What does inclusion and specialized instruction look like for our Exceptional Learners?

- Our Exceptional Learners receive specialized instruction through a combination of supports and accommodations that encourage and support them in reaching their full potential.
- In addition to our special education teachers, grade-level teachers are supported by our instructional assistants who collaborate and work alongside special education teachers to support Exceptional Learners in the classroom.
- Our students receive specialized instruction in both the general and special education classroom settings depending on their individual needs.
- Our students participate in grade-level general education classes, special education small-group classes, and exploratory classes.

*NEW This Year!

Adapted PE class, led by Mr. Wade Norman!
Our students recently participated in the Little Feet Meet, which marked the beginning of our Unified program here at RCPS. Please reach out to Wade for more information on what this program is all about.

How do I know how my student is doing?

Along with regular grade-level communication and newsletters, our Exceptional Learners receive progress reports at the end of every quarter which document their progress on their individual IEP goals. Please reach out to your child's case manager at any time if you have questions related to their IEP or their overall educational program.

Progress looks good on you!

What other resources are available to my student?

We have a variety of services available to our students. In addition to special education services provided by our teachers, we also have access to a talented team of related service providers who service our students' communication needs, occupational therapy needs, and vision needs. Our students also have access to our Student Wellness team to support their social and emotional needs.

REMEMBER! Your child's IEP is a living, working document, and can be revisited at any time during the school year. If you have questions regarding your child's IEP or the IEP process, reach out to the special education team. We look forward to partnering with you to ensure your student's success.
