Black History Month

As we enter February, we take this opportunity to celebrate Black History Month—a time to honor the achievements, contributions, and rich cultural heritage of Black individuals throughout history. At Richard Carroll Elementary School, we believe that diversity makes us stronger, and we are committed to fostering an inclusive and respectful environment where every student feels valued and heard.

Throughout the month, we will engage in activities, discussions, and learning experiences that highlight the remarkable impact of Black leaders, artists, scholars, and change-makers. We encourage our students and families to participate, reflect, and celebrate the power of diversity in shaping our world.

Together, let's continue to build a school community where respect, understanding, and unity thrive.
