2.6 Data Analysis Questions

Analyze the LEA's data and answer the guiding questions to determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of demographic and financial needs. Student subgroups with a count of less than 15 are denoted by "TFS" (too few students).

	After discussing with Junior Beta Club members, there was a better understanding of the school's reaction. The students better understood that what we did was meant to keep them safe and not to cause them to be afraid to be here.

	able to note student academic growth and improved discipline as a result of our efforts. Parents and teachers also indicated that they were pleased with the way we celebrated student growth and success this past school year.

What does the process data tell you?	The data collected indicated that we are on the right path in regards to need to give more attention to the instruction that we are providing for our students who are "high achievers" and/or gifted.

•	We used a combination of data gathered from Georgia Milestone results, iLearn MGD assessments, STAR, and MAP.

What does your achievement data tell you?
	Our achievement data tells us that we have to do a better job providing rigorous learning experiences for our students. We have lots of room for growth in regards to helping our students read on grade level, and we have lots of room for improvement in regards to helping our students reach grade level expectations in regards to math expectations. Our data suggests that our students have experienced growth during this school year, but there is still plenty of room for additional growth. We have to set the bar high in the lower grade levels so that students are prepared for the course work that they will experience in the upper grade levels.

What demographic data did you use?	We utilized Georgia Milestones data to study student achievement in relation to gender, race, and Exceptional Education qualifications.

What does the demographic data tell you?	The data suggests that Caucasian "regular education" students showed higher levels of achievement than minority students and students served through Exceptional Education services. The data indicated learning gaps that need to be addressed. The data also indicates that we need to be cognizant of the expectations that we have for minority and Exceptional Education students and how we go about delivering instruction to these students.
	Furthermore, data review indicates that we need to give careful attention and consideration to our high achieving and gifted students. Our percentage of students achieving Level 4 status should be higher based upon the number of gifted and high achieving students that we have enrolled at Miller County Elementary. Again, we have to adjust our expectations and instructional delivery to maximize the potential of our students.

3. REQUIRED QUESTIONS

3.2 PQ, Federally Identified Schools, CTAE, Discipline

Required Questions

We are in contact with early childhood centers in our district about the learning needs of our students. In fact, one of our Kindergarten teachers and our Assistant Principal participated in a Q and A session with parents of students at the local Headstart facility, and our teacher even went to this facility to complete Kindergarten readiness screeners for students there who will be entering Kindergarten next year. We also work closely with our PK teachers and staff members who are in a different building than our K-5 students regarding the learning needs of students prior to their entry into Kindergarten. PK students also came for a tour of our facilities prior to the end of the school term.

ADDITIONAL RESPONSES

8 Use the space below to provide additional narrative regarding the school's improvement plan	The School Improvement Committee was formed by taking a representative from each grade level and an Exceptional Education representative in addition to the administrative team to provide feedback and guidance from their perspectives to improve academic, social, and emotional development of the students attending Miller County Elementary. The group examined grade level data from the previous year and used the 2021-2022 CNA to guide their planning for the 2021-2022 school term.
