Winter Concert

The Winter Concert theme this year was Winter Wind. The performers all did a wonderful job. There were a few technical difficulties, but even the youngest performers rolled with the punches. The singing was great, the enthusiasm was high, and nothing was cuter than the youngest singers all turning in unison twice to check on the sound tech behind them. The instrumental pieces were spot on, as well. Emotions ran high at the end, from the weight of knowing our Seniors Autumn Rusche and Arionna Watson played their last Winter Concert. The Eagle Pride Band members commemorated the moment with some group pictures.

Winter Art Show and Awards

This season's art show had students enter 1-3 pieces each for a total of 150 pieces. Faculty and staff were asked to look over the pieces and vote on their top three choices (each building voting for pieces from the opposite building). Those votes were tallied to determine who the winners were in each category: Junior High/High School Division and Elementary Division. There was also a separate judging done by Mr. Stocks for the Superintendent Award. The voting proved difficult, as all the students produced and submitted exceptional work for their grade levels.

Landscape

I used paper and pencil to create my work. Landscape is inspired by a photo I found online I also learned how to use perspective and to draw the flow of water.

Austin White

Dragon Zentangle

For this piece, I faced a few challenges, but the main one was coming up with what to add to the background without ruining the look. I worked through my challenge by asking for others' opinions on what to add, as well as making sketches on a different piece of paper. If I could do this again, I would probably use more of my time outside of school to make new patterns or think of more patterns that would go well with the dragon. The things I like about this work are how the flames and dragon turned out in the end, as well as everything else.

Wintre' Nesbitt

The (not so nice) Evening stroll:

I made a painting with tempera paint. The horses were all running and their pack got shot at. The mama and baby in the picture got away but unfortunately the others didn't, they used the last energy they had to get home.

Kimber Marriott Delicious Dolphin

I named my art piece Delicious Dolphin because I thought it was funny and pink, red, orange and yellow are appetizing colors. I like how the dolphin is warm colors and the background is cool colors. I also like how the dolphin pops with bright colors. I don't like how some of the colors aren't blended as well. If I could do it again I wouldn't because it took a long time (a couple of weeks) and I didn't really enjoy the process. I like this piece of art, but it's not my favorite.

Fall

This piece is about leaves falling in the wind. I used oil pastels and watercolors. I used warm colors for the leaves and cool colors for the wind. My favorite part was tracing the leaves and coloring them in. The hardest part was trying to stay in the lines. If I did this project again, I wouldn't change a thing.

Kiss the Goat

The Kiss the Goat fundraiser was a success, bringing in $170. Abbie Goat was beloved by all, and she loved the kisses. She's even Snapchat famous now! The funds were enough to give two local families a Christmas meal. Those meals included ham, 10 lbs. of potatoes, green beans, gravy mixes, Hawaiian rolls, butter, milk, noodle mixes, a rice and broccoli mix, Pop Tarts, and donuts. Thank you to everyone who participated and showed that we are Small Community Strong!
