NHS FCCLA Welcomes the Class of 2030 During Meet and Greet

The Northside High School FCCLA officer team proudly participated in this year's Meet and Greet, helping welcome the newest Eagles as they prepare for an exciting school year.

Throughout the event, FCCLA members greeted incoming ninth graders and new students, answered questions about Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA), and shared information about the opportunities available through the chapter. From competitive STAR Events and leadership development to community service and travel opportunities, students learned how FCCLA helps members grow both inside and outside the classroom.

In addition to promoting FCCLA, the officers served as friendly guides by helping students locate classrooms, navigate the building, and feel more comfortable on their first visit to Northside High School. A welcoming smile and a helping hand can make all the difference, and the chapter members were honored to be part of creating a positive first impression for the newest Eagles.

Service, leadership, and making meaningful connections are at the heart of FCCLA. Participating in Meet and Greet was just one of the many ways the chapter is committed to serving their school community and ensuring every student feels welcomed and supported.

FCCLA at NHS is excited to see what this school year has in store and can't wait to welcome new members into the Northside FCCLA family. Here's to a year filled with leadership, service, friendships, and unforgettable memories.

The conference brought together thousands of students from across the country to compete in national business events, develop leadership skills, and connect with future business professionals. Houston County students proudly represented Georgia while earning recognition on the national stage.

Daniel Dong and Santiago Florence placed seventh nationally in their competition, marking a significant achievement for both Houston County High School and Georgia FBLA.

Beyond competition, members had the opportunity to experience the host city and strengthen friendships throughout the week. Students explored the iconic San Antonio River Walk, where they enjoyed local restaurants, shops, and the unique atmosphere of one of Texas's most well-known destinations. Team dinners provided time to celebrate accomplishments, reflect on the day's events, and build stronger connections outside of competition.

Members also participated in one of FBLA's most popular traditions by trading state pins with students from across the country. Through pin trading, members met students representing every corner of the United States, exchanged stories about their chapters, and formed new friendships while collecting unique keepsakes from each state. These experiences made the conference memorable and highlighted the sense of community that extends throughout the national FBLA organization.

The National Leadership Conference served as an inspiring conclusion to another successful year for Houston County FBLA. Members returned home with new ideas, stronger leadership skills, and motivation for the upcoming competition season. The chapter looks forward to continuing its tradition of excellence throughout the 2026-2027 school year and hopes to once again qualify students for the 2027 National Leadership Conference set for Columbus, Ohio.

HCHS FBLA Student Kicks Off the Year at Georgia FBLA Region Officer Academy

This summer, Georgia FBLA Region Officers gathered at Camp John Hope for the annual Region Officer Academy (ROA), a two-day, one-night leadership experience. Nishi Prajapati, a 2026–2027 Georgia FBLA Region 6 Officer from Houston County High School, joined officers from across the state to build leadership skills, strengthen teamwork, and prepare for a successful year of serving their regions. The academy began with an opening session, followed by icebreakers and group activities where teams worked together to create an engaging FBLA workshop from a seemingly boring topic. Later, officers put their teamwork to the test by participating in The Vault, an interactive escape-style challenge.

After a full day of learning and collaboration, the fun continued with glow-in-the-dark volleyball and kickball, giving officers the chance to connect outside the classroom. The next morning, officers attended a public speaking workshop to strengthen their presentation skills before rehearsing the Region Leadership Conference procedures for the upcoming conference season.

ROA concluded with a meaningful network web activity that highlighted the connections made throughout the academy. Over just two days, officers formed lasting friendships, created unforgettable memories, and gained valuable leadership experience. "ROA allowed me to grow as a leader while building friendships with officers from across Georgia," said Prajapati. "I can't wait to use what I learned to serve Region 6 throughout the 2026–2027 school year."
