COMMUNITY MEMBERS VISIT HEMINGWAY ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

Hemingway Elementary School recently welcomed community members for a special visit that highlighted the school's creative environment and student-centered culture. Guests toured the hallways led by HES Parent Facilitator Ms. Mary Wilson, to view colorful murals that showcase student talent and promote school pride. They also took time to connect directly with students during lunch.

The murals, created to inspire and brighten the learning environment, reflect themes of growth, community, and achievement. Walking through the halls, visitors expressed admiration for the vibrant artwork and the positive energy it brings to the school.

In addition to the tour, community members rolled up their sleeves and joined students in the cafeteria, helping to serve meals and engaging in friendly conversation. The visit demonstrated the strong partnership between Hemingway Elementary and the broader community, underscoring the shared goal of supporting students both academically and socially.

Principal Woodrow Nesbitt, Jr. expressed gratitude for the involvement of local partners. "When our community steps inside our schools—whether it's to admire the creativity of our students or to share a meal with them—it reinforces that we are all working together for the success of every child," said Principal Nesbitt.

The event is part of Williamsburg County School District's continued efforts to build strong ties between schools and their surrounding communities, ensuring that students feel supported both inside and outside the classroom.
