Mrs. Chandler | Week 8 September 25-29

What We Are Learning

Reading: I can identify the main ideas by thinking about what a text is mostly about. I can identify key details and explain how they support the main idea. I can understand how characteristics and behaviors of different ocean animals aid their survival.

Math: I can multiply within 100 (focus on 0-5 and 10.) I can decide which operation is needed to find the unknown and then solve for the unknown. I can identify the multiplication fact that relates to a given division fact. I can identify the unknown factor in a division equation.

Language: I can identify and use plural nouns in a sentence.

Writing: I can recount a story retelling the key events from the main character's point of view.
