JUNE 2024

Ya'iishjaáashchilí

Ya'iishyaashchili, which means Planting of Early Crops. The big rains nourish the newly planted seeds. This is the time when the wild plants start bearing their fruits. In the old days, the Navajos gathered the early crops of the wild like wild berries and seeds. These were welcomed because the crops, which were planted in May, would not yield their fruits until another two to three months
