How will the team ensure that stakeholders, and in particular parents and/or guardians, were able to provide meaningful input into the needs assessment process?	Parents were provided with a survey in which they were asked to provide information that they felt that we should consider in regards to our needs assessment process. The survey was posted on the school website, and parents were notified of this posting through Class Dojo and School Messenger. Furthermore, parents were offered the opportunity to participate in a parent survey. Again, they were notified in writing of this survey opportunity, Dojo messages were sent, and School Messenger was utilized.

2. DATA COLLECTION ANALYSIS

2.6 Data Analysis Questions

Analyze the LEA's data and answer the guiding questions to determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of demographic and financial needs. Student subgroups with a count of less than 15 are denoted by "TFS" (too few students).

What perception data did you use? [examples: student perceptions about school climate issues (health survey, violence, prejudice, bullying, etc.); student/parent perceptions about the effectiveness of programs or interventions; student understanding of relationship of school to career or has an academic plan]	We utilized Student Health Survey data, and we utilized a survey (Student Engagement Survey) provided by our district as we worked towards accreditation. We also utilized parent survey data from a survey that I created.

What does the perception data tell you? (perception data can describe people's knowledge, attitudes, beliefs, perceptions, competencies; perception data can also answer the question "What do people think they know, believe, or can do?")	Generally, our data tells us that stakeholders and students feel that we provide a safe learning environment, and that we want our students to be successful.

What process data did you use? (examples: student participation in school activities, sports, clubs, arts; student participation in special programs such as peer mediation, counseling, skills conferences; parent/student participation in events such as college information meetings and parent workshops)	We provided parent workshops for ALL parents addressing how to help children become better readers, understanding school reports that are sent home, and we provided a workshop to understand the importance of academic rigor. The workshop addressing academic rigor was a live workshop, and we offered lunch to those who attended. We also provided some of our at-risk and/or needy students with a mentor program designed to encourage them to set goals and make wise choices.

What does the process data tell you? (process data describes the way programs are conducted; provides evidence of participant involvement in programs; answers the question "What did you do for whom?")	Our participation in our workshop sessions was disappointing. Limited numbers of parents participated. Our mentor program was valued by our students based on survey responses, and our mentors also expressed that they were glad that they participated in the program.

What achievement data did you use?	We utilized MAP data, Wonders unit assessment data, STAR assessment, iLearn data, Write Score data, and Georgia Milestones data.

What does your achievement data tell you?	All of our data provides us with evidence that our students are becoming more proficient readers, writers, and mathematicians. Student growth is evident across all subject areas based on longitudinal data.

What demographic data did you use?	As we studied the data described previously described, we studied how our subgroups performed. We studied our gender data, ESOL data, ethnic/racial data, and our exceptional education data.

What does the demographic data tell you?	Our data provided us with evidence that generally all of our students are making growth towards closing learning gaps. There really is no subgroup that is lagging behind another when it comes to making progress towards closing learning gaps and demonstating growth towards grade level achievement expectations.

3. NEEDS IDENTIFICATION AND ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

3.1 Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Read the trends and patterns summaries from each section of the data analysis process. Use the information in these summaries to complete 3.2 and 3.3. Using the summaries in 3.1 and other local data, describe the strengths and challenges or answer the guiding questions for each program. Include strengths and challenges related to: a) general program implementation, and b) students and adults involved in or affected by the program. Focus on strengths and challenges that will assist in the identification of needs during 3.2. Watch the Identifying Need webinar for additional information and guidance.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Coherent Instructional:Summarize the coherent instructional system trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	In regards to the coherent instructional system, our school is at the operational level (at worst) in each category. In fact, our school is moving towards exemplary in most or all categories described. We certainly do a good job collaborating as a team to study student assessment data to determine areas of concern so that we can address them. We will continue to work towards teacher clarity goals in regards to being very clear about what we want students to learn (based on standards) and how they will know that they have been successful in their attempts to learn.

Effective Leadership:Summarize the effective leadership trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	Effective leadership is evident. The leadership team uses data to initiate change and improvement of practices. The team will work to continue to more efficiently and consistently enure the effective implementation of curriculum, assessment, instruction, and professional learning practices.

Professional Capacity:Summarize the professional capacity trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	Professional learning is provided. Student assessment data is taken into consideration when professional learning is selected. Certainly, professional learning should incorporate high leverage instructional practices consistently. Staff professional learning survey results are also taken into consideration when professional development is planned. We need to do a better job personalizing and differentiating professional development. We also need to do a better job monitoring the implementaion of skills learned and the effectiveness of the implementation.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Family and Community Engagement: Summarize the family and community engagement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	We have provided numerous ways for families to communicate and stay informed about what is happening here at Miller County Elementary. Parent and stakeholder workshops have been provided based upon requests made by our stakeholders as well as based upon needs identified by administrators. Fun activities such as our Grandparent Parade, Muffins with Moms, and Doughnuts for Dads have been offered (and well received). We have also provided a student showcase opportunity for all of our students to show their parents something that they are proud of here at school. We need to continue to offer opportunities for parents and stakeholders to feel more "at home" here at our school. We need to continue to work with our local agencies to provide wrap-around services for the families that we serve.

Supportive Learning Environment: Summarize the supportive learning environment trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	We are at an operational level, at worst, in all of the categories pertaining to providing a supportive learning environment. We do a fantastic job celebrating student growth and achievement. That is definitely a strongpoint for our school. There is always room for improvement in regards to providing an appropriately challenging learning environment and how to do that with such varied student needs within each classroom.

Demographic and Financial: Summarize the demographic and financial trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	Many of our students live in poverty. They have unique needs that must be addressed via wrap-around services before we can hope to address their learning needs. That said, our school social worker, along with our school counselor have done a fantastic job identifying these students, and they have worked to provide for their basic needs to be addressed. Our mentor program has been successful in regards to providing love and support for some of our at-risk students. We have provided enouragement for our students by starting a program called "Little Pirates, Big Dreams" in which we have a person who has achieved success to be inteviewed by Ms. Brown or me. During these interviews, the people have described what it takes to be a success, and we have specifically asked a diverse group of people to be interviewed so that all of our students can have someone they can relate to and strive to be like as they set goals for future success. As we have examined our demographic data, all of our subgroups are making progress towards closing learning gaps and achieving grade level proficiency.

Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Student Achievement: Summarize the student achievement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	All of our subgroups are making progress towards closing learning gaps and achieving grade level proficiency. Although our student Lexiles continue to improve, we still have to continue to drive our students towards grade level expectations and offer them plenty of opportunities to interact with grade appropriate text while providing reading texts on their level as well. We also have to continue to find creative ways to "double dip" students who are behind in their reading abilities so that they have additional time to be remediated in an effort to get them closer to grade level expectations. Writing is improving with the implentation of the Write Score curriculum, but we still have to provide purposeful writing lessons aimed at specific areas of need. In regards to Math, we have to continue to work to help students use close reading strategies to solve word problems, and we have to continue work to provide purposeful and focused instruction in regards to operations involving fractions and subtraction with regrouping.

IDEA – Special Education, Economically Disadvantaged Children, and English Learners.

Using the summaries in 3.1 and other local data, describe the strengths and challenges or answer the guiding questions for each program. Include strengths and challenges related to: a) general program implementation, and b) students and adults involved in or affected by the program. Focus on strengths and challenges that will assist in the identification of needs during 3.3. Watch the Identifying Need webinar for additional information and guidance.

Strengths	These students are closing gaps in regards to grade level performance expectations. *Lexile levels are improving. *Writing is improving. *Vocabulary is improving. *Math grade level standard mastery is improving.

Challenges	Challenges still exist in regards to background knowledge and finding time in a crowded schedule to provide the extra time so many of these students need in order to interact with standards and in order to provide meaningful and appropriate remediation.
