Accreditation Is Continuous Improvement

Cognia defines continuous improvement as "an embedded behavior rooted in an institution's culture that constantly focuses on conditions, processes, and practices to improve teaching and learning." Accreditation is a continuous improvement process that helps an institution improve teaching and learning. Using Cognia's Performance Standards, the institution examines its current effectiveness as well as its capacity and capability to achieve its vision and goals for the future.

Cognia believes all institutions can improve no matter how well they are currently performing. In the same manner that educators are expected to understand the unique needs of every learner and tailor the education experience to drive student success, every institution must be empowered to map out and embrace their unique improvement journey. Cognia expects institutions to use the results and analyses of data from diverse sources to select and implement actions that drive improvement in education quality and student performance. Cognia recognizes that each institution's improvement journey is unique and that we can serve you best by providing key findings specific to your institution.

Around the turn of the 21st century, accreditation transformed its focus and process from a ten-year evaluation focused on the accomplishments of an institution's past decade to a forward-focused process examining what an institution is striving to accomplish in the next five years. Modern accreditation examines the current and future capabilities and capacities of an institution in the context of its mission, purpose and direction. The Standards for Accreditation define how a good institution behaves and provides the criteria to focus improvement efforts that will lead to growing learners, teachers, and leaders.

In reality, modern accreditation is a continuous improvement process. At least every six years, the institution formally engages the Standards for Accreditation to reflect and examine its progress toward its desired future as expressed through its mission, purpose, and strategic direction.

Cognia's purpose-driven, strategic process is the most widely used continuous improvement process in the world.

Cognia Performance Accreditation and the Engagement Review

This report contains the findings of the Engagement Review. The findings of the report are organized in five sections: Assurances, Rating of Analyses, Cognia Performance Standards, Insights from the Review, and a Summary of Findings that includes Noteworthy Practices and Areas for Improvement.

Accreditation is pivotal to leveraging education quality and continuous improvement. Using a set of rigorous research-based standards, the accreditation process examines the whole institution—the program, the cultural context, and the community of stakeholders—to determine how well the parts work together to meet the needs of learners. Through the Cognia Accreditation Process, highly skilled and trained evaluators gather first-hand evidence and information pertinent to evaluating an institution's performance against research-based Cognia Performance Standards. Using these standards, evaluators assess the quality of the learning environment to gain valuable insights and target improvements in teaching and learning as well as the operation of the institution.

To build a comprehensive evaluation of your institution, our experts gain a broad understanding of institution quality through a review of documented evidence, discussions with leadership, and community feedback. Using the standards as a framework, the report provides valuable guidance to help focus your institution's improvement journey.

Assurances

Assurances are requirements that accredited institutions must meet. The assurance statements are based on the type of institution, and the responses are confirmed by the Accreditation Engagement Review. Institutions are expected to meet all assurances and are expected to correct any deficiencies in unmet assurances.

Evaluations of Institution Analyses

Cognia expects institutions to use a systematic process to collect data and information using quality instruments and then analyze and synthesize that information to arrive at findings. From the findings, Cognia expects institutions to develop, prioritize, and implement theories of action that will sustain high-performing areas and lead to improvement in underperforming areas.

Cognia requires institutions to complete analyses on selected data sources. Each analysis is evaluated using rubrics aligned to the main activities within the analysis process.

Performance Standards Evaluation Results

Accreditation is based primarily on the evaluation of evidence that reflects an institution's ability to meet the expectations as defined by the Cognia Performance Standards. The Performance Standards define the elements of quality that research indicates are present in an effective institution. Accreditation standards provide the guideposts to becoming a better institution. The Engagement Review evaluators apply a four-level rubric to determine the degree to which the institution demonstrates effective practices that reflect the expectations of the standard. The rubric scale is designed to indicate the current performance of the institution.

The rubric is scored from Level 4 to Level 1. Descriptions are provided in the table below.

RATING	LEVEL	DESCRIPTION
★★★★	4	Demonstrating noteworthy systematic and systemic practices producing clear results that positively impact learners.
★★★☆	3	Engaging in practices that provide evidence of expected effectiveness that is reflected in the standard.
★★☆☆	2	Developing or improving practices that provide evidence that effort approaches desired level of effectiveness.
★☆☆☆	1	Reflecting areas with insufficient evidence and/or limited activity leading toward improvement.

Culture of Learning Standards

A good institution nurtures and sustains a healthy culture for learning. In a healthy culture, learners, parents, and educators feel connected to the purpose and work of the institution as well as behave in alignment with the stated values and norms. The institution also demonstrates evidence that reflects the mission, beliefs, and expectations of the institution (e.g., student work; physical appearance of the institution; participation in institution activities; parents' attendance at institution functions).

Keys to Culture of Learning
A healthy culture is evident where:
- Stakeholders are actively engaged and supportive of the institution's mission
- Learners' academic and non-academic needs and interests are the focal point
- Stakeholders are included and supported

Leadership for Learning Standards

The ability of a leader to provide leadership for learning is a key attribute of a good institution. Leaders who engage in their own learning while tangibly supporting the learning process for learners and teachers have a significant positive impact on the success of others. Leaders must also communicate the learning expectations for all learners and teachers continuously with consistency and purpose. The expectations are embedded in the culture of the institution, reflected by learners', teachers', and leaders' behaviors and attitudes toward learning.

Growth in Learning Standards

A good institution positively impacts learners throughout their journey of learning. A positive impact on the learner is reflected in readiness to engage in and preparedness for the next transition in their learning. Growth in learning is also reflected in learners' ability to meet expectations in knowledge and skill acquisition.

Keys to Growth in Learning Growth is evident when
• Learners possess non-academic skills that ensure readiness to learn
• Learners' academic achievement reflects preparedness to learn
• Learners attain knowledge and skills necessary to achieve goals for learning

Insights from the Review

The evaluators engaged in professional discussions and deliberations about the effectiveness of the processes, programs, and practices within the institution to arrive at the findings of the report. Guided by evidence, the evaluators arrived at findings that will inform your institution's continuous improvement efforts. The findings are aligned to research-based criteria designed to improve student learning and organizational effectiveness.

The findings are organized into narratives around four Key Characteristics critical to the success of any educational institution: culture of learning, leadership for learning, engagement of learning, and growth in learning. The narratives also provide the next steps to guide your institution's improvement journey in its efforts to improve the quality of educational opportunities for all learners. The feedback provided in this Accreditation Engagement Review Report will assist your institution in reflecting on its current improvement efforts and adapting and adjusting your plans to continuously strive for improvement.

Culture of Learning

The school system is committed to providing quality education by focusing on academics, setting high expectations, and providing rich student opportunities. The institution's vision and goals include "enrollment, enlistment, or employment," reflecting its mission to prepare students for success in their future endeavors. To achieve its mission, the school system has created a collaborative environment that fosters strong relationships with all stakeholders, including school administration, faculty, parents, students, and community members. Building these relationships creates a foundation of shared responsibility and positively affects student performance. Each school has a school advisory council that includes representation from all stakeholder groups except for students. This diverse group provides valuable information about stakeholder perceptions and proposals to improve outreach efforts between the school system, parents, and the community. Additionally, each school has a parent group that ensures their voice is heard. Parents are considered partners in the education process, and their involvement is crucial for their child's success. Through the Academic Parent Teacher Team (APTT), teachers and parents work collaboratively to ensure students learn and progress. Parents can dive deep into data, view progress, and ask questions concerning the curriculum and assignments. The school system is also committed to raising the literacy level of students, starting with new parents and their babies. The "Baby Hornets" program provides books and strategies to help new parents create readers. To prepare students for success, the school system offers comprehensive programs, services, and partnerships designed to engage learners in application, discovery, inquiry, problem-solving, and reaching high expectations from birth to graduation. The system believes in preparing students for life beyond graduation by equipping them with the skills, knowledge, and habits of mind necessary for success in college, career, and life. However, while most voices are heard on the School Advisory Council, students do not have a voice. The team suggests including student representation on the School Advisory Council to ensure their perspectives and ideas are heard and considered.

Professional staff members are provided with the necessary support and resources to enhance and develop their professional skills and knowledge. The school system has made significant efforts to enhance the skills and knowledge of its staff members. Professional learning communities (PLCs) meetings are held weekly. To ensure that the PLC meetings are effective, staff members are surveyed monthly, and their feedback is used to improve the process further. The surveys have consistently reflected a high degree of satisfaction with the PLC process. The school system has also implemented the Coaching and Retaining Educators Successfully (C.A.R.E.S.) program to support new and experienced teachers. This program pairs new teachers with veteran teachers for three years and new experienced teachers with a buddy for two years. The goal is to provide new teachers with the necessary support they need to succeed in their roles while also improving staff retention. The results of this program have been measurable, with increased staff retention. To facilitate co-teaching, the system provides common planning time to ensure that special education and general education teachers can plan together effectively. Additionally, teachers receive monthly professional development on effective reading strategies that can be used across all subject areas. The system's literacy specialist, coaches, and curriculum director provide coaching cycles to support teachers and determine upcoming professional development needs. Teachers have received professional learning using the Learning-Focused schools' (LFS) framework focused on standards-driven strategies. The team suggests collecting program evaluation data regularly to ensure that all support programs are effective. This data helps the system identify areas of improvement and make changes as needed. The school system's efforts to enhance its staff members' skills and knowledge have resulted in a supportive and collaborative work environment.

Leadership for Learning

Leaders establish and communicate clear direction, priorities, structures, processes, and procedures to foster support and alignment of purpose and resources throughout the organization. Standard operating procedures are in place, and expectations, policies, and procedures are clear. Survey results indicated that the area of purpose and direction was rated high among all respondents and was focused on student achievement and success. To ensure consistency, all teachers and administrators are evaluated using the Teacher Keys Effectiveness System (TKES) and the Leader Keys Effectiveness System (LKES). Throughout the interviews with the leadership, a common theme that emerged was the critical role of consistency in achieving their successes. The leaders emphasized that maintaining consistency in their approach, decision-making, and actions has been instrumental in meeting their goals and objectives. This ensures that everyone involved in the school is on the same page and that resources that drive student achievement are accessible. The school system takes advantage of grants to provide additional resources. For example, a grant for a parent mentor resulted in "unexpected value," as reported during interviews with the leadership team. The team suggests the school system consider the sustainability of grant-funded programs and implement plans to ensure continuity beyond the initial grant funding period.

Engagement of Learning

Instruction is created to enhance learners' knowledge and skills and promote lifelong learning. Professional development has been focused on providing an instructional framework while emphasizing literacy across all content areas. Teachers are expected to provide engaging lessons using strategies such as scaffolding and differentiation. Furthermore, students are given a chance to earn dual credits at the local university and technical colleges. Pathways are developed to allow students to explore their interests and possible career choices while considering community and local business needs. To ensure that students develop critical thinking skills, collaborate with peers, and develop leadership skills, they are allowed to pursue leadership opportunities via a variety of classes, clubs, and sports. Clubs are based on students' diverse interests, such as Future Farmers of America (FFA), engineering, and technology, and other classes are open to students such as science, technology, engineering, math (STEM), fine arts, and music. These classes and offerings allow students to expand their knowledge and abilities. Students tend to learn better when they are allowed to have a voice and choice in their learning. Data from assessments are shared with students so they can set goals and take ownership of their learning. Multi-Systems of Supports (MTSS) provides remediation and intervention services for reading, math, and behavior needs. Clubs are offered before and after school; however, no transportation is provided. The leadership team suggests evaluating all programs to ensure students have equal access.

Digital resources that add value to the learning process are not integrated across all areas of the curriculum. All teachers in the school have been provided with a ViewSonic interactive board, an educational tool that allows teachers to create engaging and interactive lessons. These boards come equipped with a Poly camera and microphone, enabling teachers to record and share their lessons with students and parents. This feature is especially helpful for students who need to review the material or who were absent during the lesson. Moreover, each student in the school has been assigned a Chromebook, which provides them access to digital resources aligned with the curriculum. Most of the curriculum has a digital component, which is beneficial in enhancing the students' learning experience. However, the eProve™ Effective Learning Environments Observation Tool® (eleot®) revealed that technology is not being used effectively to collaborate and create original works. The team noted that the use of technology to collaborate and create original works was rated lower. This is an area where technology can empower students to make decisions and work as a team with their peers while providing access to a vast amount of information and resources. The team suggests that teachers be provided with professional development in the selection, use, and integration of digital resources in instruction. This will enable teachers to use technology more effectively to create a collaborative and engaging learning environment that will help students achieve their full potential.

Growth in Learning

Leaders, staff, and students effectively use data to inform practices, decisions, and planning. All stakeholders involved in the educational process, including school leaders, teachers, staff, parents, and students, are actively engaged in using data to improve the quality of education. This involves a continuous improvement process that engages all stakeholders in analyzing data, creating improvement plans, and monitoring progress. Dedicated time during professional development is set aside for data analysis, where school leaders and professional staff analyze various types of data such as assessment, attendance, discipline, and student performance. In addition, monthly meetings are held to evaluate student data and performance. The APTT program is also implemented to share data with parents and provide them with coaching to better assist their children in achieving academic goals. Data are used to inform teaching practices, provide direction for professional learning, and determine programming and staffing needs. Furthermore, students are involved in their own learning and are shown their assessment results, which helps them track their progress and set goals. A behavior analysis team (BAT) has been established in each building to identify and work with students who are experiencing behavior or attendance issues. This helps to ensure that all students receive the necessary support to succeed academically. Data are also being collected and analyzed to determine the effectiveness of various school programs. However, the team did not observe any evidence of a regular process to evaluate the curriculum and resources. Therefore, the team suggests developing a formal curriculum review process with a calendar to ensure the effectiveness of the curriculum and accompanying resources. This will help to ensure that the curriculum is relevant, up-to-date, and aligned with the needs of the students and the community.

Summary of Findings

The review process focused on establishing evidence of effective practice and performance of the institution in relation to the accreditation standards.

Noteworthy Practices

In conducting the review, the evaluator identified Noteworthy Practices that reflect significant areas of strength in the work of the institution. Although there are numerous examples of the institution's level of quality, the recognition of Noteworthy Practices reflects the greatest strengths of the institution.

1 Learners' well-being is at the heart of the institution. The institution's practices, processes, and decisions align with its mission, purpose, and values.

Standard 1 Standard 2 Standard 3

2 Staff members receive the support and resources they need to strengthen their practice. Ongoing professional development, mentoring, materials, and dedicated time are provided to ensure staff have access to resources that support classroom instruction and professional growth.

Cognia's IEQ Network Average: 253

SCORE	DESCRIPTION
Below 220	An IEQ score below 220 indicates that the institution has several Areas for Improvement and should focus their improvement efforts on those areas and the related Standards and/or Assurances. The institution will be required to present evidence of improvement to Cognia within one year through a Progress Monitoring Review. Additional Progress Reports may be required if satisfactory improvement is not achieved.
220 - 300	An IEQ in the range of 220-300 suggests the institution has some Areas for Improvement and may include one or more Noteworthy Practices. Institutions must address the Areas for Improvement and provide evidence of actions taken and results to Cognia in a required Progress Report due three years following the review. Additional progress monitoring may be required if satisfactory improvement is not achieved.
Above 300	An IEQ above 300 indicates the institution meets Cognia's expectations for accreditation that include one or more Areas for Improvement and may include one or more Noteworthy Practices. Institutions must address the Areas for Improvement and provide evidence of actions taken and results to Cognia in a required Progress Report due three years following the review. Additional progress monitoring may be required if satisfactory progress is not achieved.
