- Mr. Hawkins - Hawk-man!! I loved having you as a director, and I'm gonna miss seeing you on the podium. I'm also gonna miss hearing your creative jokes or niche references to old TV shows that only two other people understand. Wishing you the best for the band!

JUST A NOTE

These SENIOR WILLS are not to be judged on grammar. SENIORS realize that this is a tradition that is meant as a way for them to remember the underclassmen and the faculty/staff they are leaving behind as they say goodbye to EHS.

Also, please do not be critical of students who did not write a SENIOR WILL. ChatGPT had a few thoughts that might help explain what happened to one or all of “The Rest of the Class.”

Classic Senioritis Energy

- “Was going to finish this... but then I remembered I already got into college.”
- “Ran out of motivation somewhere around second semester.”
- “Procrastinated this like every assignment since April.”

Time Management (or Lack of It)

- “Between naps, snacks, and avoiding responsibility, I just ran out of time.”
- “My planner said ‘write will,’ but my bed said ‘absolutely not.’”
- “Spent all my time pretending to study for finals.”

Over-the-Top Dramatic Excuses

- “I would have finished, but my emotional support water bottle went missing.”
- “I blinked and suddenly it was graduation week.”

School-Themed Humor

- “Waiting on my teacher to accept late work... including this.”
- “Turned this in mentally—hope that counts.”
- “I put it in Google Docs, so technically it exists.”
- “Canvas says it’s submitted.”

Short & Punchy One-Liners

- “Senioritis won.”
- “0% effort, 100% graduate.”
- “See me after graduation.”
