BEAM ME UP SCOTTY!

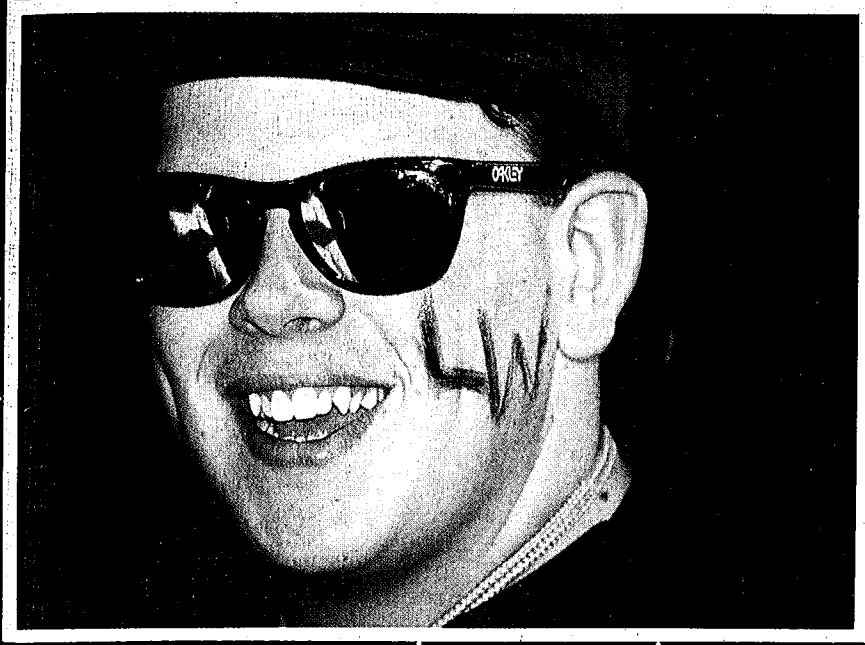

Beam Me Up, Scotty

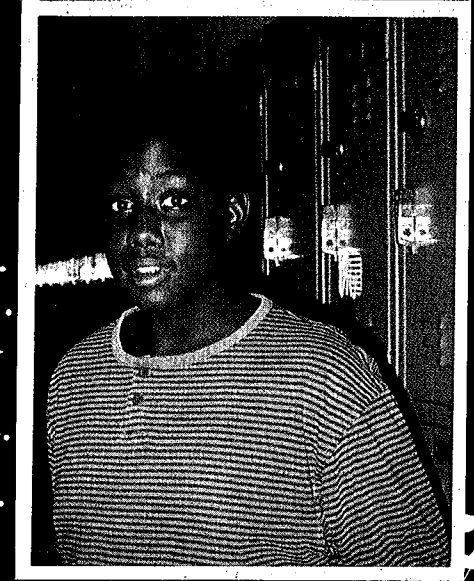

Captain Robert Hughes and First Lt. Eric Donaldson take cover from the lethal rays of alien phasers . . . or maybe not Sporting the Oaklies, James Dykes reflects another being.

Ricky Haywood-Watson cautiously enters the crowded halls of the "High School Twilight Zone."

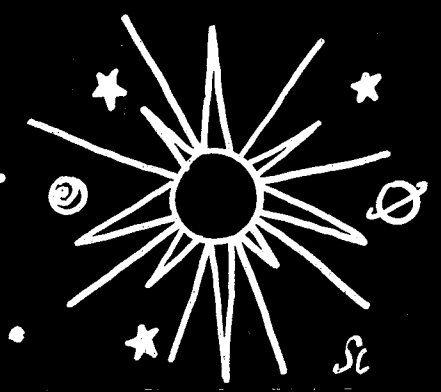

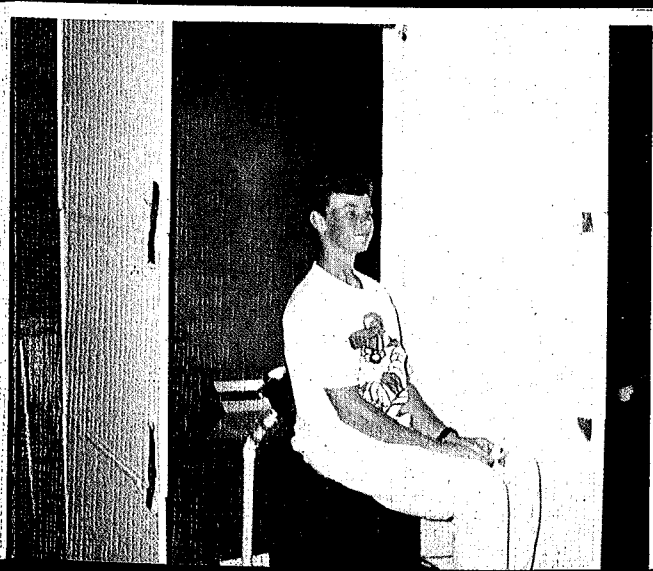

Josh Edwards, Will Pearce, and Jill Kovach step into the realm of after school Chemistry to boost their averages.

A martian in Lake Wales High School? No, it's just Billy Carlisle.

Rachel Pavy hears something suspicious. Is it a martian? No, it's the click of a camera.

3, 2, 1! Chad Smith is Beamed into this cosmic book.

To Boldly Go

Where No Highlander
Has Gone Before!

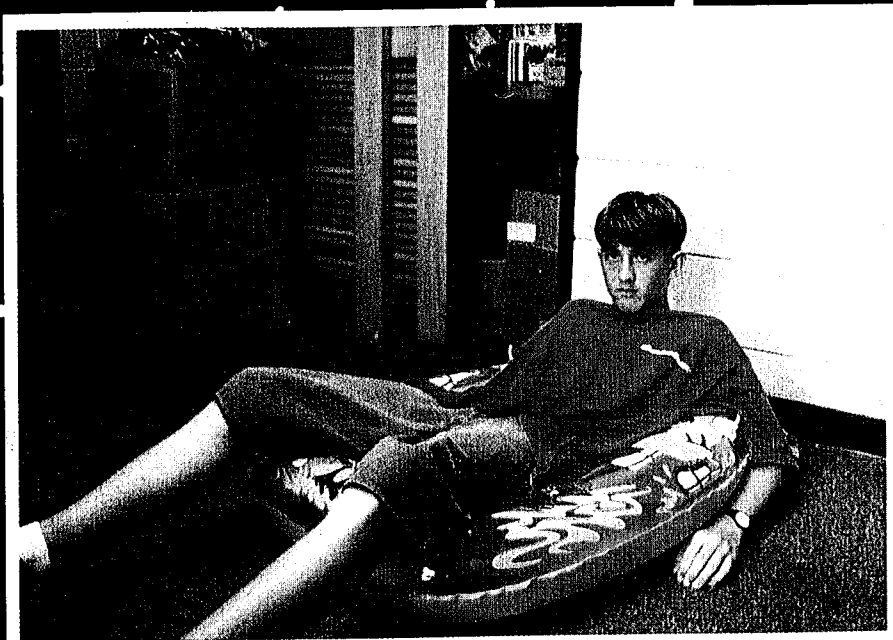

Smiles beam from seniors Barbara Mincy and Lynn Parks, who know they will be leaving the high school atmosphere soon.

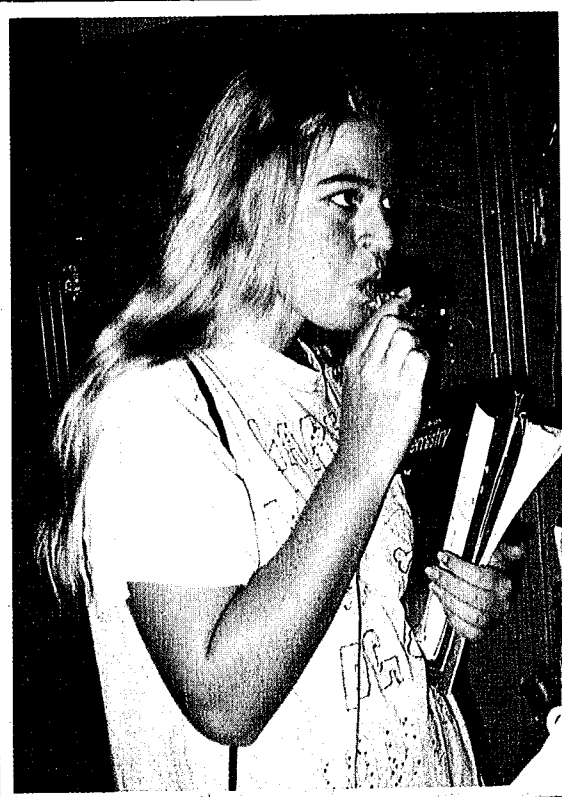

Shannon Hart tries a new cafeteria entre . . . Randy Evans' hand sandwich. That'll teach him!

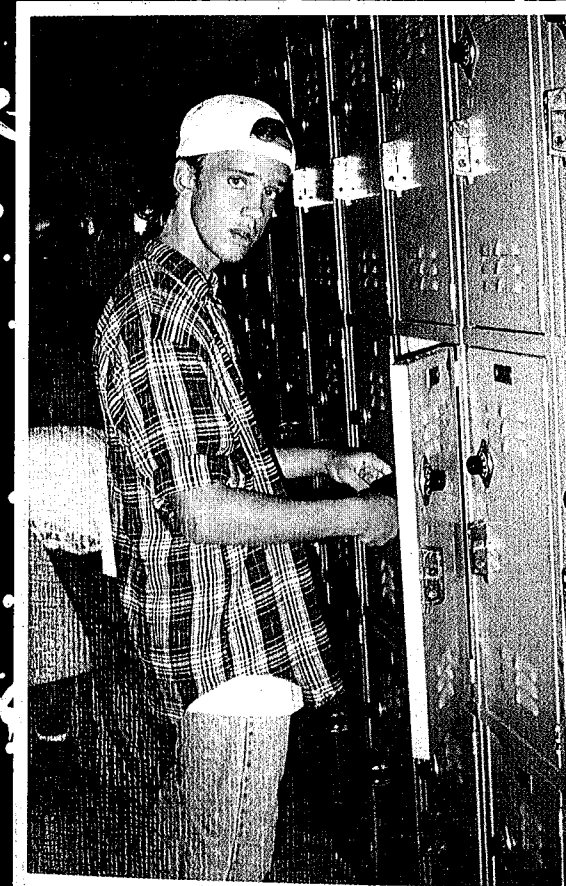

Due to the massiveness of our school?? Art Butler devised a simpler way of getting around. Don't let it Buggy you.

Josh Ramsey discovers a new method of transportation . . . the floatie. Too bad it doesn't take him home after school.

Kelly Privett's no sucker!

Rebecca Thornton, Dana Robertson, Bethany Epps, and Bristol Perry uphold the theory that the band is just as spirited as the cheerleaders.

Ryan Reeves boldly explores the unidentified objects in his locker.

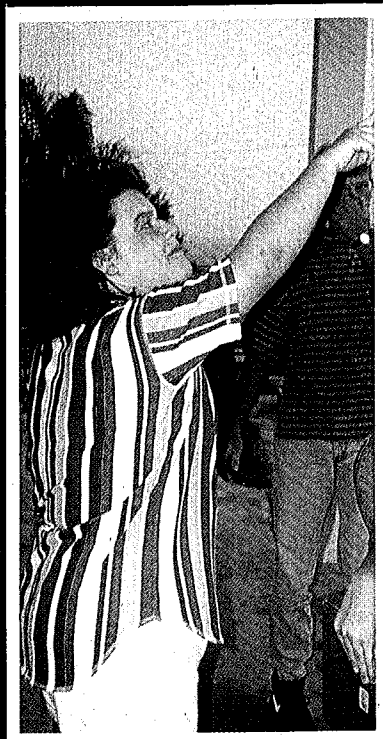

Changing World

Change, change, change! It seemed like we went through great change over the summer. Not only did the class of '97 arrive, but also the new block scheduling which seemed to have even the experienced seniors feeling like they were in a different solar system. We've also added some new teachers to our ranks. Even all that change could not keep us from soaring straight to the top and staying there. Lake Wales is the home of the best in the galaxy, for the Highlanders can survive anything thrown at us.

— Jenn Walters

Tina Young spots a U.F.O., but Robby Batson caught a whiff of it.

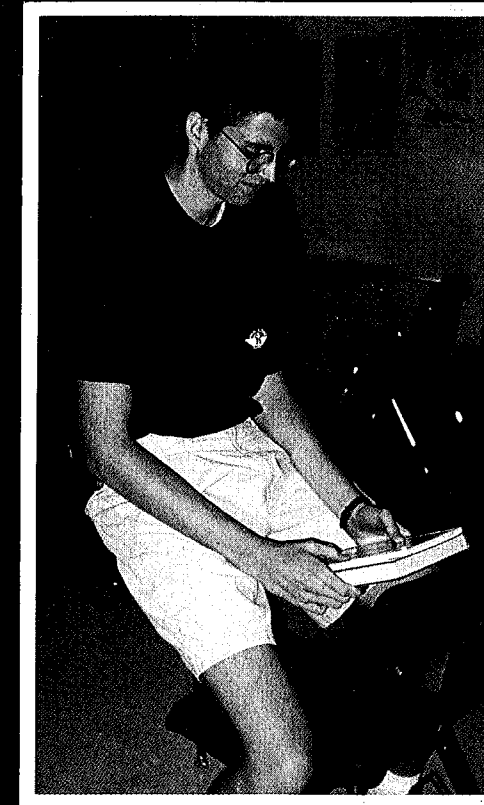

Samantha Ryan contemplates moving maybe.

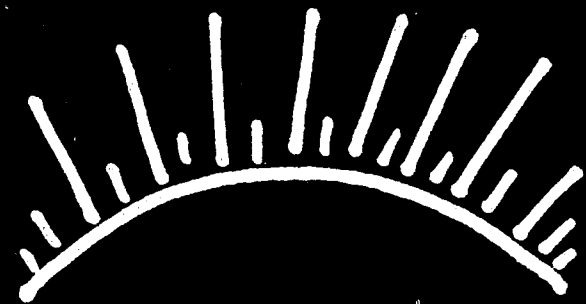

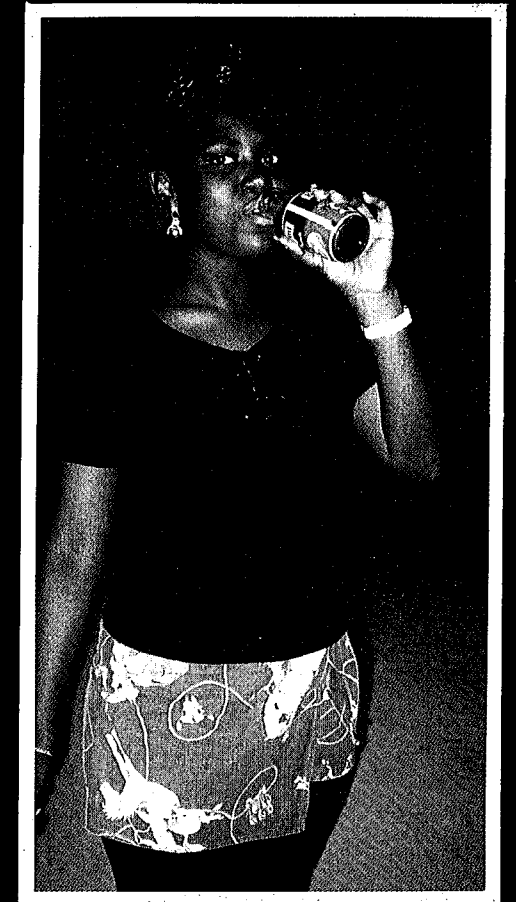

Kalanda Crumity runs warp speed all the way to class, but she's got style.

Mike Brady is wandering through the world of French — backwards must be better.

Latoya Smith stops to refuel in the hall between classes.

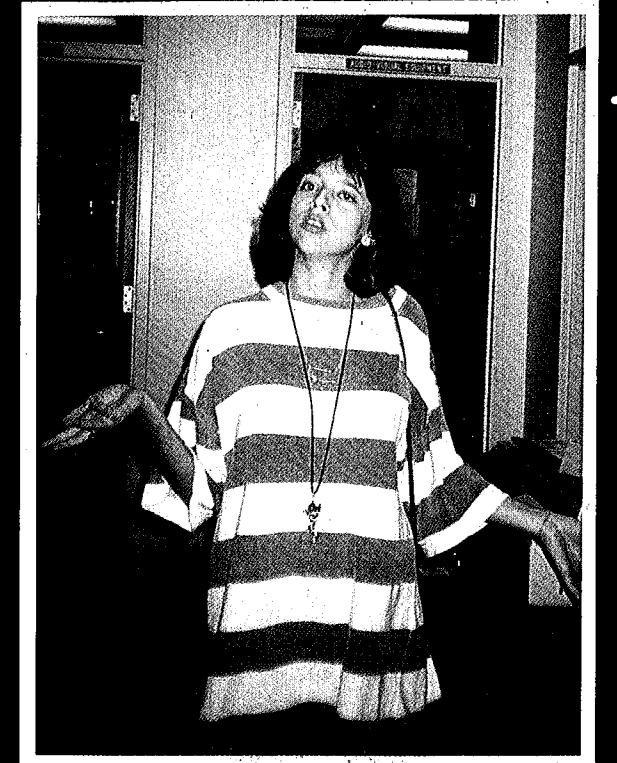

Leon Davis, Shannon Davis, Cedric Jackson, and Chris Arrington are a few of the hot stars in the Lake Wales High School Galaxy.

Jennifer Jenkins and Tim Lipowski are making a star-studded pizza (or maybe it's just pepperoni).

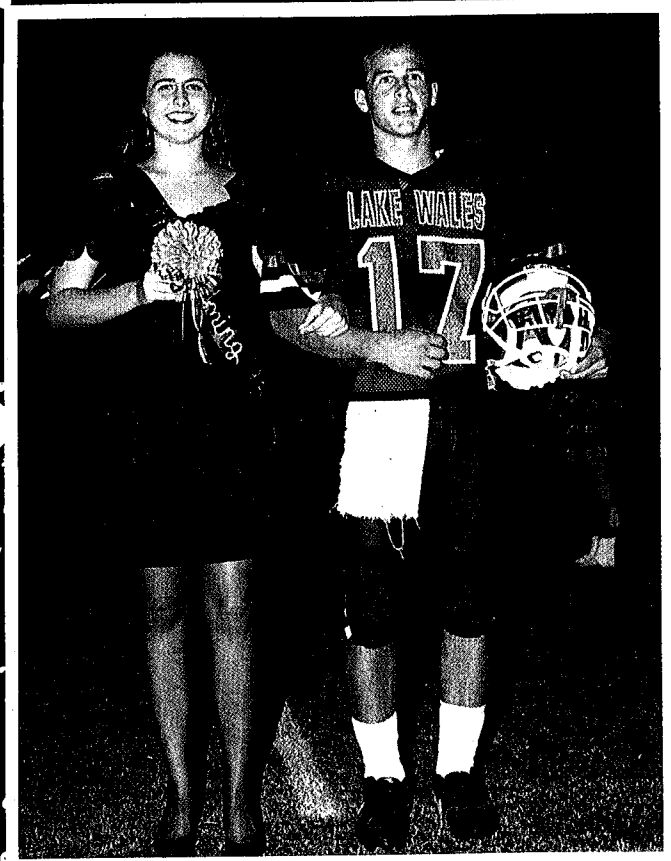

Shelley Lassiter, Sherri Clemons, and Darryl Hampton never fail to prove that freshmen have spirit.

Amanda Locicero uses hand signals to get her message across. Is anyone watching?

Lori Lightsey and Jonathon Rockness

Queen, Kelly Hitchcock, and King, Jason Snell.

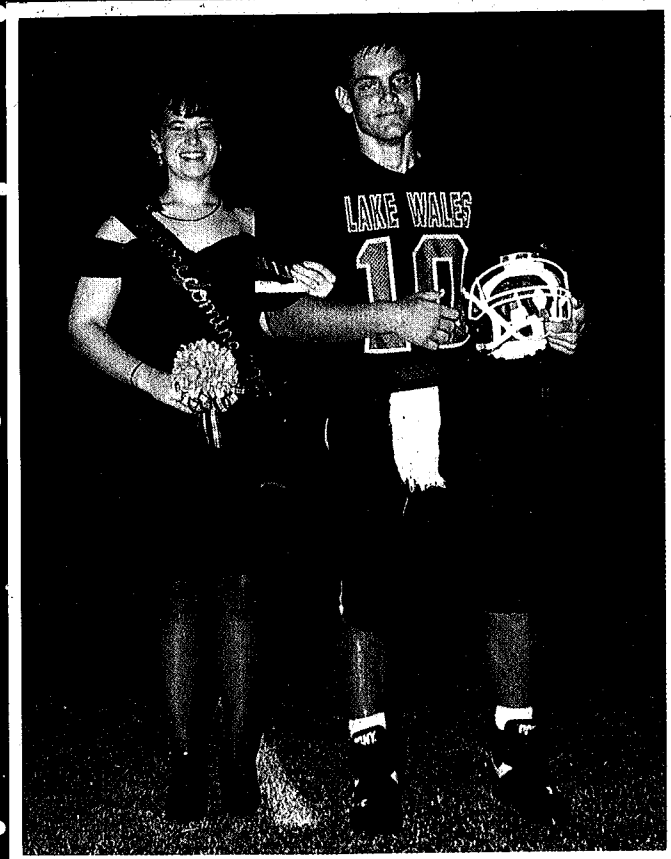

Discovering the Unknown

Mr. Windham proudly crowns Kelly Hitchcock.

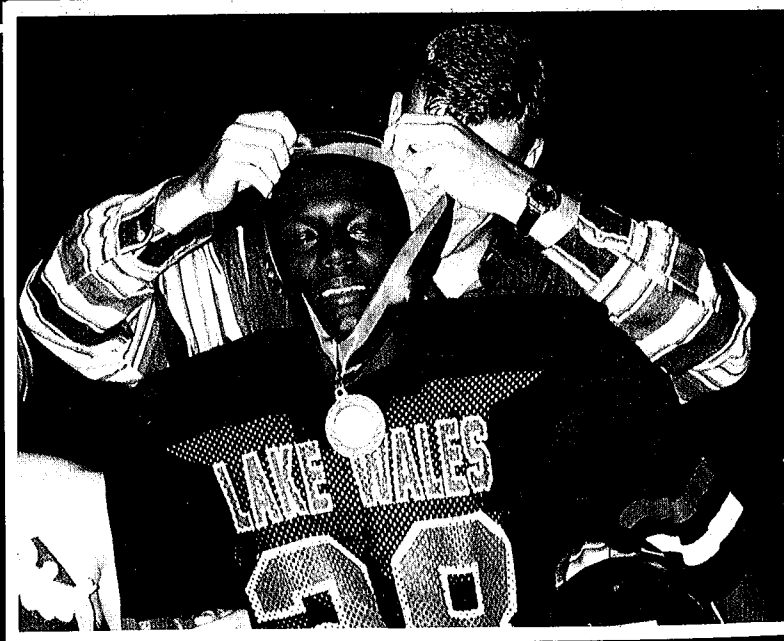

On October 8, 1993 Lake Wales journeyed into another realm. Ten deserving candidates, who had long been more than acquaintances, stood nervously to hear their name announced as King or Queen. Finally the moment came when half-time of Lake Wales' victorious game over Sebring arrived. The crowd was ecstatic, yet silent, and listening. Then was heard, "The 1993 King and Queen of the Mighty Lake Wales Highlanders are Jason Snell and Kelly Hitchcock."

A New Dimension in Spirit for Highlanders

Highlander Spirit began this year with a bang. After a touch-down the howitzer resounded. Homecoming was equally explosive. Decorative doors spotted the halls. At the Pep Rally the annual parade of skits and floats flowed onto the field. This showed Highlander spirit is number one!

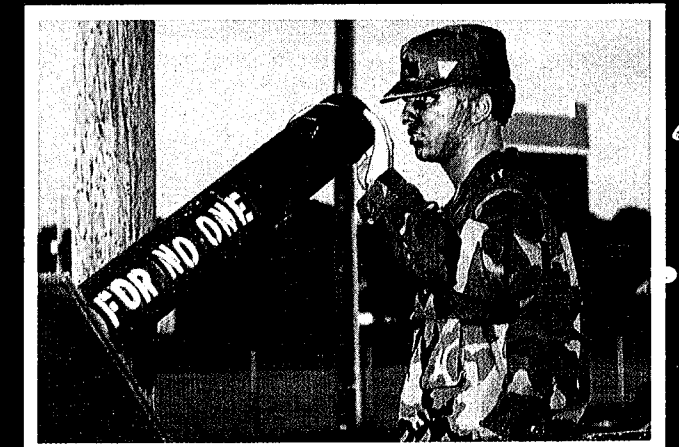

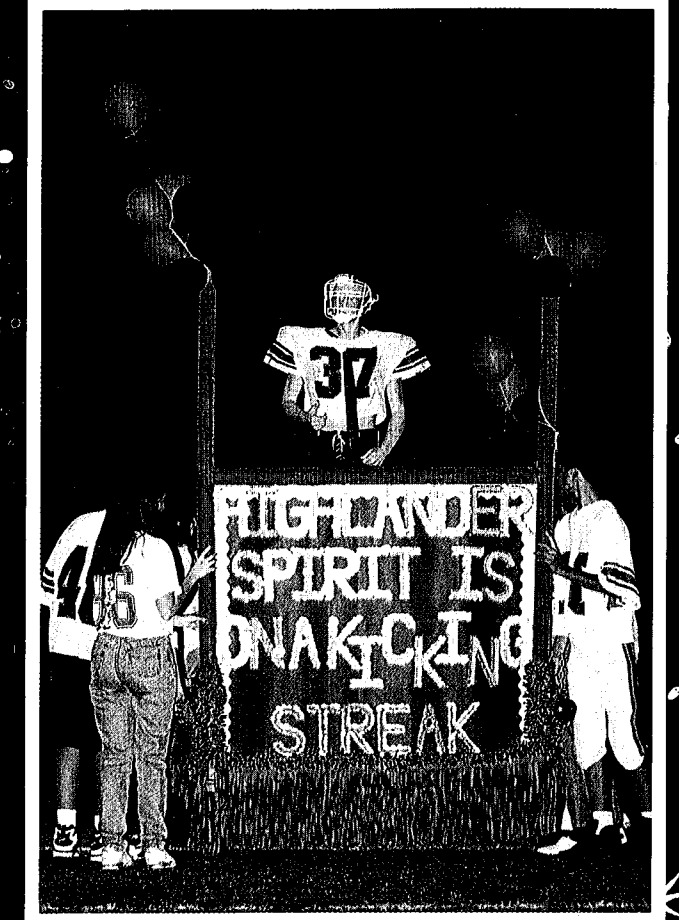

— Jenn Walters

The juniors' 1st place door was very enlightening.

Lisa Williams wears her school spirit.

Rebecca Shahan, Kirsten Crouse, and Kalanda Crumity carry the FHA float. The sophomores are no "Dummies" when it comes to school spirit.

Gutsy Jonathan Morton is ready to defend his home field.

Tyrone Simpson looked his part as he performed with some of the living dead.

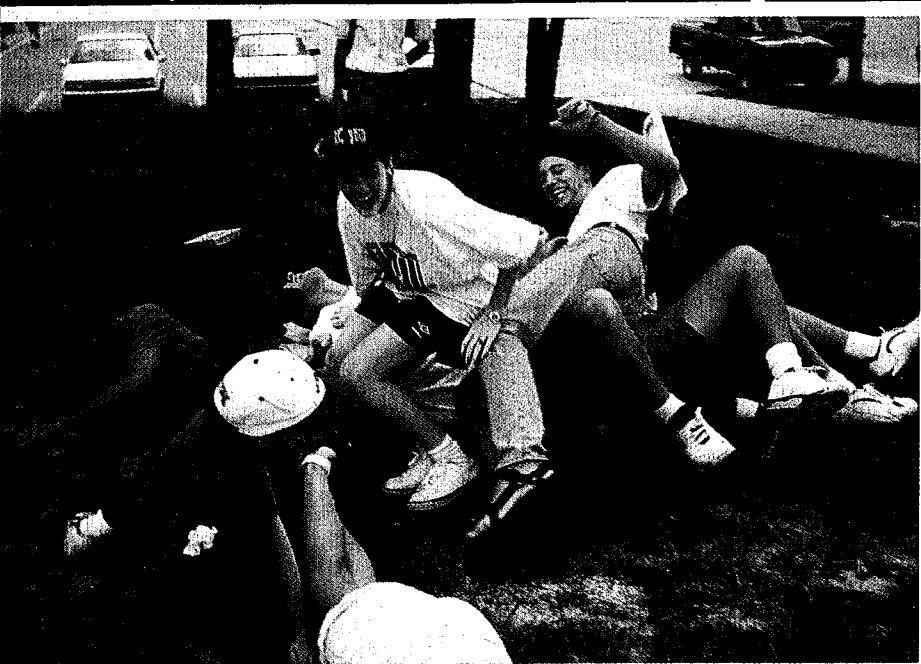

The senior class is "one in a million" winning second place with their float.

Tyrone Simpson escorts Tami Arnold through a field of tombstones.

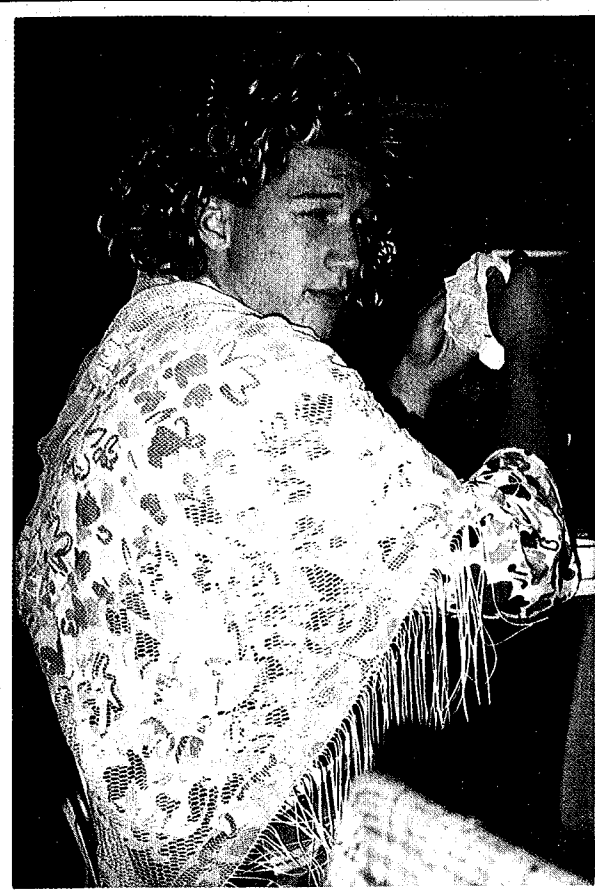

Doug Jordan and Rod Parker had more school spirit than they knew not only did they bring the juniors' first place float to life, but also fit in perfectly with our book's theme.

Invasion ...

School's out and this pile of people can't contain themselves.

Quay Dopler, a senior in school or a senior citizen?

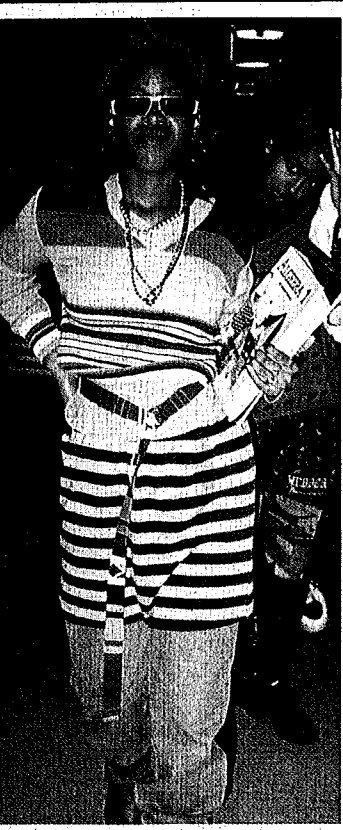

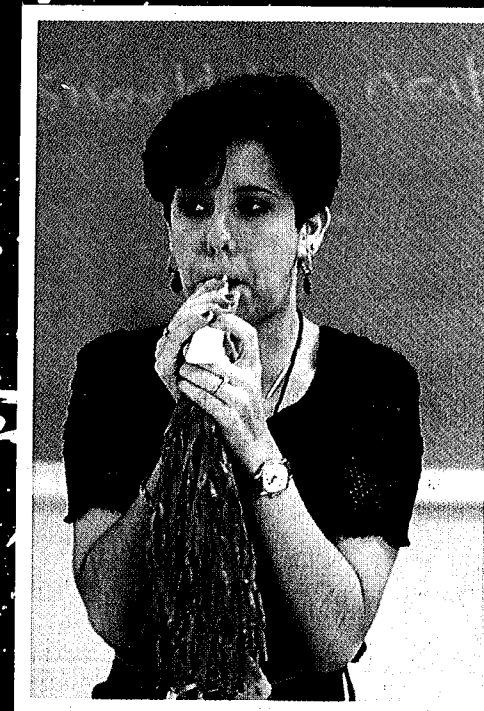

of the Body Snatchers

Joey Sullins & Carlos Perez can appreciate good fishing as Glen Thompson doesn't let the big one (Randy Denmark) get away.

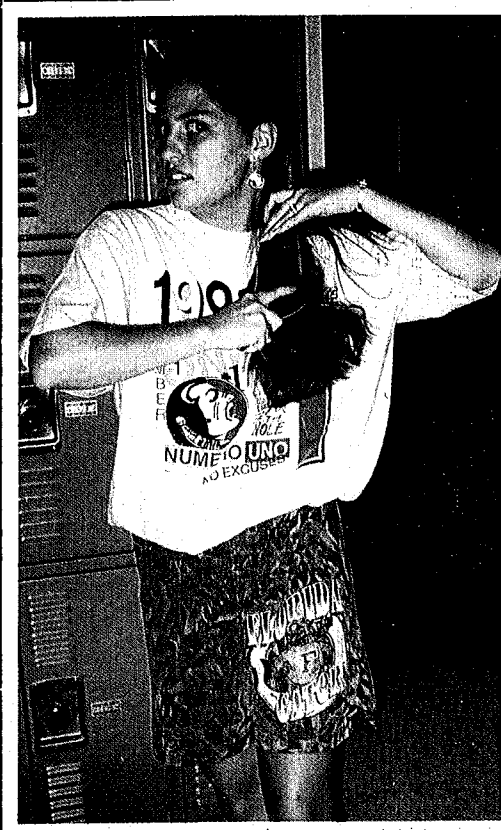

It's sometimes surprising to see such uniqueness in our world of change, but spirit days this year were quite a success. For example, we added spirited symbols to our usual Friday orange & black and each day during Homecoming week our attire displayed a "theme." As a contest, each class days united to leap beyond the others, and the seniors successfully accomplished this goal!

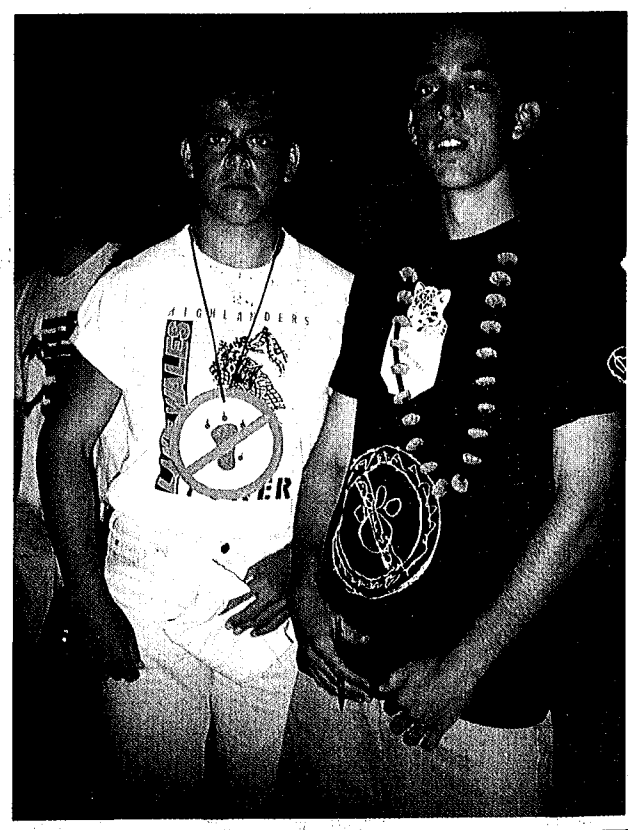

— Sara Fasel

The epitome of tacky? Debracca Colvin and Valerie Gonzalez are it, no doubt!

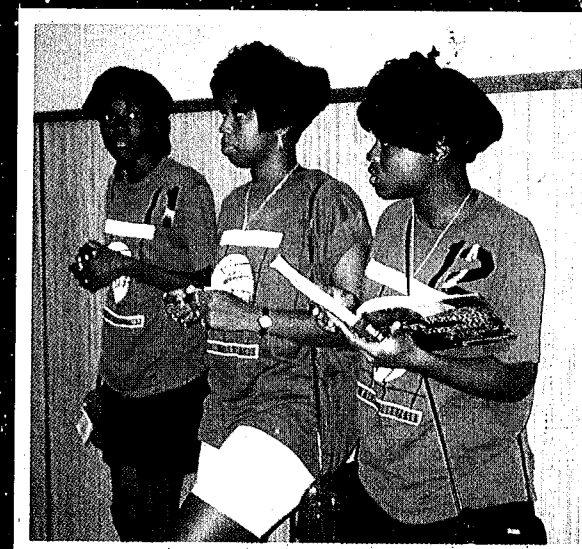

On college T-shirt day Dee Weis is either confused or undecided! A Semigator?

Scott Finnell and Jerry Smith are intense about panthers.

Middle: Darik Johnston, Alex Sanchez, and Josh Smith display talent in music and face painting. Spirited Sophomores!

Shanell Stanton, Shawnti Anderson, and Shameka Henry are Sports Day conscious.

Hope Monticeno tests her rooter tooter before the pep rally.

Space Balls

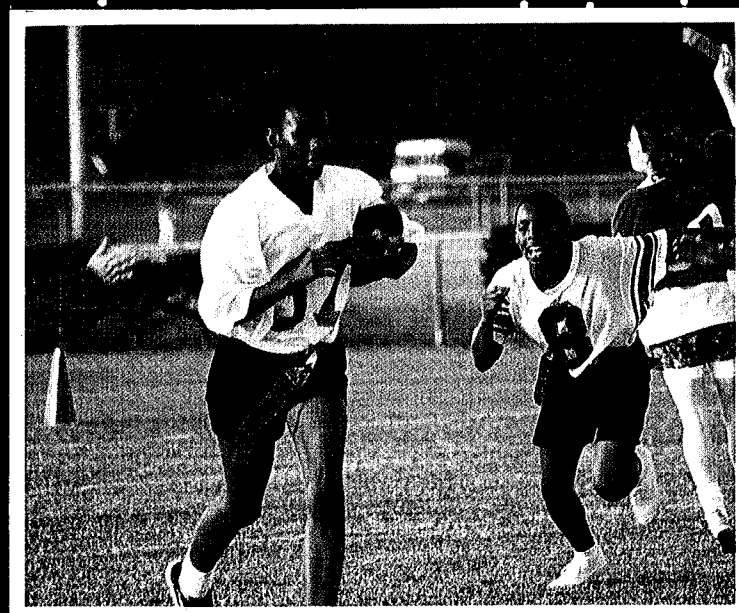

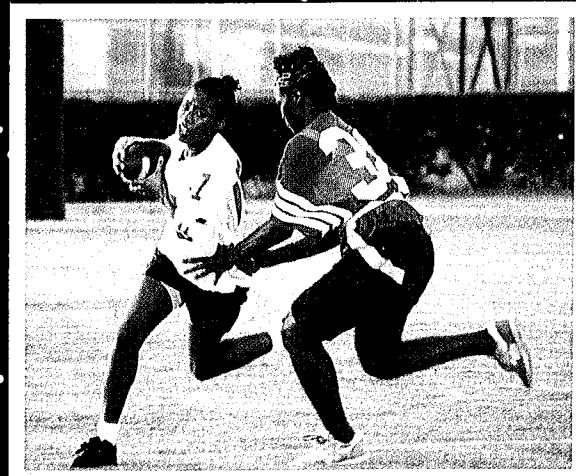

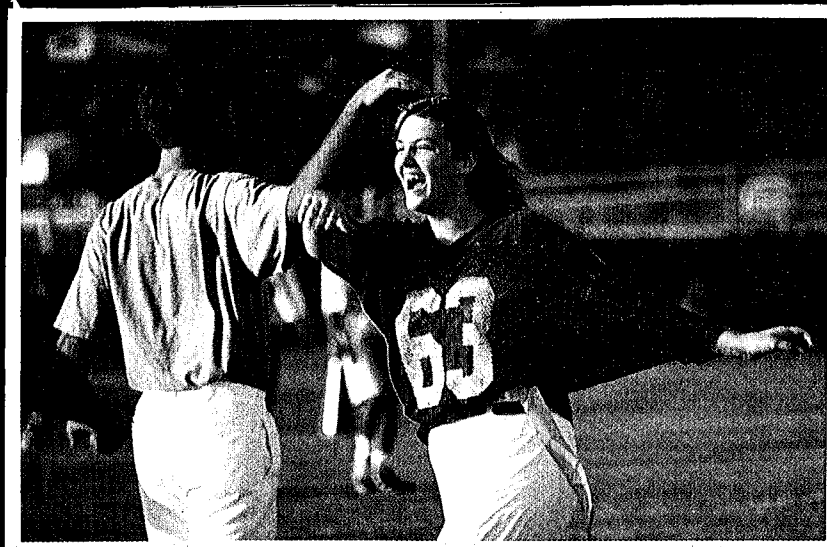

This year we preserved a tradition from long ago . . . the Powder Puff football game. Skillfully the girls displayed their athletic talent while hilariously the boys cheered them on. It was an exciting beginning to Thursday night's Pep Rally and we are the ones who revived the tradition for future generations.

— Sara Fasel

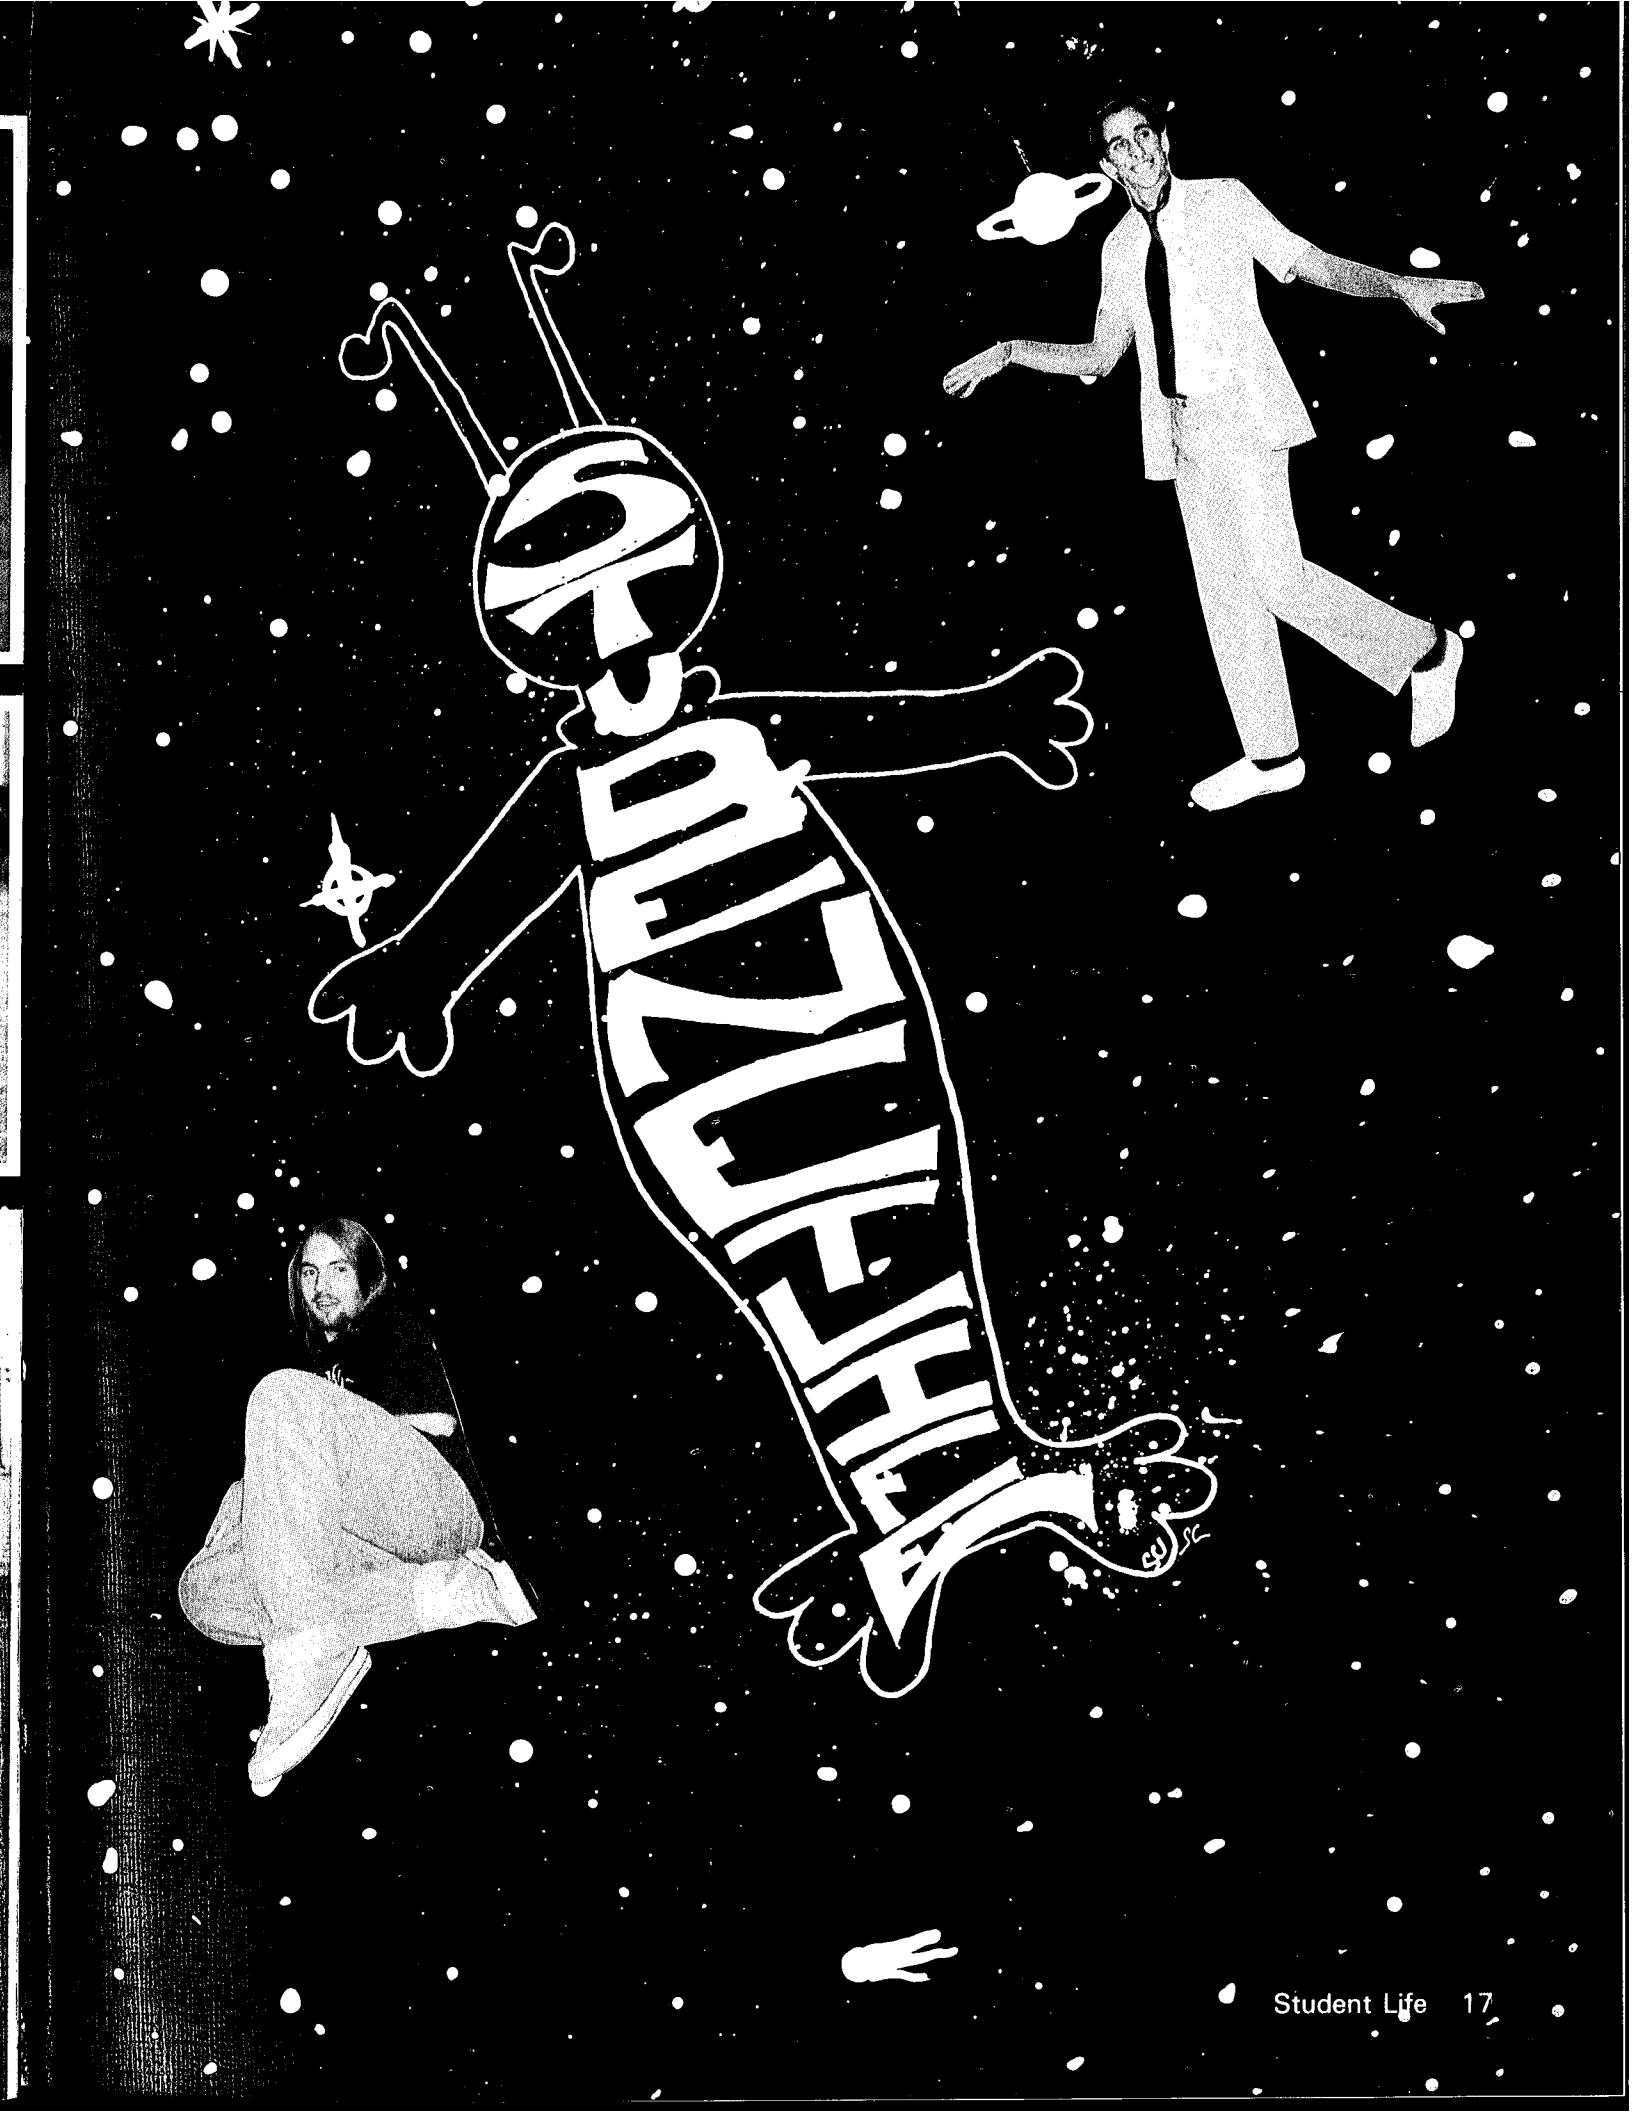

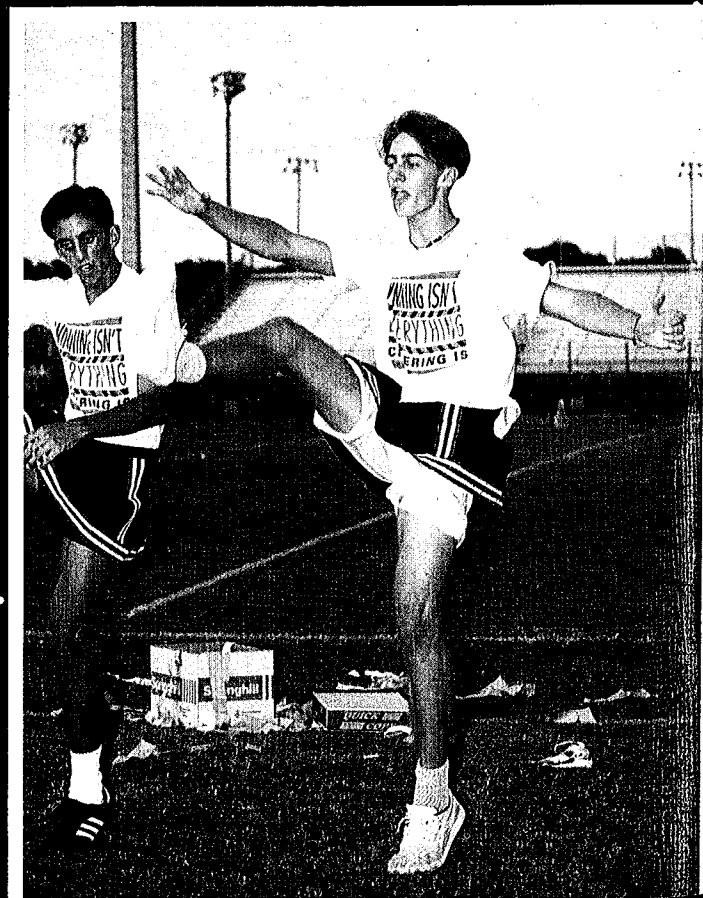

Coach Josh Reeves easily stressed his point.

Tamisha Scott strives for the touchdown.

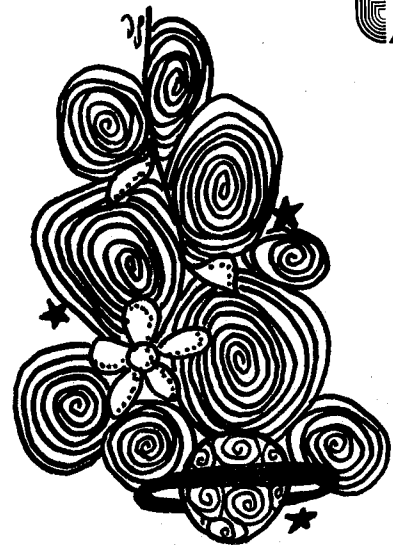

Valerie Stoudemire tries hard to escape the defeatful hands.

Cheerleaders, Jacob Larson and Jeremy Fasel try to boost team morale with their pre-planned cheers and jumps.

Exploring Summertime

From food to festivities — from perfecting to performing, summer is a very busy time for many Highlanders. The few on this page were able to give us proof of their activities. Make sure you take pictures next summer, and you may find yourself on our summer pages.

— Maggie Dover

Tami Arnold and Lori Lightsey enjoy time together at S4TL.

Jada Crews and Laura Turnquist had a surprise meeting with Hammer at the Dallas, Texas airport.

Khajuanna Carithers was one of the few chosen from LWHS to go to the Florida American Legion Auxiliary girls state June 11-18, 1993

The Cheerleaders take a break from working hard to have a little fun with their coach at summer camp.

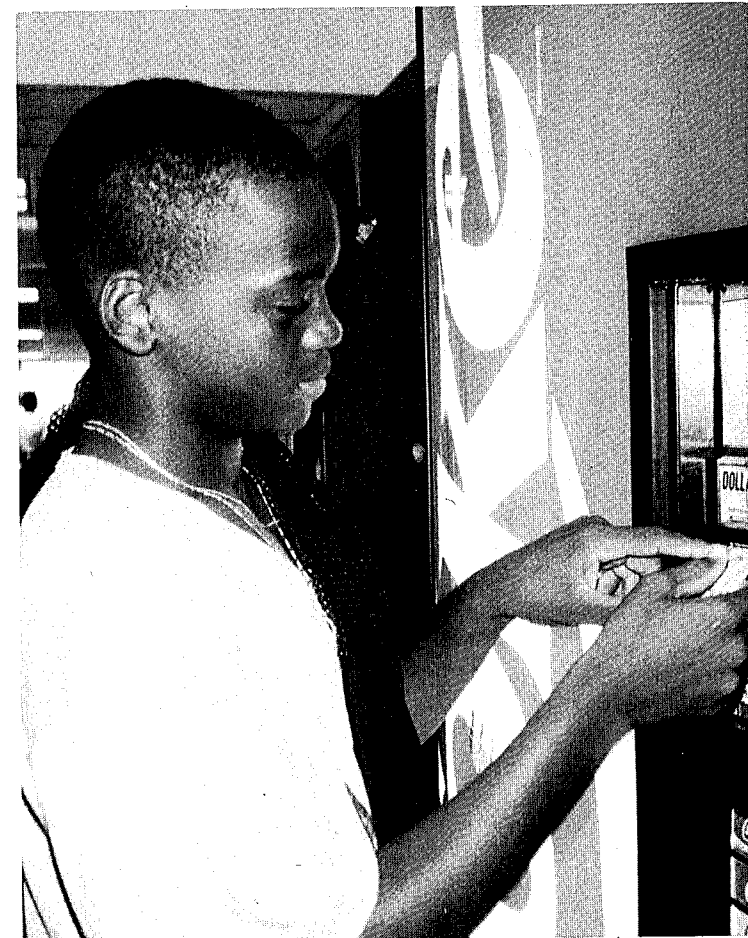

Marcus Stewart spent his whole summer building this awesome go cart.

Daylight Dilemma

At Lake Wales High School the students have many different ways of spending their time in the morning. While some seem spaced-out, others are cruising the cosmos. Let's see, start the day at school making an initial visit to the good ole locker. After seeing all of your friends and BEFORE going to your first class. Right? TARDY? Holding Tank? Oh, No! — Maggie Dover Halarie Reese "Itsy" stuffs a dollar in the Coke machine. Who said you can't each Juniors new tricks?

Todd Lynn enjoys a quiet moment and a pensive mood.

Steve Jusino considers taking just one more nap before first period.

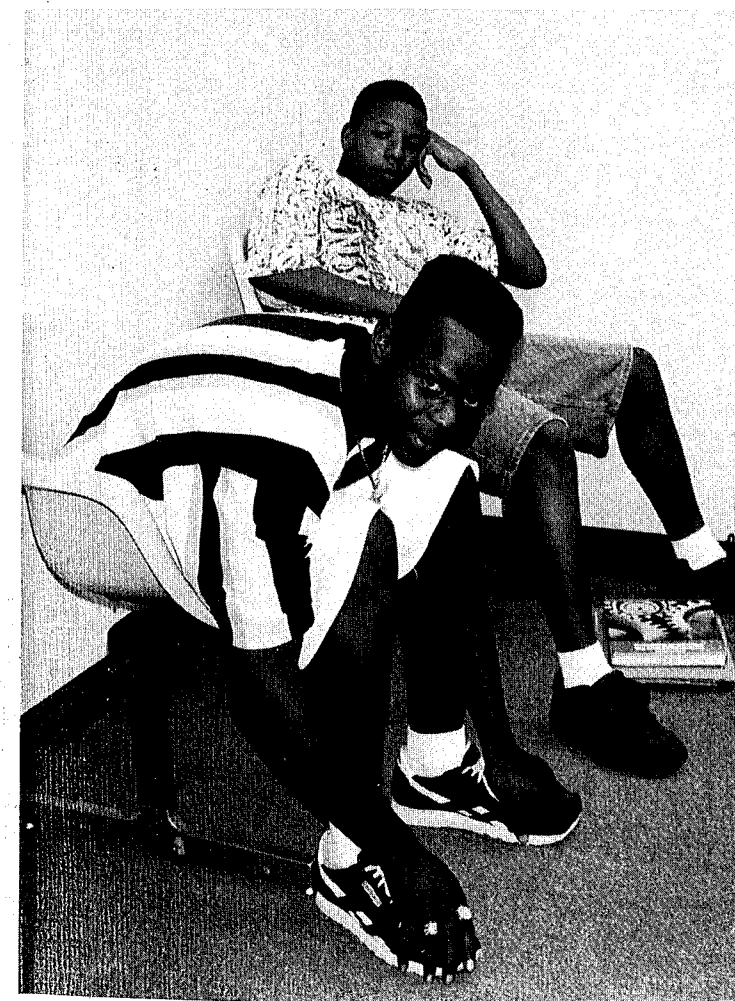

Brandon Harrison takes some time for himself before facing the crowded halls.

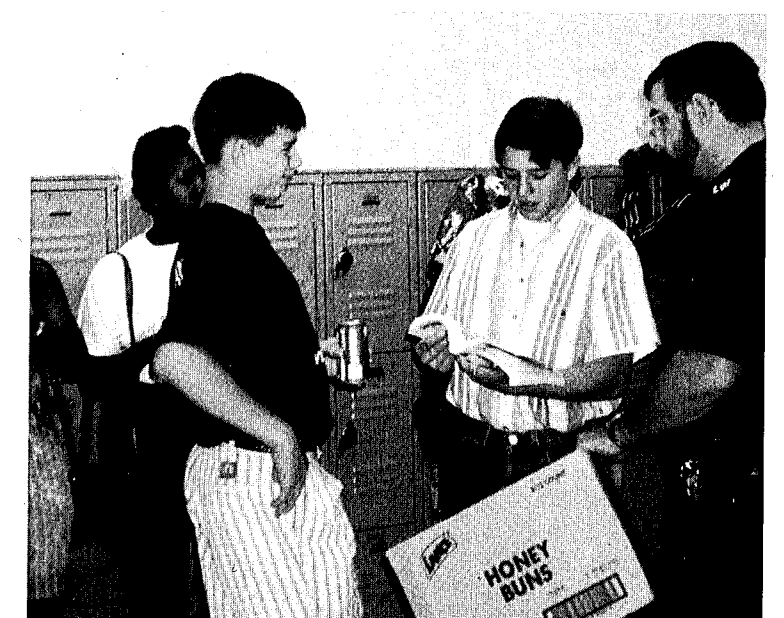

Jason Collins' extracurricular activities is locker crashing. His locker! (Stuck for the first month of school.)

Latoya Black takes a library book from her 'home away from home.'

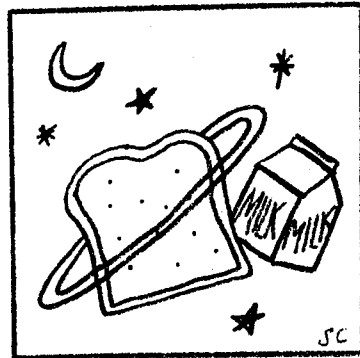

Terry Williams chills in the holding tank while Clarence Dukes tries to keep his feet from leaving.

Steve Wildmon entertains coach Brown and Chris Brown with stirring excerpts from Moby-Dick?

Freeze-dried Food Fun

Lunch remains the ideal time for relaxation and conversation. Although some might tell you it took a little getting used to. For some of us found ourselves alternating lunches almost daily. How exciting block scheduling has made our lives. Munch on . . .

— Sarah Christoph

Erica Montgomery tells her friends about the time Martians came to her house.

Christine Flego seems to remember the food being better on Neptune.

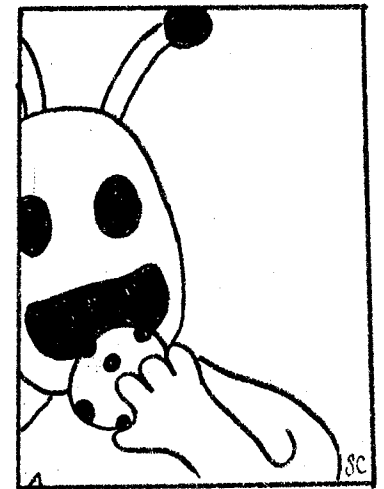

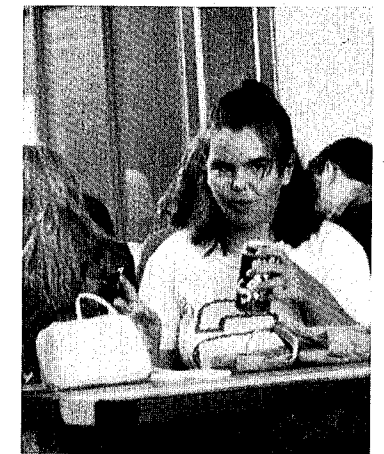

Lisa Williams finds an alien life form in her cup and Valerie Gonzales thinks it's funny.

Jennifer Brown makes a wish; that her food would blast into space.

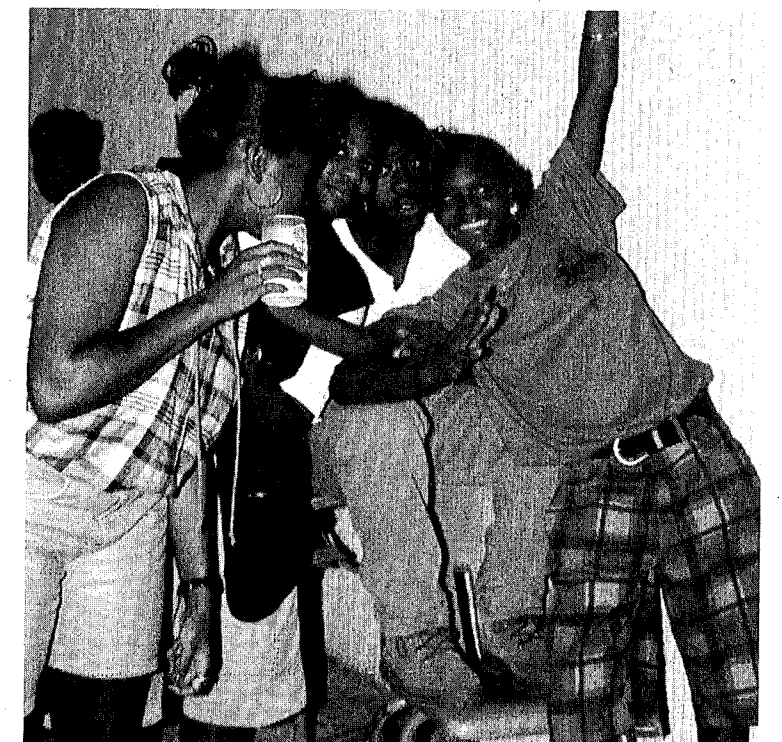

Barbi Blanchard reflects on her mission to Mars.

Katrina Taylor, Codie Carter, and Mike Brady plot their trip to Mars to get candy bars.

Melanie Martin and Courtney Clyatt use lunch to its fullest; snacking and studying.

Cheryl Huffman, Kim Marks, Tim White, and Leslie Brathwaite hold onto each other to keep from floating into space!

Beyond All Limits

The bell rings to end another day at Lake Wales High, but the day has just begun for many of our students. They may have different activities after school, but you will always find them with their friends. A Highlander knows how to have fun long after the sun goes down.

— Maggie Dover

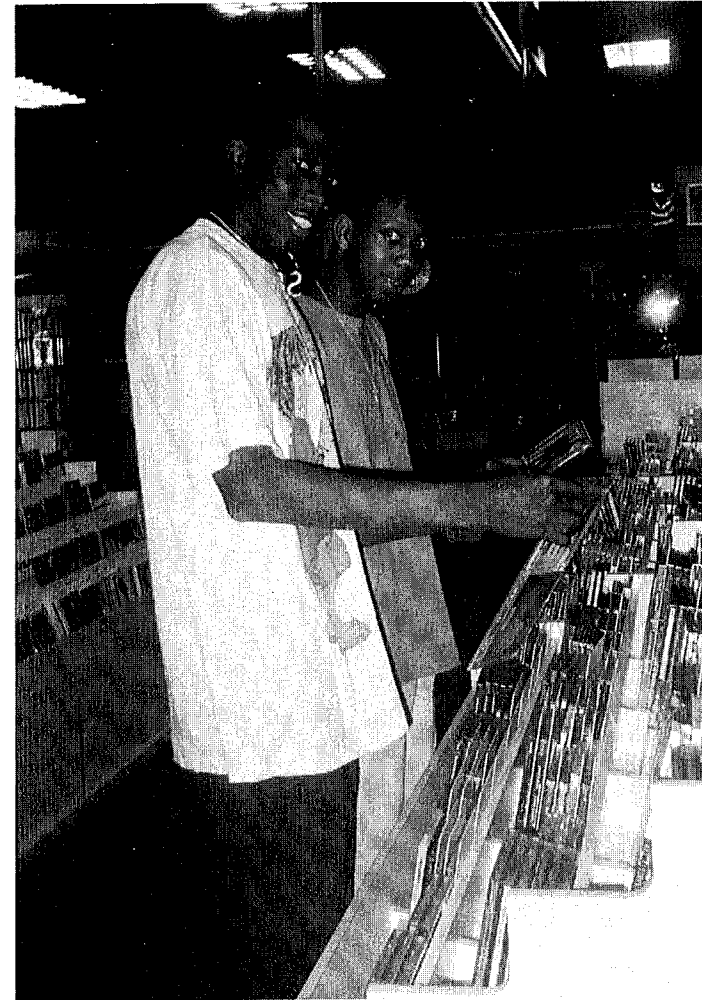

Travis Chambers and Chad Barnhardt enjoy a good party while Randy Dease just tries to be cool.

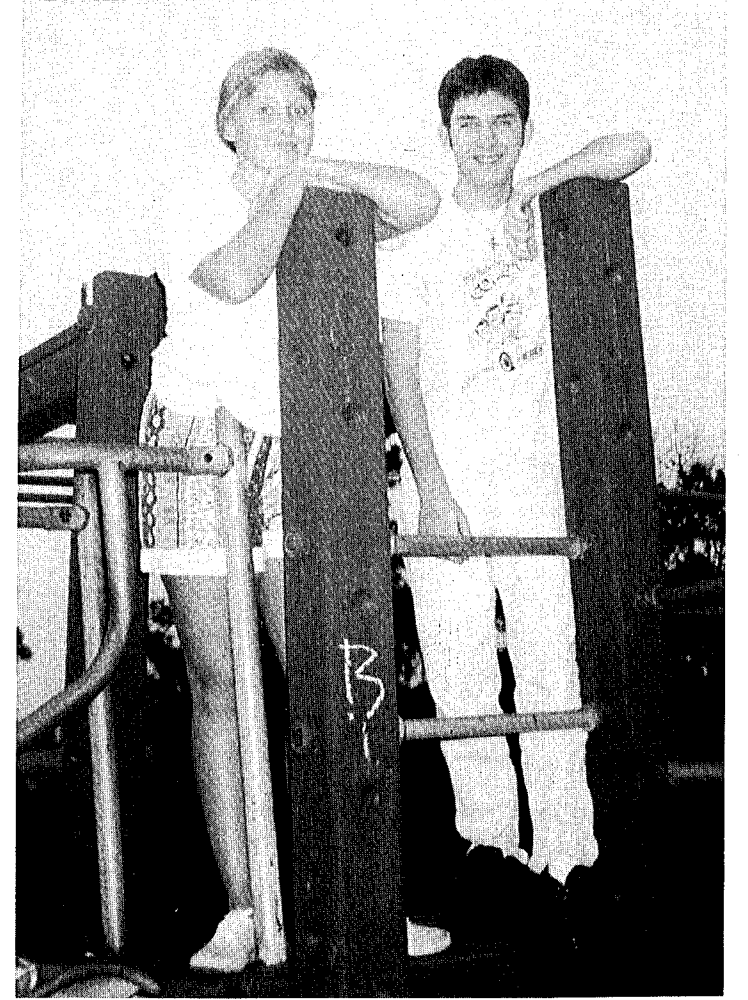

Carrie Gonzalez spends her night-life working at the Body Shop.

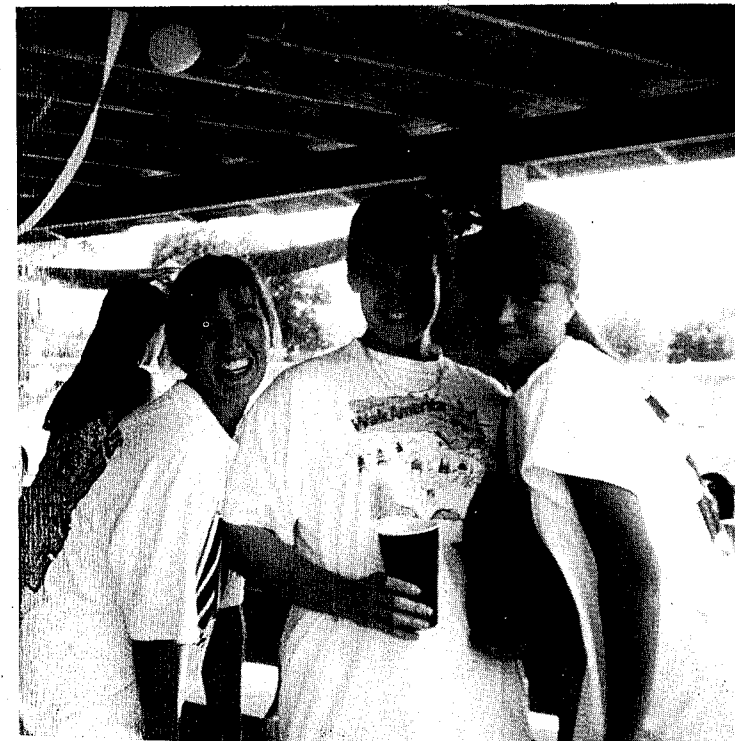

Shonski Hadley and Calvin Banks look for what's hip in the CD section.

Amanda Briand and Will Webb have climbed the ladder to success.

Jennifer Walters and Maggie Dover calm down after a wild ride on a pair of Harleys.

Trends in Space

Grunge never tires . . . the comfy flannel has grown increasingly more common. This year has brought us many a platform shoe and bells at the ends of our pants. Of course, it's always trendy to dress in labels. There are too many trends to acknowledge each and every . . . Here are but a few . . . — Sarah Christoph

Grungy hair styles shade Shawn Zorn and Violet Mooney from the sun's ultraviolet rays.

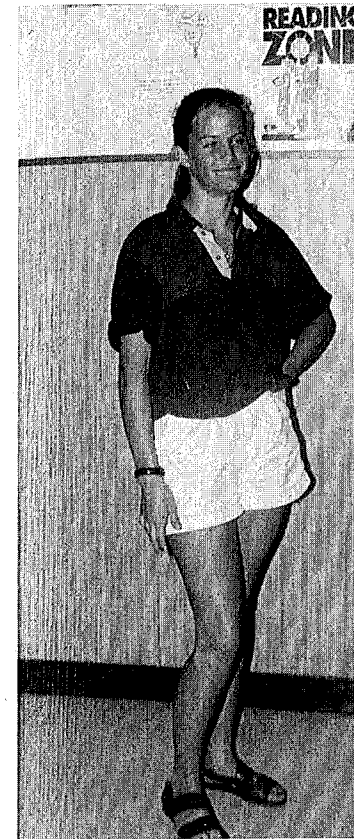

Mark Butler's all stamped and ready to be shipped to the moon.

Jessica Dopler carefully selects some moon-walkin' shoes.

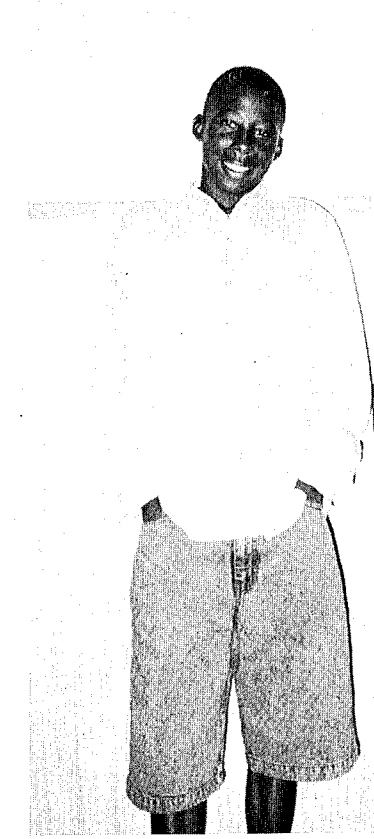

Crystal Strait and her trusty Hilfiger.

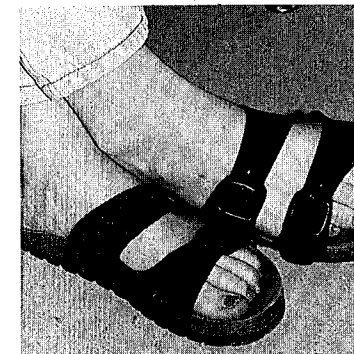

Check out that school spirit on Porsha Wilson!

Calvin Banks is comfy and classy!

Christianne Carson, are those tiny stars on your dress?

One might say these shoes flew in from another planet. Clockwise: Birkenstock, Chinese shoe, Dr. Marten and Vans.

India Decosey and Becky Bigford sport fashionable falling-star protection.

Super Stars

READY FOR THE FUTURE

Of Lake Wales High School

Yep! That was our very own Jaime Seyfert gracing the cover of October 1993's Seventeen Magazine. Jaime also participated in the "Elite Look of the Year" contest in Miami in September. She was one of the 17 finalists picked from 70 girls around the world! In late October, Jaime went to new York to begin testing for other magazines and commercials. Go Jaime!

— Sarah Christoph

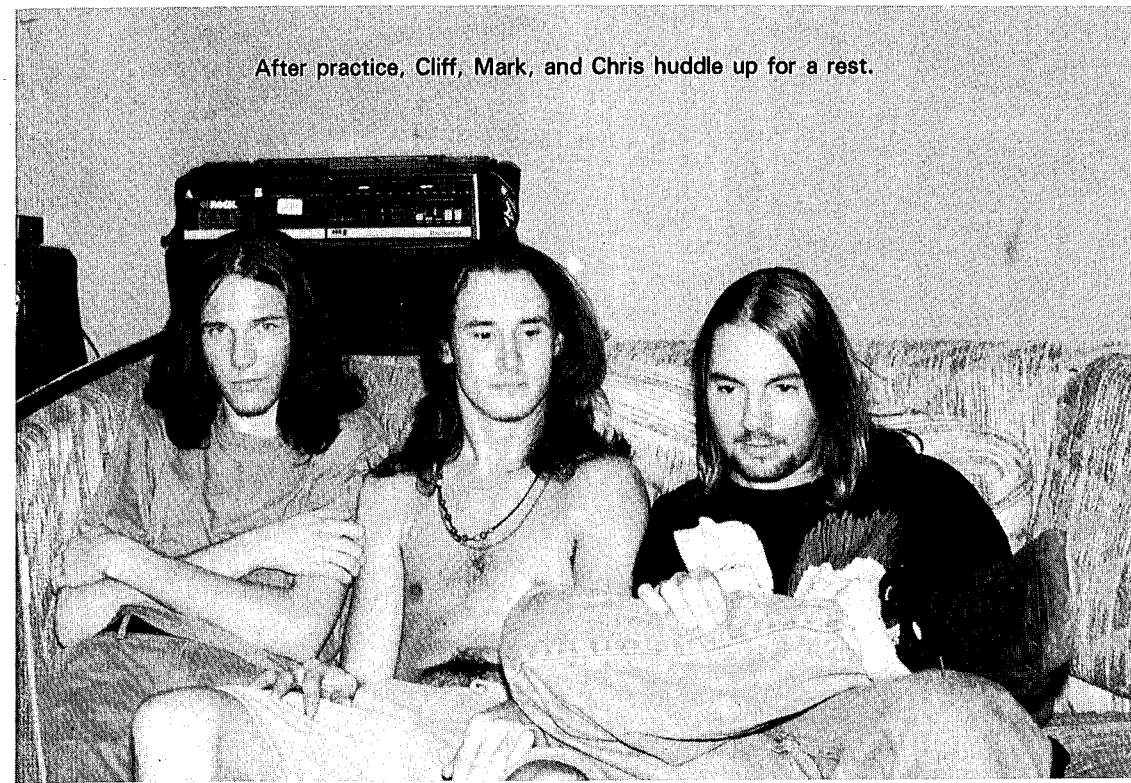

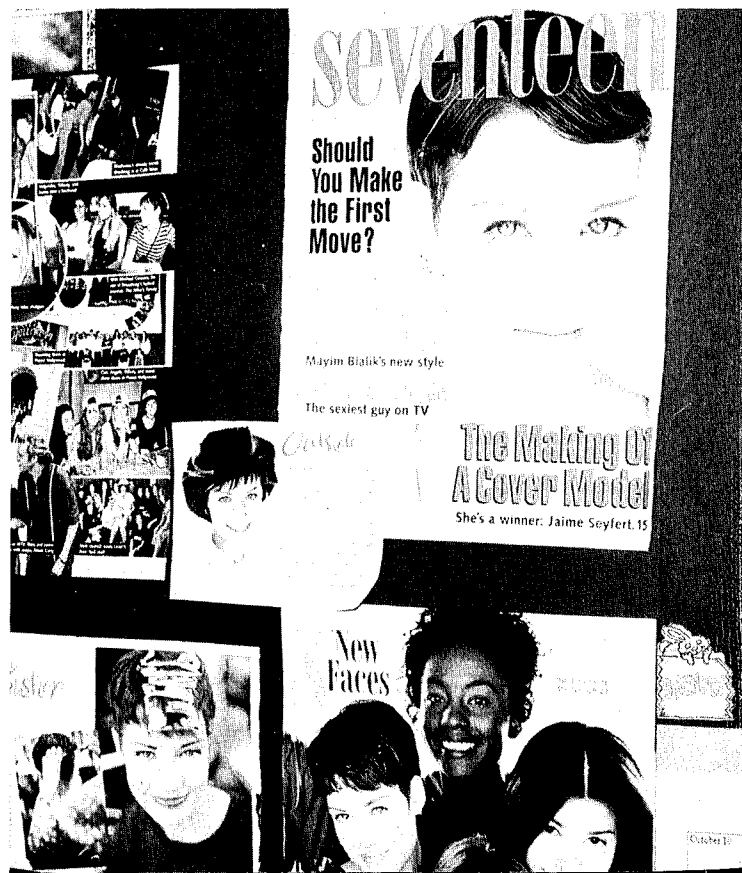

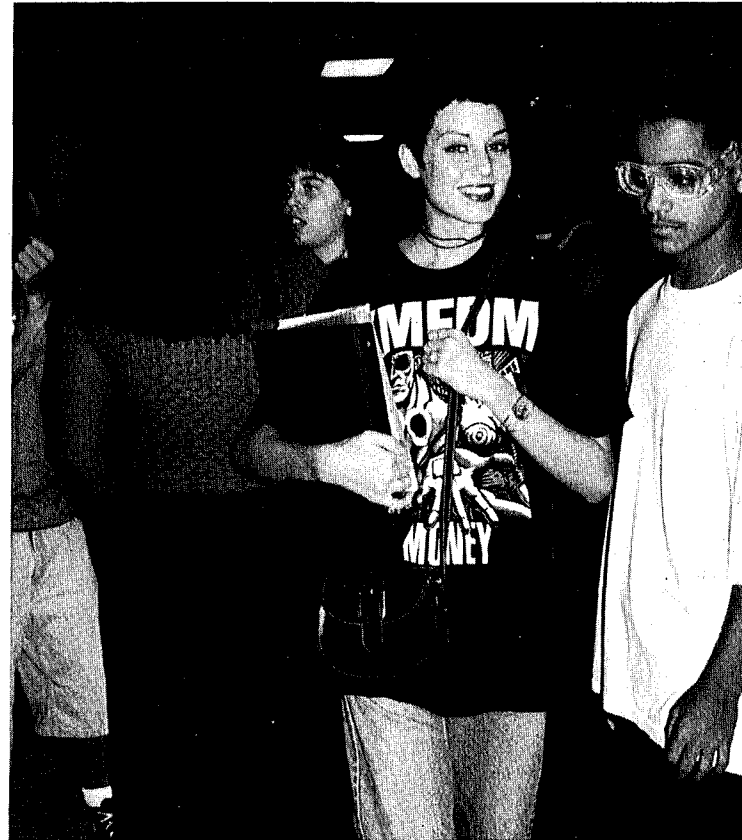

OUR VERY OWN SUPERMODEL

Jaime, the final night of "Elite Look of the Year."

Jaime on a regular school day.

How proud we are, our own little Jaime display in the library.

Jaime and her new found model friends.

After practice, Cliff, Mark, and Chris huddle up for a rest.

SYRUP

Chris VanCleve has used the increasing popularity of the hardcore scene to his advantage. His band, SYRUP, is becoming an area favorite. Their talent has gone beyond Polk County to Ybor's Blue Chair and Tampa's Brass Mug. On Dec. 8, they even performed a benefit here for the needy. Their future looks bright! You may one day say of this famous group, "Hey, I went to high school with Chris!"

— Sarah Christoph

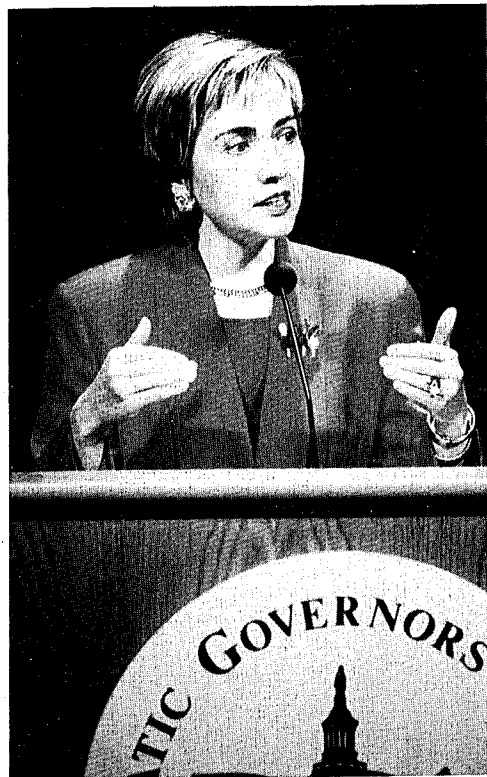

Chris and his band jammin'.

Chris VanCleve plays his soon-to-be famous bass.

First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton chaired the White House task force that devised the Health Security Plan.

Bill Clinton, Yitzhak Rabin, and Yasser Arafat sign a treaty at the White House called the Middle East Accord.

* 1993-1994 HAPPENINGS *

Nirvana, releasing their 4th album in '93, has without argument been titled the Kings of Grunge.

Tens of thousands were killed in the conflict in Bosnia, and the United Nations sent a peace-keeping force to keep peace among the Croats, Muslims, and Serbs.

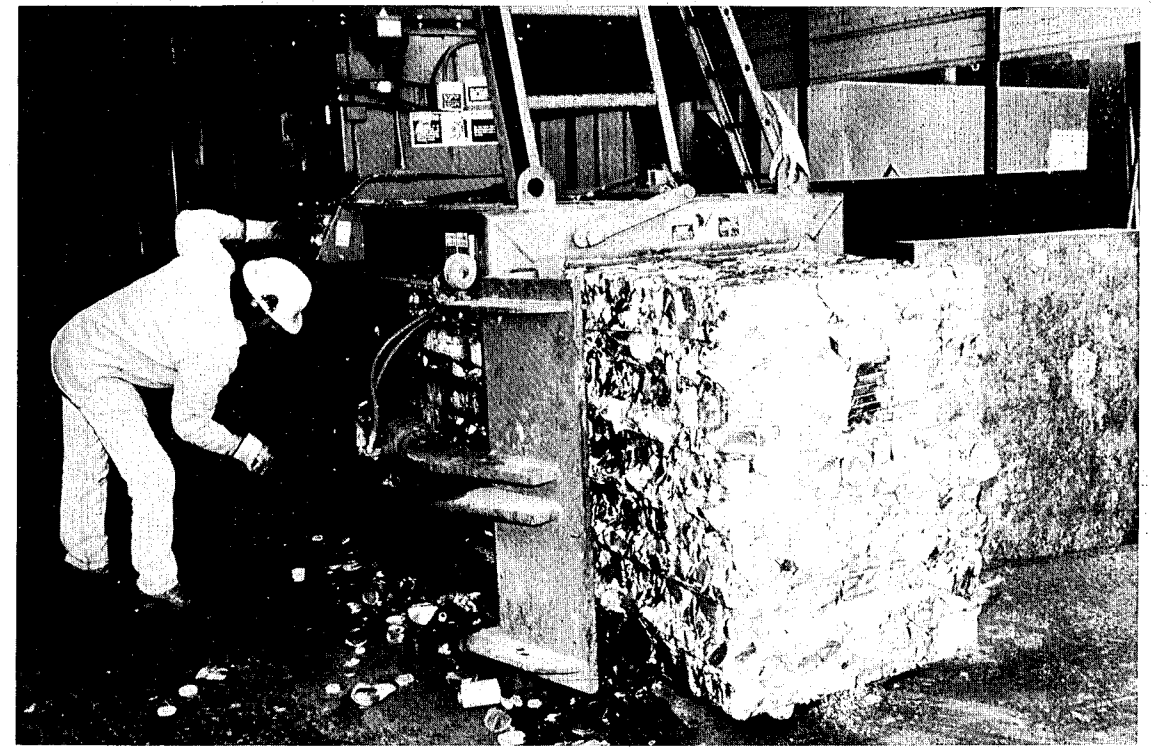

Floods hit the Midwest in 1993, destroying thousands of homes and farms, causing billions of dollars worth of damage.

America has realized the dangers of AIDS and many organizations have come together to fight this deadly disease.

Dr. Dre was one of the founders of gangster rap producing million-selling albums.

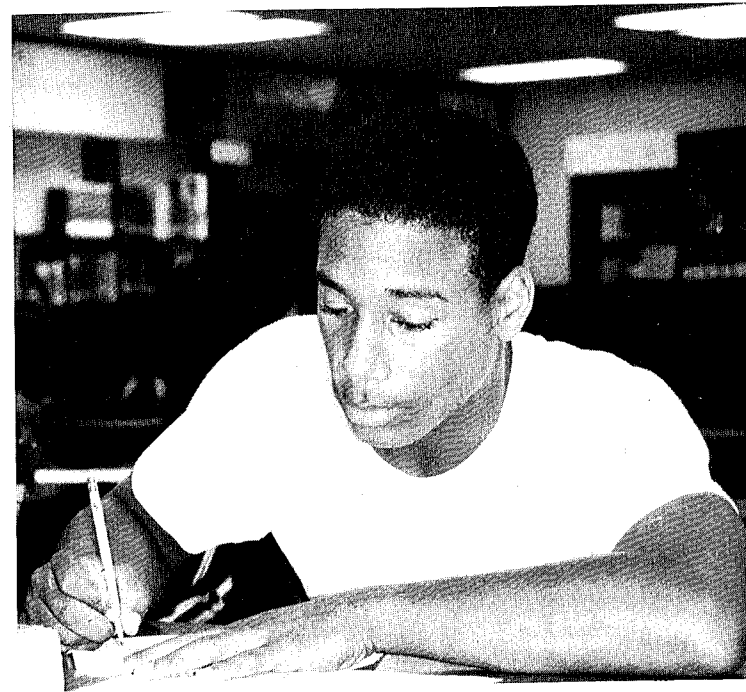

Keeping the environment clean became an extremely important issue in the '90's.

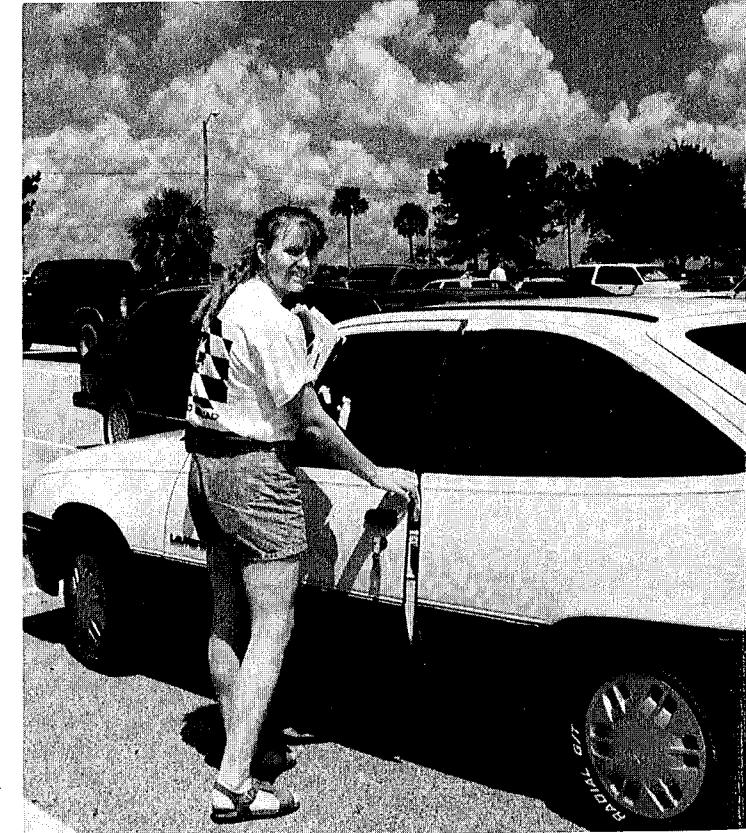

Jermaine Simpson is the reflection of spirit. It must have helped considering our record.

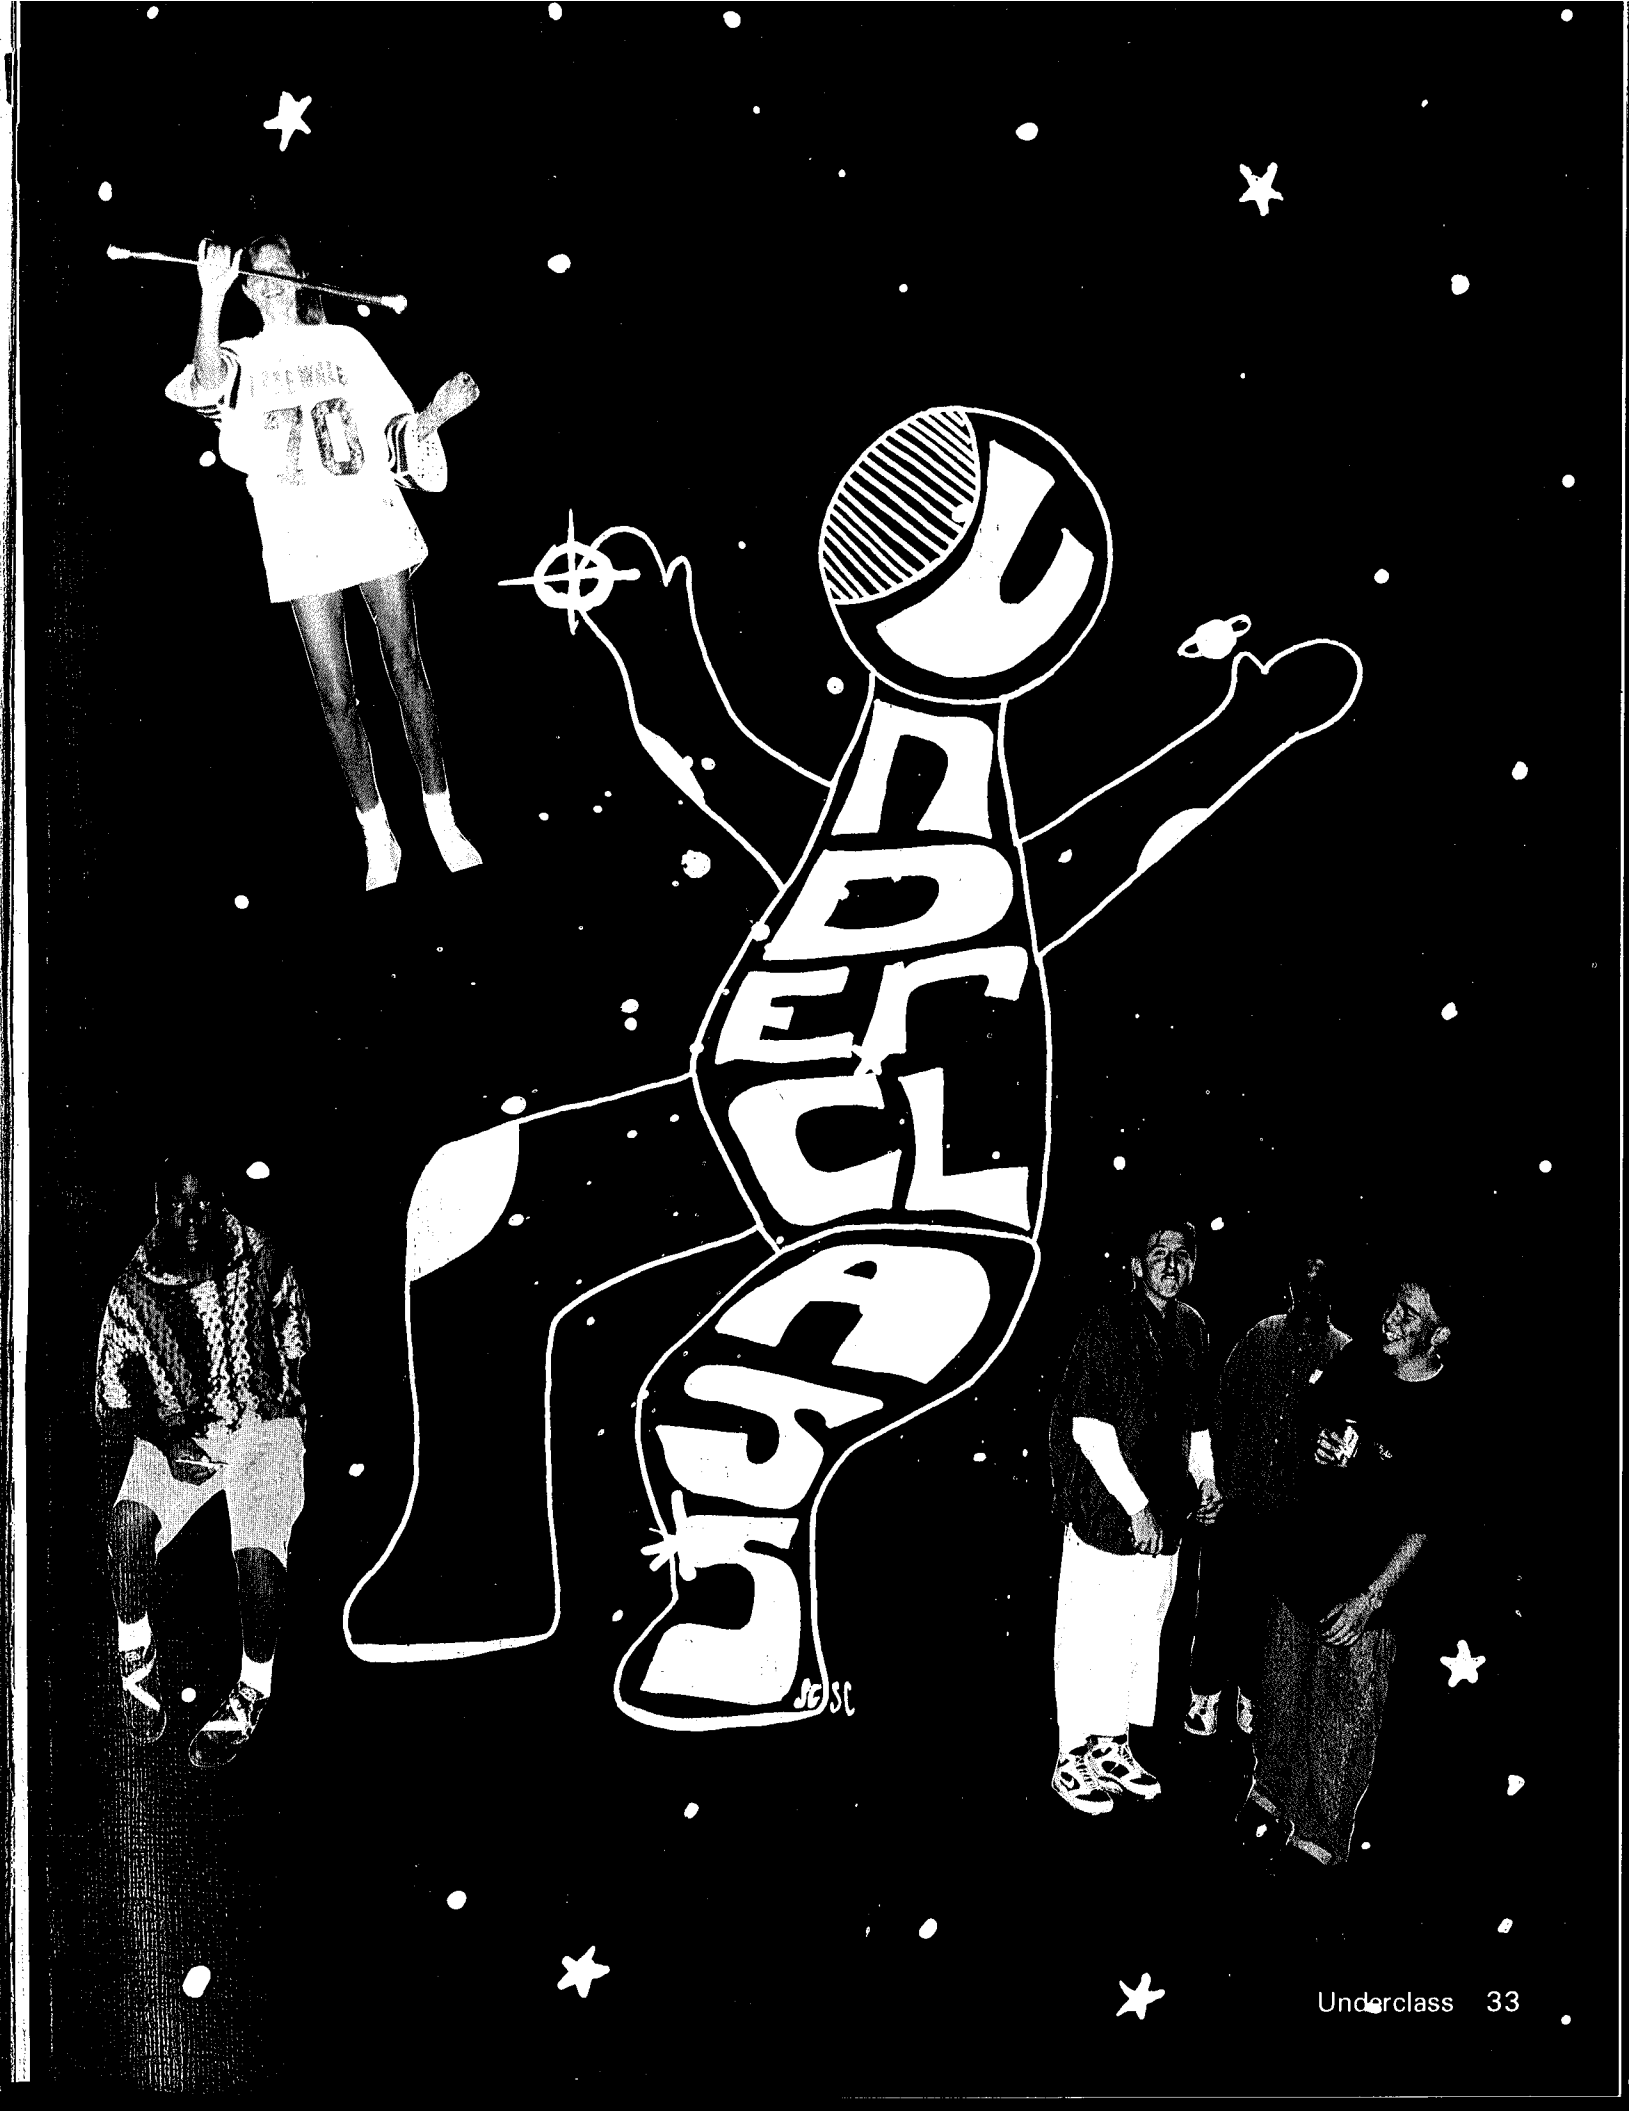

Corey Harris is using his space to best advantage.

Julio Cinton, Donald Piasecki, Leon Davis, Bruce Spry are four handy gentleman to have around.

April Caraway makes her afternoon escape.

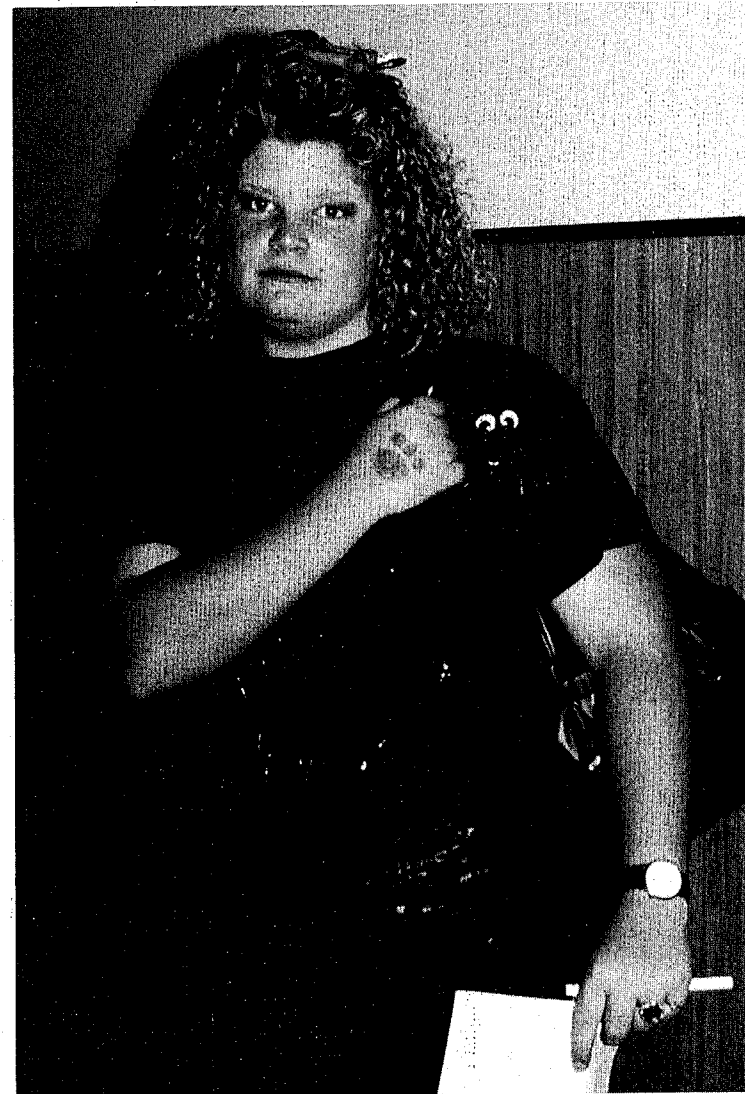

Taking Off! Class of '97

This year's freshmen are as talented as ever. They have had car washes and sold candy to earn money. They are talented and creative with a bright future.

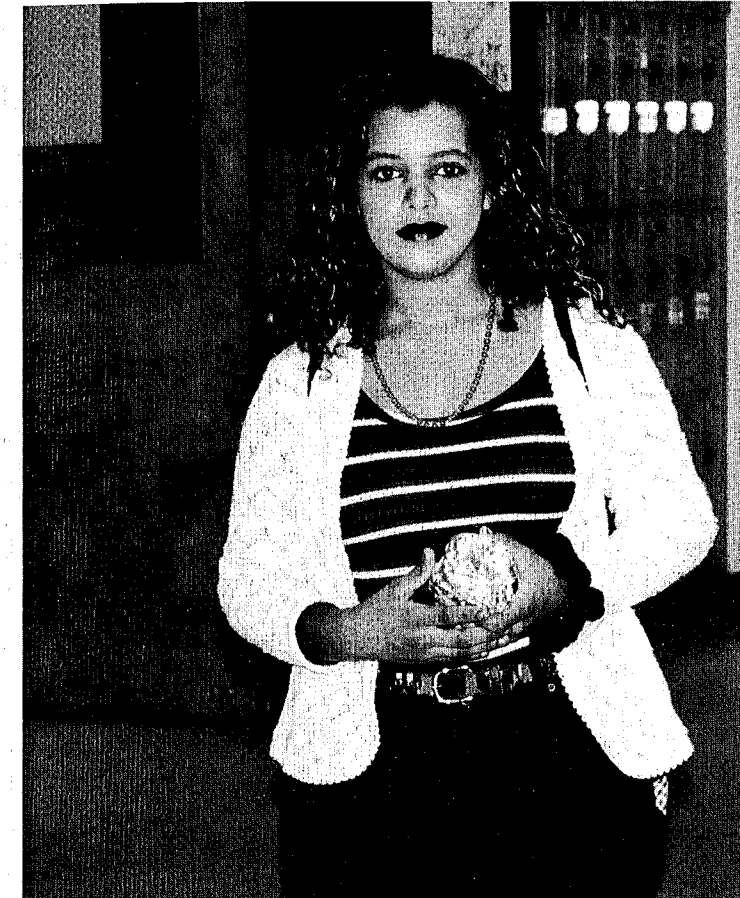

This is truly one of our best freshman classes. As you can see in the pictures below our freshmen are very active in everything our school has to offer!

Laviria Nottage, Billy Washington, Therrimann Edwards, and Rachel Pavy are this year's freshmen class officers.

Priscilla Alvarez, Juanita Catrett, and Josephine Ramirez pose a bit tacky.

Ingrid Maradiaga guards her cooking class food.

Lisa Williams shows the proper technique for typing.

Jason Shearer makes his second choice.
