

12th Grade Summer Book Report

Book: Fahrenheit 451 by Ray Bradbury

Assignment:

- Essay (60%): Write a three page argumentative essay about censorship. Whether you support censorship or are against it. Use examples from the book to prove your points along with present day events you are witnessing in the world today. This is a general prompt so that you can find your own evidence for the thesis/narrative you want to follow to prove your point in this essay. Examples of certain themes you can focus on in your essay include but are not limited to: censorship leading to lack of creativity, censorship being a way to control the people, censorship leading to uneducated minds, censorship taking away human rights, censorship being a way to help form discipline, censorship needed to protect people, censorship being needed in media, and the list goes on.
- Poem (40%): Now, regardless of where you stand on the topic of censorship, you will write a poem talking about your voice. You can write a poem about wanting to be heard or never being heard no matter how loud you are or how your environment silences your voice or any number of things as long as it is related to your voice (literal or figurative). This poem needs to be a minimum of 3 stanzas with 4 lines in each stanza.

Rules:

Times new roman font size 12

Double spaced

Remember to always indent before the next paragraph

Essay Rubric

	3	2	1
--	---	---	---

Organization	A proper flow of an introduction, body, and conclusion in your essay	Somewhat of an introduction, body, and conclusion in your essay	No flow and/or no introduction, body, or conclusion in your essay.
Spelling and Grammar	No mistakes in spelling and grammar	Some mistakes in spelling and grammar	A lot of mistakes in spelling and grammar
Vocabulary	Used a lot of vocabulary words that you learned from the book	Used some vocabulary words that you learned in class or from the book	Used little to no vocabulary words that you learned from the book
Usage of Text	Was able to find proper examples from the book and reference and relate them to their points	Used an example from the book but didn't completely succeed at relating it to the point / Wasn't able to properly reference the example.	Used little to no examples from the book or used an example but it did not fit what the essay prompt was asking you to look for