HEMINGWAY CAREER CENTER INDUCTS THIRTEEN SCHOLARS INTO THE NATIONAL TECHNICAL HONOR SOCIETY

On Tuesday, March 11, 2025, at 6:00 PM, thirteen students from the Hemingway Career and Technology Center took an oath to become the first members of the National Technical Honor Society (NTHS) in 40 years to be inducted at the center. The National Technical Honor Society is a non-profit educational organization that aims to honor, recognize, and empower students and teachers in Career and Technical Education. NTHS focuses on seven key attributes: Skill, Scholarship, Leadership, Honesty, Responsibility, Service, and Citizenship. Chapter Advisor Dr. Richard Scott stated, "These students have worked extremely hard and deserve this honor." Mrs. Denise Washington serves as the assistant advisor.

These students have met the rigorous standards set forth by NTHS and are now part of a distinguished group that values education and professional development. Throughout their academic journey, they have exemplified leadership, scholarship, and character. We commend them for their hard work and dedication. They will receive their membership materials during the upcoming induction ceremony, where we will celebrate their accomplishments.
