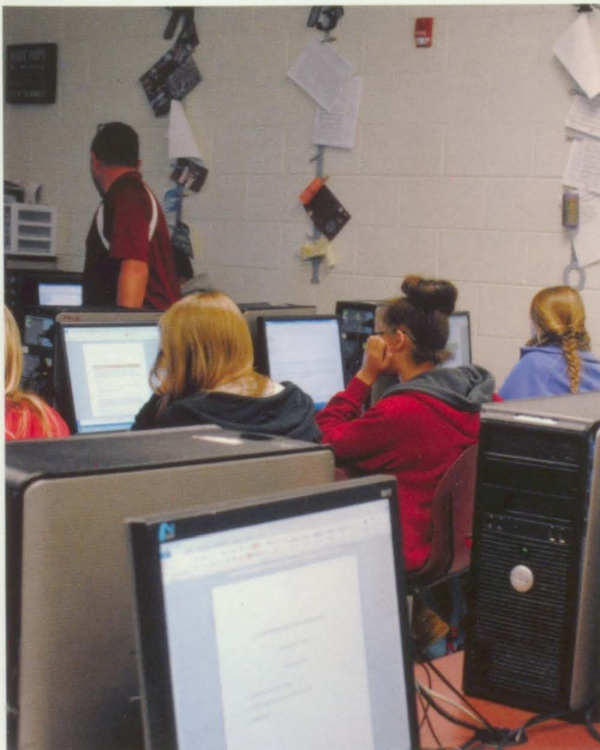

Electives throughout the school year were very important choices for the students. Many selected their electives based on what they wanted to do after high school. Students in art would possibly want to go into an art field, students in business classes might want to have their own business, and students in JROTC more than likely would want to go into a certain military field. Electives helped the students choose the pathway they want to go down after being a Central Lion. There was a wide range of elective choices that the students could choose from. Central boasted a stellar JROTC program and very successful business classes. Other subjects also included an innovative agricultural program and inspiring Spanish classes. Additionally, Central offered symphonic and concert band, chorus, and an entertaining drama class. Senior Cheyenne Goodspeed stated, "If someone were to ask why I am in chorus, I would say I love to sing! Being in chorus for seven years has taught me so much. Music isn't just what I do, it's who I am. Being able to express yourself and bring joy to others is what I love most about singing. Being a part of our chorus family here at Central has been a great adventure and I will miss it when I'm gone."

During one of the freshmen boys' health class, this group of students play some basketball. They wanted to let out energy while playing a fun game and getting their daily exercise.

Typing up their assignment in Ms. Eidson's business class, students work hard to complete their assignment. They faced obstacles along the way but knew they had to push through them.

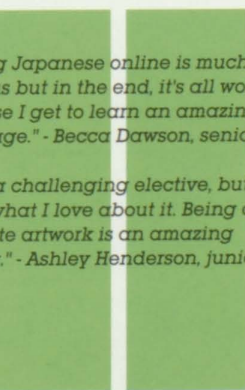

What are your electives like, and what are the benefits of your classes?

"Taking Japanese online is much more rigorous but in the end, it's all worth it because I get to learn an amazing language." - Becca Dawson, senior

"Art is a challenging elective, but that's what I love about it. Being able to create artwork is an amazing feeling." - Ashley Henderson, junior

PAUSE ...and be creative

Teaching the class away, Ms. Cynthia Landon instructs her Art II students on what their upcoming projects will include. Her creative students were always up for a new task.

Shelly Donaldson, Art III senior, takes her kinetic sculpture very seriously. She was working on a mobile made of broken pieces of mirrors.

Senior Megan Bailey works diligently on her kinetic sculpture for her last year in Visual Arts.

Art IV student Miranda Woods created this fantastic piece, "Every Life has a Story." Miranda has pushed through the long four years of art to get to this point in her art career.

The student life in art wasn't as easy as it seemed. Ms. Landon challenged her students to be as creative that they could be. "I could barely survive during Art 1!" said senior Lynzie Smallwood. This year, students were assigned to build unique projects from scratch. For example, the class had to design a hand figure out of wire. Also, Mrs. Landon required them to create a bug out of recycled resources. Who would've thought that art could not only be interesting, but fun as well? Many students who were involved in art explained what they participated in outside of school. "Participating in the art show was the best decision I've chosen to do. I would most definitely participate again, but sadly this is my last year. Even though it's my senior year, it was still a little bit tough, but through it all and a lot of practice, I've gotten better. I couldn't have asked for a better teacher like Ms. Landon," stated senior Cheyenne Goodspeed. During the school year, many art students accomplished different varieties of difficult tasks. These outstanding students proved everyone that anything could be possible, and that it takes courage and motivation to get through any difficult task, but never giving up results in a positive outcome.

With limited space and limited time, the Art III and IV class works together to squeeze passed each other to get their projects done. They work hard on all the projects they receive, so this was no different. The project they were working on was their kinetic sculpture.

Junior Becca Thompson multi-tasks during her Art III class by artistically sketching her amazing drawing while listening to music. Music motivated her to continue painting her creative projects. Becca stated, "I really admire art. It's my passion to keep doing what I love to do and that's of course drawing."

What was your favorite thing to do in art?

"I liked sketching in our notebooks and showing off my artwork to my friends."
- Shelly Donaldson, senior

"Art is hard, but I actually enjoyed going in our other room and doing our projects. I felt professional in there."
- Brittany Rivers, senior

"Being able to be creative with many materials and improving myself."
- Nadia Mullins, junior

PAUSE & hit the brakes

Junior Emily Williams and senior Ellie Ligon sit on top of their cute, matching vehicles. Emily has a yellow 2003 Mini Cooper while Ellie has a 2013 Mini Cooper. They both absolutely loved driving their cars to school! Emily said, "My favorite thing about my car is the huge speedometer!"

Sporting his 2006 Ford F-150, senior Dakota Cook prides himself on his truck's cleanliness, style, and finesse. Dakota exclaims, "I love my truck because I can carry more people and things in it. Additionally, my truck has four wheel drive, so if I go mudding, I won't get stuck so easily. It's just a really fun vehicle to have and drive around in!"

Junior Blaine Chambers owns the lifted light blue Ford F-150. Blaine was extremely proud of his truck and always tries to keep it looking nice and clean.

Junior Molly Thompson hangs out on the tailgate of her beautiful truck. She owns a lifted dark gray 2005 Ford F-150. Molly shares, "This was the truck that I always wanted since I was a child. I am so blessed that I actually got my dream truck. My favorite part about my truck is the very loud noise and my initials on the back window!"

Junior Sarah Davis and sophomore Clay Langley are the best of friends and both share a love of trucks. Sarah owns a Dodge truck while Clay owns a Ford.

From the Dream Team parking section to all the way in the very back, there were so many different models of vehicles. Driving to school was such a huge privilege. Students are at the age where they don't have to rely on their parents to take them everywhere. The very talented senior Aisha Lawson exclaimed, "Driving is most definitely a privilege. You have the ability to go wherever you want, whenever you want. Especially being involved in extracurricular activities it takes the responsibility off your parents having to take you everywhere and then they have to pick you up." Even though most of the students that drove to school were juniors and seniors, there were also a few sophomores that had the awesome opportunity to join the club with their older classmates. Additionally, some of the best responses about driving to and from school was that they didn't have to ride with other students or on the bus. Senior Jasmine Rogers proclaimed, "Driving to school is so much better than having to ride the school bus crammed with some immature underclassmen." Driving was a wonderful opportunity that many students took advantage of!

Senior Kyle Detscher shows off his awesome ride. Kyle owns a black, 2013 Ford Mustang Shelby GT500. He exclaimed how excited he was to receive this sweet car and said, "If you're not breaking necks, you're wasting gas."

Junior Drew Smith very much enjoys his jeep. Drew owns a lifted, white 2013 Jeep Wrangler. He explained how blessed he was to get his vehicle and said, "It was always a car that I loved and they last forever. I knew I could always have it to ride around in."

What is the number of your spot, and what are its pros and cons?

"I have 72. The pros are that its not that far away and there's no one to the left of me! The cons are that when it's stormy it feels like it's forever away." -Emily Scoggins, senior

"I'm in the spot 276. The pros are that I don't have to worry about people hitting my car and the cons are its so far away!" - Zachary Bailey, senior

"I park in the Dream Team 40 spot. The benefits are that it's close to the school, and leaving is very easy!" -Alley Knight, senior Converse have always been a huge fashion statement. From the 80s all the way to now, they are some of the most popular shoes for anyone to own, especially teenagers. These girls made sure they brought back the fashion statement, even adding a few different colors. Converse tennis shoes never fail to tie together any outfit you have. With the "Chuck Taylor" style being the most popular in the 80s, they are just as wanted today as they were 30 years ago.

Waking up for early mornings and making sure everything looks good can be a struggle sometimes, especially for some people's hair. Most girls, and the occasional guy, will say its sometimes easier to just throw it up in a "messy bun" and go on with your day without a problem.

Fringe is always fun and in style! These boots are a very popular occurrence when the cooler weather rolls around. They are such a fun style to sport, being different but super stylish. These fringe boots go with just about anything you could think and you couldn't go wrong having a pair.

Another new thing starting to be seen everywhere are "boots". They are ankle high boots that have a high level of style that bring just any type of outfit together.

The most important thing to have in the cooler weather is definitely a scarf. They never fail to be adorable and fulfill the cozy feeling people strive for when wearing them! Keyonia Thrash and Erica Donaldson model their scarf selection for the day.

From shorts to shoes to pants, from hairstyles to jewelry, there was a never ending new coming to the world of fashion, especially in the Lion Valley. Fashion rages included a seasonal accessory like boots or scarves in the fall and winter, or brightly colored dresses, shorts, and shirts in spring and summer. Some items managed to stay around all year like Converse or even Chacos, depending on your temperature tolerance level! Bracelets became a new normal for everybody as well, guys and girls. Finding a person in the hall without a bracelet of some sort was difficult: a piece of braided string, a hair tie, or an expensive bracelet. In addition to clothing, hairstyles changed as well. From really long hair to really short, hairstyles spoke as loudly as the outfit. The fashion world constantly changes and CHS students represented those changes well. Fashion was a great indicator tell who each person was without them even having to speak. With so many new and different trends going on in the fashion world, there was always an item that everyone wanted, whether it was something making its break through to the world, making its comeback, or even something that never left and was still as hot and wanted now as it was when it was released.

"Lets go on an adventure!"
With these shoes being as stylish and comfortable as they are, how you could you not want them? Yes, they are made for adventure and exploring, so who says we are not on an adventure and exploring school! With endless designs and styles, everyone would be happy with a pair of these shoes.

Another big style coming back is flannel. Amelia Farmer, Grace Heath, Brooke Turner, and Katelynn Bennett demonstrate that flannel shirts are the perfect item to throw over a dress or a t-shirt as a little additive and just go. Layer that with a scarf and you would have the comfy, cozy ideal outfit for fall.

What's your favorite season to dress for?

"Fall would be my favorite because it's a cozy season, with jeans and boots and sweaters!" -Abby House, junior

"Fall because it's vest and Bean Boot weather. The leaves change and you can pull out the flannels." - Andrew Stewart, sophomore

"Spring because its full of bright colors and you can wear sandals again!" - Alana Lyle, senior

PAUSE and get back to work

Senior Matthew Hicks makes a variety of sandwiches at Subway. This task required impressive concentration because if one messed up a sandwich, there was no going back. Through the long hours and difficult customers, Matthew enjoyed his job.

Sophomore Lexie Worthy anxiously awaits a customer at the summer, ice cream shop, AGW. This was a very busy summer for Lexie due to the hot, strenuous days this summer.

Junior Devin Rowe takes orders at Stake 'N Shake. This was a very demanding job because one must constantly pay attention to each customer's different order.

Senior Catherine Wescott takes orders at American Pie Pizzeria. Catherine said, "I really love working here because it gives me a sense of responsibility."

Junior Ally Mulcahy works hard at Carrollton's local Zaxby's. Ally said, "Zaxby's is an interesting place to work because each customer is different."

The students at Central Carroll High School were extra busy this year with their full and/or part time jobs. As a full time student and teenager, working a job was quite difficult. Completing homework was just one of the difficulties of having a job and managing school. A normal teenager also maintained a social life and most importantly, enjoyed life. However, through the struggles of working, these students obtained and maintained dedication, pride, and efficiency. These important skills were useful for college applications and even life in general. Through these jobs, the students also were taught responsibility. Rather than being late or even on time, students began to get to school and their classes early. This was an important habit to learn. Some students also began to focus on their grades. They began to understand that there is life after high school and that a career is a very important thing in today's world. Senior Madison North said, "I enjoy the experience and getting to work with some cool people and my close friends, plus the food is really good!" Students learned responsibility, time management, and efficiency. These skills were very helpful in the future.

Senior Will Henderson bags groceries at Carrollton's local Kroger. This job became very strenuous after a while because one was in constant motion. Bagging groceries kept Will on his toes because customers constantly checked out.

Senior Flavia Phillips takes orders at Carrollton's local Zaxby's. This job required concentration because several orders can be thrown out at once and one had to remember it all. Flavia said, "This job can be really stressful but overall, I really like it a lot!"

What's your favorite aspect of working?

"Seeing smiles on happy customers' faces is the best part of my job!" - senior Kiele Kaupe

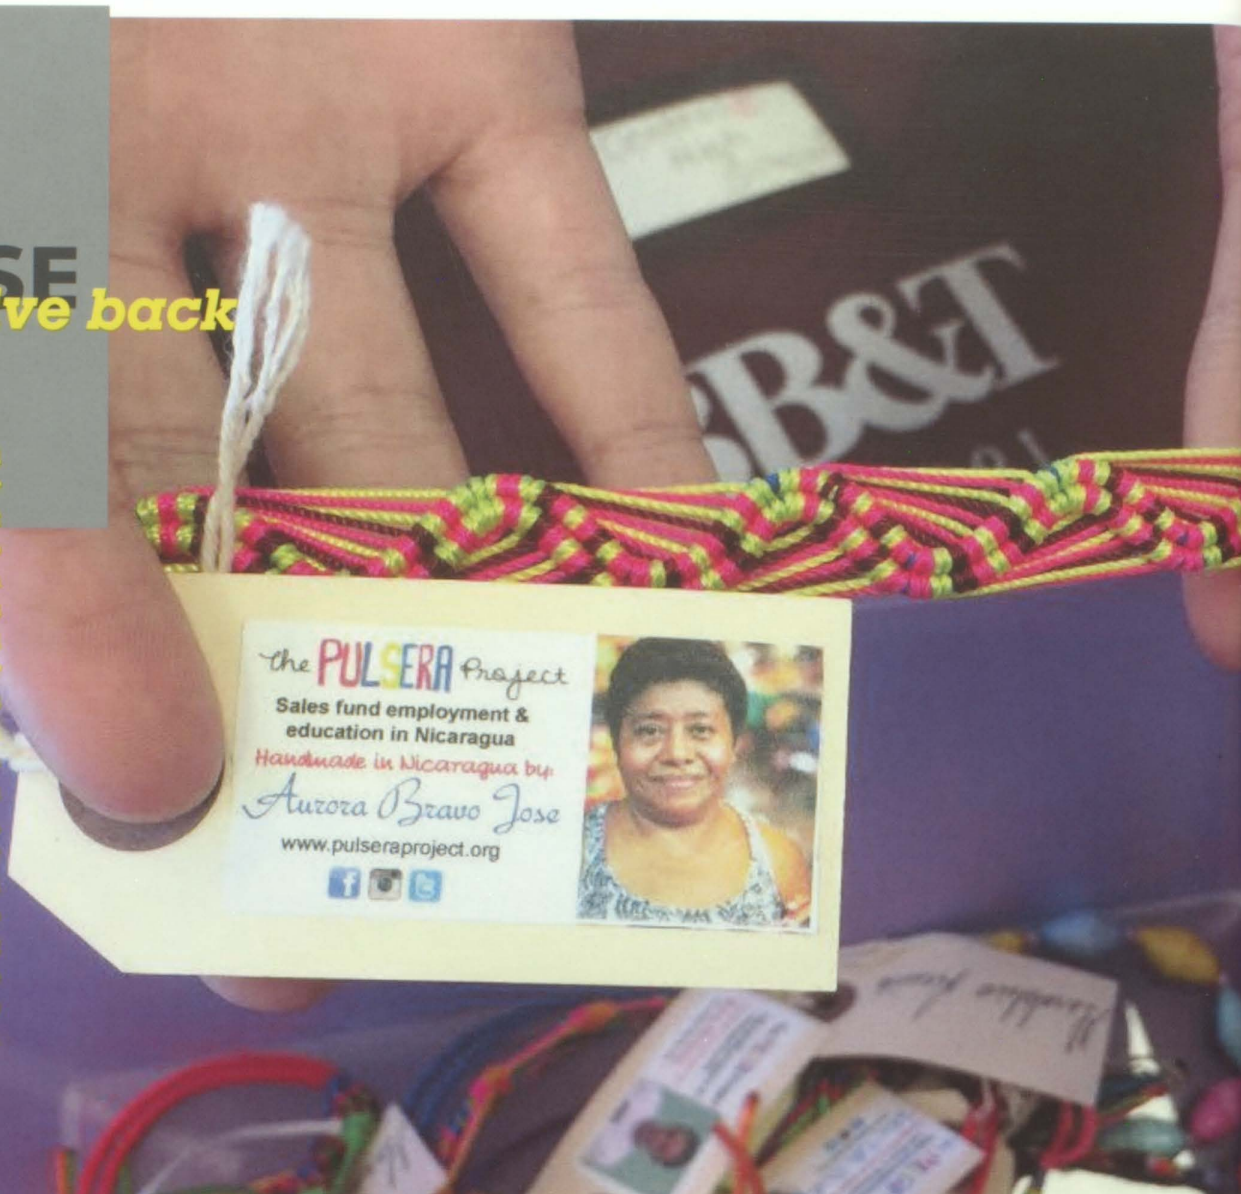

"Chick-fil-A is cool because the customers always respect us, unlike other restaurants." - senior Maddie White

"Hanging out and being around chill coworkers." - junior Jason North

PAUSE and give back

Spanish National Honor Society conducted a pulsera sale in order to raise money for Nicaraguan communities. Pulseras are bracelets hand woven by Nicaraguans. Students raised $1,625, which helped contribute to giving Nicaraguans sustainable jobs. Each bracelet had a tag with the signature and picture of the artist so that each student could see the life which they were supporting.

Senior Savannah Mcwhorter participates in a National Honor Society service project. "I love being a part of NHS because we get to take part in cool service projects around the school. I enjoyed helping clean the computer labs because this school puts so much into us that it's nice to give back sometimes, and make it the cleanest, and very best it can be," explained Savannah.

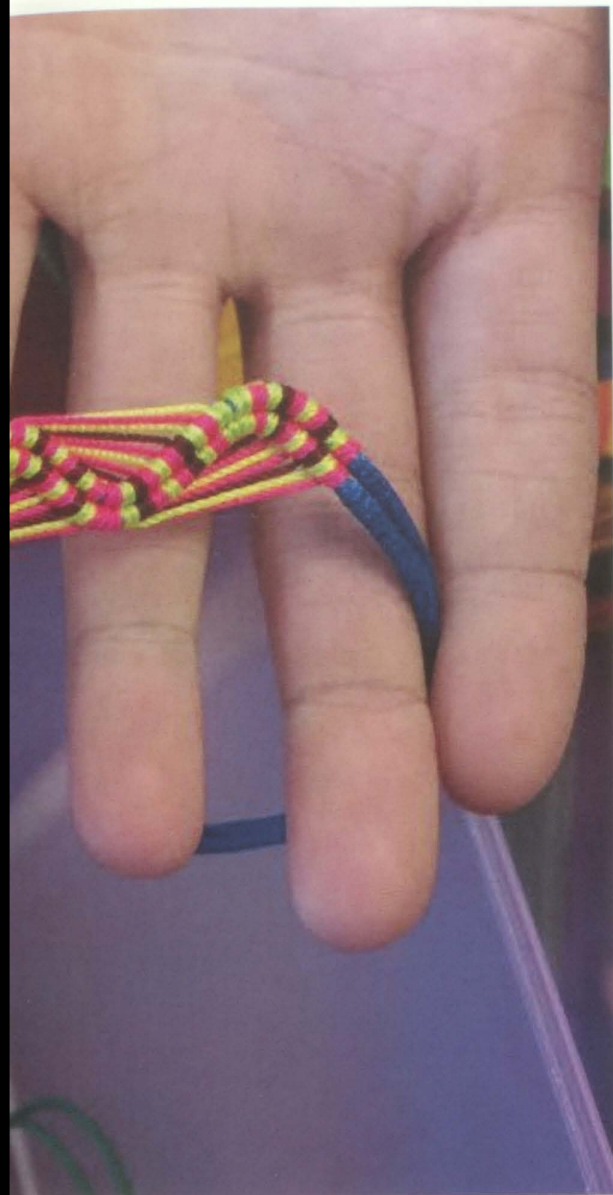

Key Club member Madi Thomason works at the annual Kiwanis bowl. Key Club volunteers like Madi helped work the concession stand for the event. Not only did they get to help serve the community, but they also were able to meet Kiwanis members with the same passion for charity which they had.

Freshman Hannah Royals counts change for a customer at the Kiwanis Bowl, a football tournament put on for kids in Carroll County. "Oh my gosh! The Kawanis Bowl was super fun and just such a great experience. I loved being able to volunteer and had a lot of fun while doing so. Plus, the kids were adorable," stated Hannah.

Juniors Garrett Lovvorn and Shilah Alvarado work together to troubleshoot the computers for a National Honor Society project. Members went from computer lab to computer lab dusting tables, straightening monitors, and untangling wires. They also checked the software for viruses and made sure that the brightness was how the teachers had requested.

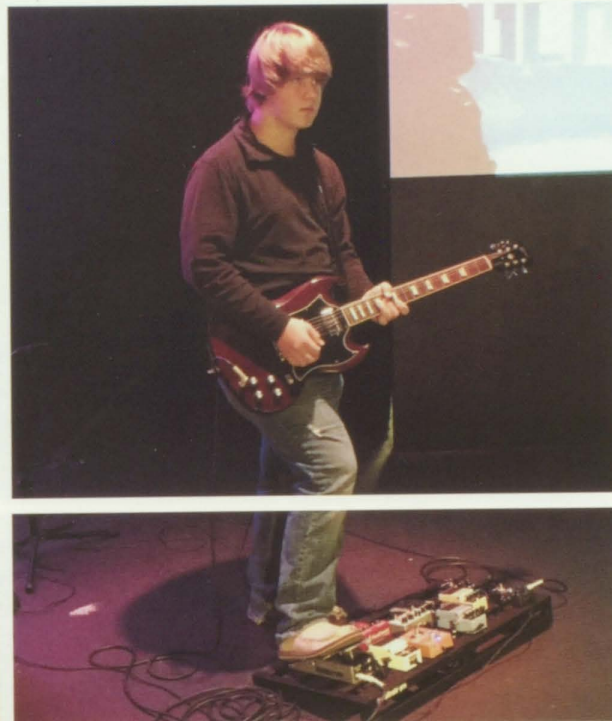

Many students took time out of their busy schedules in order to give back to the community. Due to the abundance of students with a passion for volunteer work, there were many successful clubs which fostered the students' love for charity. Clubs such as Key Club, National Honor Society, Spanish National Honor Society, Beta, FBLA, and Student Council sponsored many projects. Some of these projects included cleaning the computers labs, collecting money for various organizations, and selling Pulseras. As senior Lindsey Pierce stated, "Being a part of numerous clubs has given me the opportunity to give back to the community through different service projects such as canned food drives, operation Christmas child, and more!" Students made many sacrifices in order to serve the community. Some students even dedicated entire weekends to service projects. "I enjoy being involved in many clubs here at Central High School. It not only allows me to be active in the school, but also to help the community through service projects. It is a lot of fun working with other students who have the same passion for charity as I do," stated Key Club treasurer Erin Lewis. She, alongside many others, enjoyed dedicating time to community service.

Jimmy Knott, a sophomore musician, donated his time to play in Southern Hills' praise band. He not only enjoyed spending time helping out at the church but also enjoyed being able to do one of his favorite things- play music. Jimmy stated, "Being able to play in my church's praise band has been a life changing experience. I am able to fellowship with others who have the same passion as I do. It has been a lot of fun, definitely one of my favorite volunteering opportunities." Not only did Jimmy get to develop as a musician, but he also learned a lot through the responsibilities of this selfless act.

Juniors Taylor Reese and Anya Dunn sort through pulseras during lunch sales. Students came to their table in order to pick out their colorful bracelets. Along with the pulseras, handmade purses were sold in order to further support Nicaraguan communities. This project added color to the classrooms and helped to spread awareness for the country. Students were offered a more personal experience through the pictures and signatures included with each bracelet. Having this personal attachment to the artists made the experience of funding the communities an even greater experience.

What did you think about The Pulsera Project?

"The Pulsera Project was an incredible experience to take part in! We were able to help support Nicaraguan communities and brighten up the school while doing so!" - junior Anya Dunn

"This project allowed us a fun way to spread awareness for Nicaraguan culture, as well as help support them financially." - junior Courtney Allen

"The pulseras were a fun way to share a part of Nicaragua with Central." junior Erin Lewis

PAUSE and let's take a break!

Happy New Year! Freshmen ring in 2016 with excitement and a splash of silly. They celebrated by wearing 2016 glasses and tiaras. It was a great for them way to bring in the New Year, and it will definitely be a memory that stays with these freshmen for a long time!

Members of the Bass Fishing Club participate in a conservation project during the summer. Nick Montalto said, "We were planting water willows in effort to provide structure for the fish and to help maintain the water ecosystem." Bass club members loved the outdoors and were dedicated to protecting the environment.

Juniors Logan North and Katelyn Bennett spend a week of their summer vacation in Blue Ridge, Georgia. While there, they visited Mercer's Apple Orchard, ate on the Tennessee/Georgia line, and most importantly, they went white water rafting with their older sisters down the Ocoee River. The cold water did not deter them from taking on the rapids that challenged many during the 1996 Olympic games. Katelyn said, "It was so much being able to take on this adventure with some of my closest friends and my sister. It will definitely be an experience that I will never forget and I can't wait to do it again!" It was a unique experience that was enjoyed by everyone, and they cannot wait to do something like that again in the near future!

Junior Courtney Allen spends her summer kayaking in Asheville, North Carolina. Courtney said, "One of my favorite memories over the summer was kayaking to my favorite swimming hole and the bouldering rocks because it was just one of my many adventures in Asheville". She spent this time with her family and friends which made her experience even more memorable.

Breaks were something that every student, every teacher, and all of the faculty looked forward to. They were not only a time to take a break from the strenuous demands of 40 hour school weeks, but also an opportunity to hang out with family and friends. Students celebrated holidays in many ways. From hanging out on the lake to commemorate Labor Day, to ice skating during the Christmas holiday, students always managed to make the best of their time off. Although all of the breaks were much appreciated, summer break seems to take the cake in the cases of most students. Senior Timothy Duffey stated, "I love breaks - especially summer. School is usually really stressful, so having a break from it makes me really happy. It's a good time to focus on what's important other than school." Timothy, as well as the majority of the student body, valued their time off. Summer cravings seemed to get a little stronger once the New Year was brought in. Cold weather and pushing through the last semester had students wanting to trade their bell schedules for beaches. Overall, breaks were a great way to reward students for their hard work and dedication to the ever so demanding life of a high schooler.

Aloha from Hawaii! The Marching Pride spent an unusual Thanksgiving Break with a stunning view of a private lagoon on Waikiki Beach, Hawaii. The band performed at the USS Arizona memorial and marched in the 74th annual Pearl Harbor Parade. Band members loved the new experience and also the time to hang out with friends and family while exploring the island. Junior Merideth Johnson said, "my favorite part about Hawaii was experiencing a culture so similar to my favorite place, Nicaragua, but just with a Polynesian twist to it".

Freshman Sydney Wiggins plays in a volleyball tournament during the Martin Luther King Holiday Weekend. Sydney stated, "The atmosphere of a club tournament is more lively and competitive than a school match. Also, there are other teams in the club that you can bond with and support". During breaks there was more time for her to practice and play in volleyball tournaments. She was determined to improve upon her game and time away from school allowed that to happen.

What is your favorite school break and why?

"My favorite break is Thanksgiving break because I get to go see my family, and my favorite season is Fall."
- Stephanie Cook

"My favorite break is Spring break because I hate cold weather."
- Justin Nichol

"My favorite break is Summer break because it is the longest."
- Hunter Wilson

Rocking the Way Back Wednesday theme, juniors Brooke Thompson and Hope Harrison, together with sophomore Austin Gray, represent the decades well.

CHS students loved the one week of the school year where they could dress up and show their school spirit. The hallways were filled with spirited students dressed in Dynamic Duos, Cowboys v.s Indians, Way Back Wednesday, Spirit Day, and Under the "C" wear. Because it was their last year to dress up for homecoming, the Seniors went all out for the last fun week of their high school career. Senior Shelly Donaldson stated, "I really wanted to go above and beyond this school year since it is my last year as a Lion.

Being able to show off my school spirit by dressing out in all black for Spirit day was pretty amazing! I know this week will be the most memorable weeks ever!" Others enjoyed Homecoming Week as well. Freshman, Abigail Sadler said, "Way Back Wednesday was my favorite day of homecoming because I loved experiencing the different time periods and the different fashion choices everyone picked."

From babies to hippies and from Fred Flinstone to Scooby Doo, this group of students go above and beyond on Way Back Wednesday. The halls were filled with all different types of "way backs" and this picture was captured of some of the many spirited students.

Dressed as the characters off of the old television show, "The Teletubbies", Juniors Camille Heath, Grace Heath, Kayla Sales, Kimberly Johnson, and Caitly Terry enjoy Dynamic "Duo" day.

Showing off their school spirit and their love for "Napoleon Dynamite," Senior Jacob Willbanks and Junior Emily Williams dress as the main characters Napoleon and Pedro.

Dressed as the dynamic duo Minnie and Mickey Mouse, Seniors Emily Scoggins and Tim Duffey capture a memory of their last homecoming week.

Shoot, Scoreeeeeee! Freshmen Summer Ligon and Sydney Wiggins dress as a dynamic duo, a soccer player and soccer ball. They wanted to go outside the box for their first homecoming week.

Posing as a deer and hunter like their costumes, seniors Alyssa Paul and Kaylee Woodard show their school spirit.

Meowwww. Freshmen twins Haley and Hannah Thompson dress as cats on dynamic duo day. Even though it wasn't much, their noses and whiskers made everyone stop and do a double take.

How much time did you spend making your outfits?

"I ordered it online and I had to wait three days for it to get here from mlb.com." Mrs. Wooten, teacher

"It took my friend and me several days to think of our idea for duo day. When we finally agreed on what to do, it took us about two days to get our stuff together." Kinley Morris, freshman

"I took a few hours with my outfit because homecoming week is my favorite week or the school year." Averie Armstrong, junior

priceless wardrobes

Modeling two stark decades, freshmen Hannah Royals and Zion Robinson throw their style way back on Wednesday to glorify two era's stereotypical characters. Whether it be a Roman goddess or an 80's chick, these girls rocked the ages.

Homecoming week transcends that of any other week in the school year, bringing out both spirit and participation of students in all grades.

For the first time in years, students and faculty enjoyed a full week of dress up days rather than the usual four day setup. With more opportunities to embrace the homecoming spirit, students took costumes to the next level, creating an upbeat, joyful environment second to none. To mirror the week's theme "Under the 'C'", each grade level was given a different movie taking place in, under, or near the sea. Ninth grade successfully rocked the "Nemo" look, tenth grade accurately modeled "Spongebob" attire, eleventh grade embraced tacky tourists and hallmarks of "Lilo and Stitch", and twelfth grade sported their best pirate outfits to reflect "Pirates of the Caribbean". With dress up days amping up school spirit, the scene was set for a legendary homecoming football game like no other.

In search of homecoming success, junior Kayla Sales explores the possibilities of Hawaiian attire, dressing as the typical island tourist from head to toe. Eleventh grade was assigned "Lilo and Stitch" to resemble and follow this year's homecoming 'sea' theme. Incorporating a unique character from the movie, Kayla mimicked the nosy tourist, known for always spying and snooping in on Lilo and Stitch.

Taking care of business, 'Officer' Sydney Stone seizes her guilty inmate, Cassie Griffin, to incorporate the typical duo of cops and robbers into Monday's duo theme. Taking these roles seriously, they came to school with attire and attitude fit to a tee.

Bringing the blues back in style, juniors Tyler King and Cole Hodges unveil their love and connection to soul and rhythm. What better pair to embrace 70's music than the Blues Brothers, themselves? In hopes of delivering spot on imitation, these two kept straight faces to resemble the suave of Blues Brothers' past.

Captain Jack Sparrow and his pirate comrade, Savannah McWhorter, show off their most believable pirate expressions. Choosing instead to reflect the tenth grade theme, Mrs. Linda Morris sported Spongebob attire that was second to none.

The iconic Tom and Jerry, known as Abbey Cook and Mattie Hutcheson, embrace the rival of two well-paired characters for dynamic duo day. Ready to take care of Tom at last, Jerry prepared to rid his presence with a broom.

Decked out in black for Spirit Day and their last Homecoming pep rally ever, seniors Jake Duncan, Myranda Jiles, and Zach Spratlin enjoy the powder puff game together, cheering on the senior class. As long time friends, these three have shared countless homecoming memories that will last a lifetime.

Representing the unmistakable pair of life alert and grandmas, seniors Kierra Middleton and Alley Knight capture the frailty of aging elders with the reliability of a life saver. Wanting to think beyond classic pairs, the girls chose to dress as a unique yet well known match on Monday.

Grade by grade dress: What makes your class stand out?

"Homecoming is more than just a week to dress up. It's a tradition, and it celebrates who we were, who we are, and who we are becoming. And nobody does it better than the class of 2017." - Kimberly Johnson, junior

The senior class truly saw this as the year to go all out for Homecoming! We stood out as the class to wear some of the craziest costumes as we made memories for our last Homecoming. - Katie Blanton, senior

"We stand out because all of the seniors participated in homecoming this year and we show our school spirit. We had the most intensity during homecoming activities!" - Jake Duncan, senior

RECORD smile & wave

Hanging out of the side of the car, Mitchell Anderson shows off his awesome ride. He exclaimed, "It was nice to have people cheer for you, especially since I never expected to be on the court. The main thing for me was not falling out of the car!"

The annual homecoming parade brought community members of all ages together and helped build the excitement for the upcoming football game. The parade displayed the class representatives and club sweethearts who were voted from their peers. In addition, the celebration also featured the amazing band, children from the Central cluster schools, the awesome Air Force Junior ROTC, and of course the very spirited cheerleaders and football team! While watching the entertaining event, the anticipation rose while everyone wondered who would be crowned as the 2015 homecoming king and queen. First time parader and senior Megan Bailey expressed, "The parade was not as long as I had expected; however, I had a great time. I am extremely shy at times, but when all eyes were on me, I felt like a queen before the votes were cast, and that was good enough for me!"

Excited to be on the homecoming court her freshman year, Zion Robinson happily waves at the many people lined up along the road. She had the honor of being one out of two girls to represent the freshman class. After the parade, Zion said, "The homecoming parade was an amazing experience. I was blessed to be a part of it, but it was a little awkward waving at so many people with nobody waving back."

Starting off the entire event, a few of the committed members of the JROTC presented the colors. With the marching band following shortly behind, the members marched together through the anticipating people.

Smiling the whole way through, Alissa Anderson savors the moment as she cruises down the street. The senior was voted to be the varsity volleyball sweetheart by her teammates and she was very honored to represent her team.

Giving two thumbs up, senior Daniel Moyer enjoys the parade. Daniel stated, "The parade was memorable because I was in it with my little brother Stephen, who was with the CMS golf team!"

Having a great time, the Carroll County cluster schools cafeteria staff gets ready to begin the parade. These ladies along with many others are greatly appreciated for all they do!

Waving to everyone he passes, Justin Foster excitingly experiences his first homecoming parade. Justin represented the sophomore class and was voted to be on the court from his classmates. Justin had an amazing time and will always remember the day!

Wearing a beautiful light blue gown, Madison Nelms happily smiles and waves to the excited crowd. Madison was nominated by her friends to represent them as the drama sweetheart. She absolutely loved the attention of the parade and was blessed to be featured in it.

What model car did you ride in and what is its significance?

"I rode in a Chevrolet Camaro. Those are my favorite cars, so I was really thankful I had the chance to ride in one!" - Zoë Marriott, senior

"Unfortunately, I didn't get to ride in a cool car. I'm in the band, so I had to march." - Madison Smith, junior

"I was in a 1972 Pontiac LeMans. The car is a classic, American muscle car, and plus it matched my bow tie!" - Tyler Terry, senior Ladies and gentlemen, on October 23, 2015, CHS presented your homecoming King and Queen and welcomed to the throne CiCi Hammett and Tyler Terry. CiCi was actively involved in basketball, yearbook, track, FBLA, FCA, lion mentor program, NHS, SNS, and Beta Club. CiCi proclaimed, "I love to put smiles on others faces, but when I found out that the student body voted for me, it definitely put a smile on my face. It is a huge honor to represent Central." Tyler was involved in track and football. These two seniors worked hard to keep their grades up, be a leader, and have the pride of a lion. Tyler explained that his night was "sensational." He said, "Being a part of Central High School has been great, but being able to represent Central as homecoming king is even better." Congratulations King and Queen, Tyler Terry and CiCi Hammett.

candy every witch way

This "slick back" greaser stands with Elsa and two other friends as they make their way around the candy circle. These treaters had a great time at the Beta Club annual Trunk-Or-Treat.

The fourth annual Trunk or Treat was a sweet and spooky success, once again! It was filled with everything from baby strawberries and princesses, to Mr. Potato Heads and superheroes! Throwing it back with a board game theme, cluster children and adults of all ages got enjoyed the Halloween festivities. Club and sports teams including Beta, Key Club, Nutrition staff, the baseball team, the Lioness club, Spanish Honor Society, HOSA, wrestling, and many more created a one of a kind game piece. Beta Club president Alyssa Paul stated, "Helping out with Trunk-or-Treat brings a smile to my face knowing that I am helping my community and giving children something they love, candy!" The night consisted of games, candy, fellowship, laughter and multiple sugar rushes! It was safe to say that Central's Trunk-or-Treat was a night to remember for students, staff, and the trick-or-treaters!

What an adorable Strawberry! She walked around with her parents getting multiple compliments on her delightful costume.

High five Mrs. Potato Head! Astronaut Erin Lewis and Mrs. Potato Head herself, Anya Dunn, encourage the children and give them plenty of candy as they finish up the trunk or treat. Anya said, "It's so nice to see us come together as a community and have some fun outside of school!"

Trick or Treat, smell my feet is what Kelsi Glover received as these treaters asked for candy! Kelsi said, "It was really amazing seeing the happiness the kids had when I handed them candy. The smiles on their faces made it fun, too."

Dude look, they are potato heads! These two pals came prepared to charm the crowd and take the candy. Camo man and the classic vampire thoroughly enjoyed each others company.

Waka Waka Pacman! Kendall Eidson, Katie Thompson, and Emily Heath give candy to their little ghosts as they come by. Kendall said, "They were all so adorable, and I cant wait to do it next year."

Candy pleassssee! Garrett Lovvorn awaits the arrival of the trick or treaters and their some what scary and cute costumes with candy. Garrett worked the trunk or treat with the baseball team for the first time, and he did a very good job of making those kids happy!

"Take a picture of us with the deer," said the baseball team. The trunk theme was definitely an interesting one but the kids seemed to love seeing the team interact with the deer and getting an excess amount of candy!

What does Trunk-or-Treat mean to you?

"Trunk-or-Treat is a fun time for our community to come together and have some fun." - Hannah Puckett, Freshman

"Trunk-or-Treat is bringing the community of Carrollton together as a family, as one." - Dylan High, Sophomore

"Trunk-or-Treat is a night for our community and Central family to come together for a night full of laughter and candy!" - Erin Lewis, Junior

land of 1000 dances

Taking over the dance floor, Sophomores Morgan Collins and Katie Thompson and Senior Jaleel Terry break it down wiith Ms. June Stewart. Katie said, "I love dancing! I don't care who is watcing!"

Students "whipped" their way into a new tradition as they "waltzed" right into the very first annual Sadie Hawkins dance! The 2015-2016 school year was the perfect year to host the first girls' choice dance. Many girls, including Sophomore Lucy Grace McKenzie, spent hours making posters and devising the perfect proposal. Lucy Grace said, "It took me so long to come up with my proposal! I ended up having a proposal-birthday present combination!" Mrs. Morris and the student council members set up the cafeteria with lots of snowflakes and snowmen, transforming it from a lunchroom to a winter wonderland. The turnout was even better than expected as students flooded dance floor. From creative dance proposals to dress shopping to decorating the cafeteria, everyone involved in this dance definitely had a wintry blast. After all, the cold never bothered us anyway...

Starting the party, Junior Noah Hicks and Seniors Trent Paul and Alyssa Paul are some of the first students on the dance floor. They had just arrived but headed straight for the space right in front of the DJ. Junior Noah Hicks quoted Hank Williams and said, "I mean hey man, I was born to boogie!"

Modeling her new dress, Senior Rosemary Robinson surveys the dance from the sign-in table. She had looked far and wide for the perfect dress and just could not wait to show everyone her final choice.

Doing a conga line, students of all grades engulf the dance floor. Freshman John Sammons stated, "The conga line was a great way to end the night! Everyone was together and it was a just great end to a great night!"

Joking around, Freshman Landon Schulenburg and Junior Cole Hodges take a stereotypical couples photo. "Cole and I just love to joke, especially when there are cameras around," remarked Landon.

Staying late, Senior Madison Hutcheson and Sophomore Abbey Cook catch their Sadie's dates. Junior Tyler King said, "It honestly wasn't something I expected to see after leaving the locker room, but I loved it loved it!"

Braving the class change crowds, sophomore Carolina Butler lights up sophomore Clay Langely's morning with her bright idea of a Sadie's proposal. Clay remarked, "I was so happy when she asked me! I wouldn't have wanted to go to the dance with anyone else!"

Taking a break from pictures, sophomores Tyler Anderson, Logan Hughes, and Dylan McKinley converse while waiting on the rest of their group to finish. "Taking pictures was cool, but I had no idea how many pictures were going to be involved in a dance!" said Sophomore Tyler Anderson.

How do you think the first Sadie Hawkins went?

"Sadie Hawkins was everything we wanted it to be: A safe outlet for high schoolers to have fun." -Sophomore Ethan Hembree

"I think that the first Sadie Hawkins was a real success thanks to Mrs. Morris and student council; they did a great job organizing and decorating!" -Senior Lindsey Pierce

"Sadie Hawkins was great! I wouldn't have even realized that it was the first one if I hadn't been told!" -Freshman Sam Conerly

the moment

This group of prom goers enjoy their night by dancing the night away. Many had stated their favorite song to dance to was the "Cha-Cha Slide."

As one of the most awaited events of the school year, prom was more elegant than ever. Located at the Atlanta History Center in Buckhead, a different venue for Central, the prom theme was "a Midsummer Night's Dream." Preparing for the night can be stressful at moments; purchasing dresses, renting tuxedos, coordinating colors, scheduling photo shoots, and ordering flowers were just some of the tasks students (with the help of their parents) checked off the list. However, it all paid off to have the perfect hair, flawless make-up, the ideal date, and of course the right dress and matching tux. Everyone enjoyed their night by showing their moves on the dance floor and singing the words to almost every song as the night went on. The senior walk culminated with the announcement of prom king and queen, Daniel Moye and Sydney Stone, and the night provided memories students could cherish for a lifetime.

Getting into the groove, Anissa Ly and Kylie Hamilton enjoy the music at prom.

Congratulating the prom queen, senior Sydney Stone, Savannah McWhorter and Mattie Hutchinson share a quick conversation before getting lost on the dance floor.

Pre prom pictures allow junior Ali McKey and Donovan McEwen, her date, to show off in style around town. Carrollton is home to many great venues for prom pics, ranging from the Square to the Green Belt.

Junior Luke Hicks leads his date, junior Gissel Alonzo, to the dance floor. The prom began at 7:00 and ended at 10:00, and the dance floor was full the entire time.

Taking a break from the dance floor, Mary Powers, Caleb Williams, and Miranda Woods enjoy a laugh together.

After his name is announced, Daniel Moye, with assistance from Ms. Kaci Eady, excitedly dons his crown as Prom King. Daniel received many cheers as he made his way to the center of the ball room.

Catching a quick selfie before prom are Drew Smith and Alana Lyle. They met friends on the bridge at the Hays Mill section of the Green Belt for pics before they headed to Atlanta.

What was your favorite aspect for preparing for prom?

"Having an excuse to wear fake eyelashes!" - Lindsey Ortiz, junior

"To pick out a prom dress that's better than last years and feel really pretty." -Aisha Lawson, senior

"Picking out the best dress and trying them on until i find the right one" -Jillian Kellett, junior

teacher of the year

Coach Smith's students are heavily intrigued with their discussion of the Civil War. Lee Laney said, "This was one of my favorite units of the year and Mr. Smith really makes the information connect."

Joshua Smith doubled as a coach and a teacher. He taught U.S. History and AP U.S. History; he also coached basketball and football. Smith has always been recognized as a great person as well as being good at his job. He said, "My favorite part of teaching is seeing the light bulb moment with students when they are able to make a connection between the past and the present." Students that have had Mr. Smith said their favorite part of his class were the songs he made for them. He combined his guitar talents with his creativity to write songs to teach his students. Brooke Taylor said, "I've never had a teacher that cared that much about my future, he really made a difference in my life." His fellow teachers and coaches enjoyed working with him. Joshua Smith had an indescribable love for his job and the people involved in his everyday school and game days, which is one of the many reasons why he was named Teacher of the Year.

Coach Smith greets a student at the beginning of class. Junior Kent Evans said, "I enjoy Coach Smith's class because he inspires me to be the best person I can be in the classroom and on the field."

Very passionate in educating his students on the topic of the past, present, and possible future, Coach Smith lets his students know all about who built our country and how we keep it going.

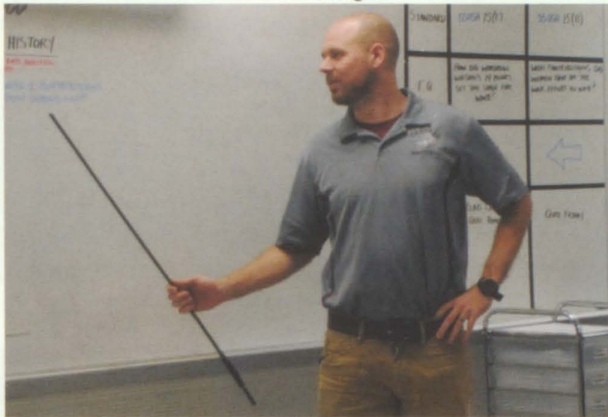

Laughing at the comment from a student, Coach Smith incorporates comedy while he teaches. His teaching style always included his sense of humor to make the classroom entertaining and informative.

Selected by his colleagues, teacher of the year Josh Smith motivates and encourages his students as well. Students love his humorous personality and his motivating teaching and coaching style.

As opposed to his usual coaching position, Josh Smith grabs a meter stick and goes to work in the classroom. Although he looked like an all-business guy, Coach Smith was known for his guitar and songs.

During the JV football game against Callaway, Coach Josh Smith calls the route for the wide receivers on the next drive.

What's your favorite part of Mr. Smith's class?

"I love the songs he writes and sings for us! It really makes each student feel really interactive with the class!"
-Anya Dunn

Where did our little girl go? From the time you were born you have held a special place in our hearts, as well as in the hearts of those who have come to know you over time. The years have flown by and now our sweet baby girl has grown into a special young woman and about to head off to college for the next phase of life. As you continue your journey, never loose sight of your God given dreams. "For I know the plans I have for you, declares the Lord, plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." (Jeremiah 29:11) Our prayer is that you will keep the faith, hold on to the promises of God and let your life song bring glory and honor to Him. Athletic representatives from the freshman and senior classes fought it out during the annual powderpuff game.

Cassie Griffin, an aggressive contributor on the senior team, intercepted a pass from freshman quarterback Faith Bennett while being cheered on by her coaches on the sidelines. Teachers stood by and observed the students' competitive spirits.

"This year had to be one of the best. The volleyball season got more and more enjoyable as the season went on, because we grew closer together." - Senior Emily Robison.

"This year my favorite part of homecoming was getting together with my good friend to make our tie die shirts for the dress up day way back Wednesday." - Sophomore Emily Justice

Sophomore Jarrod Jackson ran the point guard position for the Lions basketball team. He helped the Lions win multiple games.

Central had a fantastic year. Succeeding in many areas including sports, clubs, and academics, the Lion Family had a year for the books. The football team finished with a 9-2 record and a region runner up title as third year head football coach Rico Zackery led them in his final year at CHS. The softball team won the region championship and finished fourth in the GHSA AAA tournament. The wrestling team sent seven wrestlers to individual state championships and qualified for team state for the first time in Central High School wrestling history. It made a stellar year for second year coach, Coach Fountain. As if that weren't enough, the basketball, soccer tennis, baseball and track teams also had an incredible year. Central not only showed out in athletics, but also in their extra curricular activities. FBLA finished second place in Region competition. The Beta Club took on the task of organizing Trunk or Treat, making a fun filled night for children all throughout the county. The academic team won the county tournament after an incredible comeback. CHS also had a great year in the classroom. In addition to the great accomplishments the year, for the first time, Central High School was named one of the most challenging high schools in the nation by the Washington Post.

One of the dress up days for homecoming week this year was "dynamic duo" That is when Abbie and Vyla got the great idea to dress up as ketchup and mustard!

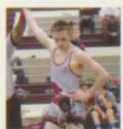

A new tradition started this year. Every time Central scored, some of the seniors ran down the track and waved the school's flag.

What was your favorite part of the 2015-2016 school year?

"My favorite part of the school year is soccer season because I get to be aggressive on the field!" - Merideth Johnson

"Homecoming was my favorite part of the school year because I got to dress up with my friends and coach powderpuff" -Dawson Hunt

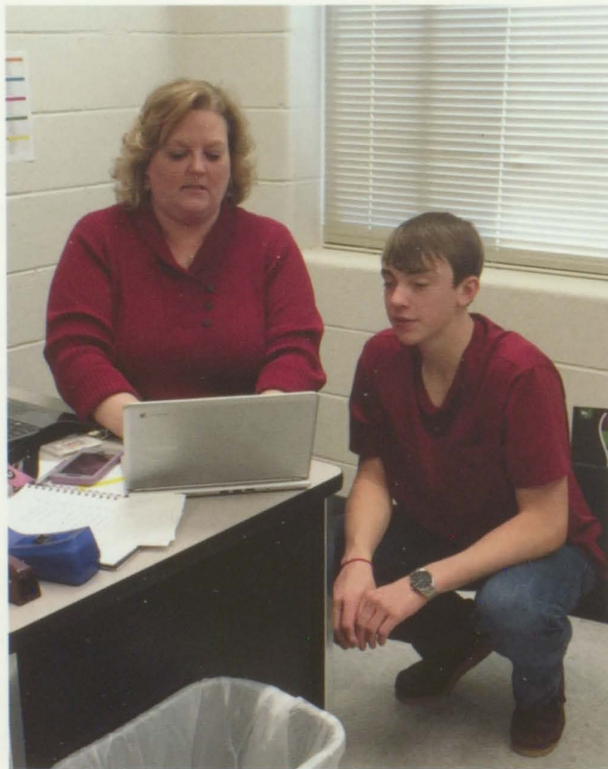

"I really like being able to participate in dual enrollment. Having classes at the college was a really cool experience." -Courtney Allen

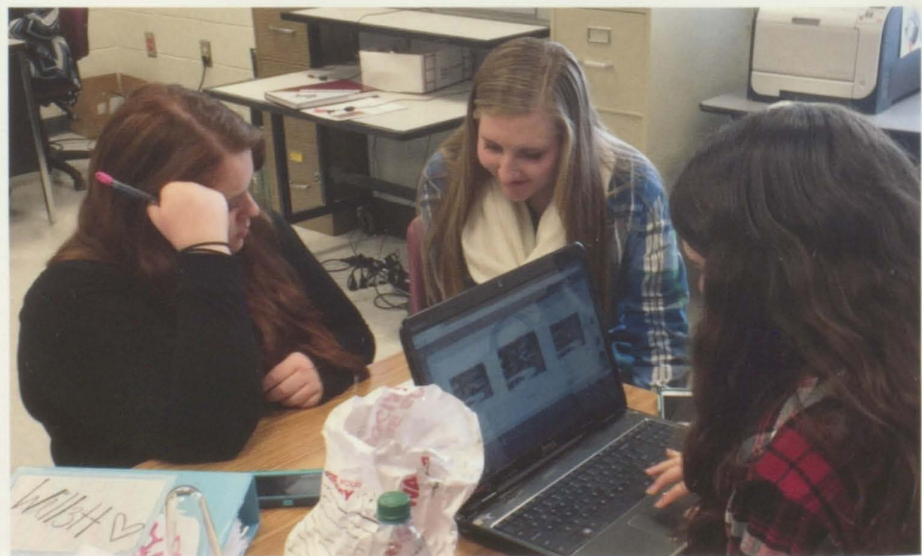

PLAY back memories

The 2015-2016 Leonine staff consisted of many hardworking, dedicated, and creative students. Staffers Carolina Butler, Katie Schmittou, Rebecca Sticher, Courtney Allen, Logan North, Griffin Thomas, Dallin Anderson, Amelia Farmer, Drew Smith, CiCi Hammett, Clara Denney, Grace Heath, Averie Armstrong, Emma Yarbrough, Brittany Ledbetter, Zion

Robinson, Hunter Teal, Kaitlyn Patterson, and Keyonia Thrash were led by editors Emily Robison, Emily Willett, and Sydney Stone. Staffers proofed each page and devised creative ideas, and most importantly, they worked arduously and went above and beyond to produce a great product. Along with the editors, yearbook adviser Mrs. Monica Smith went out of her way to help create a school spirited and memorable yearbook. Being a part of the yearbook staff was a great responsibility, however, it was well worth it. First year staffer Amelia Farmer said, "I've loved being able to record the memories of the 2016 school year." Along with Amelia, every other staffer loved being able to create a book that afforded alumni the opportunity to reminisce about their days of being a Central Lion.

Averie Armstrong and Clara Denney begin working on the wrestling page as CiCi Hammett and Keyonia Thrash selected the perfect basketball pictures to use.

Senior Dallin Anderson puts the template on the closing page to which he was assigned. He was determined to make every page the best it could be.

What's your favorite aspect of creating a yearbook?

"I love putting all of the best memories of the year into one book that we will have forever."
- Sydney Stone, senior

"I like talking to all the different groups of people in the school for interviews, and not just my friend group."
- Emma Yarbrough, freshman

"I enjoy being able to go to many sporting events and other school activities to take pictures."
- Grace Heath, junior

Rewind:The Colophon

Central High School's annual yearbook, The Leonine, Volume 57, was printed by Herff Jones, Inc., Gettysburg plant. This edition was created using 80# gloss paper stock with 9x12 inch trim. The cover was Vista Custom EMB/ Litho debossed with a "play" symbol. It was produced using 706 white ink. This book was bound with Squarebacked Binding. The primary fonts used throughout this production were AHJ Square Serif Medium, AHJ Square Serif Bold Italic, and AHJ Syntax H Heavy.

We hope that you thoroughly enjoyed this edition of the Leonine. The yearbook staff worked extremely hard and with attention to every detail to make Volume 57, "Now Playing: Central High School" the best yearbook to date.

Every year our goal is to make a book that captures the great memories and moments made while being a Central Lion. While completing this task, we often called on many individuals to give us a helping hand in order for us to achieve our goal of capturing the true spirit of lion pride. The yearbook staff would especially like to thank Linda Morris for her phenomenal photo contributions and eye for design; Sandy Duffey, for everything from delivering messages to orchestrating events; Wanda Akin, for fielding calls and parents interested in purchasing books; and parents Renee North and Molly North for their photo contributions. We would also like to extend our greatest gratitude towards the Central High School administrative staff and teachers for their continued support of the Leonine and for making this a very memorable school year. We applaud the dedication of Monica Smith, especially, in taking time to make this book possible and taking charge of this great responsibility. The 2016 Central High School Leonine Staff is honored to have been part of such an important production, and we hope that in the near future this book helps you remember 2016 from a lion's perspective, evoking school pride and unmatched nostalgia in more ways than one. In light of this year, we press on.
