Our schedule.

Weather.

No

We love them.

No. Not at all. Enjoyed the family night.

Work and after school activities schedules.

No. They were wonderful to help come together as a community.

Only my schedule!

Lack of communication, generally last minute Facebook post. Lack of entertainment, fun for the kids in the school but nothing for siblings not in school to be entertained by

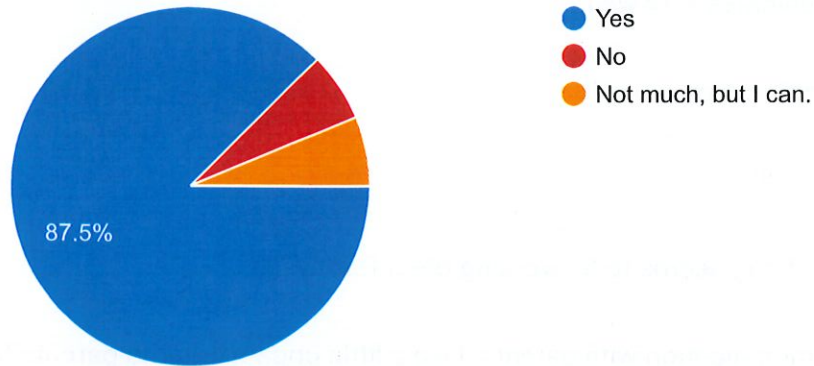

Just schedule. I always go to bible study on Thursdays.

What ways can the school improve communication between families and the school?

10 responses

The school communicates very well

I feel the school communicates well.

I think it does this well!

Everything you are doing seems to be working great for myself.

Regular weekly communication with parents. Like a little update letter to parents from their teacher.

N/A

The communication is great.

I receive regular communication through many channels. I am very happy with the methods of communication.

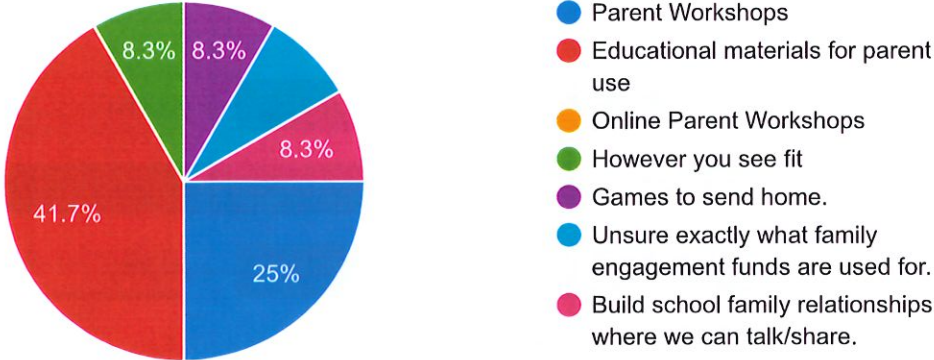

Parent involved committee, newsletter of how title funding is being spent

I think you do a great job.

How would you like to see the family engagement funds used?

The school does great

They do a good job.

Information sent home on what is expected weekly or schedule of assignment deadlines or when tests will be coming up.

Be aware of what is happening in the classroom. Know when tests and quizzes are and what they will be tested over

No homework so they can be a kid...family time is already limited due to parent work schedules.

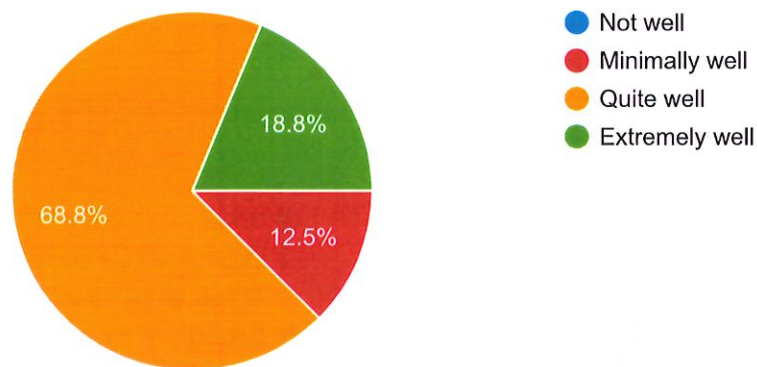

She started late. I want to make sure she is on track and ready for the next grade.

I am happy with his achievement. His scores are not perfect on every assignment, but I consistently see that he is learning and he loves school.
