TK and Kindergarten

Mrs. Tinnin

Kindergarteners are learning more tricky words. They should know why, one, from, of, to, and was. They are learning how to answer questions from a story with a complete sentence. Kindergarteners just finished learning ab4out Native Americans. Ask them what they learned!

TK continues with their unit about habitats learning about ponds. This is a fun unit because of the many art projects each child gets to make as they learn about the different habitats and animals in them. TK is also learning to write the picture for the sounds M, A, T, D, O, and C. They continue learning new nursery rhymes and listening for sounds in words.

Kindergarteners are learning shapes and their attributes. TK is learning about first and last.

We only have one week left of our read-a-thon. Please help your child make their goal of thirty minutes per day. Each child has a goal of 870 minutes for the month. We already have three students who reached their goal and several more are almost there!

First and Second Grade Explorers

Mrs. Mittge

Students began making their Washington State relief maps this week! What a fun-messy-project! We made the landforms Friday and will be painting our projects next week.

Students also chose the Washington State animals they want to write a report about this week. Students began their research and will be writing their reports next week. After spring break we will be making fun flip charts about our animals.

Also after spring break we will be incubating chicks and working in the garden. Students need a change of clothes in their cubbies that fit them. Attendance is super important so students do not miss fast-paced concepts and can participate in our fun projects.

Please keep reading. This is the last weekend to accumulate a lot of minutes. Please remember to have your child turn in their logs Monday so all of their minutes can be counted.

I am so thankful for our first and second grade families—and their wonderful children!

Third and Fourth Grade Classroom

Mrs. Mars

Students worked hard this week on a 4-5 paragraph informational writing piece. They compared and contracted Oak and Birch trees. Student's writing skills have grown and as a class we are focussing on writing more independently as well as growing our confidence in our writing skills.

The Read-A-Thon is almost over! We have had a large group of students hit their individual goal already. If your child has not hit their goal they have through Monday night to get their reading done. All students are close enough to get there if they really want to. In addition the race to 2nd place is very tight so every minute counts. Let's finish strong!

Fifth and Sixth Grade Classroom

Mr. Burlingame

Hey 6th Grade Parents!

By now, our awesome 6th graders have had an action-packed adventure! They've trekked through the wilderness, mastered compass navigation, learned first aid and search-and-rescue skills, explored Yellowjacket Creek while discovering cool plants, animals, and water systems, AND built survival shelters! To top it all off, they even cooked lunch over a fire they built themselves—how cool is that?

I'm sure they'll have a ton of exciting stories to share when they get home!

See you today at 12:30!
