"OMISSION CAN LEAD TO COMMISSION,"

What is the sin that is committed in the parable recorded in the 16th Chapter of St. Luke's Gospel that would send this poor sumptuously-dining, well-dressed rich man to a place of torment? Again, isn't our Lord being a little t-o-o harsh here? Well, let's unpack and personally reflect on these readings.

Amos describes a person who is slothful, rich, at ease in Zion. He also implies that these people are lazy, lying on beds of ivory, stretched out on couches. HMMMMMM? Now that's an interesting image to reflect upon! Do we know any lazy folks who stretch out on couches? He also describes the rich as being entertained by idle songs and who drink wine from bowls. Here we can imagine nightclubs, overpriced sports bars, or those just sitting idle in front of the TV or computer, binge-watching some mindless series. I'm just throwing out some possible examples to think about. Amos also speaks about the indifference among the Israelites. He says they are not grieved at the ruin of "Joseph" (Joseph is another name for the Northern Kingdom of Israel). So how does indifference apply to us today in our society? Well, maybe we just "go with the flow" when it comes to abortion, or euthanasia, or transgenderism, or folks who live in disordered relationships, such as practicing homosexuals, or the divorced among us who think it's okay to live with their new partner. Again, I'm just throwing out some ideas that might help us resonate on being indifferent. So what are we going to do about it? The silence is deafening. Besides, some might say, "I'm a good person. I don't hurt anyone. Can't we all just get along and each mind our own business?" B-o-o-o-o-o-o!

Let's talk about the nameless rich man in today's Gospel. First of all, our Lord does not describe him as dishonest, as He did about the stealing steward in last Sunday's Gospel. Nor does He present him as an immoral person sleeping with prostitutes, like the Prodigal Son. Actually, the rich man described in today's Gospel might even be a "nice guy," educated, and respected in society. Is he a practicing Jew going to synagogue every week? Is he mindful of the commandments and maybe even prays once in a while? Granted, the Scriptures don't mention any of this, but we can presume some of these things are true. Right? Here is how Jesus describes the rich man: Luxuriously-dressed in purple garments (as a king would wear) and gluttonously-feasting on sumptuous food every night (maybe at Ruth's Chris Steak House?). His sin was not his wealth but his indifference to poor Lazarus, covered with sores and starving. His sin is what we would call the SIN OF OMISSION. Decidedly, the rich man's wealth contributed to his being distracted and indifferent to his less fortunate neighbor, Lazarus.

Pope Benedict XVI wrote about the rich man from this parable in his encyclical, Spe Salvi: "Jesus admonishes us through the image of a soul destroyed by arrogance and opulence, a soul who has created an impassable chasm between himself and the poor man; the chasm of being trapped within material pleasures; the chasm of forgetting the other, the chasm of the incapacity to love, which then becomes a burning and unquenchable thirst. We must note that in this parable Jesus is not referring to the final destiny after the Last Judgment, but is taking up a notion found in early Judaism; namely, that of an intermediate state between death and resurrection, a state in which the final sentence is yet to be pronounced" (No. 44).

Look, we are all tempted to sin and some sins are graver than others are. Yet, seldom do we think of the reality of sin when we are also tempted NOT to do good. What? Is it possible to be doing nothing wrong and still be living in sin? Yes! Recall again the nameless rich man in today's Gospel or the indifferent Israelites in the Book of Amos. Their sin is the sin of not doing what they should be doing and not doing what is demanded of them by God's commandment, which is to Love God and Neighbor. But "who is my neighbor?," you may ask? How can we ask that question when there are so many references in the Bible that demand us to love the stranger, like the Good Samaritan did; or to love even when you have been taken advantage of, like the Prodigal Son's father was; or to love your enemy like Christ did when He begged His Father for forgiveness for those who crucified Him. Being indifferent to the stranger among us is easy to do and it is also dangerous to our soul!

A Homily by the Pastor, Fr. Philip

(Preached on September 29, 2019)

Here is another quote on the sin of omission from the Letter of St. James: "Anyone, then, who knows the good he ought to do and doesn't do it, sins" (James 4:17). Doing nothing can sometimes be a worse sin than doing something that is bad. Recall again the story of the Prodigal Son that we read at Mass on the 24th Sunday of Ordinary Time. Why didn't the older brother go after his little brother? He obviously knew what his little brother was doing with his inheritance because the older brother tells the father what sins the Prodigal Son committed: "...[he] swallowed up your property with prostitutes...". This is a classic example of the sin of omission because the omission of doing good (like going after your brother when he is living in sin) is the commission of evil! That's right, the sins of the Prodigal Son are also those of the accusing older brother because he failed to do what he ought to have done: rescue his little brother! Can we relate to the sin of the older brother? I can.

In other words, we can avoid doing evil and live hard-working lives and even be considered a "nice guy," but this will not render us sinless. Again, the reason being, as illustrated in the famous stories of the Prodigal Son and his brother and the Poor Rich Man and Lazarus, is that the good we ought to do, that we are not doing, is sin. Here are some practical examples that may help us understand and avoid the sins of omission:

1. It is a sin to lie, but...have you ever overheard someone telling a lie about another that could hurt that person's reputation, and you just sat there without defending him or her?
2. It is a sin to steal from another, but...have there been times when you could have helped someone who was in serious financial need but you gave him or her nothing? Ponder this quote from Proverbs 3:27: "Do not withhold good from those who deserve it, when it is in your power to act."
3. It is a sin to commit adultery, but...have you missed an opportunity to offer counsel to someone in your life living an adulterous life or to one who is addicted to pornography?
4. It is a sin to miss Mass on Sundays and Holy Days of Obligation, but...do you ever invite any of your friends or loved ones who have fallen away from the Church to join you at Mass?
5. It is a sin to gossip, but...what have you said to those who started gossiping in front of you? Did you listen eagerly and just let your curiosity be in control?
6. It is a sin to commit abortion, but...have you ever cast your vote for a pro-abortion politician? On the positive side, have you ever taken the time to pray in front of an abortion clinic? Or told a friend or family member in a crisis pregnancy that you will be there to offer your help and your support during her pregnancy and after the child is born?
7. It is a sin to say God's name in vain and to use the name of Jesus in an exclamatory way, but...what have you done when someone near you shouted out, "JESUS CHRIST!," perhaps in anger or perhaps because the home team made a touchdown? Did you act like it didn't bother you or maybe you even laughed or joined in cheering? (If you really want to get a reaction in such a situation, turn off the television the next time that happens.)

There are times in our lives when NOT doing something we should do could actually lead to a sin of commission by someone else. Which means the person who did nothing in the face of another's sin is just as guilty of the sin as the person who committed the sin! Indifference, apathy, shrugging one's shoulders, walking away, saying, "it's your life, not mine" or "it's none of my business," are all examples of the sin of omission. Look at it this way, the doing of nothing on your part can be a major cause for the doing of evil on the part of your neighbor.

Take some time this week and reflect on the examples listed above. Who committed the sin of omission in the story of the Good Samaritan?

In the story of the Prodigal Son, can you identify with the older brother who knew about his little brother's sins and did nothing? Or how about the rich man who was indifferent to Lazarus and who carelessly shrugged as he walked by him every day, oblivious to his decay? Maybe we can see Lazarus as a personification of our society today. We are dreadfully decaying away with the deadly sores of immorality, all the while staying silent and doing nothing. Remember, omissions are sins which will be brought into the final judgment. So as we are all preparing for final judgment through the Sacrament of Reconciliation, think about when the last time was that you confessed a sin of omission.

SCHOOL NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY

SAINT THERESE CARMELITE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NONDISCRIMINATION POLICY FOR 2019-2020:

The School, mindful of its mission to be a witness to the love of Christ for all, admits students regardless of race, color, national origin, and/or ethnic origin to all rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the School. The School does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, disability, medical condition, sex, or national and/or ethnic origin in the administration of educational policies and practices, scholarship programs, and athletic and other School-administered programs, although certain athletic leagues and other programs may limit participation and some Archdiocesan schools operate as single-sex schools. While the school does not discriminate against students with special needs, a full range of services may not always be available to them. Decisions concerning the admission and continued enrollment of a student in the School are based upon each student's emotional, academic, and physical abilities and the resources available to the School in meeting the student's needs.

PERSIST!

Today's readings are about persistence. Exodus tells of a battle won despite weariness because Moses, with help from Aaron and Hur, held his hands upraised. Timothy asks that same persistence of his community and us. Luke tells of a court case won by a widow, despite the dishonesty of the judge, because she will not leave him alone. The Psalm reminds us that God is everywhere, guarding us from harm day and night, coming and going, now and forever. The readings are about the relentless, unwavering pursuit of what must not be lost. The readings are about God's passionate persistence in pursuing us, seeking to win our hearts.
