2	I don't really have additional comments. Eagle Springs serves my child well!	2/14/2025 3:37 PM
3	Be more aware of bullying, kids feelings, and how they're treated by staff and students. Numerous times my child's came home in tears and fear of getting others in trouble. Yet they are the ones getting in trouble.	2/14/2025 2:20 PM

9	Cut back on all of the "fundraising" asked for on a near weekly basis for some made up event. "If your child participates/you donate, they get a participation prize". In order for your child to not feel left out as others get a "gift", you are coerced into paying the $. Stop asking for parents to buy materials, snacks, etc and send them in for every event every week. We already provided school supplies before school started. Then provided a required school supply item again on the first day of school. EVERY time the class is crafting some item, the school asks for money to cover that and/or asks for the supplies to craft it. If the school/teacher has some craft worked into their curriculum, the school has the money to pay for it. Tax payers money should go to helping the students learn, not pay salaries for extra employees to "create events" that parents have to again come out of pocket for. More actual learning, in lieu of an ABSURD amount of days off. And the ridiculous days immediately after a holiday for "distance learning". The school employs teachers. They should be teaching instead of everybody taking an extra day. It seems school is out a few days every few weeks. Rather than focus on raising money for things that should already be covered, let's do 5 days a week working with kids to teach a useful curriculum. I know things have evolved since we were students, but it seems a lack of attendance to help kids learn being paired with holding a hand out is a bit of a regression. This is my vague, short version. If you've read all of this. I appreciate your time. Have a great day.	2/14/2025 7:46 AM also I see where there's room for improvement in many areas. Such as parent teacher conferences things change for a week and then right back to the same. I would like more knowledge on what my child is learning so I can help at home with what they're struggling with so that learning doesn't just end at school. Like flash cards spelling words what they're learning in science and history. All that's ever sent home is a reading page and 2 math pages when in reality they start to struggle with other studies because it's not being brought forward enough

26	Parent Teacher Liasion has changed the climate in a negative way. Parents ideas and suggestions are not heard and fundraising ideas are at the discretion of this liasion instead of at the will of the Parents who have ben at this school for years versus a new hire who is new here.	2/8/2025 10:43 AM

30	I would encourage teachers to have a monthly planner that they could share with parents which outlines the things they would be focusing on and what are they expected to know by the end of each week. Also please make the result a grade or a number so we can better access how much help does a child need in each subject	2/5/2025 9:11 AM
31	I really enjoyed the way bright night was structured tonight and feel a lot of us parents benefited from it. Being able to get hands on with learning the way our children are being taught will help us be able to better help them at home, and I would love to be able to have something like this more often especially in the beginning of the year to help keep them from falling behind. I know it would be difficult and unfair keeping teachers after school too often, so even if we would get a video sent monthly or weekly that just goes through new things our children have learned, what they should be working on, and how they should work on it, that would be very helpful!	2/4/2025 6:38 PM

34	The teachers seem very irritated and show little to no empathy towards the students and it's concerning how comfortable they are talking to the students in a disrespectful manner.	2/4/2025 8:30 AM
35	Don't send kids to school sick and get everybody else's kids sick and then they miss to much school	2/4/2025 7:31 AM
36	Sharing monthly information/ calendar more in advance and not the beginning of the month so parents/guardians have more time to take off for activities or resourceful events. Also, teachers if there are classroom activities coming up that need volunteers or donations needed give more than a week notice so parents are not going last minute to pick up items needed.	2/3/2025 1:16 PM
37	An easy to read break down of what the kids will be learning, given out on a periodic basis. The standards found online are long and complicated and I often feel like I don't actually know what my child does every day.	2/3/2025 12:39 PM
