

Leroy Harris, a 1995 graduate of Northside High School, distinguished himself both in academics and extracurricular activities. During high school, he was a three-year letterman and captain of the football team in his senior year. Beyond athletics, Leroy actively contributed to his school community as a member of the Student Council, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, 4-H, and the Northside High School Band.

Following his graduation, Leroy earned a nomination to the prestigious United States Military Academy at West Point. While at West Point, he excelled as a cadet, joining the Army Football Team and the West Point Martial Arts Team. He graduated in 1999 with a degree in Systems Engineering.

Leroy began his career as an Army Officer in the 1st Cavalry Division, serving honorably in both the United States and the Middle East. After transitioning from military service, he embarked on a remarkable 25-year leadership journey across various industries. His career began in pharmaceutical sales with Eli Lilly & Co. before moving into the medical device industry, where he spent a decade in leadership roles at Boston Scientific's Cardiac Rhythm Management division.

Leroy's career trajectory continued its upward momentum at General Electric, where he held roles such as Executive Strategic Accounts, Vice President and General Manager, and Chief Transformation Officer. He then joined Oracle Health, where he currently serves as Group Vice President and General Manager of Oracle Health Consulting, a $1.6 billion business unit comprising 4,400 associates. In this role, Leroy is known as a highly respected strategic and operational leader, driving innovative approaches to disrupt traditional thinking and transform the organization.

Leroy's personal life reflects the same level of excellence and commitment. He is married to Molly Harris, a former All-American collegiate volleyball player who has earned induction into both the University of Northern Iowa Hall of Fame and the Missouri Valley Conference Hall of Fame. Together, they have three accomplished children: Leroy Takashi, who recently earned a golf scholarship to Bowling Green State University; Harper, who competed in the U.S. Kids Golf World Championships in Pinehurst; and Olivia, who proudly carries the name of Leroy's late mother, Virgie.

With his military discipline, business acumen, and dedication to family, Leroy Harris continues to leave an indelible mark on both his professional field and his personal life.

What does Northside High School mean to you?

To be a Northside High School Eagle in means striving for excellence, embracing perseverance, and always raising the standard. Eagles overcome adversity with determination, soaring to new heights in academics, athletics, and character. Through hard work, resilience, and an unwavering commitment to success, Northside Eagles embody leadership and strength, proving that challenges are just opportunities to rise above.