

Califon Public School Curriculum

Subject: US History	Grade: 1st	Unit #: 1	Pacing: Marking Period 1
-------------------------------	----------------------	---------------------	------------------------------------

Unit Title: Civics, Government, & Human Rights

OVERVIEW OF UNIT:

All students will acquire the knowledge and skills to think analytically about how past and present interactions of people, cultures, and the environment shape the American heritage. Such knowledge and skills enable students to make informed decisions that reflect fundamental rights and core democratic values as productive citizens in local, national, and global communities. All students will acquire the skills needed to be active, informed citizens who value diversity and promote cultural understanding by working collaboratively to address the challenges that are inherent in living in an interconnected world.

Big Ideas

- Local community and government leaders have roles and responsibilities to provide services for their community members.
- Rules for all to live by are a result of the actions of government, organizations, and individuals.
- The actions of individuals and the government affect decisions made for the common good
- When all members of the group are allowed to participate in the decision-making process, everyone's voice is heard.
- The democratic principles this country was founded upon guide the actions of local, state, and national government (e.g., authority, rights, responsibility, fairness, privacy, freedom to make choices).
- Rules and people who have authority are necessary to keep everyone safe, resolve conflicts, and treat people fairly.
- Processes and rules should be fair, consistent, and respectful of the human rights of all people.
- Certain character traits can help individuals become productive members of their community.

Essential Questions

- What roles and responsibilities do local community and government leaders provide for their community members?
- How are rules to live by the result of the actions of government, organizations, and individuals?
- How do the actions of some individuals and governments affect the decisions made for the common good?
- How are the democratic principles of our country founded upon the guiding actions of local, state, and national government?
- How are the rules and people in authority necessary to keep everyone safe?
- What are the processes and rules that should be fair, consistent, and respectful to human rights? (HC)
(AS) (AA)

- What are some character traits that can help individuals become productive members of their community?

Objectives

- Students will be able to identify the roles and responsibilities of the local community and government leaders and how they provide for their community members
- Students will be able to identify the rules to live by as a result of the actions of government, organizations, and individuals
- Students will be able to explain the actions of some individuals and governments and how they affect the decisions made for the common good
- Students will be able to analyze the democratic principles our country is founded upon and the guiding actions of local, state, and national government
- Students will be able to describe the rules that people in authority deem necessary to keep everyone safe
- Students will be able to list the processes and rules that should be fair, consistent, and respectful to human rights
- Students will be able to explain some character traits that can help individuals become productive members of their community

Assessment

Formative Assessment:

- Group Discussion
- Word Study Activities

Benchmark:

- Unit Test
- Performance Task

Summative Assessment:

- Projects
- Letters written related to change

Alternative:

- Modified unit test developed by teacher
- Modified projects

Key Vocabulary

21st Century Life Skills Standards

Activities:

- The learner will compare and contrast past and present interactions of people, cultures, and the environment and how each has shaped the American heritage.

Standard	Student Learning Objectives
9.4.2.GCA.1	Articulate the role of culture in everyday life by describing one's own culture and comparing it to the cultures of other individuals (e.g., 1.5.2.C2a, 7.1.NL.IPERS.5, 7.1.NL.IPERS.6).

Careers

Activities:

- Students will demonstrate an understanding of concepts through reflections on Seesaw.

Practice	Description

Use technology to enhance productivity, increase collaboration, and communicate effectively	Students find and maximize the productive value of existing and new technology to accomplish workplace tasks and solve workplace problems. They are flexible and adaptive in acquiring new technology. They are proficient with ubiquitous technology applications. They understand the inherent risks-personal and organizational-of technology applications, and they take actions to prevent or mitigate these risks.

Big Ideas

- Physical and human characteristics affect where people live (settle).
- A map is a symbolic representation of selected characteristics of a place.
- Geographic data can be used to identify cultural and environmental characteristics of places.
- Environmental characteristics influence how and where people live.
- Global interconnections occur between human and physical systems across different regions of the world.

Essential Questions

- What are the physical and human characteristics that affect where people live?
- How is a map a symbolic representation of a selected characteristic of a place?
- How can geographic data be used to identify cultural and environmental characteristics of places?
- What are some environmental characteristics that influence how and where people live?
- What are the global interconnections that occur between human and physical systems?

Objectives

- Students will be able to describe the physical and human characteristics that affect where people live
- Students will be able to identify a map as a symbolic representation of a selected characteristic of a place
- Students will be able to analyze geographic data and explain how it can be used to identify cultural and environmental characteristics of places
- Students will be able to list some environmental characteristics that influence how and where people live
- Students will be able to describe the global interconnections that occur between human and physical systems

Assessment

Formative Assessment:

OVERVIEW OF UNIT:

All students will acquire the knowledge and skills to think analytically about how past and present interactions of people, cultures, and the environment shape the American heritage. Such knowledge and skills enable students to make informed decisions that reflect fundamental rights and core democratic values as productive citizens in local, national, and global communities.

Big Ideas

- Individuals make decisions based on their needs, wants, and availability of resources.
- Limited resources influence choices.
- Economic decisions made by individuals and governments should be informed by an effective decision-making process (e.g., saving, spending, acquiring debt, investing).
- Goods and services are produced and exchanged in multiple ways.
- The availability of resources influences current and future economic conditions.
- Governments play an economic role in the lives of individuals and communities.
- There are benefits to trading goods and services with other countries.

Essential Questions

- How do individuals make decisions based on their needs, wants, and the availability of resources?
- What are some limited resources that influence choices?
- What are some economic decisions made by individuals and governments that should be informed by an effective decision-making process, saving, spending, and investing?

- What is the availability of resources that influences current and future economic conditions?
- How do governments play an economic role in the lives of individuals and communities?
- What are the benefits of trading goods and services with other countries?

Objectives

- Students will be able to describe how individuals make decisions based on their needs, wants, and the availability of resources
- Students will be able to explain some limited resources that influence choices
- Students will be able to identify some economic decisions made by individuals and governments that should be informed by an effective decision-making process, saving, spending, and investing
- Students will be able to explain how goods and services produced and exchanged in multiple ways

- Students will be able to analyze the availability of resources that influences current and future economic conditions

Enrichment

- Process should be modified: higher order thinking skills, open-ended thinking, discovery
- Utilize project-based learning for greater depth of knowledge
- Utilize exploratory connections to higher-grade concepts
- Contents should be modified: real-world problems, audiences, deadlines, evaluations, transformations
- Learning environments should be modified: student-centered learning, independence, openness, complexity, and groups should be varied
