Dear Tanque Verde Families,

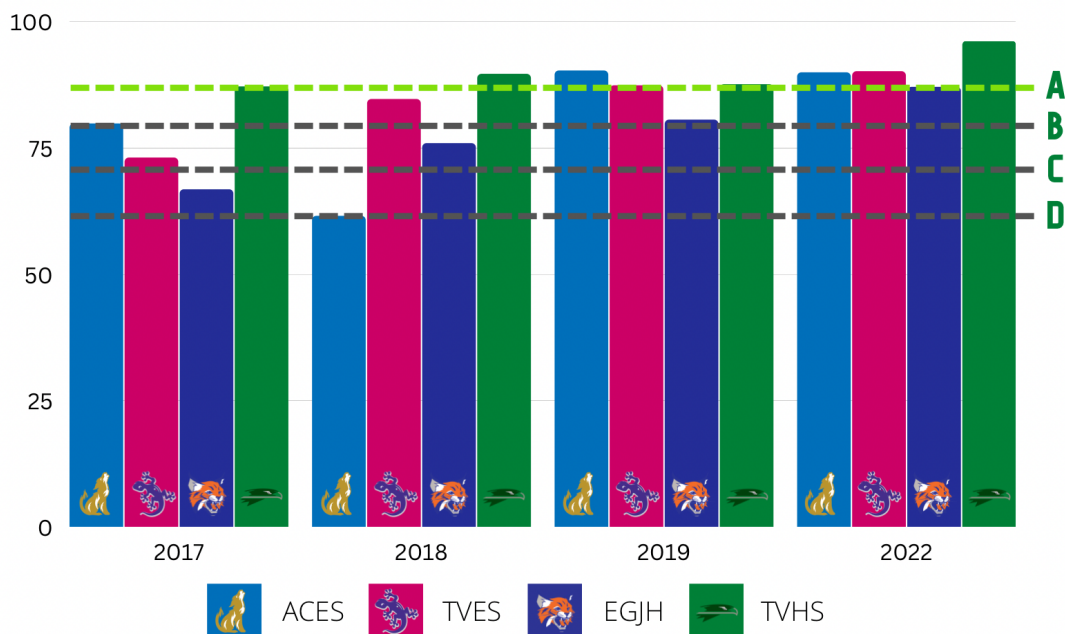

It is with great excitement that I get to share this information with you today. Each year, the Arizona Department of Education (ADE) releases letter grades outlining academic student performance based on a number of assessments. Our team is committed to ensuring our schools are your premier choice for K-12 education and today’s results highlight the collective efforts over the last couple of years to help our students achieve stellar results.

All Tanque Verde Unified School District schools, including Agua Caliente Elementary, Tanque Verde Elementary, Emily Gray Junior High, and Tanque Verde High received “A” ratings from ADE.

On behalf of TVUSD, we are grateful to see that all of our school sites have achieved this outcome. It does not happen in isolation. We have depended on many hands to make learning opportunities possible over this historic period of time. From our teachers to our parents, from our custodians to our food service team, and everyone in between - thank you for your efforts. Our results are different from a lot of communities in our state and across the nation and we still want to improve by focusing on educational outcomes. Our kids deserve it.

As for the data itself, snap shots for each school have been included below, demonstrating the multiyear effort to get us to this point and how we continue to strive to improve in the areas of English Language Arts (ELA) and Math. Additional information regarding high school science scores should be released soon for the newly adopted statewide standard.
