HEMINGWAY ELEMENTARY CAFETERIA UNVEILS RENOVATED DINING AND SERVING AREA AS SUMMER FEEDING PROGRAM COMMENCES

On Monday, June 9, Hemingway Elementary School will officially open its doors to a completely renovated dining and serving area in the cafeteria, just in time for the start of the district's summer feeding program.

The renovation, which was designed under the leadership of the previous director, is now being implemented by the Williamsburg County School District's new Director of Nutrition Services, Tory Pryor Gibson. This transformation demonstrates the district's ongoing commitment to enhancing the student dining experience by providing a safe, welcoming, and modern environment that supports both nutrition and learning.

"We are excited for our students and families to experience the fresh, new space this summer. This renovation is more than just a cosmetic update; it reflects our investment in our scholars' well-being and in creating a place where they feel cared for and valued," said Gibson.

Students participating in the district's summer feeding program will be the first to enjoy the updated cafeteria, which ensures that children continue to receive nutritious meals even while school is out. This renovation is a significant achievement for our school community. Our students deserve the best, and this is just one more way we're ensuring they receive it. This renovation marks the completion of updates to all nine cafeterias in the district. We will continue to strive to become the #1 School Nutrition Services Program in the state of South Carolina.
